A GREAT PREHISTORIC SEA.

It Reached From the Gulf of Mexico Far Up Into New York.

A prehistoric sea or arm of the ocean which extended from the gulf of Mexico far up into New York state is described by the United States geological survey in reporting to a correspondent on a rock sample:

"The rock was formed very long ago, many millions years ago, in what geologists call the Devonian period. At that time a large part of the eastern United States was occupied by an arm of the sea which extended northeastward from the gulf of Mexico region into New York state. The eastern shore of the sea was not far east of the present line of the Blue Ridge and the Highlands of New Jersey and southeastern New York, and still farther east lay a great continent which extended an unknown distance into the area now occupied by the north Atlantic. The northern shore of the sea was somewhere near a line drawn from Albany through Syracuse, Rochester and Buffalo. The present site of the Catskills was thus near the northeast end or head of this sea or gulf, with land not far away on the east and north.

"The sea teemed with life, almost wholly invertebrate animals, and marine plants, and the larger part of the life appears to have inhabited the sea bottom. Brachiopods, though rare now, were very abundant then, and many other forms of animals crawled about or grew upon the sea floor. As the streams washed in sand and mud from the neighboring lands the sea gradually filled up, and the shells of many brachiopods and other shell bearing animals were thus buried in the sand and their forms preserved till now. By slow upward movement of the earth's crust the sea was drained from the region, and the beds of sand and mud that had been hardened into sandstone and shale were lifted thousands of feet above sea level to form a great new land. The Catskill mountains have since been carved from this uplifted mass of rock through the cutting of valleys by the streams."

BEGIN HOT WATER DRINKING IF YOU DON'T FEEL RIGHT

Says glass of hot water with phosphate before breakfast washes out poisons.

If you wake up with a bad taste, bad breath and tongue is coated; if your head is dull or aching; if what you eat sours and forms gas and acid in stomach, or you are bilious, constipated, nervous, sallow and can't get feeling just right, begin inside bathing. Drink before breakfast, a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it. This will flush the poisons and toxins from stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels and cleanse, sweeten and purify the entire alimentary tract. Do your inside bathing immediately upon arising in the morning to wash out of the system all the previous day's poisonous waste, gases and sour bile before putting more food into the stomach.

To feel like young folks feel; like you felt before your blood, nerves and muscles became loaded with body impurities, get from your pharmacist a quarter pound of limestone phosphate which is inexpensive and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

Just as soap and hot water act on the skin, cleansing, sweetening and freshening, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels. Men and women who are usually constipated, bilious, headachy or have any stomach disorder should begin this inside bathing before breakfast. They are assured they will become real cranks on the subject shortly.—Adv.

MANY CANDIDATES FOR COUNTY JOB

Councilman John H. Cose Is Among Those Mentioned For Clerkship.

LIVELY CONTEST IS ON

Col. W. B. Martin, Former Captain of Co. K, Is Being Boomed For Office By His Friends—Others Who Are In the Race.

There are at least a half dozen candidates for the Republican nomination of county clerk at the primaries next September and among them is Councilman John H Cose, of this city, who, it is said, will declare himself in the near future. Others who would like to have the job are Col. William B. Martin, Deputy County Registrar Edward Bauer, Donald H. McLean, former Sheriff Robert J. Kirkland, of Elizabeth; Freeholder William H. Randolph, of Rahway.

Mr. Cose made a creditable run against George C. Otto, and a field of candidates for the shrievalty nomination two years ago, and his friends believe that he would stand a good chance of landing the county job next fall. Mr. Cose is pretty well known through the county, having anunusually good opportunity to get acquainted when he sought to be sheriff.

There are many who believe that Col. Martin would make the best run, and his friends do not hesitate to declare that he is the best candidate the party could have for the office. He is widely-known as a member of the National Guard, and at one time was captain of Co. K in this city. He is perhaps the only member of the State militia to gain an international reputation through his skill and his devotion to the interest of the guard. At the Olympic games in 1911 he tied for the championship of the world in the rifle matches conducted in connection with the games. His recent promotion to a lieutenant-colonelcy in the National Guard is a further mark of his ability. At the present time Col. Martin is a member of the Board of Excise in Elizabeth, having been elected at the last general election. The other possible candidates are more or less known throughout the county and the contest for the office is surely to be a lively one.

MASQUERADE DANCE A BRILLIANT AFFAIR

Many Guests Attend Social Function at Hartridge Auditorium.

Under the patronage of a number of society women a masquerade ball was given at the Hartridge Auditorium last night, the first social function of the kind held here in several years. The affair was largely attended by guests from the city and borough as well as New York. The large hall was attractively decorated for the occasion with flowers and streamers.

The masquerade idea was carried out with striking effect, a majority of the two hundred or more guests appearing in an attractive make-up. The black and white combination seemed to be the most popular, while other costumes had a pleasing arrangement.

Two orchestras furnished continuous music during the evening—McKee's and Brown's quintet, and the program was most attractive. Later in the evening there was an intermission for refreshments. The dance continued until 3 o'clock this morning. The committee in charge comprised Thomas M. Day, 3d, Kenneth J. Browne, Roger D. Mellick, Murray Rushmore and John C. Martin.

ANNUAL DINNER OF THE NATIONAL GUARD ASS'N

Plans are being made for the annual dinner of the National Guard Association of New Jersey, which will be held in the Washington restaurant, Newark, on Saturday night, March 11, at 7 o'clock. The dinner will be free to the officers of the State. The committee on arrangements consists of Colonel Arthur L. Steele, Lieutenant-Colonel George M. Battle, Major Winfield Scott Price, Major Walter A. Morton and Captain Graham B. McGregor.

MRS. FEICKERT ON SUFFRAGE PLANS

Asks If Opposition Expects Women to Play Dead For Five Years.

Several prominent anti-suffragists of the State have expressed themselves as very disgusted with the suffragists for going to Trenton with a bill for Presidential suffrage. They say that the election last October showed that the people of New Jersey do not want woman suffrage, and that the suffragists show poor taste in trying to embarrass the political parties on the eve of a Presidential election by bringing up another suffrage issue.

Commenting on this, Mrs. E. F. Feickert, president of the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association, says:

"What are we to do? Play dead for the next five years? Why does anyone expect women to act so differently from men? The Republican candidate for President in 1912 only got 88,835 votes in New Jersey, less than two-thirds of our vote, and yet his party went right to work the day after slection to mend its political fences and select the most available candidates for 1913.

"A good many members of the Legislature are very much embarrassed by the local option bill now before the Assembly, which was defeated last year, but its advocates have not for that reason adopted an 'after you, my dear Alphonse, attitude and withdrawn their bill so as not to embarrass the Republican party in Atlantic, Camden and Passaic counties, and the Democratic party in Hudson. If the opponents of slavery had been content to accept their first defeat as final, the negroes would be slaves today. It is an interesting fact that in the first election in which the question of slavery was an issue in New Jersey, that of 1856, when Fremont was running for President, Ocean county, which carried for woman suffrage last fall, was the only county which gave him a majority.

"'The people' must surely mean both men and women. A much greater percentage of the women people are enrolled in favor of suffrage than opposed to it, and forty-two per cent. of the men people voted for it, so that we may truthfully claim that a majority of the people really want woman suffrage.

"While we are on the subject of majority rule, how many people realize that Woodrow Wilson, although he carried New Jersey, only got forty-one per cent. of the total vote cast, the other fifty-nine per cent. being divided among his opponents."

PREACHING MISSION BEGINS TOMORROW

Bishop Woodcock to Conduct Services Daily at Grace Episcopal Church.

At Grace church tomorrow the much-anticipated nation-wide preaching mission will be inaugurated by the Episcopal churches in Plainfield. The day is one of long expectation and steady preparation, and the parishes feel gratification in the outcome of the waiting. As far back as the autumn of 1914 efforts were made to bring the Rt. Rev. Charles E. Woodcock to Plainfield, but owing to a number of similar engagements already on hand, the bishop was unable to make any appointment earlier than January of the present year. The desirability of having this eminent preacher was so urgent, in the judgment of those interested, that the distant date was immediately appropriated, and the mission postponed, and though they have waited patiently for eighteen months for the event, the parishes feel that they are most fortunat in the outcome.

The preparation has gone steadily on over these many months, and great good is looked for from the enterprise. Bishop Woodcock receives no personal compensation for his services whatever, and the onl material return made to him is a thankoffering to be taken at the last service of the mission, the proceeds of which will be given to further the bishop's missionary work in the Diocese of Kentucky. On Sunday the services will be at 7:30 a. m., 10:30 a. m. and 8 p. m..

This mission is in no sense sectarian. It is intended for the people. Its purpose is to build, its object is to strengthen, and its hope is to make more firm our moral standards and religious beliefs. We cordially invite the hearty support of our friends of other denominations. During the eight days of the mission in Grace church all seats will be free, and everyone will be welcome regardless of denominational affiliations.

Would you hear an eloquent preacher? Come to the Mission.

PLAN NEW BRIDGE OVER NEWARK BAY

New Jersey Central to Make Million Dollar Improvement In Short Time.

AWAITING AUTHORITY

As Soon As War Department and State Approve Drawings Work Will Be Started, According to High Official of Road.

According to Chief Engineer Joseph O. Osgood, of the borough, plans for the New Jersey Central's big new bridge across Newark Bay, from Elizabethport to Bayonne, are now nearing completion, and within three weeks will be submited to the War Department at Washington and to the State Board of Commerse and Navigation for approval.

It will probably require six months time before the drawings can be returned and following any changes called for the actual work of construction is to begin. The probabilities are at this time that the work of construction will start early in 1917.

The New Jersey Central's bridge across the bay at the present time is an antiquated wooden structure built on spiles. It has never been fully satisfactory, and is a tremendous expense to the company, having to be rebuilt every seven years and kept in shape only by the constant attendance of a gang of from twelve to twenty men. The new bridge, according to the present proposition, and the one which will be set forth in the specifications to the War Department, will be a short distance north of the present line. It will be built of concrete and steel, set on artificial rock foundation. Instead of having two tracks, as is now the case, there will be at least three and possibly four. The main draw over the navigation channel will be twenty-four feet above mean high tide, measuring from the under girders. The height of the present draw is but five feet above high tide. Just what sort of a draw will be used has not yet been determined, but it is quite likely that a "lift" bridge, similar to the one installed on the old bridge about ten years ago, will be adopted. It will, of course, be much larger and patterned after the latest designs in this style of engineering work. The old "lift" has a span of eighty-five feet over the channel, and through the medium of rockers wherein the counterbalance is located, rises in the air to a height of 164 feet.

In connection with the building of a new bridge, the railroad has decided upon certain improvements in Elizabethport and Bayonne that will carry the cost of the work into several millions of dollars. The lifting of the new span to a height of twenty-four feet above high tide will enable two grade crossings between Spring street and the Elizabethport station to be eliminated. The raise will also do a great deal for the Long Branch division, and will bring about changes at the Elizabethport station that have long been desired by residents of that section. There are no grade crossings in Bayonne to be disposed of as the streets at that end of Hudson county pass under bridges, but because of the short distance left from the bridge draw to Avenue A and the West Eighth street station, the tracks of a necessity will have to be lifted to offset a too sharp decline. This part of the plan awaits adjustment later.

The bridge now going service has a complete length over all from the beginning to the end of the spiling of approximately one mile and seventenths. There will be a lessening of this, provided a slight filling in is permitted by the authorities. Soundings for the piers have been made by the Central's engineer department, and all that blocks the way to an improvement has long been awaited by the traveling public is the sanction of the Federal and State officials.

MAYOR MRAVLAG WITHHOLDS BILL

Believes Defeated Candidate Should Bear Share of Recount Expense.

The bill of the members of the County Board of Elections which was approved by the Elizabeth council this week, after vigorous objection on the part of James J. Manning, is being temporarily held up by Mayor Mravlag, who believes that the unsuccessful applicant, Joseph H. Neill, should bear a part of the expense. The Mayor does not share the news expressed by Councilman Manning and acknowledges the justice of at least two-thirds of the claim against the city.

The Mayor points out that under the law the city is not compelled to pay the expenses of a recount where the applicant for the recount is unsuccessful. He holds that this applies to the excise count, and that Neill, being unsuccessful, should pay one-third of the costs. In order to settle the matter the Mayor will appear next week before Supreme Court Justice Bergen, by whose order the recount was held, and the bills presented to City Council.

The Mayor's point was discussed at some length at the time of the recount, but it seemed to be the general opinion among legal authorities that as long as the result of the original election had been upset the obligation to pay for the count was upon the city.

The recount was applied for by G. Bartram Woodruff, Robert Hutchinson and Joseph H. Neill. Woodruff and Hutchinson won out, but Neill, who lost in the original returns by about 200, failed to gain a seat on the board.

The peculiar situation has resulted. It is doubtful if a similar case ever arose in this city, and the Mayor says he intends to save the city the $300 or more which is involved, if he can.

BOARD OF TRADE FORMED IN MIDDLESEX BOROUGH

The citizens of the borough of Middlesex are most enthusiastic about the new Board of Trade organization and all are anxious to co-operate in bringing about the development of the community. The residents and property owners realize the great importance of the excellent territory included in the "baby" borough, and are convinced that with an organization such as a Board of Trade with the proper management, the attractive residential section with its progressive industries, will become one of the leading progressive suburban districts within the commuting zone

The Board of Trade will hold its next meeting in the Beechwood Heights firehouse on Wednesday evening, February the 16, at 8 o'clock, at which meeting the organization will be perfected, and questions of importance will be discussed. It will be interesting and every one is cordially invited to attend.

PATRIOTIC MEETING TO BE HELD AT Y. M. C. A.

The usual Sunday afternoon boys' meeting at the Young Men's Christian Association will take the form of a patriotic rally tomorrow in honor of Abraham Lincoln. Many special features will be introduced, including patriotic solos, patriotic choruses led by the enlarged orchestra and the history of the flag by a troop of Boy Scouts. "My Own United States," a beautiful popular patriotic song, will be sung as a soprano solo and the boys will learn the chorus.

Secretary Lynn has prepared a very interesting and inspiring address, entitled, "Lincoln's Picture in the Bible." All older boys are invited to come and bring their fathers with them. A souvenir, appropriate for the occasion, will be given to everyone present. The meeting will begin promptly at 4:15 o'clock.

SELECTIONS FROM "HOLY CITY."

The quartet choir of the First Methodist church will sing selections from Gaul's "Holy City" at both the services on Sunday. The quartet is giving selections from these favorite oratorios at these services in compliance with many requests from the members of the church and congregation. The public is invited to attend these services.

Special gospel services are being arranged for by the Pillar of Fire people for tomorrow, afternoon and night, at the meeting room, 48 Craig place, North Plainfield.

HEARD WAVES IN THE GOLDEN GATE

Long Distance Telephone Demonstrated to Chamber of Commerce Delegates.

LOCAL MEN ARE BACK

Enthused Over Work Done By National Convention—Heard Address Being Delivered In Lincoln, Nebraska, and Another In California.

Local men who attended the annual meeting of the National Chamber of Commerce, held in Washington this week, have returned enthusiastic over the work accomplished by delegates to the convention, and imbued with new ideas for community commercial advancement during the coming year.

A big feature of the convention was the dinner given at the New Willard Hotel. It was attended by President Wilson, his wife and guests, also by all members of the Cabinet, accompanied by their wives, and by other high officials of the nations, in addition to representatives of the various organizations that are members of the National Chamber of Commerce. There were 803 diners at the event, and more than 600 were refused tickets because space could not be found for them. It was the largest public dinner ever held in Washington. President Wilson made a short address.

After the address of President Wilson the members heard Vice-President Kingsbury, of the American Bell Telephone Company. Mr. Kingsbury told how invention had made it possible to talk across the continent with perfect clearness, and he then connected telephones in front of each diner with a public hall in Lincoln, Nebraska, where Governor Morehead, of that State, was making an address. Not only could the guests hear every word of the address, but they could hear the applause of the audience. A fifteen-minute address was heard from Governor Johnson, of California, after which pictures of the Cliff House, in Golden Gate, California, were shown and the diners were connected with an open telephone on the cliff, so that they could hear the noise of the waves.

Mr. Kingsbury declared that within a very short time it would be possible to talk not only across the country, but around the world by wireless telephone, and he promised to make this a feature of a Chamber of Commers dinner within a very few years. The time required for time to travel from California over the telephone was but 1-15 of a second, he told the guests.

ENJOY ENTERTAINMENT AND LEAP YEAR DANCE

The members of Winfield Scott Woman's Relief Corps, No. 10, held a dime social in Reform Hall last evening. The exercises consisted of piano solos by Mrs. Struthers and Miss Clara B. Smith, William Richards and Miss Chirstine Sorenson played very acceptably with harmonicas a series of patriotic airs. Mrs. Gibbons gave a reading and Miss Try Mattox a recitation. Miss Lucie Johnson read the immortal "Lincoln's Address at Gettysburg." Miss Mattox sang a ballad, "Mary Had a Little Lamb," accompanied by a youthful chorus of women in caps, and each waving an American flag. Miss Sorenson also sang in a charming manner two solos. The Misses Laura and Sylvia Smith sang effectively two duets.

After the program coffee and cake were served by the committee, and then the women were invited to choose partners for the Virginia Reel (it being leap year this was allowable). All enjoyed the affair thoroughly, and a good sum was added to the treasury from the admittance fee and the sale of cae. The committee consisted of Mrs. Annie Smith, chairman; Mrs. Townley, Mrs. Ada T. England, Mr. Ritchie, Mrs. Gibbons, Miss Mattre.

WHAT CONSTITUTES A TRUE CHRISTIAN

Rev. S. A. Renicks, Scotch Evangelist, Preaches Stirring Sermon at Revival.

The Rev. S. A. Renicks preached an interesting and inspiring sermon last night from the fourteenth chapter of Leviticus, on "The Law of the Leper's Cleansing and Consecration." He said the blood and oil upon the right ear, right thumb and great toe of the right foot of the leper, typified salvation and Pentecost. The leper was a type of the sinner, leprosy a type of sin and the priest a type of Christ. First the blood was applied and then the oil, so a sinner cannot only be cleansed, but consecrated to God and baptized with the Holy Spirit.

The evangelist emphasized the need of consecration, and the filling of the Spirit. Next the oil was put upon the thumb of the right hand. A consecrated Christian will have consecrated hands, and will not do anything with those hands that would displease the Lord, at the business desk, or mechanics' bench or in the kitchen.

Then the oil was put upon the great toe of the right foot, and the feet were consecrated to God, so the consecrated child of God will not be led to the threatre or places of amusement, those feet will be found walking in God's ways. And lastly, the rest of the oil was poured upon the head of the leper, which means for the believer the fullness of Jesus.

Rev. Renicks will preach this evening, and on Sunday afternoon the evangelist will preach on the "Second Pre-millennial Coming of Christ." There will be no meeting on Sunday evening, but the services will continue next week, beginning Monday evening.

WORKMEN TO DISCUSS COMPENSATION LAW

People's Legislative Bureau Plans For a Conference In Newark, Feb. 16.

Newark, Feb. 12.—A conference on the New Jersey workmen's compensation law is being held Wednesday evening, February 16, under the auspices of the People's Legislative Bureau. The conference is being called at the instance of the social service department of the New Jersey Consumers' League. Addresses are to be given by Dr. John B. Adrews, secretary of the American Association for Labor Legislation, the well-known authority on compensation, and by Miss Irene Sylvester, of Passaic.

Representatives from the State Federation of Labor, the Employers' Liability Commission, and the Manufacturers' Association of New Jersey are expected to attend.

The conference is reported as being of special importance, following the hearings before the Senate Committee on Labor and Industries, on Monday nixe, when many of the interested parties are to represented, supporting Senator Colgate's bills.

The New Jersey compensation law is said to be one of the most ineffective laws of its kind in America, and great effort is being made to bring it up to the standard of the more progressive States.

U. S. TO OPPOSE NEW U-BOAT WAR

Will Lodge Formal Protest Against Orders of German Admiralty.

FRENCH WIN GROUND

Take German Trenches and Repulse Counter Charges—Roumania Said to Be Ready to Put $300,000 Men Into the Struggle.

Washington, Feb. 12.—The United States is to oppose Germany's new submarine campaign, which includes the torpedoing of all merchant vessels that carry guns, according to unofficial reports current in Washington this morning. It is said that notes protesting against recent orders of the German admiralty, and also that of Austria, are now being prepared by Secretary Lansing and will be sent at once.

The new policy of the German and Austrian admiralties will see a destructive warfare against merchant ships when it is put into effect on March 1, and war experts predict that the result will be the most horrible in history, as recent events have proven conclusively that even the big British navy is powerless to protect Allied ships from the German raiders.

Russians Charge Furiously.

Amsterdam, Feb. 12.—Advices from Vienna state that Czar Ferdinand, accompanied by Foreign Minister M. Radoslavoff and General Jekoff, have arrived at the Austro-Hungarian headquarters of the Balkan front, where they were received by Archduke Friedrich. The advices add that telegrams reaching Vienna from Austrian war correspondents report that fighting of the most violent character is being waged on the Bessarabian front, the attack launched by the Russians upon the heights of Barancza being terrific fighting of the most desperate hand-to-hand variety, lasted through an entire night, it was said.

Roumania is Ready.

London, Feb. 12.—Surrounded on all sides by warring nations, Roumania is about to enter upon the great conflict that is shaking Europe by taking up arms in behalf of the Allies, according to reports received here today. That this step on the part of Roumania will soon be taken is indicated by the fact that military operations for this purpose are openly in progress, while the Ministers of Finance and War are preparing for such a move. The government, it is stated, has at its disposal more than half a million men all armed with modern equipment.

Munition Plant Burned.

Montreal, Feb. 12.—A fire in the forging department of the Canadian Car and Foundry Co., early today, is believed to have been the work of a German spy. The company has been working day and night making munitions for the Allies.

Another Raid on England.

London, Feb. 12.—An official statement, issued by the German General Navy Staff, is forwarded by Reuter's Amsterdam correspondent as follows:

"On the afternoon of February 9 some of our naval aeroplanes dropped bombs freely on the harbor works, factories and barracks at Ramsgate, south of the mouth of the Thames."

THE FORUM

Editor Plainfield Press: In the number of your paper issued February 9, I was surprised to note that any Plainfield merchant should make such a reactionary suggestion as that of extending the ten-hour a day working law for women to twelve hours, even on Saturdays. It won't seem that business must adjust itself to conditions demanded for society's welfare rather than that we should take a step backwards.

I am sure that the women shoppers of Plainfield can so arrange their purchasing time; that the absence of women clerks in the stores on Saturday until 10 o'clock, when required for service Saturday evenings, will in no wise inconvenience them—especially [illegible] realize the great advan[illegible] accrued to women workers throughout the state by the observance of the present ten hour a day law for women in industry.

LARGE FIELD FOR WAR PORTFOLIO

Capital Regards Goethals' Chances Good.

WILSON TO ACT NEXT WEEK

President's Stand Seems to Have Gained Him Strength In Congress, Is Belief Among Democratic Leaders. Representatives and Senators Give Expression of Opinion.

NOTED MEN MENTIONED TO SUCCEED GARRISON.

Major General George W. Goethals, governor of Panama canal zone.
Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane.
Secretary of Agriculture Houston.
Senator George E. Chamberlain of Oregon.
Joseph Tumulty, secretary to the president.
Representative Sherley of the Fifth Kentucky district.
Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy.
A. Mitchell Palmer of Pennsylvania.
Fred Lehman of Missouri, who was talked of as a candidate for United States supreme court to succeed the late Justice Lamar.
Henry N. Pindell, editor, of Peoria, Ill.

Washington, Feb. 12.—It is generally expected that President Wilson will name a successor to former Secretary of War Lindley M. Garrison by the middle of next week. While he and Mrs. Wilson are on a week end cruise on the Mayflower his advisers will continue to canvass the field, in which candidates are plentiful.

Mr. Garrison's resignation was a source of regret among members in the house, but there was a measure of satisfaction that the continental army plan had been killed.

The champions of the plan for strengthening the national guard were outspoken in their approval of the course of the president in promptly accepting the resignation of his secretary of war.

The house committee on military affairs took cognizance of the incident in a formal manner by adopting a resolution authorizing Chairman Hay, author of the national guard plan, to express to the president its appreciation of the broadminded fairness with which he is dealing with the preparedness problems and to thank him for his defense of the military committee of the house as disclosed in his correspondence with former Secretary Garrison.

Goethals Likely Man.

Major General George W. Goethals, retired, governor of the Panama canal zone, seemed the most likely choice for secretary of war to succeed Judge Lindley M. Garrison.

The Goethals talk, which emanated originally from a member of the cabinet closely in the confidence of the president, was carried to the senate by administration senators who actively canvassed their colleagues with a view to ascertaining the acceptability of the canal governor.

Two obstacles in the way of his selection are meeting with serious consideration. One is the uncertainty as to whether General Goethals would accept. The other concerns the doubt as to whether the general, if he accepted, would be any more willing than former Secretary Garrison was to subordinate his own pronounced views on the military needs of the country to the president's desire to compromise with congress.

On the other hand and because of his long association with service sentiment concerning the weaknesses of the militia system it is realized that General Goethals might find it as difficult as Mr. Garrison did to swallow any compromise defense program based on an expansion of the national guard and the abandonment of the principle of a federal controlled reserve army.

Believed Logical Man.

The Goethals talk is an outgrowth of earlier efforts which were being made by the president's advisers to find a man for the vacancy as soon as possible whose popularity throughout the country would serve to restore public confidence in the administration's national defense legislation.

It was this same eagerness which was responsible for the boom started in favor of Secretary of the Interior Franklin K. Lane, who has generally been regarded as a man of the "Garrison type."

Friends of Franklin D. Roosevelt, assistant secretary of the navy, put forth his name on the ground of his prominence as an earnest advocate of better preparedness.

The talk of Secretary of Agriculture David F. Houston, which was strong in some quarters, tended to fade away under the criticism that Houston was not generally regarded as being aggressive and had not actively espoused the cause of national defense.

General Scott Acting Secretary.

In the meantime General Hugh L. Scott, chief of staff of the army, is acting secretary of war. He was so designated by the president, who signed an executive order making him the active head for a period not to exceed thirty days and pending the selection and qualification of Mr. Garrison's successor.

That the president's stand in the Garrison controversy has strengthened him tremendously among the members of his party in congress was manifested generally at the capitol. Members made no secret of the fact that they regarded it as sealing the doom of the continental army plan and a victory for the national guard organizations of their respective states.

The controversy was brought up on the floor of the house by Representative Barnhart of Indiana in conjunction with a resolution he offered proposing the establishment of a world court to settle international disputes. Mr. Barnhart incidentally commended the president's acceptance of Mr. Garrison's resignation as a declaration against militarism.

Representative Gardner of Massachusetts, the advocate of preparedness, came to the defense of the former secretary of war.

Mr. Kitchin's Comment.

Representative Kitchin, majority leader of the house, said:

It is very unfortunate that Secretary Garrison should have resigned. I regarded him as one of the strongest men in the cabinet. However, the president realized that congress would not agree to the continental army plan and that it would be futile to fight for it. Secretary Garrison wanted to keep on fighting for it.

Representative Campbell of Kansas remarked:

The resignation shows that Secretary Garrison does not believe that the president was sincere in what he said on his western trip about the need of a continental army.

Representative Bailey of Pennsylvania, an anti-preparedness leader, said:

Mr. Garrison didn't resign soon enough. He did it gracefully, but too late.

Representative Quin of Mississippi said:

The military committee will stand by the president despite Secretary Garrison's resignation. Our members were never in favor of a continental army nor conscription. Both ideas originated with Mr. Garrison.

Chairman Hay of the military affairs committee observed:

I do not think that the resignation will have any effect on the program of legislation in congress.

Representative Kahn of California, ranking Republican member of the committee, said:

I am sorry the secretary resigned, for I think he was a fine man and one of the ablest men I know. However, one must look at the thing this way: Here are three branches of the government—the executive, the legislative, the judicial. And it seems that the best results are obtained when they all work together harmoniously.

On the senate side of the capitol also keen regret was being expressed over the retirement of Mr. Garrison from public life and his loss from the administration, but the general opinion seemed to be that congress would go ahead with its national defense plans.

Senator Chamberlain of the military committee said:

Congress will proceed to completion of the military program without regard to the resignation of Secretary Garrison. The resignation of Mr. Garrison will have no effect one way or the other on the military committee of the senate or the house. Personally I very much regret his resignation. Mr. Garrison was a forceful man and one of positive views, which he was not afraid to stand by.

A Blow to Administration.

Senator Weeks, Republican member of the military committee, declared:

The resignation of Mr. Garrison will be a blow to the administration. He was generally recognized by the country as one of the strong men of the party in power. The president's disagreements with members of his cabinet is just the kind of thing that happened to him while he was at Princeton, where he was fighting with every one before he left.

Senator Newlands of Nevada, Democrat, said:

I quite agree with Mr. Garrison in the view that his state militia cannot be efficiently used as part of the national organization. I also agree that some form of compulsory service is required, but I think the president is right in not closing his ear to congressional suggestion. It has been urged in the past that the president as leader of the party has been perhaps too insistent in his views regarding legislation and has been in a measure coercive in his methods. I think the position taken by the president will strengthen him with congress and will secure much more favorable consideration of his views.

Petty Malice Harms No One But You

All of us have our own share of shortcomings. Each one has his own peculiar failings. Yet how hard we can be on the shortcomings of others! One might think from the severe way in which we are inclined to judge others that we were perfect ourselves. We are so relentless in condemning that no one would dream that we had sins of our own to be forgiven.

How easy it is to judge! Yet how many of us would like to be judged. Criticism and condemnation come all too easily to human lips; words of forgiveness and leniency all too seldom. Yet the latter beautify and uplift the character, while the former in time sharpen and sour it. Those who are given to unkind criticism find eventually that they are unable to see the good points because they are so constantly seeking the bad.

To Err Is Human.

"To err is human, to forgive divine," and few of us seem to have that divine trait of a ready forgiveness of offences. We find it hard to pardon the sins of omission and commission, perpetrated by mere acquaintances. We pronounce judgment often when our opinions have not been sought, when, in fact, it is "none of our business." How much more apt are we then to be obdurate and hard when the offences are committed against us! Few of us have the bigness of heart and broadness of mind to forgive freely whether our pardon is sought or not. Most of us let little slights of our friends rankle in our minds for months until they grow from mere slights to real grievances.

If there were more forgiving wives in this country there would be fewer divorces and estrangements. Leniency in judging offences should be the trait cultivated by every woman. Sympathy with her husband's failings, loving help in strengthening his weakness, generous pardon for his mistakes, these should be written on the leaves of every wife's note book. After all he may have as much to forgive in other directions as she has. He may require patience and forbearance for her faults also.

Don't Refuse Forgiveness.

The wife has no right to refuse her husband forgiveness. The mother and father have no right to condemn their child. No man or girl should allow the failings of a friend to interfere with their friendship. If a friend sins against us we should pardon even if our pardon is not sought.

We should all strive to have the love necessary to overlook the offenses of our friends and family. It sounds like a very large order to fill, but how can we expect pardon if we do not extend it. The Great Teacher said we should forgive our brother seven times seventy times. And as we all need forgiveness just as many times, why, after all, the balance is kept pretty even.

How often you hear men and women say: "Well, I'll never forgive that," or perhaps "That's one thing I never will forgive!" How dare they set themselves up as judges? Even if the offence be most heinous, even if they have suffered from it, are they so perfect that they do not need forgiveness themselves?

If we could all be brought to realize the beauty of forgiveness, and the silly, useless ugliness of a spite held and cherished, perhaps more of us would cultivate the former. Pardon not only helps the offender but it helps us enormously. We are softened, uplifted, ennobled by the influence of that divine trait. Let us all cease to hold thought of petty malice and revenge, and turn our minds to thoughts of love and forgiveness.

CARE OF HOUSE PLANTS.

The professional florist understands that, although house plants must be kept moist, they must never be allowed to become soggy. To begin with, they should be well drained. Broken pots or cinders should be placed below the earth in which they grow. The soil should be mixed with sand, too, to lighten it.

Never water a plant until the soil on top is almost dry. Then water it thoroughly—drench it—but let the water drain out through the bottom of the pot and never let it stand in the saucer under the pot, for it becomes stagnant and injures the plant. Heat and gas are also enemies of house plants.

TO SOFTEN PECAN SHELLS.

Almost all housewives know how very hard it is to crack pecan nuts. Pour boiling water over the nuts and allow them to stand tightly covered for an hour or six hours. The nut meats may then be extracted easily without a trace of the bitter lining of the nut.

Use nut crackers and crack lightly all around the nuts. The work is quickly done and is not at all like the old tedious process of picking out the meats from the dry nuts. The meats nearly always come out whole.

CLEANING POUNDED TIN.

There is a tin used for making trays, heavy milk buckets and various articles which is extremely difficult to clean. The tin is pounded very rough on the surface, and retains the dirt unless vigorously scrubbed.

The best way to clean it is with a stiff brush, soap suds, and a liberal supply of kerosene. In fact, this oil seems to be the only thing which will quickly remove the dirt, and it is splendid for the purpose.

HOW TO CLEAN SUEDE.

If you are wearing a pair of shoes that have suede tops or suede trimmings the suede undoubtedly becomes soiled. There are several sorts of cleaner sold for suede, and all of them are fairly good, but a woman who has had much experience with cleaning suede says that the best way to clean it is to rub it with a fine emery cloth. This literally rubs off the dirt and leaves the suede smooth and clean.

TO CLEAN CLOTHES.

One-fourth pound shaved castile soap, teaspoonful saltpetre, ½ pint ammonia, 2 quarts water. Boil soap and water until melted; add saltpetre and ammonia. This will also whiten marble and will take out grease and will remove paint. It will clean a man's derby hat or take the grease off any hat and make it look like new.

TEA AND COFFEE STAINS.

When fresh tea or coffee is spilled on the tablecloth, put a large dish under the stain and pour boiling water on the spot. The dish will catch the water, and when the spot is dry, a clean place will be left. The boiling water will not set the stain as usually happens.

THE RAGGED LACE CURTAIN.

Before a new lace curtain is laundered run one inch wide tape across the top. Stitch it down flat. It will always keep the curtain even and prevent ragged ends when stretching and will stand the wear of four pairs not tape stitched.

TO STIFFEN BRUSHES.

To stiffen hair brushes after washing dip them in a mixture of equal parts of water and milk and then dry before the fire.

TO WASH IRISH CROCHET LACE.

To wash Irish crochet shave an ounce of white soap and pour over it a quart of boiling water. Stir until the soap is all dissolved. When the solution cools to a luke warm temperature put in the lace. Let it stand for two hours, stirring it occasionally. Then rinse in several waters until the lace is perfectly clear when the water may be squeezed from it. It should not be wrung. Let hang in the sun until nearly dry then place on the ironing board over a soft ironing pad. Lay over it a piece of clean muslin wrung out with raw starch water. Pull into shape carefully with your fingers and iron dry.

REMOVING STAINS.

Cornstarch will remove stains from the dinner frock or party gown. One woman dropped grease on a delicate colored silk frock and put cornstarch thickly on the under side, hung up the frock and in a few hours not a trace of grease remained.

When the same woman forgot her shields and came home with perspiration stains she treated them to a liberal bath of cornstarch while moist and not a stain showed when the goods dried.

English tweed golf suit, one-half lined waterproof, silk lining, leather buttons, four flap pockets, belted all around, buckle strap, two pleats at back to give freedom for golf, plain full skirt, front lined waterproof, silk lining, two pleats at back, large flap pocket in skirt. Price $30.

BAG FOR CRACKING ICE.

A handy little girl to make a friend is an ice cracking bag.

A housewife who has tried to chip off bits of ice only to have them fly all over the kitchen or into the innermost recesses of the refrigerator would appreciate having such a bag.

A piece of very stout white canvas should be used. It can be made rather large and finished at the top with a drawstring.

When cracked ice is needed, break off one good sized piece, put into the bag and then give it two or three crushing blows with the hammer. Turn into a colander and run the water through.

HANDY DISINFECTANTS.

Half a saucerful of chloride of zinc moistened with an equal mixture of vinegar and water; a few drops at a time only will purify a sick room in a few minutes.

Take a long spray of lavender (either fresh or dried) and with a match set alight the flowering end. Allow it to smoulder while you gently wave the spray to and fro in all parts of the room. The air will rapidly become purified.

STAINS ON STEEL.

Knives or other articles of steel may be freed from rust stains by the following method. Cover with sweet oil, then with pearl ash, and set aside for a few hours.

If on rubbing off the paste the stains are not removed, repeat the process several days in succession. When clean, polish with a mixture of oil and rottenstone.

A LAUNDRY SUGGESTION.

Curtains and tablecloths will look best if they are not starched. Put a tablespoonful of methylated spirits to a gallon of rinsing water. This will make the cloths quite stiff enough, help to keep them white and make them shine when ironed.

It Is Interesting to Know That

The Piano Lincoln Used

In the White House Is Still in Existence

It is a Schomacker piano. It was selected by Mrs. Lincoln. It is now owned by Mr. C. F. Gunther, of Chicago. It is being exhibited this week, with other interesting Lincolniana, at the exercises of the Grand Army Hall and Memorial Association of Illinois, in Chicago. The picture shown above is a tracing from a photograph showing the piano, together with cannon and other souvenirs and reminders of Civil War days.

"It is a noble and majestic instrument," writes one who saw the exhibit. "Its tone is better today than the vast majority of so-called pianos. As one looks into the details of it one realizes that he who wrought it had a high purpose."

We are proud to own today the factory that makes the Schomacker piano. It was bought because of its high standard—to keep it high, to improve it. The Schomacker today is better, we think, than the Schomacker of 60 years ago.

37 IMPRISONED IN MINE HORROR

Thirteen Are Rescued After Terrific Explosion.

FATE OF OTHERS UNKNOWN

Five Are Taken From Shaft Overcome by Gas—Trapped Men Were at Work Near Side Entrance—Distracted Relatives Rush to the Scene.

Ernst, Pa., Feb. 12.—Thirteen men were rescued and twenty-four are trapped in the Rochester and Pittsburgh mine as the result of an explosion. The fate of the latter is unknown. The explosion wrecked a part of the mine's workings.

More than a hundred men were at work when the explosion occurred. Most of them were working several hundred feet from a subentrance to the mine. The thirty-seven who were trapped by the explosion were working in a side entry some distance off the main entry. Scores of men following the explosion reached safety by rushing into the main entry, which was clear.

The report of the explosion was heard a half mile away. The wives of miners and their children hurried to the mine seeking information about their loved ones. Within a few minutes after the explosion scores of miners began rushing from the main entry. Several reported that a section of the mine was burning, but rescuers who later entered the mine reported that there was no fire.

Officials Aid Rescue Workers.

Officials of the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal company went to the scene in automobiles and directed the work of the rescuers.

Five men slightly overcome by gas were assisted from the mine about a half hour after the explosion. They were given medical attention and removed to their homes. It was stated that none was seriously injured.

A clerk of the office of the Rochester and Pittsburgh Coal company said that more than a hundred men were working in the mine when the explosion occurred. It is believed by company officials that a pocket of gas near a subentry exploded.

Several of the rescued had suffered slight bruises about the face and hands and were affected by gas. They received medical attention, and six were taken to their homes. Two of the eight joined the rescue teams in an effort to reach the twenty-four miners still entombed.

Of the thirteen rescued miners one reported that he had heard men talking a short distance from the room in which he was trapped. He said that he managed to dig through the debris and reach the rescuers. It is not known whether the miner heard rescuers talking or some of the twenty-four entombed miners.

WILSON DENOUNCED BY MEXICAN CHIEF

Anti-American Feeling Rampant In Vera Cruz.

Vera Cruz, Feb. 12.—The entire city is in a state of unrest, and the residents daily get a new scare. A force of marines marched through the streets, and the people at first rushed from their homes in alarm.

Carranza's governor and former favorite, General Candido Aguilar, was replaced by General Heriberto Jara, an Obregon man.

Carranza has not gone to Mexico City yet, and it is said here that he has no intentions of restoring the capital to its historic site.

Economic conditions here grow worse. There are reports that General Carranza has broken with General Obregon and that there is friction between Obregon and other generals.

General Jara, the new governor, in a public speech to the workingmen was extremely anti-American and it was reported that he denounced President Wilson. This was expected here, as both Carranza and Obregon are known to be extremely anti-foreign. The same sentiment is strong here.

Religious freedom is still a joke here. The sacrament of confession is forbidden in Puebla, and only one mass is said in Meridia a week. The church there holds but 300 people, and the population is 70,000, the majority Catholics.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 12.—Advices to the Mexican consulate in El Paso declared that Carranza and his immediate staff of generals, including General Obregon, arrived in Quanajuato, and the three military columns invaded the state of Oaxaca to take and hold the city of Oaxaca for the Constitutionalist government against a rebellion which was started in that state.

WHITLOCK ACTS AS BEST MAN

London, Feb. 12.—Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium, was best man at the wedding in Brussels of Charles Carstairs of Philadelphia, a member of the Belgian relief committee, and Helen Guinotte, the daughter of the burgomaster of Bellecourt, in Belgium.

HIRED FATHER'S ASSASSIN.

Pennsylvania Youth Gave $50 to Have Parent Shot.

Greenville, Pa., Feb. 12.—J. Fred Christy, aged seventeen, son of John H. Christy, whose body was found at the bottom of an abandoned mine shaft near here, and Fay Etzweiler, aged twenty, were arrested and charged with the murder of the elder Christy.

JOKE HAS SERIOUS ENDING.

Ohio College Youth Shot as Result of Fraternity Prank.

Hamilton, O., Feb. 12.—Forest Rogers, a freshman at Oxford college, has a broken jaw and a paralyzed tongue and throat as a result of a joke perpetrated on him by members of the fraternity into which he was to have been initiated. He was accidentally shot.

SHIP STRUCK MINE; 3 DEAD.

Norwegian Vessel Goes to Bottom In North Sea.

London, Feb. 12.—The Norwegian steamer Vaarli of 1,312 tons struck a mine in the North sea and was sunk. Captain Koiel, the chief engineer and the second mate were drowned.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

THE DAILY PRESS REMOVING TODAY

Newspaper's Home For 29 Years, the Vanderbeek Building Will Be Torn Down.

WORK STARTS MARCH 1

On Site at North and Park Avenues Soon to Have Modern Three Story Structure Erected By the State Trust Company.

With today's issue of the Daily Press, the newspaper will cease publication in the Vanderbeek building at North and Park avenues, which has been its home since its founding twenty-nine years ago, and will remove to modern quarters at 192 North avenue. The change is an important one in the local realty and building market, as it will bring about decided activity in the business portion of the city.

Negotiations were under way for several weeks between the owners of the Vanderbeek building, the State Trust company and the firm of L. F. Hirsch and Brother, for the purchase of the abandoned structure. It was believed that it could be moved to the Hirsch lot on Park avenue in front of the Boice-Runyon company's yard, but after taking the cost into consideration it was not deemed advisable. In consequence, it is now absolutely certain that the Vanderbeek building will be torn down March 1, having been set as the date for the work of destruction. When the site has been cleared a fine three-story modern building will be erected by the Trust Company, the plans now being under way, calling for early erection. A detailed description of the new structure will be given in these columns in about a week.

When the Daily Press has completed moving today, only two tenants will be be left in the building. These are L. Moraller and Son, the jewelers, and T. S. Armstrong, the druggist. The Moralers have leased the store at 217 Park avenue, directly adjoining their present quarters, to which they will remove by the end of the month. Mr. Armstrong is seeking another location, but up until yesterday had not decided where he would go. As soon as all tenants are out, March 1 being the limit of any stay, the building will be turned over to the wreckers. When it was first thought the structure could be moved with profit, a local mover gave a figure of $4,500 for taking it across the street. The price offered the State Trust company for the place was $500, it is said.

As told in the building page columns of the Daily Press several months ago, the Vanderbeek building was erected by the late Andrew Vanderbeek in 1880. Isaac Pangborn was the contractor, and it cost about $18,000. The structure was designed especially as a newspaper home, the late A. L. and W. L. Force assisting in the plans to provide a suitable place for their weekly paper, The Constitutionalist. On May 10, 1887, the Daily Press was issued from the North and Park avenue corner for the first time. It has been the home of the paper ever since, and its removal to a new location will be the first change it has ever made.

At the time the State Trust company announced that it had purchased the Vanderbeek property, no figures were mentioned. It has been stated since, however, that the price was about $45,000, making the lot a record-breaker in price in this city. The tract has a frontage of 45 feet on Park avenue, and as the new building is to face on this street, it means an average of $1,000 per foot front. The depth of the lot is about 64 feet.

LAURENSENS COME BACK HERE TO LIVE

After Looking Over Entire U. S. They Decide to Build Home In Plainfield.

After having searched the entire United States for the most suitable location for a home, Chris Laurensen and his wife have purchased a lot in Plainfield and are now constructing a residence here.

Mr. and Mrs. Laurensen are well-known in Plainfield. He is a former resident and for many years made Plainfield his home, but recently he has been traveling over the entire country and during his travels he and Mrs. Laurensen have visited almost every city in the United tSates, going to residential sections and making a close investigation of inducements offered to residents.

"We finally came back to Plainfield," said Mr. Laurensen. "It is the best little town in all the country, and my wife and I decided that we would build our home here."

Mr. Laurensen is now manager for Eva Tanguay and spends much of his time traveling with that popular comedy and song star; but he is looking forward to the day when he will be able to settle down for a life of ease and comfort. He was formerly manager of Arthur Pryor's Band. He is one of the leading trom bone soloists of the world. Mrs. Laurensen is also an artist, being an accomplished piano soloist. She accompanies her husband on most of his tours.

The Laurensen home is being constructed on Putnam avenue near the intersection of Hillside avenue. It will cost approximately $7,000. A contract for the work has been awarded to the Lockwood Construction company, and it is rapidly nearing completion.

The house will be unique in that its architecture is a collection of ideas seen in all parts of the country and put into use by Mr. and Mrs Laurensen. In their trips over the country, from New York to San Francisco, they have noted attractive features of residences that appealed to them, and many of these are included in the plans for the home here.

Contractors Do Not Like the Idea of Having to Figure In Board Rooms.

Since the plans for the new East End school were placed on file in the Board of Education rooms in the Plainfield High School the fore part of this week, considerable complaint has been voiced by local contractors of the necessity of doing their figuring in the Board rooms. The present rule requires that the plans be left in the high school and contractors desiring a set of plans to work with at home must purchase the same.

It is the opinion of the men effected that extra sets of plans and specifications should be provided and that a small rental fee would be sufficient to insure return. The contractors claim that the plans must be used during the day in the high school rooms and that their time is otherwise occupied in the daytime. Hence a number of local men who would have sent in proposals for the work have not done so, deciding not to meet the inconvenience.

BIG APARTMENT FOR W. SIXTH ST.

Sigmund Frucht Planning Sixteen Family Structure at Division Street.

FIGURES ARE ASKED FOR

If Contractors' Bids Are too High Award to Be Made In Near Future —Numerous Innovations Are Planned By Builder.

Local contractors have been asked during the past week to furnish bids on a 16-family apartment building which Sigmund Frucht proposes to erect on property owned by him at West Sixth and Division streets. The plans are only tentative at the present time, but there is little likelihood but what Mr. Frucht will proceed with them as they are and have the structure completed before a year passes by. Any changes that may be made will be the result of figures going higher than was anticipated by the architect.

Mr. Frucht has been a business man in Plainfield for many years, and has invested largely in local real estate. One of his ventures was the purchase of the Dr. Long property on Park avenue, removing the frame residence incumbering it to a new location at West Third and New streets, and putting up on the vacated lot what is now the A. C. Thompson garage. This structure is one of the finest of its kind in this section of the state and was a great benefit to the neighborhood. The property on which he plans to erect the apartment house is at the northwest corner of Sixth and Division streets. Part of the lot is taken up by a frame dwelling, which is to be moved over to the westerly boundary toward Liberty street. This will clear the corner for the modern structure. The lot has a frontage of 125 feet and a depth of about the same length. The place was occupied for many years by the Sharp family and was last owned by Mr. Eaton, of Elizabeth, a brother to Dr. Charles A. Eaton, of Watchung.

While it is impossible to state at this time just what ideas will be embodied in the proposed apartment house, it is Mr. Frucht's intention to put up one of the most up-to-date structures of the kind. It will be four stories in heighth, with an arrangement of two apartments in front and two in the rear on each floor. There will be all conveniences, but everything will be arranged with the idea of making rentals moderate. This will be the first structure of the kind that has been erected in that section of the city, and from an investor's point of view is an excellent proposition, as there is an increasing demand for apartment house suites in both the city and borough.

ONLY TWO PERMITS GRANTED THIS WEEK

Total Estimated Cost Is $3,675, of Which $3,500 Is On An Alteration Job.

Building permits granted by inspector Doane during the past week were limited to two—one of them a garage and the other an alteration job. The latter was given to J. I. Lyle, of West Seventh street, and was for changes to the residence damaged by fire several weeks ago. The total cost of this work is put at $3,500, and, with another $175 for the garage, brings the total cost of building permits for the week up to $3,675.

The alterations to the Lyle residence will include the following: tearing down the present chimney and erecting one with a tile lining; removing the front door from the center of the house to the east side, changing the present stair landing and putting in back stairs; tearing down partition between the hall and the living room, making the latter one large room and enlarging dining room by removing portion of butler's pantry. The Apgar Construction company has been awarded the contract for the carpenter work, while F. H. Gise, of Dunellen, will do the masonry.

Permit for the garage was given to Albert I. Laing, of 504 East Front street, and it will be erected at that address. It will be twenty by sixteen feet. Davir P. Conover, of Jackson avenue, is the contractor.

NO CONCESSIONS IN TRADE LINES

A Remarkable Feature In the Present Building Material Market.

SUPPLY VS. DEMAND

Conditions Are Such That All Kinds of Construction Work Will Be Affected—Coal Situation Is Blamed For Stiff Prices.

New York, Feb. 12.—Probably the most remarkable feature about the present building material market is the absence of concessions in every line. It is to be expected that structural steel might be relieved of the necessity of making concessions for new business and even seek premiums for prompt deliveries because of the heavy orders affecting various steel capacities from the belligerent countries. The layman as well as the specifier may well ponder the reflected stiffness in such lines as common and front brick, stone, slate, lime, plaster, linseed oil, and study the results such trends will have upon future building.

One year ago at this time the building material market was full of fear because of lack of forthcoming building construction. There were assurances given on February 7 that the then meager supply of brick or hand would be sufficient to carry the market through until the brick manufacturing season got under way. Prices had gone up fifty cents to $5.75 to $6.25, but were hard to maintain. Today the price in this market for even ordinary Hudson river brick is $3 higher a thousand, and there would not be many who would be very much surprised if the price touched ten dollars again before the season opened.

The coal situation is much to blame for present stiff prices. Labor also has considerable to do with the firmness. But every manufacturer of building material is, and has been for some time, laying up large quantities of fuel. In the Hudson river district the brick manufacturers have been stacking coal, but not to the same extent that other lines have been doing. This means that if the coal supply is clogged in any way when the brick manufacturing season starts there is likely to be a continuation of the present high levels of basic building materials, especially of brick.

But there is developing at the same time a higher and more insistent demand. It centers not only here in the metropolitan district, but east of the Mississippi. Actual contracts awarded, as reported to the F. W. Dodge Company in January show a total of $62,784,500, as against $43,257,000 in January, 1915. In the same month January, 1914, a total of $51,102,000 was awarded as against $62,810,500 in 1913. The present volume of building moving is comparable with $66,892,000 in 1911, the highest recorded winter construction month. New York city reports total contracts in January as $9,227,500, as compared with $9,940,000 in 1915, $8,111,000 in 1914 and $22,481,500 in 1913, the best previous January.

Building material manufacturers themselves are evidencing some uneasiness about the effect high costs of building materials may have upon spring construction. But they say they are between two fires; shortage of coal and scarcity of labor. Dealers maintain that it will be dangerous to advance prices any higher, because it will scare off new construction.

As a matter of fact, neither high cost of materials nor over-abundance of plan filings is going to govern the spring and summer building movement in this district. The real dominant factor is the ability to fund the operation. The key to the Eastern building situation today is the mortgage stuation. Once the money is provided the cost of materials will bear little relation as to whether the structure is to go ahead or not.

In every building operation there are three primary factors, demand, cost and availability of funds. Given all three in favorable form the operators will take building materials whether they are high or low. But the greatest of these is money. Since the first of the year there has been a liberal supply of available money, but the holders, looking with disfavor upon the rapid changes in character of various locations, have been insisting upon greater equity in exchange for the accommodation or have been restricting the size of the loan. Even higher rates of interest have not been able to swerve this policy.

But if the demand is there the restrictions regarding the money factor can be removed, for actual demand makes for good rents, and a quick turn over on a building investment is, after all, practically the major consideration of the projector. Judging by the volume of estimating being posted by architects, there is a healthy demand today, and, that being the case, there will be a demand for building materials this year practically regardless of price.

METUCHEN TO BUILD AN $800 CLUB HOUSE

The trustees of the Golf and Country Club, of Metuchen, met Wednesday night in the Arcanum Hall. Plans were discussed for the future clubhouse that will be built on the Pricitt land, near the rear of a pond, which will be used in the winter as a skating rink. It is the plan of the trustees to take good care of this pond. The clubhouse to be built will cost in the neighborhood of $800. This will provide a dressing room and lockers for ladies and for the men. Shower baths will also be installed. The club has received some donations amounting to four hundred dollars; also necessary tools, including a hore-power lawn mower. Another meeting will be called in the near future. The charter membership will close March 1, 1916. After that an initiation fee of $25 will be charged.

DEATH COMES TO MOLLY FANCHER

Invalid Had Celebrated "Golden Jubilee" of Suffering Eight Days Ago.

In the same bed that she had lain, a cheerful and amazing invalid, for more than fifty years, Miss Molly Fancher died early yesterday morning at her home at 160 Gates avenue, Brooklyn, in her sixty-seventh year. At her deathbed were Dr. and Mrs. F. W. Westcott, of Fanwood, the latter a sister; Edwin Fancher, of Fanwood, of Fanwood, and George Fancher, of Somerville, both nephews. Mrs. Edwin Howe, also of Fanwood, a niece, was on the way to the house, but did not arrive there before her aunt's death. Miss Fancher had been a complete invalid since her sixteenth year, when she was seriously injured in falling from a street car.

It was only eight days ago that Miss Fancher celebrated the "golden jubilee" of her enforced retirement from the active world to th narrow confines of an invalid's room. She was cheerful, as she had always been, and had her usual smiles and happy words for those who gathered about her bed. She said:

"I don't feel old, I'm not old, and I'm not going to get old. It's a dear old world and I love it. I keep happy by going in for fun. Oh, I have my fun in my own way. I laugh and sing and try to be good. I never bore anyone with my troubles, for I haven't any troubles."

The acute illness which brought about Miss Fancher's death began at 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

PANHANDLER PLAYED NEW ROLE WITHOUT SUCCESS

Charged with working the "sympathy gag" on a number of towns people in his effort to solicit funds yesterday afternoon, James Howard, claiming residence in Albany, N. Y., was arrested by Patrolman Martin Welsh and arraigned in the city police court today before Mayor Calkins Howard claimed he was a cripple, but failed to convince the acting magistrate that he was in need of aid and was instructed to quit the town at once.

Welsh was sent out to keep a watch for the man early yesterday afternoon and overtook him at Watchung avenue and East Second street. Howard soon discovered that he was being followed and walked rapidly down Second street to a building in the course of construction. When the minion of the law arrived his quarry was busily engaged in directing some imaginary labor, playing the role of a contractor. His unique method of warding off detection, however, failed to fool the copper, and he wastaken into custody.

BOUND BROOK A WINNER IN DEBATE

Defeats Borough High School On Question of Government Ownership.

That the United States Government should not own and operate all telegraph and telephone lines within its border was decided last evening in the debate between Bound Brook High School and Borough High School, where the former gained the verdict over the home team in an interesting debate on this topic. This contest was the initial round of the interscholastic debating league, composed of schools throughout New Jersey, under the supervision of Rutgers College.

The visitors had an exceptionally fine team, delivering their speeches in an excellent manner.

The winning side based their arguments on two principle topics namely, that the government lacks initiation in controlling a complex system such as the telegraph and telephone lines; that governmental monopoly is more detrimental than private monopoly. These two points were elaborated upon in a commending style.

The affirmative divided the topic under three heads: (1) that the government is efficient, and government ownership, not regulation, is desired; (2) that the present system is inadequate and not beneficial to the people, collectively; (3) that government ownership is practical and advisable.

The fact that the present rates charged are exorbitant was shown by the fact that uniform rate for sending ten words in this country is sixty cents, as compared to ten cents for the same number of words in European countries. That there has been no recent decrease in rates for a constant increase in profits was also discussed in full.

A great deal of interest has been aroused in the various schools where these debates take place. Flemington High School and Rutgers Preparatory School debated last evening in Bound Brook.

The judges were W. B. Rosencrants, of Cranford; A. F. Todd, of Dunellen, and J. F. Kreger, of Somerville. The Bound Brook team was represented by Beatrice Porter, George Prove and Ralph Rugen. The borough team was composed of Emily Pleydell Sherman Chandler and Warren Townley. Mr. Earley acted as chairman.

CHIEF DOANE WILL INVESTIGATE ORIGIN

It Is Beliveed Fire at H. B. Parke Residence Was Result of Combustion.

Fire Chief T. O Doane is today making an investigation into the origin of the fire which destroyed the home of Henry B. Parke, at 23 Albert street, yesterday. The only conclusion reached so far is that it was the result of the hot air furnace pipes creating spontaneous combustion in a small covered closet.

Mrs. Parke, who had a thrilling experience in being carried out by her maid and a trained nurse, Miss Minnie Giles, is at the home of L. V. Tallamy, of Albert street, and it was stated today that she would suffer no effects from the shock and exposure. Praises have been showered on the two women for their heroism. A second estimate of the loss places the amount at between $7,000 and $8,000, partially covered by insurance. The house was valued at about $5,500, and is practically ruined. Mr. Park's personal loss will amount to at least $2,500 and perhaps $3,000, with only $1,000 insurance. The firemen made their way through flame and smoke-filled rooms after reaching the scene and saved all the family silverware, together with an antique sideboard nearly 200 years old. Neighbors in the vicinity of the burned residence telephoned fire headquarters at 8 o'clock last night that the structure was again burning. No. 3 Hose Company from the West End house was sent out, but the men found that what the neighbors thought was fire was only steam issuing from the cellar.

MR. CHAPMAN'S FUNERAL TO BE HELD THIS AFTERNOON

OUR CITIZEN'S DEMAND

Fully Complied With.—A Plainfield Resident Furnished It.

There are few items which appear in this paper more important to Plainfield people than the statement published below. In the first place, it is from a citizen of Plainfield, and can be thoroughly relied upon. In the second place, it indisputably proves that Doan's Kidney Pills do their work thoroughly and not temporarily. Read this carefully:

Mrs. S. Driscoll, 540 West Front street, Plainfield, says: "I had a dull pain across the small of my back and in my sides that clung to me constantly, and any hard work made me worse. I was subject to headaches and dizzy spells, especially when stooping or lifting, and I felt weak and run down. I tried plasters and other medicines, but nothing helped me until I procured Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store. They made a lasting cure."

Price 50c, at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a Kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Driscoll had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.

BALL WAS A SUCCESS.

The ball held by the Bricklayers and Masons' Union, No. 14, in Saengerbund Hall, last evening, was largely attended and a success in every way. The music for dancing was furnished by Squier's orchestra. The members of the committee in charge of the affair were: Thomas O'Brien, chairman; Edward Smith, secretary and treasurer; Ernest Hodgson, Owen Sheehan and Edward McNie.

THE WISDOM OF ABRAHAM LINCOLN.

"The kindly-earnest, brave, foreseeing man,
Sagacious, patient, dreading praise, not blame,
New birth of our new soil, the first American!"

In these words does James Russell Lowell characterize the great President.

The whole world admires his Cooper-Union speech, his Gettysburg speech, and his first and second inaugurals. His sagacity in directing events in the critical times in which he lived are well known. Some of his homely observations are, however, not so familiar to some; and in this editorial will be discussed a few of his words of wisdom that deserve to rank with the proverbs of the Old Testament.

1. "I am glad to find a man who can go ahead without me."

Lincoln was not a military man; and yet by his constitutional position as commander in chief of the army and navy he was compelled to direct military campaigns in the east, and partly in the west, until he found Grant. The "silent man" had a habit of going ahead without waiting for directions; and by him by Vicksburg fell, soon to be followed by the spectacular victory at Missionary Ridge and Lookout Mountain. Then the harassed Lincoln gladly resigned his task as director of armies, into the hands of this competent man, saying, "I don't know what your plans are, but I will support you with all the power of the government." How long the war would have lasted if Lincoln had not found a man who could "go ahead without him," no one can tell.

The difference between a leader and a follower is clearly expressed in this sentence. It has been said that the world is composed of two kinds of people—those who lift and those who lean. Leadership can only be attained by those who have early trained themselves to assume responsibility. Napoleon had many great marshals in his army; but they were great only when Napoleon was present to direct them. When they were thrown on their own responsibility, as Soult in Spain and Ney at Quatre Bras, their nerve forsook them, and disaster resulted, or an incomplete victory.

If young people wish to amount to anything in this world they must stand for something. They must assert their individuality. They must make choices and decisions and stand by them though the heavens fall. Only by this kind of will training can true manhood and womanhood be developed.

2. "He sticks through thick and thin—I admire such a man."

Yes, and everybody else admires him, and the world hates a quitter. Andrew Carnegie did not quit when at the age of eighteen he swept streets in Pittsburgh, except to go higher up. George Washington did not quit when driven out of New Jersey in '76. Paul Jones did not quit when his sailors reported that his ship was sinking. When summoned at this time to surrender, he shouted, "Sir, I have not yet begun to fight!" Alice Freeman stuck to college through thick and thin though one whole year she wore cloth shoes because she had no money with which to buy leather shoes.

Some young people take a position in New York. The work is hard and the hours are long. Directly they are seen on the streets doing nothing. "I resigned my position, because I didn't like it," is the flimsy apology.

A young man enters high school with the purpose of graduating and going through college. But he finds study hard work, and he quits. Drifting is so much easier than rowing.

Examine the life history of every successful man or woman, and without exception you will find the quality of sticking through thick and thin. Lincoln himself had it pre-eminently. It is indispensable in making life worth while. The discipline of difficulties is the best trainer in the world.

3. "Success does not depend so much on external help as on self-reliance."

This sentiment is akin to the preceding, but it emphasizes self-reliance rather than perseverance.

It is very important to have "a friend at court." It is of much value to be able to present the endorsement of influential men; but after all an honest endorsement is merely a description of the character and ability shown by the endorsee. The individual proves that he has fine qualities, and all that others can do is to bring these qualities to the attention of employers. It is a perfectly easy matter to write, "I am pleased to state that John Doe is a first class young man in every respect;" but nobody can write this honestly until John Doe has earned that description. It is after all "up to him" to make his recommendation; then there will be little trouble to get others to write about it.

4. "It is not much in the nature of man to be driven to do anything."

Developing a love of home in young people by locking them in every evening is so poor a method that few employ it. Making the home attractive so that they will prefer to stay in rather than to go out is the only effective course of procedure.

Saying to pupils, "You must study this geography lesson or I will detain you after school," is a much lower grade of teaching than making the lesson so interesting that compulsion need not be mentioned. Is there any authentic instance in the history of the world of a boy who had to be forced to go fishing? Interest the boy in anything, and he will spare neither time nor labor to accomplish the task. Drive him to it, and you accomplish nothing.

5. "With public sentiment nothing can fail; without it, nothing can succeed."

In governmental affairs, national or local, in the long run, questions of policy come down to the people to endorse or reject. Thus it is plain that the duty of leaders is to educate the public in regard to any measures they may propose. Lincoln did this in many instances by addresses and letters. In his famous reply to Horace Greeley's editorial, he showed that his anxiety was for the preservation of the Union above all things, and that slavery was a subsidiary question with him. When we were on the brink of war with England in 1862, Lincoln crystallized public sentiment against it by his famous phrase, "One war at a time." No man ever interpreted the public mind as accurately as did Lincoln. If the people had not been with him in '64, he would have failed of re-election.

Contempt for public sentiment, flying in the face of public sentiment, is unwise as a rule. There are heroic occasions on which this must be done; but the exceptions are few. Ordinarily public sentiment is entitled to respect. It is the common sense of a community. To change it, educate it, lead it, is the part of wisdom. To defy it often spells defeat.

6. "When you have an elephant on your hands, and he wants to run away, better let him run."

When Congressman Vallandigham was found guilty of treason, Lincoln ordered him deported into the Confederate States—an ironical punishment, but how much better than execution! Lincoln would have been glad if Jefferson Davis had escaped from the country. He did not want him captured. Time has vindicated his judgment on this point, because the capture and subsequent treatment of Mr. Davis proved to be a most difficult and unfortunate affair for the north. Andrew Johnson would have had Lee and Davis executed for treason. Is there any one now who would consider that to have been a wise step?

This insistence on the exaction of the uttermost farthing, on every ounce of the pound of flesh, is not only unjust to the victim, but unfortunate for the victor. There will come a reaction. When the wind is sown, the reaping will be with the whirlwind. The taskmaster becomes harder than the slaves he drives.

When differences of opinion arise as to certain measures, and a fair compromise is in sight, better accept it, and have the matter settled rather than keep the subject agitated day in and day out. In the constitutional convention of 1787-8 there were most radical differences as to the proposed form of government. Without the compromising spirit our constitution would never have been completed. But by give and take that splendid document was at last adopted, and its wisdom is shown in the glorious history of our country.

Space forbids the inclusion of many other sayings of Lincoln. The more we consider them, and apply them, the more we become impressed with the wisdom and the character of the great man weose birthday we today commemorate.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

An Old Friend.

You've been advertised as "trickey,"
Uncle Joe.
But, by geeminety-cricky,
Uncle Joe,
You are on our diagram
As a friend of Uncle Sam—
You don't waver worth a cuss,
Uncle Joe!
We have panned you in the past,
Uncle Joe;
For our villain you were cast,
Uncle Joe,
But on national defense
You're not partisan or dense,
You have loyal common sense,
Uncle Joe!

Her Age.

"Madame, how old are you?"

"Twenty-six," said the lady who is thirty-six if she is a day.

"Very well," said the judge, politely. "I asked you that question because if I hadn't it would surely have been asked you when the attorney for the defense cross-examined you. And now you have told us your age, do you swear to tell the truth, the whole truth and nothing but the truth."

The Absent-Minded Man.

There is a prominent man of affairs in this town who is very absent-minded. Saturday he was about to leave the office of a bank president when the banker called to him:

"You're losing your petticoat, aren't you, Henry?"

The prominent man, not understanding, gazed inquiringly at the banker, who continued: "What's that white thing hanging below your trouser leg?"

The man looked down. His face colored, and he stepped back into the director's room. When he came out he walked briskly past the bank president, who called: "Here, why don't you explain?"

Coming close, the other whispered: "Simply forgot to take off my pajamas when I got out of bed this morning."

A Warning.

When the train stopped an antique looking dame thrust her head out of the car window and called, "Sonny!"

A bright looking boy came up to the window.

"Little boy," she said, "have you a mother?"

"Yes, ma-am."

"Do you love her?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Do you go to school, dear?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"And are you faithful to your studies?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Do you say your prayers every night?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"Can I trust you to do an errand for me?"

"Yes, ma'am."

"I think I can, too," said the kind lady, looking steadily down on the manly face. "Here is a penny. Get me an apple. Remember God sees you!"

"The Papers."

The stage has its time-honored capers,
Is strong on tradition, in fine.
Of course you remember "the papers"
The hero refuses to sign.

Now anything new is forbidden.
It wouldn't go well in a play.
"The papers" are stolen and hidden
And all in a time-honored way.

"The papers" go hither and yonder;
Are very important, no doubt;
But after the fourth act I wonder
Just what all the fuss was about.

W. S. A.

Some Line.

Four of them were talking confidentially in a corner of the smoker. "I tell you, boys," exclaimed a loud-voiced drummer, "I'm proud to say that no house in the country has more men pushing its line of goods than ours." "Humph! What do you sell?" asked a curious one. "Baby carriages."

He lay by the car at midnight, and the bottles were strewn around; he had been trying to break all records, when he lit on the frozen ground; and they found him just where he had halted, and though they called him he never awoke; he had been hitting both speed and the malted, and the poor cuss' neck was broke.

- Proctor's Theatre -

The excellent entertainment furnished by the management of Proctor's the latter half of this week will come to a close tonight and will be succeeded by a meritorious list of photoplay and vaudeville attractions the first half of next week, headed on Monday and Tuesday by one of the strongest dramatic Triangle subjects yet released, entitled "The Missing Links," and in which Norma Talmadge, the famous heroine of "The Battle Cry of Peace," and a score of other photoplay successes, and Robert Harron, who played a prominent part in "The Birth of a Nation," are starred. "The Missing Links" is an absorbing story of rural life, a story of love, finance and mystery. On Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday, Sam Bernard, who made such a great impression a week or so ago in "The Great Pearl Tangle," will make his reappearance at Proctor's in his second Triangle comedy which is entitled, "Because He Loved Her." On Wednesday and Thursday an extraordinary Fox feature is booked for Proctor's, entitled "The Fourth Estate," positively the greatest newspaper story ever written, featuring Ruth Blair, Samuel Ryan and Clifford Bruce. Miss Blair will be remembered by many theatregoers in this vicinity as leading woman in the New York success, "Within the Law." The vaudeville entertainment consists of four headline features, including Elliot, Fawcett and Fleming, in a patriotic playlet entitled "The Glorious Fourth"; Nan Harding, presenting a refined and clever pianologue Jack Burdett, a rapid-fire cartoonist and a big headline singing and dancing extravaganza presented by the Moran Sisters. "The Strange Case of Mary Page," with Henry Walthall will soon make its appearance at Proctor's.

TODAY WE PAY TRIBUTE TO HIS MEMORY

Abraham Lincoln, sixteenth president of the United States, born February 12, 1809.

WATTERSON ON LINCOLN.

Born as lowly as the Son of God, in a hovel; reared in penury, squalor with no gleam of light or fair surroundings, without graces, actual or acquired; without name or fame or official training; it was reserved for this strange being, late in life, to be snatched from obscurity, raised to supreme command at a supreme moment, and entrusted with the destiny of a nation.

The great leaders of his party, the most experienced and accomplished public men of the day, were made to stand aside, were sent to the rear, while this fantastic figure was led by unseen hands to the front and given the reins of power. It is immaterial whether we were for him or against him; wholly immaterial. That, during four years, carrying with them such a weight of responsibility as the world never witnessed before, he filled the vast space allotted him in the eyes and actions of mankind, is to say that he was inspired of God, for nowhere else could he have acquired the wisdom and the virtue.

Where did Shakespeare get his genius? Where did Mozart get his music? Whose hand smote the lyre of the Scottish ploughman, and stayed the life of the German priest? God, God, and God alone; and as surely as these were raised up by God, inspired by God, was Abraham Lincoln; and a thousand years hence no drama, no tragedy, no epic poem will be filled with greater wonder, or be followed by mankind with deeper feeling than that which tells the story of his life and death.—Peroration of address before the Lincoln Union, at the Chicago Auditorium, February 12, 1905.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

A surprise is awaiting the local theatre-goers, who are ever on the alert for novel entertainment, in the form of Beef Trust Billy Watson's Big Girlie Show, which comes to the Plainfield Theatre next Monday, matinee and night. Beef Trust Billy Watson is this season seen at his best, and his principal comedy assistant, Frank Bambard, also shows to better advantage than ever. By special request Beef Trust Watson is this season presenting a new edition of his famous character "Philip," in the famous "Krausmeyer's Alley." Everybody remembers—how can they forget—the cat fights with his neighbor Grogan. The audience is kept in an uproar from the rise of the curtain until the final fall, and the only intermission for laughter is to allow the wonderfully handsome chorus that Watson has assembled to display the gorgeous gowns he has provided for them. Besides Watson and Bambard, the supporting cast is one of the best ever seen with an entertainment of this character, and numbers well-known selected players.

DR. HARRISON TO SPEAK.

Dr. Paul W. Harrison, the missionary of Trinity Reformed church to Arabia, will speak at both the morning and evening services tomorrow. As the messages of Dr. Harrison are so inspiring, he will undoubtedly be greeted by large audiences. Miss Katharine Green, of the Amoy, China Mission, will make an address at the session of the Bible school. Dr. Harrison will also speak.

TITANTIC MEMORIAL WILL BE ERECTED

Gigantic Monument to Victims of Disaster Is Nearing Completion.

Washington, Feb. 12.—Work on the mammoth memorial to the men of the Titanic who went down in order that women and children might have a chance for their lives is nearing completion, and will be placed in position in Potomac Park, in Washington, in the next few weeks.

The memorial will consist of a figure of a man standing with outstretched arms, and will be of heroic size. The design is the work of Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, formerly Miss Gertrude Vanderbilt, of New York. She has supervised the cutting of the granite monument at the quarry at Quincy, Mass.

The monument will stand 35 feet high. The figure of the man will be 12 feet high, and the distance from the end of one outstretched arm to the other will be 13 feet.

The memorial is the conception of the Titanic Memorial Association, which aims to honor the memory of the brave men who stood on the deck of the sinking liner and made no effort to save themselves, forfeiting their lives that women and children might live. It is a memorial of the famous tradition of the sea, "Women and children first," and a fitting emphasis of the words: "Greater love than this hath on man, that he lay down his life for his friend."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How Daedalus Made Two Pairs of Wings Like a Seagull's.

Daedalus Held Up His Finished Work.

"I KNOW a good Greek story," daddy smiled at two nappy children.

"Oh, please, daddy, tell us, tell us!" begged Jack and Evelyn.

"Once upon a time there was a very skillful Greek workman whose name was Daedalus. He lived on the island of Crete and was a great favorite of King Minos. He once built a wonderful underground path which pleased the king much. But afterward he displeased Minos, who banished him to a lonely tower at one end of Crete. Daedalus managed to escape from his tower prison, but he could not leave the island by sea because the king kept close watch of all ships leaving and had them searched. Then Daedalus said to himself: 'Minos may control the land and the sea, but the air is free. I will escape that way.' So he set to work to make wings for himself and his young son Icarus, whom he loved very dearly."

"Are they going to make an airship, daddy?" cried Jack.

"Then Daedalus got lots of string and a big piece of wax, and every time a huge sea bird sailed over that part of the island and dropped a feather from his wing the father and the little boy, Icarus, picked it up and treasured it. Day after day Icarus ran about gathering up the wing feathers that birds lighting on the tower shed from their strong wings. Then when they had a great many the father began to sew the feathers together, one on top of another, fastening the big ones with thread and the small with wax. And when Daedalus held up his finished work Icarus saw that it looked just like a pair of wings, beautiful as any seagull's that flew over the tower.

"When dusk came Daedalus strapped the two wings to his own shoulders, and when night fell he went to the top of his tower and spread his great beautiful wings. The night breeze took them, and, poising as a gull does before flight, off he sailed over the sea. But he was not ready to leave yet, not until he had made a pair of wings for his little son. So he sailed back to the tower prison and, taking his little son to his heart, cried: 'I have found a way, Icarus! We shall yet escape from our prison.'

"So Icarus ran around on the ground picking up more soft, gray gull feathers. Sometimes he molded the wax and held the thread for his father, hindering him more than he helped. Finally Daedalus finished a beautiful little pair of wings, just a fit for Icarus, but much smaller than his own. How Icarus' eyes shone as he watched his father strap them to his small shoulders! 'I shall fly! I shall fly!' he kept saying to himself. 'I shall fly like birds!'"

Daddy stopped, and when the children begged him to tell what next he only kissed them and pointed upstairs.

AMERICA'S MOST FAMOUS INVALID TO CELEBRATE FIFTIETH YEAR IN BED

Miss Mollie Fancher.

Miss Mollie Fancher, called America's most remarkable invalid, has just celebrated at her home in Brooklyn, N. Y., the fiftieth anniversary of her confinement to bed. Miss Fancher has not known freedom from pain since she fell from a horse car in 1866. Doctors say she will never be able to leave the bed where she has lain for half a century.

The housewife is the "official buyer" for the home—in almost all families. She is, consequently, the official "ad read er" for the home.

'Plains & Fanwood.

Mr. and Mrs. Norman Keib, of North avenue, entertained about thirty friends at a party at their home last night. The lower rooms of the house were decorated for the occasion, and a very pleasant time was enjoyed in dancing and playing var. enjoyed in dancing and playing cards. Several musical selections were rendered by a number of those present, including Miss Marie Boise, who sang several songs in an excellent soprano voice. At a late hour a luncheon was served. Guests were present from Plainfield and New York as well as the borough.

Rev. F. J. Hubach, district superintendent, was present at the Fourth Quarterly Conference held in the Methodist church last, and he also led the prayer meeting that preceded the conference. A large attendance marked the last conference of the church year, and plans were discussed for things to be undertaken in the near future and encouraging reports for the past year were read.

The game scheduled on the Parish House court for tonight between the girls' basketball team of the Westfield Methodist church and the Sunshine Weavers was postponed by the former aggregation, and the local girls will remain idle. The Delta Phi's, a Plainfield team, has been booked by Manager Tulloch to play the Parish House first team tonight on the local court.

The annual barn dance conducted last night in the Parish House of the Stony Hill church by the young people of the parish attracted one of the largest crowds that has attended these popular dances. It is estimated that about two hundred and fifty people were present, including people from not only Scotch Plains, but Plainfield, Dunellen, Westfield and even as far as Elizabeth. Trolleys coming to the Plains from both east and west were crowded to overflowing, and auto busses and taxicabs did a thriving business at the corner of Park avenue and Westfield avenue for several hours. A ten-piece orchestra furnished music for the occasion, and refreshments were to be had at booths placed at convenient places in the hall. It was not until early this morning that the last one had departed and the lights turned out, following one of the most successful dances ever held at the Hill.

The local members of the Belgian Relief Society are preparing to ship a large box of articles made by themselves to Europe sometimes next week, probably the day following the meeting next Thursday. Mrs. Chas. Fernald, of Forest road, is making an earnest endeavor to collect anesthetics to be sent over the seas for use in the hospitals, where it is said that in many cases operations are being performed without their aid.

Under the active supervision of Mrs. Walter Brown, of Forest road, a Junior Society of the Baptist church Sunday school has been organized. The officers are: President, Drusilla Macauley; vice-president, Clara Mandelky; secretary, Augusta Macauley; treasurer, Willard Ward; chairman of social committee, Margaret Welden, and librarian, Helen Mandelky. As a sort of Lincoln Birthday party, Mrs. Brown has assisted the social committee in arranging for a pleasant evening in the Parish House tonight. Refreshments will be served and young girls are invited to be present.

Willard Marston, president of the P. Y. P. U. of the Baptist church, and Russell Johnston and Howard Ward, also members, are attending the convention being held in Newark under the direction of the New Jersey Baptist Convention as local delegates. Mr. Marston will make an address tomorrow on "The Community Clubhouse," and in so doing will have in mind the local Parish House that is doing so much good for local people, young and old alike.

The Rev. Oscar Stuart Michaels, pastor of the Episcopal church, will preach on "Lessons from the Life of Lincoln," at the 11 o'clock morning service. Sunday-school will meet at 10 o'clock.

A musical program will be rendered at the morning service at the Baptist church tomorrow under the direction of Charles Lewis. The Rev. J. Madison Hare will take as the topic of his sermon, "What Made Lincoln Great.' An engraved picture of the great emancipator will be given to each one present. The Junior Service will be held in the afternoon at 2 o'clock, and at the Young People's service in the lecture room at 7:30 there will be stereopticon trip "By Canoe and Caravan Through Africa."

It is expected that former Assemblyman S. S. Swackhammer, of Plainfield, will address the Men's Forum in the Parish House tomorrow afternoon at 4 o'clock. The Rev. J. Madison Hare has arranged a special Lincoln Day program and a picture of the wartime president will be given to each one.

1918 BOYS OF P. H. S. WIN OVER BOROUGH SOPHOMORES

The P. H. S. Sophomores tamed another N. P. H. S. class team yesterday when they downed the North Plainfield Sophomores on the city High School court in a rather listless game, by a 25-15 score. The Red and Blue tossers led from the start, and had the game won in the first half.

Jackson and O'Donnell each made four baskets for the winners, and the latter added two fouls for good measure. North Plainfield's points were pretty well distributed, but Burner led the pack with five points. The P. H. S. boys have trimmed both the N. P. H. S. LAUNCHING A BIG VESSEL.

Always a Risky Task For Which Great Preparations Are Made.

To slide a steel structure as big as a thirty story office building down hill into the water and have it arrive right side up without damage is a big job, even in these days of big achievements.

The builders of the latest Dreadnought risked nearly $7,000,000 worth of material and labor when the launching triggers were released. The outcome depended on the correctness of calculations made before the big fighting ship's keel was laid on the blocks, for before the first construction work on a ship is begun the preparations for its launching must be started.

It is comparatively easy to build a ship on land, but to get it into the water is another matter, as Robinson Crusoe discovered after working seven years to construct a boat which, when finished, proved so big that he could not launch it. After the Great Eastern, for forty-three years the largest ship in the world, was built in 1858 it took three months to get it afloat.

The larger the vessel the more ticklish is the job of sliding it safely into the water. Although years of experience and careful study have reduced the methods used to a standard practice, yet there is always a degree of uncertainty about the operation. In spite of the navy's record of an unbroken series of successful launchings, those responsible for each succeeding one experience considerable anxiety until the crisis is safely past. Even though every known precaution has been taken there is always the chance that some unknown factor may ruin the plan and wreck the ship.—Crosby McCarthy in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Australia's Stony Desert.

The great stony desert of north Australia was discovered by Captain Sturt, an Australian explorer, in 1845-6. It is north of the river Darling and is about 300 miles long and 100 broad, consisting of sandy dunes or ridges. Its want of trees, except along the creeks, gives the country a sterile appearance. These ridges were probably formed by the joint effect of winds and a gradually retiring sea.

"Well," said the manager between puffs, "wait until the press agent gets here. Perhaps he can blow it open."—Yonkers Statesman.

Score Believed to Set Record—Hawthorne Knocked Out After Making Points.

Leal's School was defeated in a basketball game at Roselle High School last night by a score of 103 to 2. This is believed to be the most one-sided score by which a Plainfield school was ever beaten on the court, and is thought to be the first game which any New Jersey school team won by a margin of more than a hundred points.

The first half ended 58 to 1. Archie Hawthorne threw in the two fouls made by the Plainfield side. In the second half he was injured in the stomach and had to be taken out of the game. This further handicapped the locals, who started the game with one of their regulars missing.

Leal's had just three possible chances to score on field goals. The ball was in Roselle hands almost continually. As one spectator described the game, it was much like a contest between a first team and a third or fourth team.

Plainfield High School defeated Roselle here last month, 32 to 9.

NEXT WEEK WILL BE QUIET AT HIGH SCHOOL

Plainfield High School's various teams will have a rather quiet coming week, with the boys' and girls' teams each getting in action once, and the swimming team getting busy next Saturday. The Interclass League schedule has been somewhat changed, and the new dates will be found in another article on this page.

The schedule day by day follows:

Monday—Yale vs. Columbia, Harvard vs. Cornell (P. H. S. College League).

Wednesday—Rutgers vs. Princeton (P. H. S. College League).

Friday—Trenton High School boys' five at P. H. S., Yale vs. Cornell (P. H. S. College League).

Saturday—Boys' High, Brooklyn, swimming team, at P. H. S.; Roselle High School girls vs. P. H. S., at Roselle.

PRELIMINARY AT HOPE.

It was announced today that a preliminary game has been carded for the Hope chapel court tonight, between the Hope seconds and a team of High School players, headed by Gerald Linke.

GIRLS' GAME TODAY.

The second game between the girls' sixes of the two local high schools will be played in Saengerbund Hall this afternoon. The game will start at 3 o'clock.

Y. M. C. A. GAMES.

Games scheduled for tonight in the Y. M. C. A. Senior Basketball League are Rangers vs. Saurer, and Commuters vs. Saurer.

P. A. A. AT CO. M.

The Plainfield A. A. will go to Somerville tonight to play the Co. M basketball team on the armory court.

EASTON HIGH AT P. H. S.

Schedule.

Thursday night—Tabs at Eagles.

The Eagles practically eliminated the Knights of Columbus from the City Bowling League championship race, when the Birds won three games on their own alleys last night. The Columbians are six games behind the leaders, with only that many games left to roll.

The season is two-thirds over, and the Eagles are enjoying a lead of two games over the Imperials, who are second, and a margin of four games on the Tabs. As each team has six more games to roll, the fight for the title will doubtless be between the Eagles and the Imperials, and will probably be decided on February 24, when these teams meet in the last match on the schedule, on the Imperials' alleys.

The F. O. E. representatives averaged 918.1 last night. None of the three games was ever in doubt, the home pinners leading from the outset every time. Their 925 was good by 130 pins in the first game, their 896 was high by 58 sticks in the second, and they took the third by 40 pins, with 934.

The Public Service duo—George Miller and Jim Mahoney—furnished the big scores. Kats put up 200, 207 and 181 for an average of 196. "Mack" posted 231, the highest score of the night, in the first game, and although splits held his score to 142 in the second, he wound up with a 207, and an average of 193.1. In his first game, Mahoney started with five strikes, but ran into a split in the sixth frame.

The scores:

The question of amateurism was not even mentioned at the annual meeting of the national lawn tennis body yesterday. Four tourneys—the all-comers', challenge round doubles, national junior and national boys'—were awarded to the West Side Tennis Club.

H. M. S. ARABIC SENT TO SEA'S BOTTOM

Berlin Reports Naval Victory In Dogger Bank.

London, Feb. 12.—The German admiralty announced the sinking of "the British cruiser Arabic," called in another version "Arabis," and the torpedoing of another cruiser by German torpedo boats in the Dogger bank, in the North sea, about halfway between the coast of Schleswig-Holstein and the British coast region around Newcastle.

The German statement added that the commander of the Arabic, two officers and twenty-one men were rescued. The German torpedo boat flotilla suffered no damage or losses, it is claimed.

In reply to this statement the British admiralty asserted officially that the "cruisers" referred to by Berlin were mine sweepers, adding that of four craft of that denomination three returned safely. The German admiralty's statement was:

Our torpedo boats encountered near the Dogger bank several British cruisers which were put to flight.

We sank the British cruiser Arabic and torpedoed another British cruiser. We rescued the Arabic's commander, two officers and twenty-one men. We suffered no damage or losses.

A Reuter version of the German official report gave the British cruiser's name as "Arabis" instead of "Arabic."

THE COAL SITUATION

The coal situation is commanding serious attention. Many of our customers are anxiously asking our opinion from day to day.

We do not pretend to know more than the other fellow, but we do not intend that our customers shall suffer if there is a coal shortage, and we are therefore keeping our bunkers filled to overflowing with the domestic sizes of coal.

This is only another evidence of our desire and ability to serve our patrons.

A RECEPTION FOLLOWS

Ceremony Is Performed By Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, of Grace Episcopal Church—Couple to Live Here Upon Return from Honeymoon.

Miss Katharine Overton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. T. Chalmers Overton, of 31 Rockivew avenue, and Thomas Reginald Fawcett, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hughes Fawcett, of 105 Rockview avenue, North Plainfield, were married at 7 o'clock Saturday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Rev. E. Vicars Stevenson, rector of Grace Episcopal church, this city, officiating, in the presence of about two hundred guests.

The bride wore her mother's wedding gown of satin material, trimmed with duchess lace, and she carried a shower bouquet of roses and sweet peas. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Albert E. Crane, of Brooklyn, as matron of honor, who wore her wedding gown of white brocaded satin, trimmed with duchess lace. She also carried a bouquet of White roses and sweet peas.

The bridesmaids were Miss Evelyn Kingsley, of Brooklyn; Miss Lillian Fawcett, sister of the bridegroom, and Miss Annette VanMater, of Plainfield. Their gowns were pink net over pink silk, trimmed with roses and they carried carnations. There were two flower girls, Penelope Overton, sister of the bride, and Isabelle Fawcett, sister of the bridegroom. They were gowned in pink taffeta and carried baskets of bride roses.

The best man was Chalmers Wolfe-Tone Overton, brother of the bride, and the ushers were Allan M. Overton, of Cincinnati; Albert E. Crane, of Brooklyn; William Fawcett, of Boston; Martin Fawcett, of Bound Brook, and Herbert Carheart, of Plainfield. The wedding march was played by an orchestra, which also furnished music for the reception which followed.

The bride received a large number of gifts, including a pearl necklace and two solid silver tea services in addition to many other articles. The bridegroom's gift to the bride was a diamond and sapphire ring.

The home was elaborately decorated for the affair, a profusion of flowers being used throughout the parlors, reception and dining rooms. Among the out of town guests were Miss Maxwell, of Ossining, N. Y.; R. W. Maxwell, of New Hampshire; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Maxwell, of Rye, N. Y.; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fawcett, of Boston, and Miss Nancy Shunk, of Harrisburg, Pa.

Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Fawcett left on a wedding trip, the destination of which was not made known. Upon their return they will reside at 31 Rockview avenue, the borough, for the present. Mr. Fawcett is engaged in the linen business in New York with his father. Both the bride and bridegroom have a large circle of acquaintances.

FRONT STREET MAIL BOX FOUND EMPTY

Believed It Was Robbed by Man Who Tore it From Post.

If any letters were dropped in the mail box at the corner of Norwood avenue and East Front street after 5:15 Saturday night they were stolen and the senders will have to rewrite them in order to get their messages delivered. The mail box was taken from its place on the corner and it is believed that it was rifled. Early yesterday morning, Patrick O'Brien, who is gardener at the Tate home, near the corner, reported that a mail box had been thrown into the yard. Postmaster Hoagland made an investigation and found that the box was empty. If any letters were put in the box after a postman collected there at 5:15, they were stolen. The police and postal authorities are investigating the case.

BIG LABOR DAY PARADE PLANNED

Allied Trades' Committee Take Steps for Celebration Here in September.

WILL OFFER PRIZES

Proposition Is Greeted With Enthusiasm and It Is Hoped to Make This Year's Demonstration a "Red Letter" Event.

At an enthusiastic meeting of the Allied Trades committee in Trades Council Hall, Saturday night, plans were launched for another big trade representing parade to be held next Labor Day, similar to the one conducted in September, 1914. Mayor Leighton Calkins was approached on the subject by Ernest Rhodes, secretary of the Allied Trades, and the executive immediately gave the proposition his hearty endorsement. He added further, that such demonstrations mean much for the business life of the city, and that Plainfielders as a whole would aid the parade plans financially and otherwise.

President Richard Scott occupied the chair Saturday night and asked for opinions for plans on the following Labor Day. The idea met with instant favor and every member evinced genuine enthusiasm. It was decided after a discussion to have practically the same committees act again that were appointed for 1914. The procession will be composed of delegations from the local trade unions and all business organizations, merchants' floats, military bodies and numerous other features. Prizes will be offered for the most striking floats and also for the trade delegations having the most men in line or the most striking costume. The method of procuring funds is to be arranged at a later date.

It was also decided at Saturday night's meeting to conduct a reception and ball under the auspices of the Allied Trades Committee in the near future. President Scott appointed a committee of five to take up the matter at once. They will select the hall, arrange the date and complete all other plans before the next meeting to be held on February 26. The Allied Trades conducted a ball two years ago that was one of the most successful affairs of that kind during the season and the executives believe that the success will be duplicated at the coming event.

WILLIAM WHITE'S FUNERAL TOMORROW

Service for Young Man Who Expired Suddenly to Be at Mother's Home.

The funeral of Willam I. White, who expired suddenly as he was walking along Rockview terrace following a skating trip to Hooley's pond Saturday noon, will be held at the home of his mother, Mrs. George F. White, of 41 Willow avenue, tomorrow afternoon at 2:30. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, of which the young man was a member, will be officiating clergyman. Bural will be in Hillside cemetery.

Mr. White passed his twenty-first birthday last August and six weeks ago entered the clerical department of the Plainfield Trust Company. He was fond of skating and took advantage of the Lincoln's Birthday holiday to indulge in the sport. He was on his way home shortly before 12 o'clock when the attack of heart trouble came upon him as he was directly in front of the home of Frederick Tag. According to the family physcian, Dr. P. J. Zelgio, death was instantaneous. The body lurched headlong into a hedge where it was discovered a moment later by Mrs. Tag from a seat in her automobile. George Rilling, of Harrison avenue, also happened along at the same time and both gave hurry calls for physicians and the borough police. Chief Marshal George Weiss and the ambulance from Muhlenberg hospital bringing Dr. William B. Gray arrived in a few minutes. The body was removed to the undertaking parlors of A. M. Runyon and Son. The young man's death occuurred under exactly the same circumstances as that of his father, one of North Plainfield's best-known residents, who fell lifeless on the platform of the North avenue station a year ago last month after he had exerted himself to catch a train. In the second instance it is believed that over-exertion produced by the skating brought the attack on the son.

William White was graduated from the Bordentown Military Institute in the class of 1915, and was numbered in the honor roll for that year. He was a member of the Probasco Bible class of the First Baptist church and was active in the young men's work of the congregation. Beside his mother, who was Miss Ella Beardsley, he is survived by one sister, Miss Edna White, and one brother, Charles White. Mrs. William G. DeMeza, wife of Plainfield's city judge, who left two weeks ago for a month's trip in the South, is a cousin.

LAUD LINCOLN IN SONG AND STORY

Second Annual Dinner of I. C. S. Fraternity Great Success.

LAVISH DECORATIONS

Mayor W. L. Smalley, S. S. Swackhamer, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, and D. Fred Aungst Among Speakers—R. A. Meeker Toastmaster.

Patriotic address marked the second annual dinner given Saturday evening at the Kandy Shope by Abraham Lincoln Chapter, No. 122, I. C. S. Fraternity of the world. There were about seventy guests, including members, their wives and other friends. The room was attractively decorated for the occasion with flags and bunting, while a large picture of Lincoln occupied a prominent position.

Robert A. Meeker, State Supervisor of Roads, was the toastmaster, as well as one of the speakers of the evening. The other speakers and their subjects were: Mayor W. L. Smalley, of North Plainfield, "Loyalty"; Samuel S. Swackhamer, "Am I My Brother's Keeper"; Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, "Education and Its Price"; Robert A. Meeker, "State Roads of New Jersey"; D. Fred Aungst, supervising principal of the North Plainfield High School, "Lincoln in Story and Literature."

All of the speeches of the evening touched on Lincoln, and his many admirable qualities were lauded. Mayor Smalley emphasized the importance of being loyal to one's country and never to put commercialism before righteousness. He gave many utterances showing the advantage of one being loyal.

During his talk, Mr. Swackhamer touched on the horrors of the European war and capital punishment, and incidentally remarked that Lincoln was always a peace-loving man and it was not until there was no other alternative did he sanction the Civil War. He deplored the fact that so many states throughout the Union are still enforcing the law of capital punishment and, in his opinion, the state is just as guilty of murder as the individual whose life is taken.

Dr. Anderson at the outset of his address, took occasion to remark that he was opposed to women being employed more than ten hours a day. He then dwelt on the importance of education and its many advantages, and he lauded the efforts of the members of the Abraham Lincoln Chapter, who are striving to improve their opportunities.

In a short address, Mr. Meeker gave those present a little insight into road building, telling how some of the great highways of the State are constructed. Mr. Meeker advocated the building of roads along the Atlantic and Pacific coasts, whereby if necessary it would be easy to would also prove an excellent means of defense.

Mr. Aungst, the last speaker of the evening, recited a poem on Lincoln, and told how he wrote the immortal "Gettysburg Address," which today is considered a classic. He said that while at the time Lincoln made his address it did not appear to be received with much enthusiasm, its true value was realized soon afterward and it has since continued to grow on the people of the country.

During the evening the guests sang patriotic songs. The officers of the chapter and the banquet committee are as follows:

President, R. W. Aldrich; vice presidents, F. W. Wadsworth and Arthur Grisley; secretary, C. Ivan Hill; assistant, Harry J. Rider; treasurer, Phillip H. Huenke; banquet committee, Harry W. Swivel, chairman; Alex D. Doig, Clarence E. Tilley, George Lewis, F. A. Costales, R. W. Aldrich, F. W. Wadsworth, C. Ivan Hill, Arthur L. Grisley, Phillip H. Huenke and Harry J. Rider.

FIRE IN CELLAR.

Smoke that filled the building occupied by J. C. Mrs. George Feiring, wife of Fire Captain Feiring, who lives on the second floor, communicated with her husband and he responded with extinguishers. The blaze had started in a pile of rubbish in the cellar and was extinguished with practically no damage resulting.

DAILY PRESS MOVES IN NEW QUARTERS

Transfer From Old Building Made With Practically No Interruption.

Today's edition of the Plainfield Daily Press is being printed in one of the most moderaly equipped newspaper plants in Central New Jersey, the editorial and mechanical departments of the publication having been removed over the week-end, from the concern's old headquarters at 105 North avenue, to the new plant at 193 North avenue, oposit the westbound Central Railroad depot. The business department will be conducted for several days at the old building, the limited time making it impossible to complete the reconstructon work on the new home. G. W. BROWN WEDS MISS AMY MARSHALL Ceremony is Performed in All Saints Church, Fanwood, Saturday Evening.

An attractive wedding was celebrated in All Saints' Protestant Episcopal church, Scotch Plains, Fanwood, on Saturday. The contracting parties were George Woodcock Brown, of Trenton, late of Dulwich, London, England, and Miss Amy Marshall, of Syracuse, N. Y., late of Newton Abbott, England. The bride was beautifully gowned in a robe of bridal satin with an overdress of shadow lace and trimmed with crescents of pearls. The watteau train was of bridal satin and the veil of tulle fastened with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a large bouquet of bridal roses.

The church ceremony was performed by the Reverend Almon A. Jaynes, rector of Trinity church,, Syracuse, N. Y., assisted by the Reverend Oscar Stewart Michael, rector of All Saints'. The bride was attended by Miss Elizabeth Kyte, of Fanwood, as maid of honor. The Rev. Mr. Jaynes met the bridal party at the church door and escorted the bride, giving her away to the officiating clergyman. Professor E. A. Buck, of Trenton, was the best man, substituting for Arthur Kyte, who was unavoidably detained. Mrs. J. Hudson Thompson, presided at the organ, playing Mendelssohn's march, assisted by J. H. Thompson.

An informal reception was held after the ceremony at the residence of Miss Sarah Kyte. Among the other guests who sat down to the wedding lunch were Mrs. George Kyte, Mrs. Briggs, Miss Ethel Kyte, Miss Beardsley, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Kyte, Alfred Yorke, J. Herbert Kyte; and from Westfield, Miss Bessie Moore, Miss Marguerite Kyte, Miss Ralli and Charles Kyte.

PROBASCO CLASS IN INTERESTING PLAY

The Probasco Bible Class of the First Baptist Sunday School presented their fifth annual play Saturday night at the Plainfield High School Auditorium. The play, "A Count of No Account," was by far the best yet presented, and to say it was a grand success would be putting it too mildly, as it was a glorious success from beginning to end. Too much credit cannot be given to Mrs. G. Stuart Simons, the directress, for her untiring efforts in coaching the members of the cast and the many original ideas added which went a long way toward making the play successful. Mrs. Simons' efforts were greatly appreciated by the cast and they presented her with a beautiful bouquet of roses.

The programme committee wish to thank the local firms who so generously took advertising space in the programme; and to thank the two firms who donated the space for the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A.

SERVICES BEGUN AT GRACE CHURCH

Bishop Woodcock, of Kentucky, Heard Yesterday in Two Powerful Sermons.

PROGRAM FOR THE WEEK

Mission Meetings Will Be Held at 4 and 8 p. m. Each Day Excepting Saturday—Good Crowds Attended Opening Day.

The Right Rev. Charles E. Woodcock, of Kentucky, began a week's preaching mission for the Episcopal churches of Plainfield yesterday when he preached two strong sermons at Grace church. Two large audiences heard the visiting bishop and were held closely by his wonderfully vivid interpretations of the Bible.

These sermons are to continue at Grace church during the entire week, with the exception of Saturday. There will be two services each week day, one at 4 p. m. and the other at 8 p. m. No services will be held on Saturday, and the mission will be brought to a close by the evening service of next Sunday.

Bishop Woodcock is one of the most eloquent of the Episcpal clergymen in this country. He has an important charge in Kentucky, and is sought in many sections because of his forceful eloquence. Those who heard him yesterday were enthusiastic over the success of the eight-day mission.

Bishop Woodcock receives no offering for his work here, but will preach through the entire week without enumeration. On the last day an offering will be made which goes t further his missionary work in his Kentucky field. While all Episcopal congregations are joining in the services they are not sectarian and all people in the city are invited.

Bishop Woodcock's sermon yesterday morning was on "The Meaning of Temptation." He pointed out that everyone was tempted; that man would not be human if he were not subject to temptations to sin, as only Saints were free from this. Temptation itself is not sin, he said, but is the strong man's opportunity to show his stength and th weak man's excuse for sinning. He declared that the better man tried to become, the more he was tempted, but that there was always a chance to resist through the strength given by the Lord.

In the evening he preached on the subject, "The Tragedy of Sin." Despite the bad streets the church was filled for this service and Bishop Woodcock's sermon made a deep impression on those who braved the snow and cold to hear him. He defined sin as disobedience and ingratitude to God. "Sin never statisfies," said Bishop Woodcock, "to merely gratifies." It never leads up, he said, but always down until finally the sinner can no longer resist temptation without Divine strength. He held out the hope that no matter how often a man has sinned there is always hope throough faith, and he can be redeemed if he but evidences a willingness to fight against temptation.

CITY SURVEY WILL BEGIN ON TUESDAY

Mayor Calkins Fortunately Secures Services of Best Experts for This Work.

Mayor Calkins has perfected all arrangements for the survey of departments which was authorized by the Council at its February meeting. The work is to begin at once, ano will be completed within a month. The Bureau of Municipal Research has a large organization, employing over a hundred experts in finance, police, fire, street and other municipal branches; but by a fortunate turn of events, their most experienced men only last week completed an important survey elsewhere, thus making them available for the Plainfield work.

On learning this, Mayor Calkins immediately put in an application for their services, and arranged to have them start on their preliminary work this week. This was on Thursday of last week. The next day, Friday, Mayor Mitchell, of New York city, applied to the Bureau for a special survey of certain departments; and the experts who are coming here would have been assigned for the work in New York if they had not already been promised to Plainfield. Among them is Mr. Driscoll, who was for several years first deputy police commissioner in New York; and Herbert A. Sands, a director of the Bureau, who will personally conduct the financial survey here.

The Bureau of Municipal Research has been furnished with copies of Mayor Calkins' two annual messags, dealing with this question of survey; and their experts have also been over the ground thoroughly with him, and are therefore well versed with his plans, and thoroughly understand that he does not want expert advice for the purpose of setting up any ideal utopian administrative structure. They know that he is not asking them to tell what might be had here if Plainfield had home-rule, or a city manager, or sundry charter amendments. They are to come here in order (first) to ascertain the exact facts with respect to local methods of transacting public business, and (second) to tell to what extent the riethhds which suited Plainfield twenty yeas ago, are costly for a city of its pesent size and volume of business; and (third) to make practical suggestions for a saving of expense, and an increase of efficiency, by the empolyment of modern systems for business administration as actually tried out, and of proved value, in other communities.

Mr. Gulick's car was put completely out of commission and it had to be hauled to a garage.

SAVED THE TOWN.

The Fisherman Lied, Stuck to His Story and Got a Surprise.

More than two centuries ago, when an allied English and Dutch fleet, under Admiral Russell, approached Les Sables d'Olonne, on the bay of Biscay, to bombard it, a difficulty arose. The conformation of the shore partly concealed the settlement behind a ridge, and they did not know how to train their guns. But they had captured a fishing smack in the bay, and Admiral Russell summoned the fisherman, Daniel Fricaud, and ordered him to tell exactly how the town lay and where to aim in order to destroy its principal buildings. Fricaud, who appeared to be a poor, ignorant fellow, very much frightened, pointed to a pier with a group of old, rickety buildings. The admiral was doubtful, but the trembling fisherman assured him that just beyond and almost exactly in range was the market square, the very heart of the town.

"Do you understand," asked the admiral sternly, "that if you are telling me a lie I shall soon find it out and have you hanged from the yardarm of my ship?"

"I know," answered the fisherman, "and if I have lied you must hang me. I can only tell you—it is there that you should aim your guns."

Convinced that the man would not venture a deception, Admiral Russell ordered the bombardment to begin. A little while after shells had begun to fall behind the screening ridge and shabby wharf, and great columns of smoke arose, which rapidly increased in volume. It seemed that half the place must be on fire. Only when he thought its destruction nearly enough accomplished did the fleet withdraw—first releasing Fricaud and his fishing boat.

The fisherman, amazed and anxious, hastened to the town to learn what could possibly have happened, for he knew well that in the quarter that had been shelled there were only a few worthless sheds and storehouses. That was why, at the risk of his neck, he had pointed it out. Never for a moment had he thought of aiding the enemy to destroy his native place, and he had fully expected to pay the penalty. What could the smoke be?

It proved that the inhabitants had practiced a clever ruse. Seeing that the shells were falling exactly where they did the least harm, they had built huge bonfires to convey the impression of a conflagration. The trick had probably saved the town. It had certainly saved a brave fisherman from being hanged.—Youth's Companion.

Captain Grant will have authority to see that in the construction and repair of submarines the military features of the problems encountered will be acted upon in accordance with the demands of the men who actually fight the ships. He will see to it that requests for repairs are not lost in the byways of a bureaucratic system, and he will afford a system of inspections wherein the present evil of those responsible for the material conditions inspecting their own work is eradicated.

THE WHITE HOUSE

Its Architectural Restoration by Charles Follen McKim.

VAST CHANGES WERE MADE.

The Interior Was Practically Remade, and the Greatest Care Was Bestowed Upon Even the Minutest Details—A Criticism and a Story.

The White House, the work of the architect James Hoban, burned by the British in 1792 and restored and completed by Hoban about 1830, remained with little change in its condition until about 1865. From this period until the administration of Theodore Roosevelt there were constant changes in the interior, made on authority of the presidential resident, which destroyed the fitness and dignity of this beautiful building.

Roosevelt soon after he became president selected Charles Follen McKim to restore instead of to enlarge the building.

McKim gave his whole attention to design, from the broadest principles controlling the relations and unity between the larger elements of halls and rooms down to the minutest details of mantels, stucco ornaments and lighting fixtures.

The broad principles of the work consisted in restoring the terrace on the east, removed during Grant's administration; removing the greenhouses and propagating beds, removing the president's public offices from the residence to a separate structure, restoring the interior from the ground to the roof and refurnishing the principal floor.

While McKim was maturing his designs and the drawings were being made the building as it existed from the ground to the roof was being torn out, leaving only the walls, windows and upper floors.

As the work progressed McKim gave each detail his attention as it went into place. He did not hesitate, although the time was so limited, to alter or change details which he found did not appear just as he had expected.

This seeking the best results was well illustrated in finishing the private dining room. The molded panels and cornices of this room McKim thought were too coarse in scale when he saw them on the wall. He had portions of them made more delicate. New moldings were made and put up, then others, until he finally selected those most appropriate.

The new moldings threw cornice ornaments and the center out of scale, and these had to be removed and others secured after several trials before he was satisfied with the room as a harmonious composition.

It was necessary to build a structure for the public office separate from the residence. McKim determined to place this at the end of the west terrace, making it one story in height, no higher than the terrace, thus making it in every way subordinate to the main building. While he considered it a temporary building, it contained all the office rooms needed for the conduct of the president's business. McKim's hope was that an adequate office building, with stately apartments, for diplomatic and other functions might be built some time in the near future facing the capitol at the executive mansion end of the avenue, thus restoring the original idea of reciprocity of sight between the executive and legislative branches of the government.

This one story office building was much ridiculed because it did not compete with the White House and was so simple in its design.

At a private dinner in Washington, among some dozen guests, McKim and a government official were present. The official began to belittle and to ridicule the office building of the president. McKim said:

"The conversation reminds me of an afternoon in St. Gaudens' studio some years ago. The wonderful statue of Farragut, just finished, was on exhibition. A lady handsomely dressed and stately in carriage came in. I retired, and St. Gaudens carried her in to see the statue. After a short time St. Gaudens returned with a cheerful countenance and whistling merrily. I said, 'Well, Gus, I know she must have been pleased with the statue, as you are so gay.' 'No,' he said; 'she did not like it. If she had she would have known it was bad.'"

A broad smile ran around the table. The official stiffened up, but finally gave way and joined in the laugh.

McKim's refinement, good taste, keen appreciation of the beauty of the old White House, together with his long study of Italian and of the Georgian adaptation of Italian renaissance, made him the ideal man for its restoration again into a dignified residence for the president of a democratic nation.—Glenn Brown in Architectural Record.

BULLETS IN FLIGHT

Even the Best Aimed Ones Never Follow Their Noses.

STRIKE A WEE BIT SIDEWAYS.

The Projectile Travels on a Curve, of Course, and It Keeps Its Axis Always in the Direction the Axis Had When the Ball Left the Gun.

It is a well known fact that a bullet never goes straight to a mark, but flies in a curve on the order of the parabola. But most people think that the bullet itself follows its nose and that at first (when the nose is pointed up) the bullet follows it and that when the bullet is coming down on the other leg of the curve the nose is pointed down.

This is a mistake, for the nose of a bullet always maintains its own direction, no matter what the bullet as a whole tries to do. That is, if a gun be pointed slightly up, the bullet, when it strikes the target, will not enter it perpendicularly by the nose, and the hole made will be larger than the bullet is round, for the bullet of necessity must hit in a certain degree flatwise. Of course the reason the bullet does this is because it has a very rapid rotation given it by the rifles in the barrel, which keeps it also from turning over and over in the air.

Another thing that will seem peculiar to most people is the action of gravity on a bullet. If a gun be fired exactly horizontally the bullet will have to be pulled down by gravity exactly sixteen feet during the first second. So if there were no sights on a gun and it was leveled by means of a hand level and fired the bullet would hit something exactly sixteen feet below the gun at a distance away equal to the velocity of the bullet per second.

No matter what the bullet's velocity, gravity will pull it down sixteen feet during the first second, or if the bullet be fired upward gravity will take from its upward velocity thirty-two feet during the first second.

The bullet itself keeps its axis always in the direction the axis had when the bullet issued from the gun. This is the well known gyroscopic principle made use of in the gyroscopic compass and the monorail car—that a rotating body will maintain its axis of rotation in the same direction unless a moment of force be applied to it.

But what actually happens with the modern high powered rifle? Does it shoot a bullet that goes in sideways?

To a slight extent it may be stated that the modern army bullet does do that very thing. Its velocity, however, is so enormous that the gun barrel does not have to be elevated through so large an angle, and consequently the bullet enters fairly on its nose, though not squarely so, at all ordinary ranges.

The same may be said of the bigger guns. They have rifling in them and so give rotation and gyroscopic action to the projectiles. But a mortar does not. A mortar shoots something almost straight up in the air and lets it fall down. As the mortar is too short barreled to be rifled the top of the projectile would hit a target a long distance away, but for a shot almost straight up in the air to fall right down of course the bottom of the projectile would strike first. The mortar projectiles are generally round, so that it will not matter how they strike.

The reason a bullet cannot be made so that it will always enter a target squarely on its nose is that for every range a differently shaped bullet would have to be manufactured; also the bullet should be symmetrical, so that the air will exert no disturbing influence on its distorted parts.

A bullet has a distinct curve like that of a baseball, due to its rotation, and this curve is independent of the parabola given by gravity. The smoother and more polished a bullet is the less is this curve. But the action of the rifling in a gun barrel puts little grooves in the bullet as it goes through the barrel. These catch the air as the bullet rotates and causes the curve spoken of.

If the bullet be rotated in the direction of the hands of a clock the curve will make the bullet go to the left of the exact point aimed at. The effect is so small, however, that it does not have to be taken into account in the manufacture of rifles and ammunition.—New York American.

Saloniki.

The Greek seaport, Saloniki, is the same as the old Thessalonica that was visited by the Apostle Paul in 51 A. D. and to which were sent the two epistles, First and Second Thessalonians, in the New Testament. The original name of Saloniki was Therma or City of Hot Springs. Then Thessalonica, so called after the sister of Alexander the Great, and then shortened and made Turkish into Saloniki.

DRIFTED ACROSS THE PACIFIC.

Eight Japanese Land at British Columbia After Twenty-four Days.

A story of eight Japanese fishermen who drifted all the way across the Pacific ocean in a small fishing boat landing after twenty-four days of hardships on the British Columbian shore, reached the bureau of navigation in consular dispatches.

The narrative tells how the fishermen, caught off the harbor of Shimoda, Japan, in a storm that carried away their vessel's mainmast and rudder, were driven eastward by ocean currents, helpless, and how toward the end of their trip they were half starved. The boat grounded on one of the small uninhabited islands that dot the British Columbian shore, where the men remained until picked up by a passing steamer.

Only one of the party, the owner of the boat, suffered any serious ill effects from the trip. He is now in a Prince Rupert hospital.

The boat was of the type common along the Japanese coast, fitted with cooking utensils. It became waterlogged in the storm that stripped it of sails, and after first attempts the Japanese made no further effort to direct its course.

SELLER OF DRINK MUST PAY.

Saloonkeeper, Sued, Must Pay $2,500 For Death of His Patron.

A jury in Philadelphia has returned a verdict of $2,500 in favor of Mrs. Virginia Alexander against Jacob Bosch, the proprietor of a saloon. She had sued to recover for the death of her husband, who, she claimed, died in March, 1914, after two years of excessive use of intoxicants, the majority of which, she alleged, had been sold to him by Bosch, despite her pleadings.

The suit was brought under the provisions of the act of 1854 which makes it unlawful for a saloonkeeper to furnish liquor to a man of known intemperate habits and provides that he can be held liable for damages. This is the first case of its kind.

LAUNCHING A BIG VESSEL.

Always a Risky Task For Which Great Preparations Are Made.

To slide a steel structure as big as a thirty story office building down hill into the water and have it arrive right side up without damage is a big job, even in these days of big achievements.

The builders of the latest Dreadnought risked nearly $7,000,000 worth of material and labor when the launching triggers were released. The outcome depended on the correctness of calculations made before the big fighting ship's keel was laid on the blocks, for before the first construction work on a ship is begun the preparations for its launching must be started.

It is comparatively easy to build a ship on land, but to get it into the water is another matter, as Robinson Crusoe discovered after working seven years to construct a boat which, when finished, proved so big that he could not launch it. After the Great Eastern, for forty-three years the largest ship in the world, was built in 1858 it took three months to get it afloat.

The larger the vessel the more ticklish is the job of sliding it safely into the water. Although years of experience and careful study have reduced the methods used to a standard practice, yet there is always a degree of uncertainty about the operation. In spite of the navy's record of an unbroken series of successful launchings, those responsible for each succeeding one experience considerable anxiety until the crisis is safely past. Even though every known precaution has been taken there is always the chance that some unknown factor may ruin the plan and wreck the ship.—Crosby McCarthy in Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Australia's Stony Desert.

The great stony desert of north Australia was discovered by Captain Sturt, an Australian explorer, in 1845-6. It is north of the river Darling and is about 300 miles long and 100 broad, consisting of sandy dunes or ridges. Its want of trees, except along the creeks, gives the country a sterile appearance. These ridges were probably formed by the joint effect of winds and a gradually retiring sea.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

SAYS BODY IS A POISON FACTORY

Urges everyone to drink glass of hot water before breakfast.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves behind a certain amount of incombusible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which, if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomaine-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins, and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation, others who wake up with bad taste, foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember, inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowel pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses, sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

LOG CABIN HONORS TO CRANFORD MAN

F. H. Crary Wins Special Cup and Three Sweepstakes—Big Field at Traps.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED

Woodland Avenue Shooters Hold Annual Meeting—Smith and Anderson Qualify for Holiday Cup—Honeyman Takes Home Trophy.

Despite the unfavorable weather, one of the largest fields of the season turned out for the holiday shoot at the Log Cabin Gun Club traps, Saturday afternoon. A. D. Honeyman and F. H. Crary, the latter of Cranford, won the special cups in the feature events.

The annual meeting of the club was held Saturday, the following officers being re-elected: President, David G. Weems; vice president, Samuel Huntington; secretary, Marion S. Ackerman; treasurer, Henry E. Butler; field captain, Harvey Fisk.

Although the dark day made good shooting difficult, some excellent scores were returned. In the event for the Take Home Cup, at 15 singles and 5 doubles, H. N. Fiske, of Cranford, and R. S. Gales, of Westfield, each broke 17, and U. G. Tingley, of North Plainfield, had a kill of 16. The trophy was won by A. D. Honeyman, with a score of 14, 5-19.

Two handicap sweepstakes at 25 targets were held, the total for the two strins counting for a special cup offered by C. E. Lipscomb. F. H. Crary, breaking 19 in each 25, lifted the mug, his handicap of 10 giving him a total of 48. H. N. Fiske had the best score. He broke 39.

William Palmer Smith, Jr., and N. Anderson qualified for the Holiday Cup. The finals will be decided later in the season, two men qualifying each holiday.

In the three 25-bird sweepstake handicaps, Crary won the first two and divided first money in the third with Huntington. He won the first after a shoot-off with Fiske.

A quail shoot was won by J. B. Yerkes. He broke 5 out of 10. M. S. Ackerman was second.

Mayor Calkins released each on his promise to leave the city at once.

EASTON IS BAD BUT PLAINFIELD WORSE

Poorly Played Basketball Game On the City High School Court.

Easton High School won at Plainfield High School Saturday afternoon, 26 to 21. Both sides played miserably.

Both teams were about even in the first half and showed rotten shooting and ragged teamwork all the time. Both quintets seemed unable to hold the ball.

Easton took a sudden brace in the second half, and for fear of getting tired they called time on three different occasions so they could rest. Sulkin, after remaining scoreless in the first session, developed a shooting streak that netted him five baskets in a few minutes. It was not until there was only three minues of play that Snyder and Dunham, who had entered the game, woke up to the situation, and with the help of a pretty basket by Kyle, tried to turn the tide of defeat, but with the visitors stalling for time, the locals' rally was stopped short by the whistle after they had made nine points in quick succession.

Sulkin and Lenniger tied with shooting honors at ten points apiece, but all but two of the latter's counts were made from the foul line. Snyder's entrance into the game was the signal for a P. H. S. rally, and he made two baskets himself, besides bracing the teamplay a lot.

P. H. S. SIX WINS ON N. P. H. S. GIRLS' COURT, TYING SERIES

Excellent Guarding of City Team Holds Borough Forwards in Check—Winning Forwards Good Shooting Fouls, Somerset Tossers Being Exceptionally Bad—Y. M. C. A. Favored for Deciding Encounter.

The championship aspirations of the girls' team of North Plainfield High School received a decided jolt Saturday afternoon in Saengerbund Hall, when the boroughites were defeated by Plainfield High School, 21 to 14, thus evening the series. The P. H. S. players displayed a brand of basketball ability which has not been in evidence this season, completely surprising thir opponents, who were expected to be easy victors.

Foul shooting was the element which contributed so materially to the success of the Red and Blue maidens. N. P. H. S. looked like a different team than the one that trampled on twelve opposing schools. The inability of the borough forwards to register free throws proved their downfall. Only six points were tallied in this manner in comparison with seventeen by the winning team. Both Captain Spencer and Marjorie Burtis lacked their usual confidence when given opportunity to shoot fouls, numerous chances counting for naught.

The ball was in N. P. H. S. territory practically all the time, credit being due to the fine guarding of the Misses Pennock and Bremble in checking the attack of the home forwards. The borough players outscored their opponents in field goals, four to two. In the last few minutes of play the N. P. H. S. sextet started a rally, showing a burst of their old-time form, but the attempt came too late to prove dangerous.

Considerable credit is due to the players on Plainfield High School for the decided brace shown since the last meeting of these two teams on the P. H. S. court. The fine foul shooting of Miss Irma Good was directly responsible for the victory, while the other four members of the quintet were also instrumental in contributing to the success of their alma mater. A total of 28 fouls were called on P. H. S. and five less on N. P. H. S.

Although no definite dates have been set as yet, the scene of the next conflict will probably be the Y. M. C. A. court.

Irvington Men Lose at Hope Chapel—Second Team Beats All-Stars.

In their return appearance on the Hope Chapel court Saturday night, the Men's Union League tossers from Irvington received a more decisive licking than they did in their first game on the Hope court, the score being 30 to 13.

Each team had eleven foul shots, but only five out of the 22 free throws were made, the visitors missing all but one. Jack Martin played the last ten minutes for Hope.

SEIZE ANARCHISTS IN BANQUET PLOT

Friends of Chicago Chef Believed Poisoners.

Chicago, Feb. 14.—With two men known as anarchists, friends of the fugitive University club cook, Jean Crones, seized and held by the police in the plot to poison more than 250 prominent guests at the banquet given in honor of Archbishop Mundelein and the revelation by a chemist that enough arsenic was mixed with the soup prepared by Crones to kill nearly the whole number, interest in developments of inquiries by local government officials did not abate.

In a raid on the rooms of Jean Allegrini and Pasquale Ligno, made at the order of Detective Chief Nicholas Hunt, letters bearing Crones' signature were seized by the police. They also endeavored to keep the arrests of the prisoners secret. Both Allgrini and Ligno were known to the police previously as anarchists. A New York anarchist's name also was obtained in the raid.

Health Commissioner John D. Robertson at the same time gave out the report of the analysis of the poisoned soup. It showed that, calculating from the quantity of white oxide of arsenic disclosed in the sample analyzed, exactly 480 grains of this deadly poison had been contained in the whole cauldron of soup.

STUDENTS FIGHT FIRE AT CORNELL

$400,000 Blaze Destroys Its Chemical Building.

STRUCTURE BURNS QUICKLY

Battle With Flames Waged Against Great Odds Because of Water Shortage and Zero Weather—Library and Chemicals Are Saved.

Ithaca, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Cornell university was visited by a fire that practically destroyed Morse hall, the home of the chemistry department. The loss was placed at $400,000. Research work the value of which could not be estimated was ruined.

Streams were played on the building for hours to save thousands of dollars worth of chemicals stored in the cellar. These chemicals were imported from Germany just before the war and cannot be duplicated now. Inadequate water pressure and zero temperature hampered the firemen.

The fire broke out in the photographic rooms of J. P. Troy on the third floor of the building. By the time the fire department reached the scene the entire third floor was a roaring furnace. Zero weather and snow chilled and retarded the firemen in reaching the scene, and when they arrived they found the water pressure not strong enough to force a stream to the second floor.

The university pumps were slow to get into operation, and even when working they failed to relieve the situation. As a result the building was doomed from the outset.

Some 300 students tumbled out of their beds at the sound of the alarm and soon established an efficient rescue brigade. Forming a long line, they removed 3,000 books from the library on the first floor, passing them from one man to another.

Department Records Saved.

They also removed all department records. Joe Ashmead, noted basketball guard, saved $1,000 worth of radium, and an assistant professor removed $2,000 worth of platinum from the building. The results of research work of years, however, were consumed in the flames, and a large quantity of highly valuable apparatus and chemicals in the laboratory were ruined.

Co-eds who were aroused from their beds in Prudence Risley hall, directly across Fall Creek gorge, hurried to the scene and served hot coffee and rolls to the firemen and student volunteers. Several score of junior week girls, with heavy wraps over their nighties, turned out to watch the blaze.

Besides the several hundred students specializing in chemistry, students in the College of Engineering and Agriculture are directly affected by the fire. Professor L. M. Dennis, head of the department, announced that reorganization would quickly begin.

Morse hall was built in 1890 at a cost of $133,000. Andrew Carnegie gave $60,000 in 1911 for an addition. The insurance amounts to $200,000.

VILLA STILL AT LARGE.

Believed He Will Not Attack Mormon Settlement.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 14.—Juarez admitted that it had no knowledge of the whereabouts of General Francisco Villa other than a general knowledge that he is somewhere to the southwest of that border town, a distance of about 250 miles. It was declared practically certain that Villa will not attempt to murder the 500 American colonists in the Mormon settlement 150 miles southwest of Juarez.

HEALTH WORK IS FAR FROM PERFECT

Survey Covering 219 Cities Shows It Is Still In Infancy.

WIDE RANGE IN THE COST.

Some Cities Spend Much More For Their Boards of Health Than Others. One-fifth of the Cities Make No Medical Inspection of School Children—Few Have Coherent Programs.

A comprehensive survey covering 219 cities of the United States having more than 25,000 population has been made of the activities of the health departments by Frank Schneider, Jr., of the department of surveys and exhibits of the Russell Sage foundation. His report is now being circulated by the foundation.

Mr. Schneider's conclusion is that public health work is still in its infancy, in some cities more than in others. He suggests a minimum expenditure per capita by the health departments. This should range from 50 cents to $1, according to the size of the cities. He has found that some cities spend as high as 98 cents per capita and others are content with 4 cents.

One-fifth of the 219 cities make no inspection of school children, he found; one-third did not offer the ordinary laboratory diagnoses for the commonest communicable diseases; one-fourth made no effort to educate in health matters; nearly three-fourths had no housing law; nineteen-twentieths had no concern with the hygiene of industry; one-half had no proper organization to combat infant mortality, and more than three-quarters had no coherent program against tuberculosis.

Efficiency Was Not Considered.

Mr. Schneider lays emphasis on the fact that his survey made no attempt to consider the efficiency of the work attempted, but only whether or not it was attempted.

"When we reflect on the partial thoroughness with which their slender staffs compel them to perform their work," the report says, "the conclusion becomes inevitable that public health work in this country is still in its infancy, certainly as far as application of established scientific methods is concerned.

"Another striking result of the investigation is the variation in activity exhibited by health departments in different sections of the country. The southern and Pacific cities clearly outrank the others, and the north central and mountain cities are markedly inferior.

"One other point should receive all possible emphasis—the relations between these examples of municipal neglect and the scanty health department appropriations. What can we expect of a department in a city of 25,000 whose total appropriation is but $200? And if the New York city department uses 58 cents for each inhabitant each year and has to practice great care to make it go round what can our average city do on only 22 cents? Again, do any real differences in local conditions require that Seattle spend 98 cents an inhabitant each year while Woonsocket may rest content with 4 cents?"

House Leader Called Upon to Lead Fight For Preparedness.

TRACKS ARE CLEAR FOR DEFENSE BILLS

Congress Leaders to Speed Wilson Legislation.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Congress is about to speed up on President Wilson's national defense bills. With the retirement of Lindley M. Garrison from the office of secretary of war there now appears to be a better understanding between the administration and leaders in congress on the question of preparedness.

Most of the "little navy" members have rushed to cover, and those who opposed the defense bills because of the continental army plan, which is about to be discarded, now exhibit a disposition to support the administration.

With the exception of the continental army provision it is expected in the absence of a flareup of some character the administration program will be passed by the house substantially as submitted by the president.

There are some details yet to be passed on, however, before the defense bills are started on their way to the senate. The most important is involved in the problem as to how revenues are to be raised to finance the defense program.

Estimates made in official circles show that if present plans are carried out something like $100,000,000 additional will be needed for defense. Whether this is to be raised exclusively by changes in the income tax law or a part in that way with some other form of taxation is one all important question up for decision by Chairman Kitchin and the other Democratic members of the ways and means committee.

ARRESTED AT PRISON GATE.

Convict Caught Twice at Leavenworth, Kan., as He Finished Terms.

Leavenworth, Kan., Feb. 14.—George Roberts, alias Pete Miller, alias Frank Hardy, when about to pass out at the end of his term at the federal penitentiary, was arrested and taken to Iowa on the charge of robbing a post-office. He pleaded guilty promptly and received another sentence of one year, which he finished.

Roberts was bidding his comrades farewell at the gate when Deputy United States Marshal J. M. Meyers arrested him again. He is now held on a similar charge.

HENS BETRAYED CONVICT.

He Escaped From Prison, but Was Caught When They Cackled.

Joliet, Ill., Feb. 14.—Noisy cackling of chickens led to the capture of Edward Roebeck, a life term prisoner who escaped from the Joliet penitentiary.

Roebeck went to the farm of Hugh Thompson and took a horse and wagon, but there arose such a noise in the hennery that Farmer Thompson hurried out in the yard to see what was the matter. Roebeck's capture followed.

LUSITANIA REPLY IS DUE THIS WEEK

Early Settlement Expected at National Capital.

Washington, Feb. 14.—Officials of the German embassy are expecting a final settlement of the Lusitania case before the end of the present week. By tomorrow or Wednesday at the latest the embassy expects word from the Berlin foreign office accepting the changes of phraseology in the agreement which Secretary Lansing suggested at his conference with Count von Bernstorff last week.

It is thought that Count von Jagow if he finds the changes acceptable may notify the ambassador by wireless to proceed to draw up the formal agreement and authorizing the ambassador to affix to it the name of the German foreign minister.

There is no apprehension in German quarters that the Berlin foreign office will hold up the settlement pending a determination by the United States of the course it will take in reference to Germany's announced intention of attacking all armed merchant vessels without warning after March 1.

In the first place, attention was called to the fact that the Lusitania correspondence in no way involves the question of an armed ship. Germany was left free to make the ruling that armed vessels are in reality auxiliary ships of war and are not to be considered as embraced in the assurance that passenger liners will not be attacked without warning.

NEAR PANIC IN CANADA.

Dominion Holds 14,000 Troops to Stop German Invasion.

Buffalo, N. Y., Feb. 14.—Although the Canadian authorities are maintaining secrecy, it is known that the Canadian border is bristling with armed men. At least 14,000 soldiers were on duty between Fort Erie, just across the river from Buffalo, and Lewiston, near the mouth of the Niagara river, or were held in reserve ready for any emergency. The Eighty-fourth Overseas battalion arrived from Brantford, Ont., and was assigned to duty along the border.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, FEBRUARY 14, 1916.

WELL, IT'S OVER!

One of our good friends said last week that moving a newspaper was an easy job. "All you have to do is put the things on a truck and move them." Had he been a good prophet, there would have been no happier persons than those upon whom fall the daily task of sending the Press forth. February 12, 13 and 14 are dates that will be forever visibly impressed on the minds of everyone connected with the Daily Press as ones that they hope need never be repeated. Failure on the part of out of town specialists to complete the work on the new front on time has necessitated our continuing the business office at 105 North avenue for a few days longer, but all other departments are safely housed at 193 North avenue, thanks to the fact that all local contractors on the job did as they promised. The big Scott printing Press is being used for today's paper and through the splendid service given by a group of employes from that company's works in this city it was ready for use in ample time. More will be said about the plant when the building houses all departments.

Our readers have been patient during the past week with service which we regretted being compelled to give them. From today forward we hope to be able to deliver the Daily Press at an early hour each night, well printed, and containing all the live local news of the day. It will be the plan of the publishers to continue to strive to condense the live happenings of interest to our readers in the least number of pages consistent with a complete service.

The Daily Press during the last four years has gone through more changes and improvements than any other newspaper in New Jersey. It has grown at a pace which has necessitated the installation of a press of nearly double the capacity of the new machine which was installed but four years ago when the present owners bought the paper. The support which has been given to us by the merchants and people of the city has exceeded our fondest expectations, and it is in appreciation of such support that we have made the many improvements and additions to our equipment as we enter our new home. We believe that the future presents a decidedly bright outlook. Our readers are the finest people in this hustling city, which has shown a substantial growth far in excess of nearly every other community in the State in the last five years. It has been the one ambition and desire of the Daily Press to serve the thinking people of Plainfield, and the whole-hearted commendations from all sides which come to us every day convince us that we are succeeding.

"A Plainfield paper for Plainfield people" will always be our slogan, and in using it we of course include those communities which immediately surround the city, where we have so many loyal friends.

As this is written machinery is being moved from one building to the other and carpenters, painters, electricians and machinists are working in all parts of the building striving to complete the task on which they have been working for the past four weeks. So ably have they gone thus far with their labors that we feel confident that nothing will occur to interfere with the successful sending out of a slight-ing will occur to interfere with the successful sending out for a regular edition today. But should there be delay, we can assure our readers that it is only temporary, and by tomorrow night the building, aside from the business office, will be in such shape that the publication of the paper will take its usual orderly course.

GARRISON'S RESIGNATION.

Another cabinet official has quit the Wilson administration. This does not necessarily mean that the ship of Democracy is sinking. The resignation of Garrison brings more forcibly to the people the fact that the nation is ruled by a "strong-minded" executive who intends to carry his own opinions to a successful or disastrous end, irrespective of the advice of those appointed as advisors. It is particularly unfortunate that Mr. Garrison should have quit at this time—we think quit, with all its suggestion, is a proper word. To insist that he fought and died for his continental army plan is idiotic. Whatever his differences with Wilson, the fact remains that his limited experience and his meagre knowledge of the war administration is needed now. Congress has rejected his proposal to raise a citizen army of 400,000 men, but its members have not yet agreed upon the proper plan to pursue in increasing the army, and Mr. Garrison could have used his influence to good advantage both to the administration and to the country. Mr. Garrison is the second to desert Wilson in a crisis. The other has found no vindication of his resignation in the public mind, and Mr. Garrison cannot expect more kindly acceptance of his act.

Mayor Calkins will find all Plainfield solidly back of him in his crusade against drunkenness in public places. The streets are no place for intoxicated men. If there is a place for drunks it is in the saloons, although the saloonist may not agree. The same building that houses the cause should give shelter to the effect. Men who drink, or those of them who attempt to defend the open saloon, argue that prohibition laws infringe upon the unalienable rights of American citizenship, in that they deprive some men of liberties. They are among those who, when full of liquor, take up the whole sidewalk, curse loudly irrespective of the presence of women, and annoy friends and acquaintances in their drunken imbecility, even when they are not committing violence. If Mayor Calkins can pursuade or force them to remain off public streets and away from public places, when drunk he will win a great victory for law and order.

In planning a new bridge across Newark Bay, the New Jersey Central is but carrying out its long-established policy of making improvements before patrons of the road realize that they are really needed. The old wooden structure is antiquated, to be sure, but it is yet safe, and but few of those who ride to Plainfield and other commuting centers daily from New York realized the imperative need of a new bridge. However, experts of the railroad have recommended that a new steel and concrete structure be built and the Jersey Central will begin work on it early in 1917. Such a progressive policy deserves more than passing consideration from those who have daily use of railroads.

To Charles H. Frost, publisher of the Plainfield Courier-News, and his efficient corps of assistants, we wish to thus express our heartfelt thanks for the great help which has been offered and given the Daily Press during the period of moving. The use of certain kinds of machinery which it was necessary for us to dismantle prior to leaving the old building was imperative, and the Courier-News has willingly gone to much inconvenience in order to help us out.

You can make your task of "buying for the home" either a very irksome one or a very interesting and pleasant one. A habit of ad-study will make it ALWAYS INTERESTING and always full of ECONOMY POSSIBILITIES.

The Hickeyville Clarion

Mr. Lemuel Hilliker is here from the West to visit his brother, Mr. Ame Hilliker, proprietor of our general store also codfish, ice cream and notary public. Lemuel has not been able to visit his brother here in nineteen years, as he has been in the penitentiary for that length of time.

Anso Frisby, our well-known banker, is expecting to become a benefactor soon by presenting his home town with a fine hearse.

Grandma Whipple, who has been in ill health for twenty years, is very poorly at the present writing, and is only able to do light work, such as driving the road grader for the township. It is feared that she will not linger in our midst very long.

Mr. Hen Hans, the popular an efficient station agent at the railroad depot, informs us that the trains will now be only two hours and forty minutes late, instead of three hours, as formerly.

More Fishy Stuff.

Czar Nicholas of Russia is said to be very fond of fish of any kind. Have a salt mackerel Nick.—Charlie Leedy in Youngstown Telegram.

Yes, have our share, Nic. We feel about salt mackerel as Jack Warwick, of the Toledo Blade, feels about cherry pie. No fish is better than salt mackerel.—Judd Mortimer in Houston Post.

Don't carp, fellows.—Jack Warwick in Toledo Blade.

Noise.

The loudest brayin' mule is not
The one that hauls the load.
The quiet one just buckles in
And yanks it 'long the road.

The loudest soundin' oatmobile
Ain't always got most power;
The quiet runnin' gas machine
Plugs 'long hour after hour.

The loudest band is not the one
We like the best to hear,
And it is not the one that makes
Sweet music to the ear.

The feller with the gift of gab
May make a splurge and yet
The quiet feller is the one
On whom you want to bet.

BULGARIA SEEKS SEPARATE PEACE

Overtures Made to Allies, Athens Says.

GERMANS CLAIM BIG GAIN

Capture 700 Yards of French Positions and 200 Prisoners In Champagne. Driven Back In Counter Attack, Paris Reports—Fierce Fighting With Hand Grenades.

London, Feb. 14.—Bulgaria is seeking a separate peace with the allies, according to Athens dispatches. The dispatch stated the correspondent obtained confirmation of the report in entente circles at the Greek capital.

The story is generally doubted here and could not be confirmed officially.

The Athens correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphed that he had learned from two good sources that all of the Bulgarian forces are retiring from the Macedonian front and are going to the Roumanian frontier. He added that German troops are replacing the Bulgars in Macedonia.

This news, together with other important factors, tends to dispose of the story concerning Bulgaria's alleged overtures for a separate peace.

Bulgars Gained Object.

Those inclined to believe the story point to the fact that Bulgaria has achieved the one purpose for which she admittedly joined the central powers—the conquest of Servia. It is also pointed out that the difficulties between Bulgaria and Greece have been growing ever since the Bulgarian army reached the Greek frontier, where, together with the Austro-German and Turk forces, she menaced Saloniki.

During the last few weeks there have also been frequent reports concerning a serious disagreement between Bulgaria and Austria over the spoils of the Balkan campaign. It is to this disagreement that many correspondents and military observers have ascribed the apparently indefinite postponement of the drive on Saloniki and the failure of the Bulgars to push their invasion of Albania to the Adriatic coast.

Champagne Battle Center.

German attacks of varying intensity made at many parts of the French and British line, from Belgium to the Vosges, have caused great activity on the western front. The attacks ranged from minor encounters between reconnoitring parties armed with hand grenades to assaults preceded by extensive artillery preparation and carried out by considerable bodies of troops.

The most vigorous of these offensives were in Champagne and in the region north of Arras, where there had been constant fighting for days.

The greatest gain claimed by the Germans was made south of Ste. Marie-a-Py, in Champagne, between St. Souplet and Somme-Py, according to the report from Berlin. Here the German official statement claims the capture by storm of 700 yards of French positions with 206 prisoners.

The French communique said that the Germans gained a foothold in some sections of the advanced trenches east of the road from Tahure to Somme-Py. These two references may refer to the same action, although it would appear that the French statement referred to operations somewhat further to the east than the Germans.

Five Attacks Near Arras.

Five separate assaults were made in the Vimy sector, north of Arras. Four of the attacks failed, the Germans succeeding in the fifth attempt in penetrating the French positions west of Hill 140, but were driven out again by a counter attack, so that the series of assaults resulted in no gain.

The German offensive extended as far north as Boessinghe, north of Ypres, where the Germans announce the capture of forty British prisoners.

At Frise, west of Peronne, a German grenade attack was checked; German detachments to the north of Vic-sur-Aisne got as far as the French entanglements, when they were checked by artillery fire. Further to the east, between Soissons and Rhims, the German attack reached French trenches near Crouy, but a counter attack drove the Germans back again. Five successive counter attacks by which the Germans sought to recover the positions recently lost by them northeast of the Butte-du-Mesnil were repulsed.

A SLIP UP OF HIS OWN MAKING

- Proctor's Theatre -

It is a delight for theatre-goers of this city to know that they can always enjoy an excellent afternoon's or evening's entertainment amid refined surroundings at Proctor's playhouse. This is the home of the famous triangle plays and Fox features and in addition the home of refined vaudeville entertainment. Today and tomorrow the management will present a stirring dramatic production entitled "The Missing Links," in which two well-known and popular stars assume the leading roles, Norma Talmadge and Robert Harron.

Today, tomorrow and Wednesday, Sam Bernard, the popular Broadway comedy star, who recently made his appearance here in "The Great Pearl Tangle," is seen in his second Triangle comedy entitled, "Because He Loved Her," a Keystone farce that provides thirty minutes of hilarious fun without a semblance of coarseness. On Wednesday and Thursday the second Fox feature will be shown. It is the greatest newspaper story ever written, entitled, "The Fourth Estate," and was produced at an enormous expense, a big Chicago newspaper plant being hired especially to provide an atmosphere of realism.

The vaudeville entertainment provided for the first half of the week includes a delightful playlet entitled "The Glorious Fourth" and is presented by Elliot, Fawcett and Fleming. Jack Burdett, the famous rapid-fire cartoonist and free-hand artist, will provide fifteen minutes of refined amusement, while Nan Harding will entertain with several piano and song selections. There will be four acts in all beside the Triangle play and the Keystone comedy, providing a variety entertainment unequalled in any city for the price. "The Red Circle" will again make its appearance on Friday and Saturday afternoon will be set aside as usual for the entertainment of the children, each child receiving a handsome toy. "The Strange Case of Mary Page," the new Essanay serial, with Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo in the leading roles, will soon make its appearance at Proctor's as an added feature.

'WATCH YOUR SNEEZE' LATEST COMPAIGN

Seventeen Cities and One State Are Now Enlisted In the Movement.

Seventeen cities and one State, through their health departments, are now enlisted in the "Watch your sneeze" campaign recently started by the New York Association for Improving the Condition of the Poor. New York was the first city to enlist, and Florida the first and thus far the only State to mark the crusade with its official approval though in Connecticut a state-wide campaign is also underway through the activities of the Connecticut Research Association. The other cities are: Baltimore, Pittsburgh, San Francisco, Colorado Springs, Amsterdam, Bridgeport, Plainfield, Lynchburg, Schenectady, Paterson, Poughkeepsie, Pueblo, New Britain, Pasadena, South Orange, Jersey City and Sacramento.

"Information is the only ammunition we need in this fight," sail Philip S. Platt, who is directing the effort, "and the only information needed is the one simple fact that unsmothered sneezes spread diseases. Preparedness is easy in the anti-sneeze campaign. 'Have a hanky handy.' That is all there is to it. We do not ask people to stop sneezing, but what we do as is that they sneeze into a handkerchief."

The wide distribution of the poster stamp bearing this advice is the first step in the campaign in each city. In New York the second steps are the display of posters in department stores, milk stations, schools, clinics and other public places and the use of illustrations in the theatre programs.

BRUTAL MURDER OF OLD COUPLE

Pair Killed on Lonely Farm by Negro.

TO HOLD INQUEST FRIDAY

Robbery Motive of Crime on Lonely Hunterdon County Farm — Slayer Confesses as He Is Threatened With Lynching—Captured on Mountain by Posse.

Flemington, Feb. 14.—A coroner's inquest into the deaths of Howard J. Wyckoff, a feeble man of eighty years, and his housekeeper, Miss Catharine A. Fisher, seventy-eight, who were brutally murdered at East Amwell by James Hoagland, an eighteen-year-old negro, will be held Friday in the courthouse. Hoagland, according to the authorities, confessed the crime after he was threatened with lynching by a mob that accompanied the posse that found him in the woods a short distance away from the scene of the crime after an all night search.

When Hoagland reached the jail it was with difficulty that the sheriff held him from the hands of a mob of enraged citizens who demanded immediate vengeance. He will be given a quick trial, it is the belief.

Both of the victims were cripples. For years they had lived alone on the mountainside. Their farmhouse was three-quarters of a mile from the road in the midst of one of the wildest sections of New Jersey.

Twice each week they were visited by William H. Wyckoff, a distant relative of the farmer, who brought them food and provisions. Wyckoff found the body of the man on a lounge. It was still warm. There was no trace of Miss Fisher.

County Detective Elmer Hann and other officials hurried to the scene. While searching the barn Hann saw a pool of blood on the floor. Nearby Miss Fisher's body was discovered beneath a pile of hay.

Because of the snow that covered the ground every movement of the murderer could be followed. His trail was picked up as he approached the farm. He evidently hid behind a tree until Miss Fisher went to the barn and then stealthily followed her. She had been struck down with a heavy iron bar.

Returning to the house, the murderer picked up an ax from the floor. Because of his infirmities Wyckoff was unable to make an attempt to save himself.

The murderer then searched the house at his leisure. A mahogany strong box containing about $60 had been ripped open and its contents taken.

The murderer, it is believed, was frightened away by the other Wyckoff. His footprints were followed for half a mile. Behind a clump of bushes a bloody pair of jumpers was found. The trail continued to a narrow mountain path, where all trace was lost.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson Now Plan to End Days Together.

Hackettstown, Feb. 14. After a separation of more than thirty-two years Mr. and Mrs. Caleb Johnson were reunited.

"Our separation was the folly of young life," said Mrs. Johnson. "We were but children when married. It is our intention to end our days happily together, regretting the years spent apart. It was the heart's desire of our children that we become reunited, and our resolve is a mutual one. I am sure we shall be happy together."

PUT STOMACH IN FINE CONDITION

Says Indigestion Results From An Excess of Hydrochloric Acid.

Undigested food delayed in the stomach decays, or, rather, ferments the same as food left in the open air, says a noted authority. He also tells us that Indigestion is caused by Hyper-acidity, meaning, there is an excess of hydrochloric acid in the stomach, which prevents complete digestion and starts food fermentation. Thus everything eaten sours in the stomach, much like garbage sours in a can, forming acrid fluids and gases which inflate the stomach like a toy balloon. Then we feel a heavy, lumpy misery in the chest, we belch up gas, we eructate sour food or have heartburn, flatulence, water-brash or nausea.

He tells us to lay aside all digestive aids, and, instead, get from any pharmacy four ounces of Jad Salts and take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast and drink it while it is effervescing, and, furthermore, to continue this for a week. While relief follows the first dose, it is important to neutralize the acidity, remove the gas-making mass, start the liver, stimulate the kidneys and thus promote a free flow of pure digestive juices.

Jad Salts is inexpensive and is made from the acids of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia and sodium phosphate. This harmless salts is used by thousands of people for stomach trouble with excellent results.

THE COAL SITUATION

The coal situation is commanding serious attention. Many of our customers are anxiously asking our opinion from day to day.

We do not pretend to know more than the other fellow, but we do not intend that our customers shall suffer if there is a coal shortage, and we are therefore keeping our bunkers filled to overflowing with the domestic sizes of coal.

This is only another evidence of our desire and ability to serve our patrons.

WANT CITY TO SHARE CHARITIES

Monday Afternoon Club Urges More Co-operation in Local Welfare Work.

REVIEW OF ACTIVITIES

C. L. Stonaker, State Secretary of Charities, addresses Women on State and County Problems"—Dr. Krans Also Speaks.

At the meeting of the civic section of the Monday Afternoon Club held yesterday afternoon in the parish house of the Congregational church, Mrs. James M. Charles led a discussion in regard to the city's responsibilities to "Our Public Charities." Various agencies of the town were represented and in every case emphasis was laid on co-operation needed by the city council with the work of these organizations. It was reported that the nursing bureau requires $4,000 a year for its expenses, of which the city pays but $500. Muhlenberg Hospital's running expenses are about $6,000, of which the city pays but $3,500.

The Open Air School and Tuberculosis Clinic each receive an appropriation of $500 yearly, and school books for the former. The sentiment of the meeting was strongly in favor of the city's taking a generous part in the welfare work carried on by the various charities.

Dr. Krans introduced the subject of various diseases stating that they were peculiarly dangerous to the welfare of the community and especially as to those less able to help themselves. During the meeting the civic section put itself on record as upholding the ten-hour working law for the women of New Jersey.

The lecturer for the afternoon was C. L. Stonaker, secretary of the State Charities Aid Association, who spoke on "State and County Problems." He strongly favored a county hospital, a place where those permanently incapacitated could be cared for instead of being sent to the alms house, and particularly urged the need of getting rid of county jails where men serve out sentences in idleness.

"OUR NATIONAL PARKS" SUBJECT OF LECTURE

Robert G. Weyh, Jr., Will Give Interesting Talk at the Plainfield High School.

Robert G. Weyh, Jr., will appear in the High School auditorium on Thursday night under the auspices of the Board of Education Free Lecture Bureau. Mr. Weyh will be most favorably recalled to mind by the large number of Plainfielders who heard his remarkably interesting lecture last year when his address, "The Panama Canal," was given. The subject Thursday night is "Our National Parks," and the interesting verbal descriptive story of the speaker will be suppleemnted by numerous beautiful pictures.

There are but two more lectures in the series after the one on "Our National Parks." B. L. Baumgart will lecture on "The Romance of Man" on Thursday evening, March 9, and the final lecture in the series will be given on Thursday night, March 30. John C. Welsh will lecture on "The Army and Navy, Our National Defence on Land and Sea." The public is most cordially invited to attend thees lectures and urged to keep in mind the dates as listed.

GOING TO CONVENTION.

Henry M. Maxson, superintendent of the city schools, has arranged for a special D., L. and W. train to convey the superintendents of the schoolsof New England, New York and New Jersey to Detroit, where the national convention of school superintendens will be in session throughout next week. The train will leave New York at 2:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon.

WATCHMAN ASSAULTED.

Somerville, Feb. 15.—John Dupko was arrested today for assaulting John Malik, night watchman for the Rubber Refining Co., at East Millstone early today. The accused, it is said, attempted to settle a grudge by attacking the watchman with a knife. Malik was slashed across the left eye and forehead.

AUTO CATCHES FIRE.

An automobile belonging to H. M. Stockton, of Central avenue, caught fire yesterday afternoon shortly after it had been placed in the garage. A telephone alarm was sent to fire headquarters, but before the apparatus arrived volunteers had pushed the car out into the yard and extinguished the flames with ashes. The damage was slight.

CLASSMATES ATTEND WM. WHITE'S FUNERAL

Impressive Services Are Held at the Late Home This Afternoon.

In the presence of a large gathering of relatives and friends the funeral of William I. White, whose death occurred suddenly Saturday through an attack of heart failure, was held this afternoon at 2:30 at the home of his mother, Mrs. George F. White, of Willow avenue. Delegations were in attendance from the Probasco Bible Class, of which he was a member, and the Plainfield Trust Company, where he had been employed since the first of the year. Rev. Dr. Philip B. Strong, pastor of the First Baptist church, was the officiating clergyman.

During the service two of Mr. White's favorite hymns, "Crossing the Bar" and "Abide With Me," were sung by William Holmes. The floral tributes were unusually numerous and beautiful, a number of them being large set pieces presented by the Probasco Bible Class, the Alpha Sigma Fraternity of the Bordentown Military Institute, the officers of the Plainfield Trust Company, the young man's business associates in the clerical department of the same institution.

Burial was in the family plot in Hillside cemetery; the pall-bearers being Hubert O. Fox, of Mt. Vernon, N. Y., a class mate of Mr. White's at Bordentown; Gay Hartley and Earl Pierson, of the Probasco Bible Class; P. H. Phillips and Levis Ayers, two close friends, and a representative from the Bordentown Military Academy.

INVITATIONS ARE ISSUED FOR Y. M. C. A. BANQUET

Invitations have been issued for the annual dinner of the Y. M. C. A. to be held on Thursday evening, February 24. Besides an unusually good dinner, some interesting reports of the association activities for the past year will be presented. Fred B. Smith, of New York, will make the address. He was formerly at the head of the religious work department of the international committee of the association. He was also the prime mover in the Men and Religion Forward Movement a few years ago.

It is expected that every senior member of the local association will be interested in hearing the reports and listening to Mr. Smith's address. The committee in charge of the banquet comprises F. O. Dunning, Dr. O. B. Whitford and William D. Murray.

EARLY MORNING BLAZE DISCOVERED AT DUNELLEN

A mysterious fire was discovered about 8 o'clock this morning above the rear foundation of the untenanted M. A. Gallagher house on Washington avenue, Dunellen, the blaze starting between the weather boards and the plastering at a point where the dwelling joins Mr. Gallagher's brick building and Heaume's grocery.

Fortunately, the fire produced a large volumie of smoke which attracted the attention of Philip Pfeister, who was working nearby. He accompanied by C. T. Voorhees and E. R. Smalley, whom he summoned, hurried to the fire house, procured a couple of chemical extinguishers and quickly put out the blaze before it had a chance to spread.

FALSE ALARM.

James T. Egan, of 212 Grove street, was engaged this morning in thawing out a frozen water pipe in the cellar of his home with rags and hot water. The borough firemen responded with truck No. 2. The words with which the firemen expressed their feelings on their way back to headquarters through the intense cold will not be printed here.

EXPERTS HERE TO SURVEY THE CITY

Municipal Workers of New York Bureau Ready to Begin Work.

MAYOR MEETS THEM

Probe Will Not be an Investigation of Department Heads—All Men Have Had Wide Experience and Will Benefit City.

Herbert R. Sands, C. J. Driscoll and C. D. Benson, representatives of the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, were in Plainfield this morning and met the heads of departments at Mayor Calkin's office. The work is to begin at once. Mr. Sands will be in charge of the survey of the department of finance; Mr. Driscoll, of the departments of public safety, and Mr. Benson, of the street department. In explaining the purpose of the survey Mayor Calkins said today:

"It should be understood that the survey is not an investigation. The city has merely invited experts, who have on their files all the facts relating to the business methods of other cities, to come to Plainfield and get the exact facts as to our methods; and then point out how we could get the same results at less cost or better results at the same cost.

"Plainfield is doing business by the same methods that were employed when the city was half its present size. In the meantime there has been a great advance in the science of municipal administration. The methods of successful private business have been applied so as to eliminate waste and unnecessary expense. Municipal business machinery has been standardized. The survey now going on has as its object merely the presentation for our consideration of these recognized standards.

"The experts who are to be engaged here have had wide experience.

"Mr. Sands is a graduate of Wheaton College and of Washington University; also has a certified public accountant's degree from the University of the State of New York. He was a special agent of the United States Census Bureau on the Financial Statistics of Cities, and not only traveled throughout the United

BEGIN RELIGIOUS CANVASS MARCH 9

Class in Evangelism is Formed With Rev. Dr. B. S. Hudson as Leader.

About sixty men and women were enrolled last night at the first session of the class in personal evangelism under the leadership of Rev. B. S. Hudson, in the Y. M. C. A. building. This class is part of the preliminary work of the Biderwolf Evangelistic Campaign, and its object is to prepare personal workers for the service they will render in that campaign. Dr. Hudson explained the importance of this kind of work and gave some general directions and suggestions. He warned against being drawn into argument over the inconsistencies of church members, or apparent contradictions in the Bible, that so many who are approached will be quick to bring up, but urged the workers to stick close to the point in question as illustrated in Jesus' query to His disciples, "What think ye of Christ?" Nor are eht personal workers to attempt to teach dogma or theory. "Leave all that to Dr. Biederwolf," said the leader, "and just hold up like a plumb line the perfect character of the Master."

Dr. Hudson at next Monday night's session will consider the various excuses generally given for not avowing personal allegiance to Christ, and will show how all these objections may be answered with Biblical references.

The class is open to men and women and will meet every Monday evening from 8:00 to 9:00 for the next six or seven weeks.

The canvassing committee of the Biederwolf Evangelistic Campaign, with Rev. Evarts C. Conover, the chairman in charge, has been organized. The seventeen districts will be supervised by the following: E. W. Hughes, J. VanDeventer, Edward Baker, Jr., A. W. Vars, C. H. Griffen, P. J. Minton, A. W. Dunavan, J. Henry Crane, F. H. Andrews, Fred Cutter, Charles Conover, W. J. Conroy, W. W. Randolph, George Leighs, A. E. Sweetman, Arthur Humble and Robert Love.

The taking of the census will begin on Sunday, March 9. It is officially announced that the camfpaign will open here on Sunday, April 9, in a tabernacle especially built for the occasion.

TAPS SOUND FOR CAPT. WM. HAND

Lights Are Out After Life of Service to Country, Community and Friends.

VETERAN OF CIVIL WAR

Served Entire Four Years and Was Repeatedly Promoted for Gallantry—Leading Figure in G. A. R. and Civic Life.

News of the death of Captain William Hand, which occurred in Westfield at 2:45 yesterday afternoon, conveyed a profound shock to his thousands of friends in this city. Without any exception he was one of the most highly-respected residents of Plainfield and one who stood as a living example of the patriotism that existed in the days of the Rebellion and who sought to keep that instinct uppermost in the minds of the younger generation. To all appearances he was enjoying the customary robust health that had been his good fortune for a lifetime when he left his home at 215 Jackson avenue at 2 o'clock to visit at the home of Edward E. Townley, a close friend since his youth. A few minutes after reaching the Townley residence at 638 West Broad street, he complained of a pain about the heart. Before a physician could be summoned the fatal attack was upon him and he fell back lifeless.

A hurry call was sent for physicians and Doctor R. G. Savoye responded. The latter declared that death had been instantaneous, the apoplectic symptoms being plainly apparent. The physician added that the exertion of walking from the trolley car on which he had ridden from Plainfield, coupled with the extreme cold had probably brought on the attack. The body was removed to Plainfield late in the afternoon and taken to the home of his daughter in-law, Mrs. Margaret Hand, of Jackson avenue, with whom he lived since the death of his wife six years ago. The funeral service will be held there Thursday afternoon at 2 o'clock and will be in charge of Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Scotch Plains Baptist church, where he attended service. Burial will be in the family plot in the North Plainfield cemetery, where full military honors will be accorded by Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of which he was one of the charter members, and up to the time of his death one of its most energetic

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

Says Backache is Sign You Have Been Eating Too Much Meat.

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it generally means you have been eating too much meat, says a well-known authority. Meat forms uric acid which overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and logged. When your kidneys get sluggish and lag you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells, your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is a life saver for regular meat eaters. It is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink.

It has been announced by the Newport News Drydock and Steamship Building company that the new superdreadnaught Pennsylvania, which is to be the flagship of the Atlantic fleet and which is 4,000 tons larger than the largest ship of the dreadnaught type ever built for the United States, will leave Newport News for her builders' trials at once. The Pennsylvania is now about 97 per cent completed and if necessary can be made ready for active service within a few weeks.

Powerful as are the new superdreadnaughts Oklahoma and Nevada, the future flagship of Admiral Fletcher is superior to these vessels not only in size, but in armament, for she carries a main battery of twelve fourteen-inch guns as against ten of the same caliber in the main batteries of the Oklahoma and the Nevada. These ships are of 27,000 tons displacement, whereas the Pennsylvania displaces 31,400 tons.

Twenty-one Knots an Hour.

The Pennsylvania's contract calls for a speed of 21 knots, but it is the hope and expectation of her builders that she will exceed that speed by at least a knot. The Oklahoma, which under her contract was required to make 20.5 knots, exceeded 22 knots in her recent trials off the Maine coast.

A little more than 200 yards from the spot where the Pennsylvania is receiving the finishing touches is the Hilder-Dempster liner Appam, captured by a German raider and brought to Newport News as a prize of war by a German crew from the raider. When the Germans got into Newport News the first vessel that they saw was the magnificent new battleship. Lieutenant Berg, the prize commander, and his men did not hesitate to express their admiration for the mighty fighter, which American naval officers declare is to be the equal in battle efficiency of any vessel of the all big gun type afloat.

An idea of the power of the Pennsylvania may be had by a comparison of her broadsides with those of other first line battleships of the dreadnaught type now in the Atlantic fleet or soon to be added to it. The present fleet flagship, the Wyoming, fires from her main battery of twelve twelve-inch guns a broadside of projectiles that weigh about 10,100 pounds. The New York, the flagship of the First division of the fleet, like the Oklahoma, fires from ten fourteen-inch guns a broadside weighing 15,000, whereas a broadside from the twelve fourteen-inch guns of the Pennsylvania will weigh 18,000 pounds, just nine tons.

Looks Like the Oklahoma.

In appearance the Pennsylvania is much like the ships of the Oklahoma class. Like them, she has a single funnel and has her main battery guns mounted in four turrets. In the Oklahoma the guns are mounted three in two turrets and two in the remaining two turrets. There are three guns in each of the Pennsylvania's turrets, which are placed two forward and two aft.

The Wyoming is 554 feet long, the Oklahoma is 575 feet, and the Pennsylvania is 600. The Wyoming has two twenty-one-inch submerged torpedo tubes, whereas the Pennsylvania, like the vessels of the Oklahoma type, has four twenty-one-inch torpedo tubes.

The Arizona, building at the New York navy yard, is a sister ship of the Pennsylvania, but will not be ready for her trial trips until several months after the Pennsylvania is ready to be turned over to the government. It is expected that the Pennsylvania, Oklahoma and Nevada will all be added to the fleet at about the same time. This will necessitate an almost complete realignment of the first line vessels.

The Oklahoma and the Nevada, New York, Texas and present fleet flagship Wyoming are expected to compose the first division, the second division being made up of the Arkansas, Utah, Florida, Delaware and North Dakota, which will give the Atlantic fleet, for the first time in its history, two complete divisions of dreadnaughts.

POSITION OF U. S. MISUNDERSTOOD

England and France Think America Puts Dollar First.

LONDON AND PARIS VIEWS.

Returning Correspondents Describe How We Are Looked Upon Abroad. Average Man Thinks All Americans Are Chasing Money and For This Reason Want to Keep Out of War.

There is a revelation for the people of America in what the people of England and France think of them in relation to the war.

The United States has been so concerned for several months by its misunderstanding with Germany that few people have given much thought to the nature of our relations with other countries. The status of official relations, of course, is fairly well known, but few realize the actual sentiment in the allied countries.

Ed L. Keen, a London correspondent, and William Phillips Simms, a Paris newspaper man in Washington on vacation, made the statements given below.

Mr. Keen says:

"It is evident that America misunderstands England almost as much as England misunderstands America in this war.

"An American returning from England for the first time since the war started cannot fail to be amazed at the lack of appreciation among his fellow countrymen of the determination of the allies, and particularly that of England, to push the war relentlessly to a victorious conclusion at any cost and any sacrifice.

"It's like the surprise of the first time traveler to Europe when he finds that the people of the allied countries are not overflowing with gratitude for the material support given by the American munition makers.

"It may be a shock to some folk on this side to learn how prevalent throughout the allied countries, and especially in England, is the idea that the only reason we are keeping out of the war is that we can make more money by not coming in.

"It is not merely the anti-American newspapers that label us 'dollar chasers.' In official circles a more sympathetic view is taken, but the public at large apparently is convinced Uncle Sam is prepared to swallow any 'insult to his honor' rather than relinquish this unprecedented opportunity of lining his pockets with European gold. They don't hate us exactly. The feeling ranges rather from pity to contempt, according to the individuals questioned.

United States Misunderstood.

"Such misapprehension of America's attitude finds its parallel here.

"'Aren't the allies about ready to quit?' 'Do they really think they have a chance to win?' These questions are asked in all quarters in the United States. Rumors have spread broadcast that one or more of the allies are seeking separate peace; that any one of them would be willing to listen now to terms less onerous than they would have imposed a year ago.

"I can state most positively that so far as England is concerned peace at present is out of the question. This assertion is based not only on the statements of cabinet members and other public men, but upon persistent inquiry among the common folk.

"The pro-peace element in England is a negligible quantity, confined to a few irreconcilables who have opposed the war from the start and who are practically without influence.

"John Bull today is more determined than ever to see the thing through, and he is better prepared. He has quit speculating on the length of the war and has got down to business. He is not worried over what he regards as merely temporary successes of the enemy. He is confident he will win, and he would resent most bitterly any interference by outsiders."

French Do Not Comprehend.

Mr. Simms, the Paris man, says:

"Between France and the United States there exists a strange misunderstanding. Neither country appreciates the state of mind of the other nor grasps the full significance of what the other is fighting for.

"This is one's impression following a trip through the east, west and south, made to get in touch with home conditions after being with the allies in France since the beginning of the war.

"While officialdom seems to appreciate America's position fully, the Frenchman in the street says, 'Americans are patient.'

"You know by the way he says it that he thinks the United States stands for peace and making lots of money at any price; that the country is rolling in wealth, making and selling munitions, and that in order to keep this state of affairs going the nation will balk at almost nothing, that with Uncle Sam dollars count before ideals, big business before prestige.

"President Wilson in his western speeches made it plain that Colonel House or some of his other pulse feelers in Europe had found this same thing true of Europe in general.

"On the other hand, one discovers few Americans who seem to realize the deadly earnestness of the French."

ARETHUSA HIT BY A MINE; TEN KILLED

British Cruiser That Destroyed Bluecher Lost.

London, Feb. 15.—The British cruiser Arethusa struck a mine off the east coast of England, according to a statement issued by the British official press bureau. The text of the official statement said:

"His majesty's ship Arethusa, Commodore Reginald Y. Tyrwhitt, has struck a mine off the east coast. It is feared she will become a total wreck. About ten men were lost."

The Arethusa had not been forty-eight hours out of the hands of her builders before she was called upon to take part in the naval battle off Helgoland, Aug. 28, 1914, in which three German cruisers, the Mianz, the Koeln and Ariadne and two German torpedo boat destroyers were sunk.

It was a torpedo from the Arethusa which struck the battered German cruiser Bluecher and sent her to the bottom in the great North sea battle between British and German squadrons on Jan. 24, 1915.

Paris, Feb. 15.—Three hundred and seventy-four lives were lost when the French cruiser Admiral Charner was sunk off the Syrian coast. Dispatches confirming the loss of the cruiser said that only one man out of 375 aboard was saved.

KITCHIN AGAINST DEFENSE PLANS

House Leader, Defiant, Will Lead Fight.

HAS AN AID IN ADAMSON

Denies Report That Move Is on Foot to Depose Him Owing to His Hostility Toward Administration Program For Preparedness—Bill Is Being Drafted.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Foes and supporters of the administration are beginning to line up for the battle which will soon be fought out on the floor of the house.

At the same time the pacifists were not silent. Some declared that the continental army plan having been discarded it was not to be assumed that any plan for a huge navy would be put through without opposition.

Incidentally Representative Kitchin assumed an attitude of defiance in the face of reports that his colleagues were conspiring to oust him from the leadership of the majority party.

"There is not a word of truth in the statement that there is a movement on foot to depose me as majority leader," announced Mr. Kitchin. "I have been on the floor of the house all day and not a single member has intimated such a thing. I am not in the least embarrassed about reports that such a movement has been started. I was one of the first to oppose the continental idea. I am not going to vote for the naval program as now proposed, nor would I have voted for the army plan. I am opposed to four battleships and to the five year program. I will vote for neither one."

Stands by Kitchin.

Representative Adamson of Georgia, one of the Democratic war horses of the house, said he would stand by Mr. Kitchin. He did not explain whether this meant that he shared Mr. Kitchin's views on the naval program. Representative Hamlin of Missouri, who has been wavering on preparedness, said he would be with the president.

Representative Henry of Texas, another of the majority party leaders, said he would support an increase in the army and navy, but uttered a warning against saddling the country with a crushing debt to build the greatest navy in the world. He continued:

"When congress convened in December the approved program from the war department was for a large continental army and compulsory military service in time of peace. This plan did not receive my sanction. I will not vote for either.

"I have no objection to recruiting the regular army up to the strength now authorized by law. We should provide for whatever officers and reserve officers are needed. Our coast fortifications and navy should be adequately increased. The national guard should be increased and strengthened by federal aid. All these things probably will be reported to congress by the military affairs committee as our program and thus authorize adequate preparedness.

Against "Greatest" Navy.

"As to a navy, I am opposed to making ours the greatest in the world. The greatest navy in the world would cost more than $5,000,000,000, and $1,000,000,000 annually to maintain it. America should have no ambition for this crushing burden. In another year England will be staggering under an indebtness of $10,000,000,000. Let us avert such a calamity to our country.

"Whatever is necessary in submarines and battleships and other craft to give us an efficient defensive navy shall have my support. I will do everything in my power to aid the president in securing adequate preparation to defend our country."

The pacifists, in spite of the disaster that has overtaken the continental army plan, were also belligerent. They are not content with the defeat of the Garrison plan, but will direct their attacks against a large navy increase as well.

The senate committee on military affairs began the actual work of drafting a bill to enlarge the efficiency of the army in conformity with the general preparedness policy of the administration.

MINISTERS IN RIOT.

Call For Billy Sunday Starts Free For All Fight.

Syracuse, N. Y., Feb. 15.—When the Syracuse Ministerial association met there was almost a free for all fight as an aftermath to the Billy Sunday campaign. The Rev. D. J. Macines, Presbyterian minister, demanded the expulsion of the Rev. Dr. Frederick W. Betts, a Universalist preacher, claiming he had impugned the motives of the ministers in bringing Billy Sunday here. Pandemonium followed.

EIGHT DEATHS IN STORM.

Mercury Drops to 1 Above Zero In the Metropolis.

New York, Feb. 15.—The temperature dropped to 1 degree above zero, thereby registering the coldest St. Valentine's day experienced here in the last forty-four years. Six persons died as a result of the cold weather, and two more were killed in an accident resulting from the storm and a number were injured.

POLICE PROBING HARRISON DEATH

Man's Body Found With Neck Broken.

ARM WAS ALSO FRACTURED

Discovered In Hallway of Rooming House Where He Had Lived Ten Years—Proprietor's Son Surprised When Injuries Were Detected at the Morgue.

Newark, Feb. 15.—The police are investigating the death of Richard Ferris, who was found dead in a Harrison rooming house with his neck and right arm broken.

The man had occupied a room there for over ten years. The body was found within a few feet of the door of his room. What led to the fatal injury is not determined.

The body was found by Gilbert Jacobsen, a son of the proprietor of the rooming house. It was said that another son had passed the spot about an hour previous and saw nothing of the man. According to Gilbert Jacobsen, the body was still warm when discovered. None of the other occupants of the house could be found who had seen Ferris when he was going toward his room. The body was partially dressed.

The discovery that the man's neck and arm were broken was not made until the body had been removed to Condon's morgue in Harrison. When told of the finding of the fractures young Jacobsen expressed surprise that the man's neck was broken, but stated that since living at the house Ferris had suffered fractures of the arm several times. He stated that the man was a heavy drinker.

Ferris was employed as a crane hand at the Harrison plant of the Worthington Pump works. As far as can be ascertained he was unmarried. According to Jacobsen, he had said he had a mother in Australia.

GETS TROUSERS FOR FOE.

British Air Man Who Lost His Gets New Pair Through German Courtesy.

A new illustration of the amenities of warfare as observed by hostile air men is given in a letter from a German aviator on the western front.

This aviator participated in a combat in which a Britsh aeroplane was shot down and one of the aviators killed. The second was uninjured in person; but, in landing, his trousers were irreparably damaged.

The survivor, the German letter writer says, was so distressed that the German aviator mounted an aeroplane and dropped a note into the British lines. An hour later an English flyer appeared, returning the call, and dropped a bundle containing new trousers for his compatriot.

HOW JEWISH RELIEF FUNDS ARE EXPENDED IN EUROPE

Committee Tells of Its Work In Various Zones of War.

How the millions of dollars raised by the American Jewish relief committee are being distributed among the Jewish war sufferers in the various countries of Europe is shown in a preliminary statement issued by the committee. The statement has been compiled as an answer to inquiries as to the manner of distribution and the reliability of the persons co-operating with the committee in the war zone.

Russia has so far received $1,085,000 of this money, the amount having been sent through Kuhn, Loeb & Co. to the Azov Don bank of Petrograd for the Jewish Colonization association. The money has then been turned over to the central relief committee of Petrograd, which is composed of 100 representatives of the Jewish community there. Before the evacuation of Russian Poland, Lithuania, etc., by the Russian troops the relief was distributed through the 600 co-operative societies established by the Colonization association in the various towns and villages. These societies had been serving the Jewish people as savings and loan associations and were well adapted to the distribution of relief.

To Germany, German Poland, etc., $500,000 has thus far been sent to M. M. Warburg & Co. of Hamburg and has been expended under the direction of Das Juedische Hilfskomite fuer Polen.

Maximillian Paul Schiff is acting as the personal representative of the American committee in Vienna, and $430,000 has been sent to him. He has distributed this amount in co-operation with the Israelitische Allianz zu Wien. The American committee has already sent to Palestine $469,243 for general relief and $5,000 for soup kitchens in Jerusalem and contributed $90,508 toward provisioning the U. S. S. Vulcan, which was sent out to Palestine as a food ship last March. Until recently all funds were forwarded to Dr. Arthur Ruppin, head of the Palastina-Amt at Jaffa, who distributed the money among various local committees. The funds are now being sent to Dr. C. A. Glazebrook, United States consul at Jerusalem. The actual work of distribution is being done by local committees jointly designated by the three American relief committees and the provisional Zionist committee.

NEW STYLE BATHING SUITS.

Either the Laws or the Skirts Must Be Revised, Say Critics.

Next summer when Susie, the beach fairy, comes tripping out in her new bathing suit, which will be mostly absent and considerably skin tight, the beach censor will either throw a fit or wear blinders.

The Chicago fashion show has displayed some of the new beach togs. The beach law rules that the skirts must terminate not less than three inches above the knee. The law or the skirts will have to be revised next summer. Three inches below the hips would be about right, say the fashion builders.

A form fitting jersey and a wee bit of a skirt about the size of a candle shade are to be all the rage—and about all Susie will wear.

Miss Helen Thompson, of this city, sang a solo at the patriotic service for men at the Y. M. C. A. Sunday afternoon. Her selection was "My United States."

Richard E. Davis, of 435 West Second street, is detained at his home by illness.

GRAPHIC PICTURE OF WAR

merite Carpenter, Louise Earle, Kathryn Bomann, Elizabeth Burke.

Mme. de Rancongne, clad in the regulation uniform of khaki which he donned when in company with two other young women—one French and one American—they voluntarily entered the work of relieving the wants of the soldiers in the trenches of the Allies, described in graphic word pictures many incidents in her work. The speaker, who is the daughter of M. Phillippe Bunau-Varille, commander of a regiment of engineers in Champagne, told in fluent English of that portion of Belgium as yet uninvaded by the enemy, and where King Albert still holds domain.

It was in this section, on the border line of France, that Mme. de Rancongne did most of her relief work, carrying food supplies, hospital needs and comfort bags to the men. In October, 1914, she arrived at Calais, and saw the thousands of wounded brought there each day in immediate need of medical attention. Railroad stations for the first few days were congested, but after a short time accommodations were secured, and the work of relief started. The next big item that loomed up before the authorities was the question of clothing and hospital materials for the men who had been fighting, and many of them retreating for weeks. Armed with permits which allowed them the privilege of going wherever they wanted, the three women undertook to supply the necessary articles, and each day found them doing some work for the soldiers, and bringing, by auto convoy, necessities from Paris. During the Christmas season the women distributed thousands of Christmas kits, filled with necessaries dear to the heart of every man, for which they received the grateful thanks of each recipient. In each bag was a letter from the sender, conveying to the entrenched soldiers the knowledge of the sympathies of all those left at home.

Mme. de Rancongne drove her own supply automobile while at work, and on more than one occasion passed under exploding shell fire from the German Zeppelins. During one of her trips she had the opportunity of witnessing a German air raid. The enemy were met by twenty English aeroplanes. After an engagement, which resulted in about an equal loss of life on each side, the Germans were repulsed. She also told of the narrow escape of the whole city of Calais when a shell was dropped from a Zeppelin on a consignment of dynamite which had only been received a short time before in the city. The entire amount exploded and caused much damage.

One of the features of the work of the women was the establishing of milk stations, where mothers with their children could get nourishment for their babies. One of the doctors reported to her that out of every hundred new-born babies, 80 per cent. die of lack of proper nourishment.

Both Mme. de Rancongne's husband and brother are prisoners of war, the former being in captivity for sixteen months, while the latter was taken some time later. Her husband was in a regiment of 500 men which was fired on by the enemy. All but eighteen of them were wounded or killed, and those eighteen surrendered. In the latter squad was Mme. de Rancongne's husband. Her brother, who was an aviator and possessor of two medals, was brought down by the firing guns of the Germans.

Speaking of the widespread German atrocities, Mme. de Rancongne said she could not vouch for them, inasmuch as she herself had never seen any committed, although she had heard from numerous sources of their cruelties and inhuman treatment of the Allies. In one churchyard she had visited there were eight hundred graves, and of this number 500 were women and children, all bearing the same date—a significant fact, she said.

Following her talk, Mme. de Rancongne showed a number of views taken in the war zone by herself, and also ran a war motion picture which was given her by the French Government. Concluding her talk, she appealed to the generosity of local people, and that if they wished to give some small donation to the relief of these stricken people they could either send a check to Miss Hartridge, or clothing to Mrs. Wallace, of Hillside avenue.

TAPS SOUND FOR CAPT. HAND

supporters. The members of the Post will meet in the Post rooms at 1 o'clock in order to proceed to the home in a body.

Captain William Hand was a native of this vicinity and had resided in or directly near Plainfield all the seventy-eight years of his life. He was born on Terrill road, near Two Bridges, in 1838. His father was William Hand and his mother, Nancy Terry, the latter being a member of an old New Jersey family. At the time of her marriage her parents resided on Rahway road. The place where Captain William Hand was born was on a portion of a big farm which his father owned and which was located along Terrill and Cushing roads, many of Netherwood's newer streets having been cut through it. The attractive ground on which Truell hall stands was a part of it. Beside William Hand, there were five other boys and two girls in the family. The only ones now living are David Hand, of Berckley avenue; Hezekiah Hand, of Front street, Scotch Plains, and Mrs. A. L. Jimerson, of Maple avenue, the borough. Those who died previous to Captain Will Hand were three brothers—Thomas, Henry and John Hand, and Mrs. Mary Gillen—all of whom will be recalled by older Plainfielders.

Captain William Hand, like his brothers and sisters, received an elementary education in the old Jackson school house, on Terrill road. It was in this building that Arthur Brisbane, chief editorial writer for the Hearst publications, studied his first lesson. David Hand taught the Sunday school held in the building, and Mr. Brisbane was one of his pupils. Directly after quitting school, William Hand opened a saw mill and brickyard business on Mountain avenue, back of the present Sheppard estate. This he conducted until the outbreak of the Civil War, disposing of it a few months after the attack on Fort Sumpter.

When President Lincoln issued his call for 300,000 volunteers on July 7, 1862, the young Plainfielder was one of those who responded and as a member of Co. B, Eleventh New Jersey Volunteers, he made one of the most notable records of any soldier going out of this county. He was in twenty-eight battles, many of them the most severe conflicts of the war, yet he emerged with only one wound, a ball penetrating his foot at Gettysburg. He returned home in vigorous health that remained with him until the end of his days.

At the time the President asked for the additional troops, 400 volunteers had already been enrolled and the nucleus of the regiment was bivouaced at Camp Perrine, near Trenton. William Hand was mustered in on August 11, 1862, to serve for three years or until the end of the war. With him at the time were many other Plainfield boys, of whom only a few are now surviving, among them being Fire Chief T. O. Doane, John Goodwin and Thomas B. Titsworth. A telegram from the war department called for five regiments of infantry from New Jersey, and in compliance equipped, organized and officered August, 18, 1862. The mustering in was conducted by Llewellyn Jones, Major First Cavalry, U. S. A. The regiment left New Jersey, August 25, 1862, with William Hand listed as sergeant, and reported at Washington with 979 men. The regiment was first attached to 1st Brigade, 2nd Division, 3rd Corps, of Sickle's division and took part in the following battles, all on conquered soil: Fredericksburg, December 13, 1862; Chancellorsville, May 3-4, 1863; Gettysburg, July 2-3, 1863; Waffing November 8, 1863; Locust Grove, ber 29, 1863; The Wilderness, May 5, November 27, 1863; Mine Run, November 29, 1863; The Wilderness, May 5, 1863; Spottsylvania, May 8-11, 1864; Spottsylvania Court House, May 12, 1864; North Anna River, November 23-24, 1864; Talopotomy Creek, May 30-31, 1864; Cved Harbor, June 1-5, 1864; Barker Mills, June 10, 1864; Before Petersburg, June 16-23, 1864; Bolton, July 30, 1864; Mine Explosion, July 30, 1864; North Bank of James River, August 14, 1864; Reams Station, August 25, 1864; Fort Sedgwick, September 19, 1864; Poplar Spring Church, October 26, 1564.

On October 13, Hand was promoted to be a second lieutenant of Company I, 11th New Jersey Volunteer Infantry for gallantry in action.

After his promotion he took part in the following engagements: Boydston Plains, October 27, 1864; Fort Morton, November 5, 1864; Hatcher's Run, February 5-7, 1864; Armstrong House, March 25, 1865; Capture of Petersburg, April 25, 1865; Amelia Springs, April 6, 1865; Farmville, April 6, 1865. Lieut. Hand was present at the surrender of all of General Lee's armies at Appomattox, Virginia, April 9, 1865.

His company was mustered out of service on June 6, 1865, and on June 13, 1865, although not in actual service, he was promoted to be first lieutenant commanding Company F, Eleventh New Jersey Volunteers, in recognition of gallant services.

Following the close of the war Capt. Hand came immediately to Plainfield and engaged in the trucking and storage business. It proved successful from the start and in a short time the name of William Hand was known throughout the state as a synonym for heavy trucking work of the most difficult kind. In after years he took his two sons, Recorder Fred W. Hand, of the Borough of North Plainfield, and the late Frank Hand, into partnership. Frank Hand died about fifteen years ago. Since then Capt. Hand and his son have continued the business under the firm name of William Hand and Son.

It was probably as a Grand Army man that Capt. Hand was best known to many Plainfielders. He was a charter member of Winfield Scott Post, and he was always active in everything that it has done. He was a leading factor in the memorial day parades, the annual reunions and all social affairs.

States in connection with that work, but also made a field study of European cities. He has also been with the United States Audit Company and the Fiscal Audit Company.

Mr. Driscoll was First Deputy Police Commissioner under Mayor Gaynor, and was Commissioner of Weights and Measures during part of the Gaynor administration. He has participated in the survey of the New York Police Department and its recent reorganization.

Mr. Benson has been in active engineering work and is a graduate of Columbia University. Since joining the staff of the Research Bureau, he has made reports on various problems connected with public works in New York; also on the highway survey for Essex county, N. J., and has acted as efficiency expert for the public works departments of Grand Rapids, Mich.; Buffalo, N. Y.; Stamford, Conn.; North Adams, Mass., etc.

While the above named will be in active charge of the field work in Plainfield they will have the co-operation and aid of other experts connected with the bureau in an advisory capacity. For example, Mr. Sands will have the benefit of advisory service from J. H. Clowes, the chief accountant of the Bureau of Municipal Research. Mr. Clowes has had a wide experience, having been educated at the Central Foundation School of London, and also King's College, London University. He received training in accounting and served five years under a founder of the Institute of Chartered Accountants of England and Wales.

Mr. Benson in his work for the street department will be assisted by William A. Bassett, a civil engineer. He was an instructor in the Carnegie Technical School; an assistant engineer for the Boston Elevated Railway. Mr. Benson will also be assisted by Raymond W. Parlin, a graduate of Massachusetts Institute of Technology. He was a contracting engineer for the Washington County Water Co., Hagerstown, Md.

DID NOT PREPARE AND PAYS $10 FINE

Man Who Took One Cartridge to Kill Horse Guilty of Cruelty.

A lack of preparedness on the part of Tony Gavlo, employed by Theodore Glazer, yesterday cost Glazer $10. He sent Tony out a week ago last Thursday to bring back a horse to be used in making fertilizer. Tony had a pistol with which to shoot the horse, although this was in violation of city law. He only had one cartridge, and when he found that he was unable to get the animal to the fertilizer factory in South Plainfield under its own power, he fired the one cartridge.

The bullet struck the horse in the head, inflicting a fatal wound, but one that did not kill instantly. Tony waited for the horse to die, but the animal would not, so he put a rope around its neck and started to drag it behind his wagon to South Plainfield. The spectacle of the bloody, kicking horse attracted much attention, and Tony was arrested. Mrs. Van Hoesen, agent for the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, prosecuted him on a charge of causing needless pain.

Patrolman Martin Welsh testified that he had found it necessary to put three bullets into the horse after he was called. Mayor Calkins fined Tony $10. The money was paid by Glazer, who declared that Plainfield could get somebody else to carry off its dead animals in the future. He has been doing this for the fat from the animals' bodies.

EDWIN PIERSON.

Edwin Pierson, aged 87 years, a resident of Fanwood township, died in Muhlenberg Hospital yesterday afternoon. He had been at the institution since February 10, undergoing medical treatment. His nearest relative is a nephew in Montclair. The body was taken in charge by Undertaker Brown, of Westfield.

MRS. MARY SMITH.

The funeral of Mrs. Mary Smith, who died in Soho, Sunday, will be held from the undertaking parlors of Casey & Son tomorrow afternoon, at 2:00, and at 2:30 from the Mt. Zion church. Rev. E. E. Roberts will be in charge. Interment will take place in Hillside cemetery. Mrs. Smith is survived by four brothers and four sisters, several of whom live in this city.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, FEBRUARY 15, 1916.

THE MUNICIPAL SURVEY.

A survey of municipal departments and works which is to be started today should result in much of value to those entrusted with the affairs of the taxpayer. Mayor Calkins was particularly fortunate in securing the most competent of the experts working under the New York Bureau of Municipal Research, and Plainfield will have the advantage of the best advice on such subjects that it is possible to secure.

These men, despite their wide and complete experience, work with no authority except as investigators. They will report to the Mayor and Council, who know the city's needs and who must decide which of the experts' suggestions can be fitted to the peculiar local conditions. The New York Bureau of Municipal Research is not conducted for profit but it is endowed by men of large means who are ducted for profit but is endowed by men of large means who are interested solely in the public-spirited enterprise of advancing the science of municipal government. This enables the bureau to attract to its organization men of wide practical experience in government, who are paid adequate salaries, largely from the endowment fund, and the charges for surveys are therefore only nominal amounts. In no other way would it be possible to get such service at so small an expense.

The project is to be begun on the sane principle that Plainfield wants a government suited to its revenues and the needs of its people, and not the ideal management of a theorist, who dreams of a perfect city; and if it is carried out on this plan much real good will result. Mayor Calkins, President Blatz and members of the Council who will receive the report of the experts and adopt it to Plainfield's needs are practical, level-headed men, and there is little fear of their being carried too far in the matter of municipal reform.

THE PASSING OF A SOLDIER.

In the death of Capt. William Hand, one of Plainfield's oldest and most honored veterans of the Civil War is stricken from the roll of those who risked all and gave much to preserve the Union in the dark days of the '60's. Capt. Hand was a man who was not too proud to fight for his country and his people, even for the erring brothers of the South who, for a few short years, sought to dissolve the union of states and rob the flag of some of its brightest stars. His example of heroism and sacrifice is but one of the countless individual offerings to the present glory of the United States. They fought four long and bloody years that we might enjoy an honorable peace.

The heroes of the Civil War to whom we owe national strength, national honor, even national life, are dying fast now. But few are left to receive the reverence of grateful children; and it is a pity that any should have lived to look upon a people so foolish as to ignore the greatest lesson of our history. If every man who served four, three or even two years in the service of his government during the Civil War had given six months to military training before the war, the struggle would have been ended within three months. That all the glorious sacrifices of that war, all the shedding of blood on both sides, after the first few months, was useless, has been known by its heroes for years. When will those for whom these sacrifices were made learn the lesson? As a result of the war between states we have a monumental mountain of human bones—the skeletons of the finest men in the land—and it stands to national unpreparedness.

While we publicly and privately pay to Capt. Hand the tribute that is due him, which is much, both as a soldier and a citizen, let us remember that he would have us prepare—that we owe him and all who fought with him a debt that can never be paid except that we prepare so that his country and ours may always enjoy peace—the honorable peace for which he fought.

SERVING THE PEOPLE.

Because public officials are laggard in determining the exact condition of the books of a late office-holder in Union county, an Elizabeth daily newspaper, The Times, has employed a certified accountant who will make a careful survey of the office and will report impartially on the result of his investigations. This is an advanced step in journalism, but one clearly within the duty of a newspaper—which is to get facts that concern the people and present them truly and clearly. None of the interested parties can object to the procedure. When one public official is called upon to account for the stewardship of a former colleague who can no longer defend his name or his record, there is always the danger that his work will be influenced by personal motives. It is but fair to the widow of the former official that this work be done by a purely disinterested party, and we know of no better insurance against injustice than to have the work done by an established newspaper like the Elizabeth Times. In conducting the investigation this paper is truly serving the people.

President Wilson has until March 1 to decide what attitude this country shall take on the new rules of submarine warfare as dictated by Germany and announced by Austria as well. The proposition that merchantmen who go armed shall be torpedoed without warning is a revolutionary one. Germany is not asking for the opinion of this country in making the startling announcement. The Kaiser simply declares his intention and warns innocents to beware. It must be received with the same firmness. There can be no middle ground. President Wilson must agree that it is war to sink merchant ships without warning, irrespective of their intentions, or he must declare it an inviolation of all laws of civilization and humanity. The latter course means a diplomatic break with Germany; the former endangers our relations with England. Truly it is a perilous time for one who is both president and candidate.

Jitney owners in all of New Jersey are fighting for existence in Trenton this week. They insist that the Kates' Bill will put an end to their business and, while admitting to liability for license and for bonds sufficient to insure the public against injury from irresponsible persons, they refuse to submit to legislation drawn and ordered by the street car corporations. This charge has not been proven, but the fact that "Boss" Dalrymple and his gang is behind the Kates' Bill is sufficient evidence to warrant careful investigation. Members of the legislature will do well to consider the protests of the jitney drivers seriously before taking action on the bill effecting their business.

A New York State woman refused a legacy of $40,000 on the ground that her uncle made it "immorally." We are not criticizing her, but 40,000 one-dollar bills would cover up a lot of black spots on anybody's record.

According to the last Federal census there are 101,208,315 people in the United States. It is said that 328 are not in a "receptive mood" concerning the presidential nominations.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

Leap Year.

Beware, ye merry bachelors,
And widowers forlorn,
This year your doom is sounding,
Your safety's laughed to scorn.
It is the season fateful,
And small use 'tis to rail,
When the female of the species
Pops the question to the male.

For three years men are choosers,
And pick the maids to wed,
And maids must be contented
If they are left, or led
Unto the marriage altar;
But with the fourth the frail,
Weak female of the species
Leads the weak and trembling male.

"Woman's game, and man's the hunter."
Say conventions of the race;
But in leap year this reversed is
And the man pursuit must face,
Or run for life and freedom,
While she camps upon his trail;
For the female of the species
Is much sharper than the male.

Y. W. C. A. MILESTONES OR CONTRASTING YEARS

Thirty Years Ago.
1886-1896.

Thirty years ago mothers first began to think about the needs of younger girls for recreation, entertainment and interesting study, and in Poughkeepsie, N. Y., in 1886 the first Y. W. C. A. work to meet this need was started. It was called the Girls' Branch of the Young Women's Christian Association, and instead of being especially adapted to the needs of little girls, it was modeled after the grown-up organization.

In 1886 the Student Volunteer for Foreign Missions was organized. It is administered by an executive committee made up or representatives from the student departments of the Young Men's and Young Women's Christian Associations of the United States and Canada.

The first Student Association building was occupied in Philadelphia in 1886.

In this year also the National Association of the Young Women's Christian Association of the United States (later known as the American Committee) was organized by representatives of nine State associations at Lake Geneva, Wisconsin. Headquarters were established at Chicago.

The "Young Women's Christian Association Quarterly," the first national publication, was launched in 1888.

The first traveling Association secretary, Miss Nettie Dunn, of Hillsdale College, Michigan, began work as general secretary of the National Committee.

In 1887 the first State secretaries were called—Miss Nellie Knox to Ohio, and Miss Ida Schell to Iowa.

Self-government clubs were first organized in Baltimore in 1887 by Miss Grace Dodge.

Travelers' Aid work was definitely organized and the first secretary called in 1887.

The first national gathering of secretaries met at Bloomington, Iowa, in 1889.

In 1889 branch associations began to be formed in large cities for the convenience of the members.

Today.
February 15-21, 1916.

Today 138 association have organized work with a membership of 18,168 girls under the trained leadership of young, energetic, imaginative young women, who love younger girls, know their needs and how to hold their interest.

Over 6,500 volunteers have sailed for mission lands since 1886.

Seventeen Student Associations now have buildings; 401 others maintain rooms.

Today the national headquarters of the Young Women's Christian Associations of the United States is located in an eleven-story building at 600 Lexington avenue, corner Fifty-second street, New York city.

The publication department of the National Board was organized in 1907. Since that time its budget has grown from $10,000 to $43,000. It is not only a publishing house, but a book store, selling its own publications, allied works of other publishers and a few importations. It maintains a permanent bookstall at headquarters and a gift shop during the Christmas season. It runs a bookstall at all conferences and does a large mail order business.

There are now 114 national secretaries, many of whom travel in the interest of the Association work, and fifty-two of whom have their headquarters in New York. Sixty-two of these national secretaries are on the staffs of the field committees.

The Federation of Industrial Clubs is ow organized in twenty-six cities; 116 other clubs are not yet federated. The total industrial enrollment is 16,239.

Eighty city association now have Travelers' Aid work. This is soon to be organized as a non-sectarian national movement. In 1915, 247,831 persons received aid.

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

The vaudeville and picture prgram will be resumed at the Plainfield Theatre this afternoon after a one-day break occurring in the appearance of Billy Watson's Beef Trust Company, and Manager Shannon announces the following excellent bill for today and tomorrow: Margo's Mannikins, a novelty offering and one that is sure to please young and old; Brunnel and Wilcox, singing and dancing comedians; playlet, "The Girls and the Judge," presented by a selected company; Smith and McGuire, comedians, with real comedy; LeRoy and LeRoy, acrobats; Bert and Harriett Brown, singing, talking and dancing, and a midsummer musical breeze, entitled "The Mountain Maids." The last number brings a big company, most of them pretty and shapely girls, who present twenty minutes of fine singing and dancing, backed up by handsome costumes and electrical effects. Every Wednesday night is "Japanese Night" at the Plainfield Theatre, and every Friday is "Country Store Night." On both these occasions many beautiful and costly gifts are presented to patrons absolutely free. Everybody has a chance to get one, as no partiality is shown in making the awards. Beside the seven splendid vaudeville acts, the program each afternoon and night, when legitimate attractions are not booked, at the Plainfield includes feature photoplays and one and two-reel comedies. The performances are given at 2 in the afternoon and 7 and 9 o'clock at night. Keep in mind that the testimonial to Dave Rogers, the popular treasurer of the theatre will be given on Tuesday night, February 29, the "Golden Crooks Extravaganza Company," with Billy Arlington as the attraction.

The Libebrty Girls' Company, headed by Jack Conway, the versatile character comedian, will be an attraction at the Plainfield Theatre. There are few, if any, traveling organizations that can boast of as many entertaining and interesting features as are offered by this company. Besides a travesty on Planquette's famous comic opera, "The Chimes of Normandy," there will be a ten-scene, three-act musical melange entitled "Manless Isle," written and staged by Jack Conway. This duo of musical oddities will furnish abundant fun, while the music is of that lively, swinging variety that compels one's feet to beat time to its rhythm. The costumes and scenic display will be exceptionally lavish, many of the gowns in particular being types of the latest creations. As a comedian, Jack Conway is favorably known throughout Ameica, and this season his work is considerably enhanced by the assistance of Tom Welch. Others in the company are such well known artists as William Petrie, a clever straight man; Sam Bachen, German comedian; Jack Kerns, Jerry O'Donell and Thad Perry. Among the female members are Etta Joerns, Kathryn Dickey and Annie Ross. There will be several vaudeville features offered by the Daring Sherwoods, sensational aerialists; the Bohemian Comedy Four and others.

TO PRESENT TWO PLAYS.

The Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue church will give their annual entertainment on Friday, February 18 at 3:15 o'clock. The class will present two plays: "Puck's Pranks" and "A Ring of Salt."

POSTAGE STAMPS

Study Their Backs and You May Come Across a Prize.

TWO CLASSES OF MARKINGS.

One of These Is Accidental and the Other Is Intentional, but Either Adds to the Interest of the Specimen—A Curious Nicaraguan Issue.

It really is interesting to study the things which may be found upon the backs of stamps. One might group these into two classes—accidental and intentional. In the first class would come "double printings" and "offsets." In this instance by double printings we refer to those stamps which were accidentally printed upon both sides of the paper. These are very rare. By offset we mean where too much ink was used or the sheets laid upon each other while too wet, so that the color from the face of one sheet came off on the back of the one next to it.

These double impressions and offsets are found in the surcharging of stamps as well as in the original printings. Offsets are comparatively common and vary very much in intensity of color and completeness of design. In the early stamps of Great Britain the color of the stamp has changed the gum, or perhaps the paper, to a beautiful blue, and, as there was little or no color on the portrait in the design, this head appears in white upon a blue background on the back of the stamp. This is called an "ivory head" and is very interesting.

Before we take up the matter of what is intentionally placed on the backs of stamps we might say that the paper upon which such stamps are printed usually shows best from the back. It may, of course, be either thin or thick, white or colored partially or completely through. It may have silk threads here and there like the United States revenues first issues on silk paper or silk all through like the later issue (1873) revenues, or it may be "granite" paper, like certain stamps of Austria, Switzerland and Japan. Again, there may be embedded in the paper silk threads running the whole length of the sheet, as in certain issues of Bavaria, Wurttemberg and especially Switzerland, where threads of many colors may be found.

In considering what is intentionally placed on the backs of stamps we notice first the gum. This can easily be found in many shades—white, yellowish brown, dark brown, pink or rose. Some of the old German states especially have a fondness for pink gum.

The second thing to look for, intentionally placed on the backs of stamps, is something in the nature of a protection against cleaning or counterfeiting. Under this head would come grills or embossings. Excellent illustrations of these are found on our own stamps and again in those of Peru. Watermarks, while not placed on the backs of stamps, show much more plainly there and may be included in one's collection of "backs."

As a protection against counterfeiting, one may call attention to the numerals upon the backs of the early issues of Greece, for there are many errors and varieties to be found in these old Grecian stamps. Mexico protects some of her stamps by printing across the backs a line of blue moire, an irregular arrangement of curved lines. Sweden about 1886 commenced printing on the backs of her postage stamps a small blue picture of a post horn. This practice was continued some years.

As a protection against counterfeiting and also as a means of identifying stolen stamps Spain employs a set of serial numbers. The postoffice department keeps a list of the numbers on the backs of the stamps shipped to every postoffice, so that if one of these is robbed the authorities know and can identify, if found, the stolen stamps by the numbers they bear.

Thirdly, we consider those stamps where the printing on the backs was intentional, but placed there for other reasons than to prevent counterfeiting. In some respects these are the most interesting of all. We wish to call attention to three special instances. Portugal in 1895 issued a series of stamps commemorative of the seven hundredth anniversary of the birth of St. Anthony of Padua. There are four designs in the series. But what interests us in this connection is the curious fact that upon the back of each stamp there is printed in tiny blue letters a Latin prayer. This series was also surcharged for use in the Azores.

When we study Nicaragua we are bewildered by the multiplicity of surcharges, especially after about 1900. But in 1911 matters came to a very bad pass. There were no more postage stamps, so the government took some revenue stamps, already once surcharged, and upon the backs of these revenue stamps printed a surcharge which made them good for postage. So here are revenue stamps with postage stamps on their backs, or postage stamps with surcharged revenue stamps on their backs. Either way they are very interesting. There were three values—5, 10 and 15 centavos—so made. New Zealand furnishes us another type of interesting backs. Here we find a canny postoffice department coining an honest penny by selling the space upon the backs of its stamps for advertising purposes. The stamps of the issue 1882-91 may be found telling the merits of breakfast foods, patent medicines, soaps, etc. A complete collection would contain a good many varieties. We do not know how many.—St. Nicholas.

THE PRESS' SPECIAL OFFER TO PLAINFIELD

THIS is one of our big achievements, of which we are justly proud. Every reader of this paper—yes, every family in the city and in its environments—can this year enjoy either of these two nationally famous magazines, or both of them, with this paper, for but little more than the price of the paper alone. These two great magazines with approximately 1,500,000 subscribers, are known and loved the whole country over. At 15 cents a copy, $1.80 a year—$3.60 for the two, purchased by the month—they are unquestioned leaders in their respective fields.

How We Did It

We went to the publishers of these magazines and told them about this city. How its population has increased! How its wealth has increased! How its trade has increased! How its bank clearings have increased! We showed them how desirable it was for them, and for their advertisers, that they should have a large circulation here! Then we showed them how this paper was the one paper in this city to make this offer, and how we knew that the citizens of this city would welcome this opportunity enthusiastically.

Woman's Home Companion

Splendid Serial Novels Woman's Home Companion is famous for the excellence of its fiction, particularly its full-length serial novels. There will be at least four novels this year, by Margaret Deland, Fannie Heaslip Lea, and others of equal power. Hundreds of thousands will later pay $1.50 each for them, when they are published in book form, but readers of Woman's Home Companion will have had them first.

Fifty Splendid Short Stories By distinguished authors whose work you are always eager to read, will fill the pages of the Companion. Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, William J. Burns (the great detective), Zona Gale, Mary Heaton Vorse, Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, Grace S. Richmond—these are only a few of the popular favorites whose stories will appear during the year.

The Finer Things of Life Inspiration, ideals, culture, the things that lift us above the commonplace and the monotony of living—these have an important place in the program for 1916. The Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson has prepared a series of intimate sermons for the Companion family on the duties and privileges of family life and the real meaning of family ties.

Laura Spencer Porter will help those who love pictures and want to know the best. Anne Bryan McCall, in The Tower Room, will continue her popular department for girls.

The New Fashions The new ideas, the chic touches that distinguish the smartly dressed woman of Fifth Avenue will always be found first in the Companion. Grace Margaret Gould, the Companion Fashion Editor, keeps her readers in constant touch with the great creators of fashion in Paris and New York.

For the Little People The Cherubs are coming! The cunningest, funniest little people you ever saw—drawn and versified by Olive Rush. Also stories, puzzles and prizes, plays for school and nursery, plans for kites, aeroplanes and boats, doll dressmaking lessons—all kinds of things to interest and amuse the little Companion readers.

Helpful Home Departments The Companion is famous for its practical departments. Every month it offers new ideas for cooking, for serving, for entertaining, for fancy work. Hundreds of ideas every month! Practical, resourceful ideas. Companion readers find these departments most valuable.

The American Magazine

aims to be, and is, a magazine for the whole family to share, each with the other—full of the new things, the interesting things, this month, next month, every month!

John Sharp Williams
Ray Stannard Baker

These, and scores of other favorites, will contribute the timely and interesting articles, the stories, the striking illustrations, the departments. You will find The American Magazine always full of the things you are interested in; the things you want to read about.

The Effect of the War on America The New industries have been created; old industries have been given new life; new cities have sprung up full-sized in a month; men have become millionaires over night—these are some of the effects of the war on America. These articles tell a wonderful story of problems met, difficulties overcome, and successful achievement. They give a splendid, true picture of the war industries, the war fortunes, and the men that made them.

Being Better An intensely interesting series of practical, first-hand articles about the Retail Business, Real Estate, Advertising, Selling, and other important lines of business. Other articles for young men will take up the problems of young men—going into business in his own town; going into business with his father; going to the large city. It will be a very interesting and really valuable series.

Stories—Short and Long There is always a generous treasure of stories in The American Magazine. Stories of city life; of country life; home stories; dog stories; love stories and adventure stories—a real feast of fiction. Important, too, no suggestive or unclean story has ever found its way into The American Magazine. Its stories are wholesome and cleverly told; that the whole family can, and does, enjoy.

The Big Saving

If you bought either of these magazines by the month you would pay fifteen cents for it. If you bought both of them you would pay thirty cents. One magazine purchased this way for the year would cost you $1.80. Both magazines $3.60. A. G. HOOLEY'S CHAMPION MEADOWVIEW BOBROY DIES

Out in California they have the cleverest quarter miler developed in this country since Ted Meredith flashed to the front as a contender for Olympic honors more than three years ago. Frank Sloman is his name, and he is possibly the one of three runners of the world today, besides Meredith, who can better .49 consistently.

Sloman is the runner with whom Meredith must reckon in the national quarter mile championship at Newark this summer. Ted knows this now, and, depend upon it, he will be as fit as ever in his life when he shows up for the national 440 dash.

Beaten Only by Meredith.

Sloman was undefeated until he bumped into Meredith at the Panama-Pacific games last August, and the beating that Ted handed the fleet native son has rankled Sloman ever since, and so much so that he yearns for revenge on the Pennsylvanian.

Sloman will, of course, be a member of the big Pacific coast team that will compete at Newark, and it is on this occasion that Sloman hopes to reverse the decision Meredith obtained over him on the Exposition track at 'Frisco.

Sloman Should Improve.

The danger of Meredith in meeting Sloman lies in the possible improvement that the Pacific Coast lad will show in the meantime. Though he made Ted run all the way in the national championship at San Francisco, Sloman was not quite dangerous enough to warrant the prediction of a possible reversal when they meet meet again. The baker held the Westerner safe in both speed and stamina. It must be taken into consideration, though, that Sloman is only a lad, and it is only natural to suppose he will be much better next summer. If this improvement comes Meredith will have the task of his career on his hands to defeat the phenomenal Pacific Coast athlete

CALIFORNIAN EXPECTS TO BEAT MEREDITH AT NEWARK

Champion Meadowview Bobroy, undefeated champion English setter belonging to Abram G. Hooley, of North Plainfield, died Sunday. Bobroy was a winner in every one of the thirteen shows in which he was benched, and defeated all rivals in this country and England. He was born April 23, 1910, his sire being Beodora Bobs and his dam Woodmere Antoinette. Inquiries about Bobroy's condition poured in to Mr. Hooley yesterday from all over the state, the metropolitan kennel world having learned of the champion's serious illness when dog men gathered at the Newark Kennel Club show Saturday.

TOWNSEND HARRIS SWIMMERS TO APPEAR IN P. H. S. TANK

Manager Albert Dealaman, of the Plainfield High School swimming team closed a deal with another team from the Metropolitan district yesterday when he received a favorable reply to his letter asking for a meet with the Townsend Harris School, of New York, to be held in the local pool on Saturday, February 29. Townsend Harris is reputed to have one of the strongest swimming teams of any private institution in New York and a good meet should result. Boys' High, of New York, appears here Saturday, and with the February schedule finished, Dealaman is starting to book teams for March.

BASEBALL NOTES

Dick Rudolph, the Boston Braves' twirler, has started to coach the pitchers of Williams College.

Hans Wagner, of the Pirates, is recovering from an attack of the grip. Wagner will celebrate his forty-second birthday a week from today. He will be tendered a banquet by the Stove League of Pittsburgh.

Martie Berghammer, who played shortstop for the Pittfeds last season, has been sold to the St. Paul American Association team.

Charlie Jamieson, resident of Paterson, who was sold last season by the Buffalo Bisons to Washington, is reported to have sustained a fracture of his right arm in a basketball game a few days ago. Jamieson went to the Bisons as a twirler, and later was shifted to the outfield because of his batting ability. He batted .279 in seventeen games with the Senators.

Washington scribes want to know why Joe Judge, the youngster secured by the Senators from the Bisons, was not given a place in the batting averages of the American League. According to the unofficial figures Judge took part in eleven games and hit for a mark of .380. This record would place Judge ahead of Ty Cobb, who hit the horsehide for a mark of .370.

P. H. S. AND N. P. H. S. SECONDS MEET TODAY

The assistant managers of the N. P. H. S. and P. H. S. basketball teams got their heads together yesterday and as a result a second game between the two second teams has been scheduled for tomorrow afternoon on the P. H. S. court. The first meeting between the two aggregations resulted in a rather one-sided victory for the city quintet, and the coming one may even up matters. The game will start at 3:30.

SOCIAL CLUB GIRLS TO START BOWLING TOURNEY

Girls of St. Mary's Social Club will meet at the T. A. B. Club this evening to form bowling teams. If enough members show interest in the sport, several teams will be formed and a tournament started.

DUNELLEN GAMES OFF.

The P. O. S. of A. initiation at Bound Brook last evening caused the postponement of the bowling match between the P. O. S. of A.'s and the I. O. F., in the Dunellen League.

ELKS MATCH PUT OFF.

The Hoboken-New Brunswick match of the Elks' Senior League scheduled for last night on the New Brunswick alleys was indefinitely postponed at the request of the Hoboken Antlers.

WILLARD-MORAN GO POSTPONED

Fight in New York Next Month Will Take Place March 24 Instead of the 8th.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—"If the promotters will not grant me a two weeks' postponement, I shall insist that my match with Frank Moran be declared off." This statement was made by Jess Willard today. He stated he was ready to meet Moran, but wanted more time.

Willard was still confined to his home, but has not yet had the services of a physician. Continuing, the champion said: "I have a very severe cold. My throat is still sore, and I am not in shape to train, but if I am given two weeks more to make up the time I have lost from my gymnasium work, I will be in excellent condition for my bout with Moran.

New York, Feb. 15.—Tex Rickard, promoter of the Willard-Moran fight, today said that he would grant Willard's request for a postponement and that the contest would be held in Madison Square Garden on March 24. "I am sorry, of course, that this is necessary, but it cannot be helped," he said.

Saratoga, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Frank Moran expressed keen disappointment today when he learned that Jess Willard is ill and that it would be necessary to postpone the fight arranged for March 8. Moran said he would go to New York with his trainer and manager to learn the situation. If a postponement is agreed upon he will return here for training. "If the bout is postponed," he said, "we will have to wait for Willard. He is the champion, but you can say I stand ready to meet him at any time."

INTERCLASS BASKETBALL.

The Juniors won their game yesterday in the P. H. S. Interclass League, but the Freshmen threw a big scare into them and led at the end of the first half. BOWLING CARD FOR TONIGHT

Imperials go to Columbus Club in Important City League Engagement.

ELIZABETH ELKS HERE

Champions of the B. P. O. E. Junior Circuit Will Shoot on the Watchung Avenue Drives—Other Tilts on Other Alleys.

How much of a fight the Imperials will give the Eagles in the closing days of the City Bowling League race will depend largely upon the outcome of the boroughites' showing tonight on the Columbus drives. The match will be the feature of tonight's local alley card.

As matters now stand, the Imps are two games behind the Birds. Each team has six games left to bowl, the Eagles rolling at home against the Tabs this week, and shooting on the Imperials' lanes in the closing engagement next week. As the Eagles are favored to win at least two on their own alleys from the crippled Abstainer forces, the Imperials will have to come out on the long end of tonight's match in order to have a look-in when they fight the Eagles.

The Elizabeth champions of the Elks' Junior League, will appear at the Elks' Club. The title holders are not doing as well this year as they did last season, and at present are four games behind the leading Brunswicks.

A match in the Dunellen League is scheduled, the Defender Five being slated to shoot the Baraca Class quintet on the Presbyterian church alleys.

In the Westfield S. S. League, the Episcopal and Congregational pinknights are due to get together on the playhouse strips.

Elizabeth Elks, contenders for the B. P. O. E. Senior League championship, will have a hard job on their hands. The Betsytowners are sentenced to go to Rutherford, and the Rutherford lanes are among the hardest on the circuit.

A Knights of Columbus League tilt is scheduled between the Bayonne and Paulus Hook, on the latter team's alleys.

ABSORBS GERMAN GASES.

Sodium Thiosulphate Used by Allies to Circumvent Foes.

The armies of the allies are using sponges or gauze soaked with some solution to absorb the chlorine and bromine gases employed by the Germans in trench warfare. Ordinary "hypo," or sodium phosphate, is widely used for this purpose, and it gives generally good results except that the reaction between the hypo and chlorine or bromine liberates hydrochloric and sulphuric acid.

These acids, the Scientific American says, can be successfully neutralized by adding sodium carbonate to the hypo solution, making the mixture as follows: Crystallized sodium carbonate (decahydrate), sixty parts; crystallized hypo (pentahydrate), fifty-two parts and water 100 parts.

Drying of the solution can be prevented by the addition of glycerol.

WOULD MOVE THE CAPITAL.

Milwaukee Congressman Wants It Located Where Beer Flows.

Congressman William Joseph Cary of Milwaukee, where the beer flows ever, has introduced a resolution that the capital of the United States be transferred from Washington to Milwaukee. Representative Cary, who has the reputation of being able, remarked in brief:

"I offer this resolution because pending legislation may make the District of Columbia 'dry.' Heaven forbid! A dry national capital would be a menace to society and to good government."

It is understood here that Mr. Cary has no ambition to be president, even with the brewers' backing. He was born in Milwaukee in 1865 and at eleven was left an orphan with five younger brothers and sisters, whom he "raised." He started life as a messenger boy.

Curly Head

The buds 'll bust out on the trees,
The butterflies and honeybees
Will soon be out, the grass 'll grow
Green as it used to long ago,
And birds 'll hop on twigs and sing
Of spring and love and everything,
And cold and winter will be fled,
But where is little Curly Head?

There won't be little Curly Head
Come tumblin' mornin's out of bed
And come to the top stair and climb
The whole length, one stair at a time,
The whole time hopin' he will be
In time to git a kiss from me
Before I've et and gone outdoors
To start in on the mornin' chores.

For Curly Head has gone to rest.
He snuggled up against my breast
And put his weak arms up to hold
My neck, and his hair was so gold.
And, oh, he tried so hard to say
For me to make his pain go way
And make him glad and well and strong
And make life go by like a song!

And I asked God to please and do
The thing that I was wantin' to
So hard and couldn't—stop his pain
And make him well and strong again.
And he held up his lips to kiss—
And went to that life out o' this.
And I laid him upon his bed
And kneeled and grieved for Curly Head.

And buds 'll soon bust on the trees,
And butterflies and honeybees
Will look where summer blooms are spread
And look and look for Curly Head.
But he is gone—way over there,
With heaven's sunshine on his hair
And free from pain. Bet he will be
A-watchin' out to run to me.

AN IDEAL AMERICAN MAN MUST BE JUST LIKE THIS

Age Twenty-five, Five Feet Eight; Plenty of Clothes and Pay His Tailor.

The National Association of Merchant Tailors of America at its final session in St. Louis defined the proportions of the ideal American, after considering the good points of the following types,

Military, athletic, sedentary, corpulent.

He, the ideal American, should be: Age, 21 to 25 years; 5 feet 8 inches tall; weight, 148½ pounds; chest, 38 inches; waist, 33½ inches; hips, 39½ inches; thigh, 21 inches; calf, 14¼ inches; neck, 14½ inches; upper arm at tension, 14¼ inches. The head should measure one-eighth of the full length of the body. Carriage should be normal, neither overerect nor stooped. The legs should be straight and the foot arched.

It was unofficially stated that the highest type of ideal man buys many clothes and pays his tailor.

The tailors recommended the use of an abdominal suppressor, or corset, for men.

A resolution was passed urging members of congress, state legislative bodies and municipal assemblies to be "particularly careful to wear to public functions the attire prescribed for such occasions by the generally accepted rules of correct dress."

A copy of these resolutions will be sent to all assemblies in question, with the request that the clerks read the same at a regular session.

CONVICTS TO CATCH CONVICTS

Honor Prisoners Trail and Capture Two Men Who Escaped.

Two honor convicts who broke their pledges to the state and escaped from San Quentin (Cal.) penitentiary on New Year's day have been chased, captured and returned to prison by two fellow honor convicts who were sent from the construction camp to search for the fugitives, merely giving their word that they would return.

Although accompanied by one of the guards from the camp, the two men, Charles Taggart and Herbert Primrose, were often miles distant from each other. They found their quarry in a cabin in a remote hilly section, where they had taken refuge.

The two men who broke their pledges are Thomas Cowan, serving a five years' sentence from Los Angeles and Alfred Sanchez, serving five years from Riverside.

BEARS SCORCHED HAIRLESS.

But the Alligators In Burning Zoo Find Refuge In Water Pits.

Charles Page's private zoo, which he maintained at Sam Springs, near Tulsa, Okla., for the instruction of several score of orphans whom he has adopted, was destroyed by fire. Twenty-five alligators escaped death by seeking refuge in water filled pits. The bears were scorched hairless, and the entire flock of fifteen ostriches perished.

Page is a millionaire oil producer whose philanthropies have taken the form of adopting orphans and providing homes for widows.

Tango Football the Latest.

Tango football is being popularized in some of the dance halls of Chicago. The principle of the game is the same as in soccer football, and the players have to tango to music at all times while in action. A silver trophy has been offered for a contest between the Majestic Benevolent association and the Hamburg Athletic association in this sport.

Workmen's Compensation Laws.

Thirty-one states and two territories now have workingmen's compensation laws, and a federal statute covers about one-fourth of the civilian employees of the United States. All this legislation has been enacted since 1908, and virtually all of the existing legislation was passed in 1910.

To Eliminate Menace to Cotton.

A droll report comes from Birmingham, Ala., of the success of a cotton planter in producing a cotton plant that smells so strongly of asafoetida that all insects avoid it. The result was obtained by sprinkling several generations of the plant with nux vomica. It is hoped that the new plant has solved the boll weevil problem by depriving the weevil of its food.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Her Husband's Sacrifice of His Property Means Nothing to Ortrude.

Even Ortrude Townsend herself felt that she was overdressed for the simple neighborhood card party, but she had no place to wear the lovely clothes that she had spent so much time in purchasing. All the women had called on her and she had returned the calls with great state and formality, and in most cases the work of getting acquainted had halted right there. Her extravagant dressing and lofty airs prejudiced the women against her. Ortrude was horribly lonesome and she realized that if she was to have any society she must make herself companionable. All the afternoon she had planned how she would try to make friends to these women who had such good times together.

"Do I look all right, J. C.?" she asked as she handed him the light wrap to lay over her shoulders.

"I am no judge of what is suitable for such an occasion, but I know you look very beautiful," he replied. She was very much pleased, for there had been a distinct falling off in the compliments paid her since the troublous days following their homecoming had begun. Like most women, her beauty depended largely on expression, and she looked her best when she walked into the doctor's parlor.

Olive went with her to the bedroom to lay off her things and together they took a peep at the rosy baby in the crib.

"Is there anything more beautiful than a sleeping baby?" remarked Ortrude as they prepared to go down.

"Nothing but one that is wide awake and laughing." Olive looked compassionately at the woman who had no baby in her life.

The doctor and Mr. Townsend were alone in the living room, and when they entered Ortrude heard him say:

"It's a good property and I hope you'll decide to buy it. I would not sacrifice it at that price, but I simply must have the money."

Ortrude thought: "I suppose he is worrying about that machine that I bought. He's old-fashioned enough to think if he owes a dollar that he is going to be ruined. He would never make a plunger on the stock market," she thought scornfully.

To do her justice Ortrude thought her husband wealthy enough to stand all her extravagance. She believed he was timidly conservative about spending because he had always lived in a tiny village where people's wants were simple and therefore her large demands on his purse had needlessly frightened him. So she went calmly on her way thinking he would soon get used to her ways and adjust himself to the expense. Everybody called him a rich man, so there was some excuse for her attitude.

The evening was a very pleasant one. Ortrude shone and sparkled in society and her brilliant conversation did not keep her from playing a winning game. She and Dick Morton were partners several times and got on famously together. Jacob Townsend alone seemed depressed and absent minded.

"That bride is a winner all right," commented Dick enthusiastically on the way home. "She is not half as bad as you women have painted her. Of course I am glad Townsend and not I has to foot the bills, but then he is rich; it will not hurt him to put a little money in circulation."

"I do not think she would wait for him to assure her that he could afford to have her spend the money," said Nell coldly.

"Now, that was a catty remark. How you women like to scratch each other, especially if the one under discussion is a beauty." Dick's smile was unpleasant.

"Well, if Marian——" began Nell.

"Don't quote Marian," interrupted Dick. "She is a step-daughter, and the usages of society demand that there be war between the two."

(To be continued.)

Household Hints

THE TABLE

New Luncheon Dish—Make some good-sized baking powder biscuits and smooth the tops over when they go into the oven; when cool, but fresh, cut out a round piece on top of each one and take out the crumbs, leaving a shell. Then put a little butter inside, spreading around the walls, and fill with creamed salmon or other fish, putting sprig of parsley on top.

Appetizing Rice and Meat Dish—Boil one cup rice until tender. Chop fine one pint meat, season with salt and pepper to taste, one teaspoon onion juice, one teaspoon minced parsley, one well-beaten egg, two tablespoons crumbs; moisten with water or stock enough to mold easily. Butter a mold, line bottom and sides with the boiled rice well seasoned, about three-fourths of an inch deep; fill in meat, cover closely with rice and steam about forty-five minutes. Turn out on platter, garnish with parsley, if desired, and pour tomato or brown sauce over it.

Stewed Tomatoes—Use one can tomatoes (it is better to buy those in glass cans). Put two small onions and a slice of bread through food chopper, add one tablespoon sugar, salt and pepper to taste, add all to tomatoes. Let simmer twenty minutes.

Currant Jelly Foam—Whites of three eggs, one diced banana, one tumbler currant jelly. Beat well the whites of eggs, add a tumbler of currant jelly and a diced banana. Serve in sherbet glasses and add a spoonful of whipped cream to each glass. A maraschino cherry, citron strip, or half of the meat of an English walnut laid lightly on top adds to the attractiveness of the dessert.

Chicken a la King—Saute in butter 1½ tablespoons pimentos and three tablespoons mushrooms for every quart diced chicken you use. Have pint hot cream on stove. After pimentos and mushrooms are thoroughly sauted, add diced chicken, then mix in the hot cream, shaking stew pan, but don't stir. Just before it comes to boil, beat in yolks of two eggs; add salt and paprika. Be sure and do not let cream or mixture come to boil. Serve on toast.

Rabbit a la Southern—Dress and clean two rabbits; disjoint in pieces for serving. Cover with three pints cold water to which has been added 1½ tablespoons salt; let stand three hours. Drain, wipe, sprinkle with salt and pepper and roll in flour. Try out half pound bacon cut in pieces (there should be two-thirds cup fat), put in iron frying pan, add rabbit, cover and cook slowly 1½ hours, turning frequently. Pour over one cup milk and cook thirty minutes.

Diced Meat Dumplings—Two teacups flour, one heaping teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, cold water enough to make stiff dough, three or four slices of ham diced and seasoned with salt and pepper. Roll out dough, cut it so a couple large tablespoons of meat may be wrapped in each dumpling, and boil in hot water until done.

DON'T WHIP THE CHILD

Instead of whipping a child for every offense, buy five cents' worth of quinine and give him a taste. You will find it works like a charm and isn't soon forgotten like a whipping.

Never strike a child across the kidneys and spine or head.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To make handkerchiefs at a saving of easy one-half, take two yards of the twelve-cent lawn, cut into handkerchiefs the size you want, hem with a very small hem, and you will have about twelve nice lawn handkerchiefs at a cost of two cents apiece, much better than you pay ten cents apiece for.

Powder Rag—Purchase one-half yard of fifty-cent white velveteen. This will make four good-sized powder rags. A simple design crocheted on the edge will make these very attractive. This powder rag can be used for a long time. It will wash and dry soft like new. Once tried you will never use anything else.

Oilcloth Apron—Make a small apron of table oilcloth. This may be hemmed on the machine, using a long stitch, or bound with tape. Cut slits across the top and run in a tape to tie on with. Use when working at sink or tub. The oilcloth is easily wiped off with a damp cloth.

It Would Not Bend For Any of the Nobles.

Daddy's Bedtime Story

The Tale of Twelve Rings and An Old Bow.

DADDY took Jack and Evelyn on his lap. When they stayed still he told them: "The rude nobles who made Odysseus' palace their home for ten years, even when he was home still disguised as a begger, voted to hold games and give his wife, Penelope, to the noble who could shoot an arrow through twelve rings set in line. Now, you must please remember that Odysseus and his young son, Telemachus, had planned these games in spite of the nobles. So now Telemachus brought a very strong old bow that a king had once given Odysseus when he was a boy and with it a quiver full of arrows. These he laid on the great hand carved table that stood in the beautiful hall of the palace. Then Telemachus carelessly said that, lest somebody get hurt in the excitement of the shooting game, all other weapons must be put away. Remember that Odysseus was a king and that all ancient palaces had their walls hung with all sorts of axes, slings, bows, arrows and knives. So while the nobles laughed, ate and joked Telemachus had servants clear the hall of every kind of a weapon except the huge old bow and its arrows. He, too, laughed and joked, pretending that he was making lots of room for the game."

"I forget how many nobles there were, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"One hundred. Imagine how much it had cost Odysseus' estate to feed and care for so many men ten years, to say nothing of all the annoyance they had been, making love to his faithful wife. Well, when everything was ready for the game the first thing to do was to bend the bow and tie the bowstring. As the host, Telemachus first tried to do this, but he was only about sixteen, and when he had tried and tried he modestly said that the game was beyond his strength and passed the bow on to the noble standing beside him."

"Could the noble tie the string?" cried Jack.

"No. He tried with all his might and, with his face flushed by the strain, with his comrades laughing and jeering at him, passed it on to another noble. Another noble tried it and another. Then the next one ordered a slave to fetch some tallow."

"Just like Anne's tallow candle, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"So they greased the old bow, hoping to make it slippery and soft. But nothing mattered. It would not bend for any of the nobles. Then the old beggar, who, you know, was Odysseus disguised by the goddess Minerva, humbly stepped up and asked if he might be allowed to try," daddy finished, with two good night kisses.

URGE AMENDMENTS TO BANKING LAW

Proposed That Federal Reserve Aid Export Trade.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Federal reserve banks must help to finance the huge export trade of the United States, "one of the most important financial problems" of the nation, the annual report of the federal reserve board, transmitted to congress, said.

Six amendments to the federal reserve act were recommended. The amendments would:

Permit national banks to subscribe and hold stock in banks organized for the special purpose of doing a banking business in foreign countries;

Permit, with the approval of the board, the issue of federal reserve notes to federal reserve banks either against the deposit of commercial paper or gold, provided that the gold so deposited shall count as part of the required reserve of the bank;

Extend the acceptance system to the domestic trade so far as it relates to documentary acceptances secured by shipping documents or warehouse receipts covering readily marketable commodities or against the pledge of goods actually sold;

Permit national banks to establish branch offices within the city or county in which they are located;

Permit advances to member banks against the member bank's secured promissory notes or against the deposit or pledge United States government bonds;

Authorize a wide discretion in the making of farm loans by national banks so that a federal reserve bank might make proper loans of this kind within a radius of a hundred miles of its place of business whether in its district or another district.

The board also recommended the extension of this power to loans on improved and unimproved real estate so situated and provided that no national bank shall make such real estate loans in excess of 25 per cent of its capital and surplus or one-third of its time deposits.

WILSON'S HAT IN RING.

Will Permit Use of Name In Ohio Primaries.

Washington, Feb. 15.—President Wilson formally launched his candidacy for re-election in the publication at the White House of a letter written by the president to Secretary of State Hildebrant of Ohio authorizing the placing of his name on the Democratic primary ballot in Ohio.

The president said he was unwilling to enter into a contest for the nomination, but that he would not oppose the use of his name as a candidate in order that the Democratic voters might signify their preference.

BRITISH SEIZED U. S. MAIL.

143 Bags Are Taken From Dutch Steamer Zaandyk.

New York, Feb. 15.—The Dutch steamer Zaandyk arrived at quarantine from Rotterdam without 143 bags of mail consigned from Holland to the United States with which she left Rotterdam. According to Captain Hazewinkel, after he left Rotterdam a British patrol stopped him and then directed him to go to the Downs. There the British authorities took charge of his mail, examined it, removed 143 bags and allowed him to proceed.

COLLISION ON WEST SHORE.

Several Passengers Sustain Minor Cuts and Bruises.

Cornwall, N. Y., Feb. 15.—A passenger train on the West Shore railroad collided with the rear end of a freight train. Several persons were cut and bruised, but nobody was seriously hurt, and none needed medical attendance. The force of the collision threw freight cars on to both tracks and blocked traffic for an hour and a half.

ORPET PURCHASED BOTTLE.

Druggist, However, Denies Selling Poison to Student.

Madison, Wis., Feb. 15.—The police learned from Charles Hensinger, clerk in a local drug store, that William H. Orpet, the Wisconsin university student who is held for the murder of Marian Lambert, purchased an empty two ounce bottle the day Miss Lambert died.

The bottle from which Miss Lambert took the poison which killed her at her farewell meeting with Orpet has not been found. Hessinger denies that there was any poison in the bottle he sold to Orpet.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German druggist call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold and cures grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. A dose is the most effective way to break a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

A. G. HOOLEY'S CHAMPION MEADOWVIEW BOBROY DIES

Out in California they have the cleverest quarter miler developed in this country since Ted Meredith flashed to the front as a contender for Olympic honors more than three years ago. Frank Sloman is his name, and he is possibly the one of three runners of the world today, besides Meredith, who can better .49 consistently.

Sloman is the runner with whom Meredith must reckon in the national quarter mile championship at Newark this summer. Ted knows this now, and, depend upon it, he will be as fit as ever in his life when he shows up for the national 440 dash.

Beaten Only by Meredith.

Sloman was undefeated until he bumped into Meredith at the Panama-Pacific games last August, and the beating that Ted handed the fleet native son has rankled Sloman ever since, and so much so that he yearns for revenge on the Pennsylvanian.

Sloman will, of course, be a member of the big Pacific coast team that will compete at Newark, and it is on this occasion that Sloman hopes to reverse the decision Meredith obtained over him on the Exposition track at 'Frisco.

Sloman Should Improve.

The danger of Meredith in meeting Sloman lies in the possible improvement that the Pacific Coast lad will show in the meantime. Though he made Ted run all the way in the national championship at San Francisco, Sloman was not quite dangerous enough to warrant the prediction of a possible reversal when they meet meet again. The naker held the Westerner safe in both speed and stamina. It must be taken into consideration, though, that Sloman is only a lad, and it is only natural to suppose he will be much better next summer. If this improvement comes Meredith will have the task of his career on his hands to defeat the phenomenal Pacific Coast athlete

CALIFORNIAN EXPECTS TO BEAT MEREDITH AT NEWARK

Champion Meadowview Bobroy, undefeated champion English setter belonging to Abram G. Hooley, of North Plainfield, died Sunday. Bobroy was a winner in every one of the thirteen shows in which he was benched, and defeated all rivals in this country and England. He was born April 23, 1910, his sire being Beodora Bobs and his dam Woodmere Antoinette. Inquiries about Bobroy's condition poured in to Mr. Hooley yesterday from all over the state, the metropolitan kennel world having learned of the champion's serious illness when dog men gathered at the Newark Kennel Club show Saturday.

TOWNSEND HARRIS SWIMMERS TO APPEAR IN P. H. S. TANK

Manager Albert Dealaman, of the Plainfield High School swimming team closed a deal with another team from the Metropolitan district yesterday when he received a favorable reply to his letter asking for a meet with the Townsend Harris School, of New York, to be held in the local pool on Saturday, February 29. Townsend Harris is reputed to have one of the strongest swimming teams of any private institution in New York and a good meet should result. Boys' High, of New York, appears here Saturday, and with the February schedule finished, Dealaman is starting to book teams for March.

BASEBALL NOTES

Dick Rudolph, the Boston Braves' twirler, has started to coach the pitchers of Williams College.

Hans Wagner, of the Pirates, is recovering from an attack of the grip. Wagner will celebrate his forty-second birthday a week from today. He will be tendered a banquet by the Stove League of Pittsburgh.

Martie Berghammer, who played shortstop for the Pittfeds last season, has been sold to the St. Paul American Association team.

Charlie Jamieson, resident of Paterson, who was sold last season by the Buffalo Bisons to Washington, is reported to have sustained a fracture of his right arm in a basketball game a few days ago. Jamieson went to the Bisons as a twirler, and later was shifted to the outfield because of his batting ability. He batted .279 in seventeen games with the Senators.

Washington scribes want to know why Joe Judge, the youngster secured by the Senators from the Bisons, was not given a place in the batting averages of the American League. According to the unofficial figures Judge took part in eleven games and hit for a mark of .380. This record would place Judge ahead of Ty Cobb, who hit the horsehide for a mark of .370.

P. H. S. AND N. P. H. S. SECONDS MEET TODAY

The assistant managers of the N. P. H. S. and P. H. S. basketball teams got their heads together yesterday and as a result a second game between the two second teams has been scheduled for tomorrow afternoon on the P. H. S. court. The first meeting between the two aggregations resulted in a rather one-sided victory for the city quintet, and the coming one may even up matters. The game will start at 3:30.

SOCIAL CLUB GIRLS TO START BOWLING TOURNEY

Girls of St. Mary's Social Club will meet at the T. A. B. Club this evening to form bowling teams. If enough members show interest in the sport, several teams will be formed and a tournament started.

DUNELLEN GAMES OFF.

The P. O. S. of A. initiation at Bound Brook last evening caused the postponement of the bowling match between the P. O. S. of A.'s and the I. O. F., in the Dunellen League.

ELKS MATCH PUT OFF.

The Hoboken-New Brunswick match of the Elks' Senior League scheduled for last night on the New Brunswick alleys was indefinitely postponed at the request of the Hoboken Antlers.

WILLARD-MORAN GO POSTPONED

Fight in New York Next Month Will Take Place March 24 Instead of the 8th.

Chicago, Feb. 1.—"If the promotters will not grant me a two weeks' postponement, I shall insist that my match with Frank Moran be declared off." This statement was made by Jess Willard today. He stated he was ready to meet Moran, but wanted more time.

Willard was still confined to his home, but has not yet had the services of a physician. Continuing, the champion said: "I have a very severe cold. My throat is still sore, and I am not in shape to train, but if I am given two weeks more to make up the time I have lost from my gymnasium work, I will be in excellent condition for my bout with Moran.

New York, Feb. 15.—Tex Rickard, promoter of the Willard-Moran fight, today said that he would grant Willard's request for a postponement and that the contest would be held in Madison Square Garden on March 24. "I am sorry, of course, that this is necessary, but it cannot be helped," he said.

Saratoga, N. Y., Feb. 15.—Frank Moran expressed keen disappointment today when he learned that Jess Willard is ill and that it would be necessary to postpone the fight arranged for March 8. Moran said he would go to New York with his trainer and manager to learn the situation. If a postponement is agreed upon he will return here for training. "If the bout is postponed," he said, "we will have to wait for Willard. He is the champion, but you can say I stand ready to meet him at any time."

BOWLING CARD FOR TONIGHT

Imperials go to Columbus Club in Important City League Engagement.

ELIZABETH ELKS HERE

Champions of the B. P. O. E. Junior Circuit Will Shoot on the Watchung Avenue Drives—Other Tilts on Other Alleys.

How much of a fight the Imperials will give the Eagles in the closing days of the City Bowling League race will depend largely upon the outcome of the boroughites', showing tonight on the Columbus drives. The match will be the feature of tonight's local alley card.

As matters now stand, the Imps are two games behind the Birds. Each team has six games left to bowl, the Eagles rolling at home against the Tabs this week, and shooting on the Imperials' lanes in the closing engagement next week. As the Eagles are favored to win at least two on their own alleys from the crippled Abstainer forces, the Imperials will have to come out on the long end of tonight's match in order to have a look-in when they fight the Eagles.

The Elizabeth champions of the Elks' Junior League, will appear at the Elks' Club. The title holders are not doing as well this year as they did last season, and at present are four games behind the leading Brunswicks.

A match in the Dunellen League is scheduled, the Defender Five being slated to shoot the Baraca Class quintet on the Presbyterian church alleys.

In the Westfield S. S. League, the Episcopal and Congregational pinknights are due to get together on the playhouse strips.

Elizabeth Elks, contenders for the B. P. O. E. Senior League championship, will have a hard job on their hands. The Betsytowners are sentenced to go to Rutherford, and the Rutherford lanes are among the hardest on the circuit.

A Knights of Columbus League tilt is scheduled between the Bayonne and Paulus Hook, on the latter team's alleys.

ABSORBS GERMAN GASES.

Sodium Thiosulphate Used by Allies to Circumvent Foes.

The armies of the allies are using sponges or gauze soaked with some solution to absorb the chlorine and bromine gases employed by the Germans in trench warfare. Ordinary "hypo," or sodium phosphate, is widely used for this purpose, and it gives generally good results except that the reaction between the hypo and chlorine or bromine liberates hydrochloric and sulphuric acid.

These acids, the Scientific American says, can be successfully neutralized by adding sodium carbonate to the hypo solution, making the mixture as follows: Crystallized sodium carbonate (decahydrate), sixty parts; crystallized hypo (pentahydrate), fifty-two parts and water 100 parts.

Drying of the solution can be prevented by the addition of glycerol.

WOULD MOVE THE CAPITAL.

Milwaukee Congressman Wants It Located Where Beer Flows.

Congressman William Joseph Cary of Milwaukee, where the beer flows ever, has introduced a resolution that the capital of the United States be transferred from Washington to Milwaukee. Representative Cary, who has the reputation of being able, remarked in brief:

"I offer this resolution because pending legislation may make the District of Columbia 'dry.' Heaven forbid! A dry national capital would be a menace to society and to good government."

It is understood here that Mr. Cary has no ambition to be president, even with the brewers' backing. He was born in Milwaukee in 1865 and at eleven was left an orphan with five younger brothers and sisters, whom he "raised." He started life as a messenger boy.

Curly Head

The buds 'll bust out on the trees,
The butterflies and honeybees
Will soon be out, the grass 'll grow
Green as it used to long ago,
And birds 'll hop on twigs and sing
Of spring and love and everything.
And cold and winter will be fled,
But where is little Curly Head?

There won't no little Curly Head
Come tumblin' mornin's out of bed
And come to the top stair and climb
The whole len'th, one stair at a time,
The whole time hopin' he will be
In time to git a kiss from me
Before I've et and gone outdoors
To start in on the mornin' chores.

For Curly Head has gone to rest,
He snuggled up agenst my breast
And put his weak arms up to hold
My neck, and his hair was so gold.
And, oh, he tried so hard to say
For me to make his pain go way
And make him glad and well and strong
And make life go by like a song!

And I asked God to please and do
The thing that I was wantin' to
So hard and couldn't—stop his pain
And make him well and strong again.
And he held up his lips to kiss—
And went to that life out o' this.
And I laid him upon his bed
And kneeled and grieved for Curly Head.

And buds 'll soon bust on the trees,
And butterflies and honeybees
Will look where summer blooms are spread
And look and look for Curly Head.
But he is gone—way over there,
With heaven's sunshine on his hair
And free from pain. Bet he will be
A-watchin' out to run to me.

AN IDEAL AMERICAN MAN MUST BE JUST LIKE THIS

Age Twenty-five, Five Feet Eight; Plenty of Clothes and Pay His Tailor.

The National Association of Merchant Tailors of America at its final session in St. Louis defined the proportions of the ideal American, after considering the good points of the following types.

Military, athletic, sedentary, corpulent.

He, the ideal American, should be: Age, 25 to 25 years; 5 feet 8 inches tall; weight, 148½ pounds; chest, 38 inches; waist, 33½ inches; hips, 39½ inches; thigh, 21 inches; calf, 14¼ inches; neck, 14¼ inches; upper arm at tension, 14¼ inches. The head should measure one-eighth of the full length of the body. Carriage should be normal, neither overerect nor stooped. The legs should be straight and the foot arched.

It was unofficially stated that the highest type of ideal man buys many clothes and pays his tailor.

The tailors recommended the use of an abdominal suppressor, or corset, for men.

A resolution was passed urging members of congress, state legislative bodies and municipal assemblies to be "particularly careful to wear to public functions the attire prescribed for such occasions by the generally accepted rules of correct dress."

A copy of these resolutions will be sent to all assemblies in question, with the request that the clerks read the same at a regular session.

CONVICTS TO CATCH CONVICTS

Honor Prisoners Trail and Capture Two Men Who Escaped.

Two honor convicts who broke their pledges to the state and escaped from San Quentin (Cal.) penitentiary on New Year's day have been chased, captured and returned to prison by two fellow honor convicts who were sent from the construction camp to search for the fugitives, merely giving their word that they would return.

Although accompanied by one of the guards from the camp, the two men, Charles Taggart and Herbert Primrose, were often miles distant from each other. They found their quarry in a cabin in a remote hilly section, where they had taken refuge.

The two men who broke their pledges are Thomas Cowan, serving a five years' sentence from Los Angeles, and Alfred Sanchez, serving five years from Riverside.

BEARS SCORCHED HAIRLESS.

But the Alligators In Burning Zoo Find Refuge In Water Pits.

Charles Page's private zoo, which he maintained at Sun Springs, near Tulsa, Okla., for the instruction of several score of orphans whom he has adopted, was destroyed by fire. Twenty-five alligators escaped death by seeking refuge in water filled pits. The bears were scorched hairless, and the entire flock of fifteen ostriches perished.

Page is a millionaire oil producer whose philanthropies have taken the form of adopting orphans and providing homes for widows.

Tango Football the Latest.

Tango football is being popularized in some of the dance halls of Chicago. The principle of the game is the same as in soccer football, and the players have to tango to music at all times while in action. A silver trophy has been offered for a contest between the Majestic Benevolent association and the Hamburg Athletic association in this sport.

Workmen's Compensation Laws.

Thirty-one states and two territories now have workingmen's compensation laws, and a federal statute covers about one-fourth of the civilian employees of the United States. All this legislation has been enacted since 1908, and virtually all of the existing legislation was passed in 1910.

To Eliminate Menace to Cotton.

A droll report comes from Birmingham, Ala., of the success of a cotton planter in producing a cotton plant that smells so strongly of asafoetida that all insects avoid it. The result was obtained by sprinkling several generations of the plant with nux vomica. It is hoped that the new plant has solved the boll weevil problem by depriving the weevil of its food.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Her Husband's Sacrifice of His Property Means Nothing to Ortrude.

Even Ortrude Townsend herself felt that she was overdressed for the simple neighborhood card party, but she had no place to wear the lovely clothes that she had spent so much time in purchasing. All the women had called on her and she had returned the calls with great state and formality, and in most cases the work of getting acquainted had halted right there. Her extravagant dressing and lofty airs prejudiced the women against her. Ortrude was horribly lonesome and she realized that if she was to have any society she must make herself companionable. All the afternoon she had planned how she would try to make friends to these women who had such good times together.

"Do I look all right, J. C.?" she asked as she handed him the light wrap to lay over her shoulders.

"I am no judge of what is suitable for such an occasion, but I know you look very beautiful," he replied. She was very much pleased, for there had been a distinct falling off in the compliments paid her since the troublous days following their homecoming had begun. Like most women, her beauty depended largely on expression, and she looked her best when she walked into the doctor's parlor.

Olive went with her to the bedroom to lay off her things and together they took a peep at the rosy baby in the crib.

"Is there anything more beautiful than a sleeping baby?" remarked Ortrude as they prepared to go down.

"Nothing but one that is wide awake and laughing." Olive looked compassionately at the woman who had no baby in her life.

The doctor and Mr. Townsend were alone in the living room, and when they entered Ortrude heard him say:

"It's a good property and I hope you'll decide to buy it. I would not sacrifice it at that price, but I simply must have the money."

Ortrude thought: "I suppose he is worrying about that machine that I bought. He's old-fashioned enough to think if he owes a dollar that he is going to be ruined. He would never make a plunger on the stock market," she thought scornfully.

To do her justice Ortrude thought her husband wealthy enough to stand all her extravagance. She believed he was timidly conservative about spending because he had always lived in a tiny village where people's wants were simple and therefore her large demands on his purse had needlessly frightened him. So she went calmly on her way thinking he would soon get used to her ways and adjust himself to the expense. Everybody called him a rich man, so there was some excuse for her attitude.

The evening was a very pleasant one. Ortrude shone and sparkled in society and her brilliant conversation did not keep her from playing a winning game. She and Dick Morton were partners several times and got on famously together. Jacob Townsend alone seemed depressed and absent minded.

"That bride is a winner all right," commented Dick enthusiastically on the way home. "She is not half as bad as you women have painted her. Of course I am glad Townsend and not I has to foot the bills, but then he is rich; it will not hurt him to put a little money in circulation."

"I do not think she would wait for him to assure her that he could afford to have her spend the money," said Nell coldly.

"Now, that was a catty remark. How you women like to scratch each other, especially if the one under discussion is a beauty." Dick's smile was unpleasant.

"Well, if Marian——" began Nell.

"Don't quote Marian," interrupted Dick. "She is a step-daughter, and the usages of society demand that there be war between the two."

(To be continued.)

Household Hints

THE TABLE

New Luncheon Dish—Make some good-sized baking powder biscuits and smooth the tops over when they go into the oven; when cool, but fresh, cut out a round piece on top of each one and take out the crumbs, leaving a shell. Then put a little butter inside, spreading around the walls, and fill with creamed salmon or other fish, putting sprig of parsley on top.

Appetizing Rice and Meat Dish—Boil one cup rice until tender. Chop fine one pint meat, season with salt and pepper to taste, one teaspoon onion juice, one teaspoon minced parsley, one well-beaten egg, two tablespoons crumbs; moisten with water or stock enough to mold easily. Butter a mold, line bottom and sides with the boiled rice well seasoned, about three-fourths of an inch deep; fill in meat, cover closely with rice and steam about forty-five minutes. Turn out on platter, garnish with parsley, if desired, and pour tomato or brown sauce over it.

Stewed Tomatoes—Use one can tomatoes (it is better to buy those in glass cans). Put two small onions and a slice of bread through food chopper, add one tablespoon sugar, salt and pepper to taste, add all to tomatoes. Let simmer twenty minutes.

Currant Jelly Foam—Whites of three eggs, one diced banana, one tumbler currant jelly. Beat well the whites of eggs, add a tumbler of currant jelly and a diced banana. Serve in sherbet glasses and add a spoonful of whipped cream to each glass. A maraschino cherry, citron strip, or half of the meat of an English walnut laid lightly on top adds to the attractiveness of the dessert.

Chicken a la King—Saute in butter 1½ tablespoons pimentos and three tablespoons mushrooms for every quart diced chicken you use. Have pint hot cream on stove. After pimentos and mushrooms are thoroughly sauted, add diced chicken, then mix in the hot cream, shaking stew pan, but don't stir. Just before it comes to boil, beat in yolks of two eggs; add salt and paprika. Be sure and do not let cream or mixture come to boil. Serve on toast.

Rabbit a la Southern—Dress and clean two rabbits; disjoint in pieces for serving. Cover with three pints cold water to which has been added 1½ tablespoons salt; let stand three hours. Drain, wipe, sprinkle with salt and pepper and roll in flour. Try out half pound bacon cut in pieces (there should be two-thirds cup fat), put in iron frying pan, add rabbit, cover and cook slowly 1½ hours, turning frequently. Pour over one cup milk and cook thirty minutes.

Diced Meat Dumplings—Two teacups flour, one heaping teaspoon salt, two teaspoons baking powder, cold water enough to make stiff dough, three or four slices of ham diced and seasoned with salt and pepper. Roll out dough, cut it so a couple large tablespoons of meat may be wrapped in each dumpling, and boil in hot water until done.

DON'T WHIP THE CHILD

Instead of whipping a child for every offense, buy five cents' worth of quinine and give him a taste. You will find it works like a charm and isn't soon forgotten like a whipping.

Never strike a child across the kidneys and spine or head.

THINGS WORTH KNOWING

To make handkerchiefs at a saving of easy one-half, take two yards of the twelve-cent lawn, cut into handkerchiefs the size you want, hem with a very small hem, and you will have about twelve nice lawn handkerchiefs at a cost of two cents apiece, much better than you pay ten cents apiece for.

Powder Rag—Purchase one-half yard of fifty-cent white velveteen. This will make four good-sized powder rags. A simple design crocheted on the edge will make these very attractive. This powder rag can be used for a long time. It will wash and dry soft like new. Once tried you will never use anything else.

Oilcloth Apron—Make a small apron of table oilcloth. This may be hemmed on the machine, using a long stitch, or bound with tape. Cut slits across the top and run in a tape to tie on with. Use when working at sink or tub. The oilcloth is easily wiped off with a damp cloth.

It Would Not Bend For Any of the Nobles.

Daddy's Bedtime Story.

The Tale of Twelve Rings and An Old Bow.

DADDY took Jack and Evelyn on his lap. When they stayed still he told them: "The rude nobles who made Odysseus' palace their home for ten years, even when he was home still disguised as a begger, voted to hold games and give his wife, Penelope, to the noble who could shoot an arrow through twelve rings set in line. Now, you must please remember that Odysseus and his young son, Telemachus, had planned these games in spite of the nobles. So now Telemachus brought a very strong old bow that a king had once given Odysseus when he was a boy and with it a quiver full of arrows. These he laid on the great hand carved table that stood in the beautiful hall of the palace. Then Telemachus carelessly said that, lest somebody get hurt in the excitement of the shooting game, all other weapons must be put away. Remember that Odysseus was a king and that all ancient palaces had their walls hung with all sorts of axes, slings, bows, arrows and knives. So while the nobles laughed, ate and joked Telemachus had servants clear the hall of every kind of a weapon except the huge old bow and its arrows. He, too, laughed and joked, pretending that he was making lots of room for the game."

"I forget how many nobles there were, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"One hundred. Imagine how much it had cost Odysseus' estate to feed and care for so many men ten years, to say nothing of all the annoyance they had been, making love to his faithful wife. Well, when everything was ready for the game the first thing to do was to bend the bow and tie the bowstring. As the host, Telemachus first tried to do this, but he was only about sixteen, and when he had tried and tried he modestly said that the game was beyond his strength and passed the bow on to the noble standing beside him."

"Could the noble tie the string?" cried Jack.

"No. He tried with all his might and, with his face flushed by the strain, with his comrades laughing and jeering at him, passed it on to another noble. Another noble tried it and another. Then the next one ordered a slave to fetch some tallow."

"Just like Anne's tallow candle, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"So they greased the old bow, hoping to make it slippery and soft. But nothing mattered. It would not bend for any of the nobles. Then the old beggar, who, you know, was Odysseus disguised by the goddess Minerva, humbly stepped up and asked if he might be allowed to try," daddy finished, with two good night kisses.

URGE AMENDMENTS TO BANKING LAW

Proposed That Federal Reserve Aid Export Trade.

Washington, Feb. 15.—Federal reserve banks must help to finance the huge export trade of the United States, "one of the most important financial problems" of the nation, the annual report of the federal reserve board, transmitted to congress, said.

Six amendments to the federal reserve act were recommended. The amendments would:

Permit national banks to subscribe and hold stock in banks organized for the special purpose of doing a banking business in foreign countries;

Permit, with the approval of the board, the issue of federal reserve notes to federal reserve banks either against the deposit of commercial paper or gold, provided that the gold so deposited shall count as part of the required reserve of the bank;

Extend the acceptance system to the domestic trade so far as it relates to documentary acceptances secured by shipping documents or warehouse receipts, covering readily marketable commodities or against the pledge of goods actually sold;

Permit national banks to establish branch offices within the city or county in which they are located;

Permit advances to member banks against the member bank's secured promissory notes or against the deposit or pledge United States government bonds;

Authorize a wide discretion in the making of farm loans by national banks so that a federal reserve bank might make proper loans of this kind within a radius of a hundred miles of its place of business whether in its district or another district.

The board also recommended the extension of this power to loans on improved and unimproved real estate so situated and provided that no national bank shall make such real estate loans in excess of 25 per cent of its capital and surplus or one-third of its time deposits.

Washington, Feb. 15.—President Wilson formally launched his candidacy for re-election in the publication at the White House of a letter written by the president to Secretary of State Hildebrant of Ohio authorizing the placing of his name on the Democratic primary ballot in Ohio.

The president said he was unwilling to enter into a contest for the nomination, but that he would not oppose the use of his name as a candidate in order that the Democratic voters might signify their preference.

143 Bags Are Taken From Dutch Steamer Zaandyk.

New York, Feb. 15.—The Dutch steamer Zaandyk arrived at quarantine from Rotterdam without 143 bags of mail consigned from Holland to the United States with which she left Rotterdam. According to Captain Hazewinkel, after he left Rotterdam a British patrol stopped him and then directed him to go to the Downs. There the British authorities took charge of his mail, examined it, removed 143 bags and allowed him to proceed.

COLLISION ON WEST SHORE.

Several Passengers Sustain Minor Cuts and Bruises.

Cornwall, N. Y., Feb. 15.—A passenger train on the West Shore railroad collided with the rear end of a freight train. Several persons were cut and bruised, but nobody was seriously hurt and none needed medical attendance. The force of the collision threw freight cars on to both tracks and blocked traffic for an hour and a half.

OLD-TIME COLD CURE—DRINK TEA!

Get a small package of Hamburger Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It loosens the bowels, thus breaking up a cold and cures grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. A hot bath is the most effective way to break up a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

The SPORT SUIT

Navy Blue Serge has much to Commend It for a Sport Tailleur

Cream White Silk Jersey, the Sport Fabric De Luxe

The Sport Suit for the Boardwalk or at the Country Club

Checked Flannel is the Proper Sport Material for Dashing Coat and Skirt Costumes.

Silk Jersey and Wool Jersey Enter the Sports Arena As Fashionables - Leather for Whole Garments and Trimming Details - Gray a Fashionable Color.

IT would seem difficult to define just what a sport suit is—there are so many ways of looking at the question. The woman who goes in for sports has a very different conception of the correct and proper sports costume, from the woman who believes that a sport suit is the becoming garb for a promenade on the boardwalk or down a country lane.

A few years ago sport suits were taken seriously only in England. There, every woman of whatever age, has her sturdy sport tailor-made. It is usually of tweed or of homespun and it is her standby in rough weather, or on long railroad journeys, or on expeditions into the country, or on long tramps with the dog or on any sort of errand when she wishes to dress as plainly and inconspicuously as possible. This is not saying, however, that the English woman's sport suit is not a very smart, well-made affair, of splendid material, guaranteed to keep good lines whatever the atmosphere and cut with masterly precision. Redfern makes a great many of these practical sport suits for English women and most of the Redfern models show a straight, perfectly hanging skirt and an equally straight coat with belt and patch pockets.

A few years ago no one would have dreamed of dubbing the estimable little coat and skirt costume of navy blue serge a sport suit; but so it is—this season, by the assertion of its maker. Perhaps the outside pockets in the coat give it claim to the name. Maybe it is the short, pleated skirt—a style much fancied in sport costumes. At any rate, here it is; the useful, practical sport suit of navy blue which any woman will find a splendidly practical addition to her spring and summer wardrobe since it is not too informal for town wear, nor too dressy for a country tramp; and it is neat, good-looking and serviceable for traveling.

White Sport Suits For Southland Wear.

Quite at the opposite extreme of sport wearables is the glorified sport suit of white broadcloth worn in company with flower turban, silk sunshade and high-heeled white slippers. One makes sure that this is the type of sport suit preferred at Palm Beach and at Atlantic City. The skirt is simple enough, but the coat is a very dressy affair, with its V-shaped tucking at the back, its godet peplum and its pointed collar faced with violet silk. Over this silk collar fits a lingerie turnover of sheer linen. The white silk stockings are clocked in violet; the white silk parasol has an insert of violet-flowered taffeta and the turban is made of white velvet leaves and appliqued flowers of violet velvet. But it is a sport costume, though no English woman could be made to believe it so.

Another sport suit of this dainty type is a country club model of white serge accompanied by a straw turban trimmed with roses. This sport suit really seems to fulfill its name better. It has no tricksy satin collar; its cut is simple—all but the lower edge of the coat, which is slashed into panels between which are set godet sections of tucked material. The plain, buttoned sleeve is good style; also the double-breasted front with its plain, deep lapels. The little hat of burnt bread straw is trimmed with pale mauve flowers and laurel green leaves. The parasol is of corded white silk.

White Silk Jersey Suits Especially Smart.

A third white sport suit has been kept till the last for description, because it is the best—that is, it is the most authoritative and characteristic sport model of the three. It is obviously a sport suit and nothing else, since it is built of the material now devoted to sports wear—silk jersey cloth. Coats, skirts and whole suits are being made up of silk jersey for spring and summer sport use and some of the models are very handsome and very expensive. There are colors, rich, brilliant hues, as well as white and cream in silk jersey sport wearables, but the suit pictured is cream white with a very chic touch of black in the belt of velvet. A fetching, saucy little sport suit this, with a short, simple skirt and close-fitting little coat to which the high belt with overlapping tabs of the coat material gives much style and individuality. The suit is accompanied by a dainty hat of white silk and goura feather, and by silk stockings and high-heeled pumps of black and white kid; but the suit would be correctly accompanied also by a sport hat of felt or Panama and by heelless sport shoes of white buckskin or canvas.

Sweaters of silk jersey promise to be as popular this summer as they were last, but the very exclusive silk sweaters are white or cream rather than bright colored. Colors were rather done to death in sport wear last season and a white sport season is prophesied for this year. Pale gray is the sport color of Paris just now. There are sport costumes of silk jersey in pearl gray or dove gray, with dashing touches of cerise in collar facing, hat and necktie. Black and white is a favored sports combination also. Black and white striped sport skirts of serge or flannel are pleated so that the black stripes come on the outside, or vice versa and the effect is very good. Striped flannel sport skirts are also made up on the bias of the goods so that the stripes point downward in wedge shape toward the center front. With a pleated sport skirt of white serge striped in black groups of three narrow lines, goes an English sport coat of green wool jersey cloth with wide belt and patch pockets with overlaps that button down. A black and white pleated skirt, with the white outside and black stripes showing where the pleats fly apart, goes with a coat of two-tone wool velour in checked pattern. The coat is a Jenny model and falls in circular effect at the back, two narrow belts confining the fullness at the front while a graduated cape-collar ripples over the shoulders. All of these sport coats are silk lined and slip on and off easily.

Checked Sport Suits Have A Dash of Their Own.

Perhaps of all the sport suits mentioned, the model of checked wool may be said to have most "sporty" character. This is a very dashing little costume, partly because of the boldly checked fabric, partly because of a certain jauntiness of line, and possibly a little, also because of the rakish hat of leather which accompanies the suit. This hat is bright red in color and the turnover facing on the collar is also of red leather. The coat is lined with red silk and one presumes that a red silk petticoat would be selected to go beneath the short skirt. A notable detail is the elongated pocket on the godet coat, rather a pleasing change from the eternal patch pocket of the season.

Leather has a prominent place in sport wear just now; but it is so perfectly adapted to winter sport use that it would seem a pity to carry it into the summer and thereby possibly harm its winter vogue. But as Fashion will, she will! At any rate entire coats of leather will be an impossibility, once the mercury begins to climb higher; though colored leathers will undoubtedly be used for facings and trimmings of summer sport costume.

Near cousins to leather are the suede sleeveless jackets for motor wear under wool sport coats. These little jackets, buttoning in single-breasted fashion, are delightful additions to the wardrobe. They may be slipped under any coat that does not seem quite warm enough for an occasion and they are so soft and supple that they may be packed in very small space. They come in various shades, in soft suede and are perfectly straight, with neck and armholes bound in silk.

Gloveskin cloth is a new material for sport and motor coats and it is almost a near cousin to suede, its texture is so similar. Of gray gloveskin cloth is a Jenny motor wrap just completed for a spring bride. The coat, which is very full, in circular cut, has a circular cape to the waistline in front, and several inches below that in the back. This cape is edged all around with black and white plaid wool velour and the coat collar forms itself into a muffler of the plaid material, with fringe on the end that tosses over the shoulder. Another gloveskin coat ordered for a sojourn at Palm Beach is light, pinkish red in color and accompanied a skirt of red and white striped silk. A sport hat of white milan had a pleated band of red and white cotton crepe against which was appliqued a flat, blue flower. The costume was brilliant in color and had a charm of its own.

Not so gay in hue but equally graceful is a sport and travel coat of mole gray gloveskin, matched by a little hat of mole gray leather trimmed with a cocade of white grosgrain ribbon. The coat has a very smart line, fitting rather closely over shoulder and arm and under a trim belt at the normal waistline and then flaring to a four-yard width at the knee. This width is accomplished by setting in a flounce at the hip, the sections being joined under a scalloped seam defined with rows of heavy stitching.

Sport suits of gray or tan homespun are beloved by the golf player who finds them practical and good-looking, and suitable for traveling back and forth from the links or country club. Such a suit, to have the best English style, should own to a short, gored skirt and a belted coat with at least four patch pockets and revers and collar of mannish style.

Present Fashions in Trinketry

CORAL is one of the revivals of the season. The craze for strong color in minor details of dress is responsible for this revival, and the brilliant coral shade is a particular favorite of fashion just now. Coral colored silk is in demand for linings of tailored coats and wonderful coral colored evening wraps are shown in the windows of exclusive shops. There is no more beautiful color than coral—when it is not overdone. A little of it here and there is marvelously effective but too much coral is always displeasing; and the trouble is that when coral once becomes the fashion, so much of it is forced upon the eye that it very soon becomes tiresome. Just at present, however, the coral craze has not extended beyond the realm of the fashionables and wherever coral ornaments are worn, they add a delightful note of color to the costume. Coral beads with a gray frock are inimitable. With very pale blue and with flesh pink they are stunnnig when the effect is carefully considered. On certain types of women coral ornaments worn with black, are ravishing; and a certain actress whose costumes are much talked of dares to wear coral with green.

The use of coral is confined almost entirely to necklaces and brooches; though sometimes one finds coral set most effectively in a dinner or bridge ring; but coral ear-rings are too trying to be dared by most women, and coral is a little heavy and over-powering in a bracelet. Coral is rarely combined with other stones and is set with as little metal as possible, so that the deep and brilliant color may be displayed to best advantage.

The cameo is also very fashionable this winter—a revival to be expected with fashions of the second empire. Very dainty are little brooches of pink cameo set in filagree gold; and there are larger brooches and plaques with pink cameos encircled with pearls. Diamonds are not used in conjunction with cameos, but the delicate luster of pearls—if the pearls are not too large—is admirable with the dainty tints of the cameo. Black and white cameos are not as much in demand as the pink and white sort; but some very handsome ornaments have been seen showing black and white cameos set in rims of jet and tiny pearls.

Perhaps the jewel of the season is the pearl. One cannot make any mistake in selecting pearls as a gift for they are enormously fashionable and their vogue seems likely to continue. In spite of the time-honored superstition that "pearls mean tears" most women are willing to risk the tears for the sake of possessing anything so lovely and so becoming as pearls. Now that the scientific manufacture of pearls has reached such a degree of perfection imitation pearls have an unassailable rank and jewelers do not hesitate to combine them with gems of the first water, in handsome rings, brooches and other ornaments. "Would you pay $5,000 for a pearl necklace," runs the advertisement of a well known and reputable jeweler, "when for $500 you can obtain pearls equally beautiful and almost impossible to discern from the genuine?" As a matter of fact, not many people can afford to pay even five hundred dollars for a pearl necklace; and the individual who is able to, might very likely be able to stretch a point and pay five thousand in order to get anything as intrinsically valuable—and negotiable—as genuine pearls. Nevertheless, these scientific pearls do bring high prices, and undoubtedly are beautiful, having the shape, the luster, and even the imperfections of the genuine sort.

Pearls are used in every sort of trinket for feminine wear. They are even used to hold up the shoulders of evening bodices, and to loop up airy tulle draperies. Women at the opera this winter have been loaded with pearls; sometimes two or three strings of pearls around the neck would be accompanied by a smaller string at the throat; a band of pearls across the forehead, and pearl ornaments in the ears. Handbags have pearl knobs and mother o' pearl frames. Even buttons are in seed pearl effect. Of course these pearls on the lesser details of dress are not genuine; but as for that, very few of the pearls one sees—even around women's necks at the opera—are absolutely genuine; and after all it is a matter of degree, in imitations.

Diamonds are set, this year, in a pure white silver metal rather than in gold, the white setting making the luster and brilliance of the diamond more beautiful and more pure than does the yellow gleam of gold—according to modern taste. Some of the most fashionable ornaments, set with diamonds, are pictured, and the young woman so adorned does not glitter too much for an appearance at the opera or other formal evening occasion. The most striking ornament she wears is the necklace of white metal set with diamonds. The workmanship is exceedingly beautiful and delicate and the three pendants swing from a fine chain of silver. The earrings of white metal and diamonds have also three pendants. Large earrings of this type are worn with evening dress but are not considered correct for day wear with a hat. The day earring is a single pearl, or two pearls, one swinging below the other; and solitaires, with inconspicuous setting, are worn by women who possess them.

The other ornaments in the picture, are: a bowknot brooch of white metal and diamonds, a bracelet of enamel with a raised scroll of tiny brilliants, a flat bracelet of enamel and diamonds, and two rings with small diamonds arranged in new settings, one ring having an emerald in the center.

The costumes of Leon Bakst for the Ballet Russe, the supreme sensation of New York this winter, have set a fashion in jewelry; and emeralds, rubies and other deep colored stones are coming into their own. Bakst uses gems to enhance the costume and chooses his colors daringly but carefully. The day is past when a woman may load herself with emeralds, sapphires or rubies—just because she happens to possess them—without thought of their possible incongruity with the costume she wears.

In another illustration are shown some examples of ancient French and Italian jewelry, revived in fashion this year. The pearls and cameo medallions are especially beautiful.

Diamonds set in white metal have a purer brilliance. Several ornaments of this kind are pictured here.

REPENTANCE IS SORROW FOR SIN

Bishop Chas. Woodcock Points the Way to Salvation in Stirring Discourse.

IMPRESSES AUDIENCE

Distinguished Prelate Gives Plain, Straight-forward Talk Based on Parable of the "Prodigal Son" at Grace Episcopal Church.

Repentance, as the only means of salvation, was the theme for last night's discourse at Grace Episcopal church by Bishop Woodcock, of Kentucky, who is conducting an eight-day preaching mission here under the auspices of the Episcopal churches of the city and borough. Preceding the Bishop's sermon, there was a brief devotional service during which he answered a number of questions which had been sent to him during the day, and also prayed for those who had made such requests. The edifice was well filled with worshippers from all denominations when the sermon began.

The Bishop took for his text Acts 3:19: "Repent ye, therefore, and be converted, that your sins may be blotted out," coupling this with a text from the parable of "The Prodigal Son," where he decided to give up his wicked ways and return home to his father. "Man is the only being that has robbed, insulted and murdered God," said the Bishop, "and yet has the privilege to repent, be saved and enjoy the fullest blessing of God. It is a wonderful and amazing opportunity. How could God love man enough to give up His life for him and in addition give him a life-long chance to repent, come back home and be saved?

"It was an awakened sense of sin that led the prodigal son to go back home and when he was on his way his father met him before he reached home and took him in his arms and gave him such a welcome as only a father can give to a wayward son. While we were yet in sin Christ died for us, showing how much He loved us.

"When we come home the Father never shuts the door in our face. He forgives and so gladly. Repentance

ELECTRICAL WORKERS DINE AT PEDEFLOUS'

Public Service Operating Force Gather for Their Sixth Annual Banquet.

The employes of the Public Service Electric operating department for the Plainfield division held their sixth annual banquet at Pedeflous' Hotel, Mountain Boulevard, last night. The affair proved to be the most successful that has yet been conducted both from the social standpoint and the excellence of the dinner provided by the hotel management. Covers were set for thirty-five, the gathering including a number of Public Service Electric division officials and other employes from Elizabeth, Perth Amboy, Bound Brook and Somerville, as well as from Plainfield.

George G. Andrews, superintendent of the electrical department in this division, presided as toastmaster and introduced the following speakers: Maron Penn, Fred Brugger and John Edwards, of Elizabeth; William E. Chamberlain, of Perth Amboy, and R. C. Bordiers, superintendent of the Bound Brook division. Mr. Penn was a member of the Ford Peace Party and returned from Europe about ten days ago. In his address he related numerous interesting incidents of the journey to the belligerent nations of which Plainfielders have read a great deal in the newspapers.

The speeches were interspersed with vocal and instrumental selections rendered by the operating force; An emphatic hit was made by Charles Anderson through his rendition of "Where the River Shannon Flows," "Mother Machree" and other popular ballads. C. J. Kellam, of Newark, also favored with several songs, accompanied on the piano by William Ryder, of this city. Mr. Ryder afterward gave several piano selections illustrating the difference between modern rag time and the folk ballads of ante-bellum days. Mr. Andrews filled the position of toastmaster with extreme credit to himself, receiving warm congratulations from the diners at the close. The annual banquet has grown to be an important feature with the electrical operating force in Plainfield and not only serves to bring officials and men in closer communion but results beneficially to each side through an exchange of ideas relative to the operation of the department.

The trip to and from the hotel was made by automobile, the return home being made at about midnight. James Ellis, one of the best known Public Service men in Plainfield, was chairman of the committee which arranged the banquet and he was assisted by Joseph Sullivan and George D. Blair.

J. G. Schneider, 26 Clinton avenue, Plainfield, was awarded a patent on December 28, for a door fastener, which is now being manufactured and will shortly be placed upon the market.

FIREMEN ASK FOR BETTER SALARIES

Council Committee Hears Petition, But No Action is Decided Upon.

Members of the fire committee of the Council spent more than three hours discussing proposed improvements in the department at a meeting held last night. Subjects discussed were the installation of new alarm boxes and hydrants, an increase in the pay of firemen and in the number of hours off each week, an automobile engine for Netherwood and others of importance.

Jens Claassen, Jack Townley and Wesley Dunn, representing the paid members of the fire department, appeared before the committee and asked for an increase in pay for all members of the department, also for more time off each week. The committee was heard and the request considered, but no action taken. It is likely that this matter will be brought before members of the Council at the next meeting, although it will probably be referred to C. J. Driscoll, the municipal expert here making a survey of the fire and police departments first.

Members of the committee decided to install a number of fire hydrants and alarm boxes over the city. All were asked for by petitions from property owners. The purchase of an automobile engine for the Netherwood district was discussed but no action was taken.

LOCAL BOND BILL PASSES ASSEMBLY

Issue of $50,000 for City Hall Authorized—Police Pension Measure Defeated.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 16.—Assemblyman Runyon's Bill authorizing a bond issue of $50,000.00 for Plainfield for public buildings was passed by the Assembly today. The House defeated the Runyon bill changing the method whereby police officers may be pensioned to that of a referendum instead of leaving it to the governing body. It primarily affects Summit. It was opposed because it also affected Hoboken, and the Hudson men fought it. Mr. Runyon changed his vote to the negative and moved reconsideration. Later he will try to get votes enough to pass it.

LADIES' AID SOCIETY GIVE A CHICKEN SUPPER

The chicken supper given in the Epworth house of the Monroe Avenue M. E. church, last night, under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society, was one of the most successful affairs ever conducted by the society. Supper was served from 6 to 8 o'clock to about 150 persons. A social followed the supper, and ice cream was on sale. The house was attractively decorated for the occasion, the Valentine Day scheme being carried out. Red and White hearts were used extensively on the tables and crepe paper on the walls. Much of the success of the affair was due to the work of the committees in charge and their chairmen.

The various committees were as follows: Mrs. John Praed, chairman refreshment committee, Miss Anna Wenzel, Mrs. Theodore Van Pelt, Mrs. Andrew McDowell, Mrs. Edward Beekman and Mrs. Joel Pennington; Miss Anna Staffard, chairman of decorating committee, assisted by members of society: supper committee, Miss Anna Staffard, Mrs. John Daub, Mrs. E. Heritage, Mrs. Harry Gardner, Mrs. Harry Holman, Mrs. William Drake, Mrs. Walter Manning, Mrs. Ellis Davis, Mrs. John McCormack, Mrs. L. V. Tallamy, Mrs. Elizabeth LaRue, Mrs. Edward Hamilton and Mrs. Charles Randolph. Mrs. F. H. Hubach and Mrs. Elizabeth Ralston assisted in receiving. Mrs. Jones was the treasurer and Mrs. Hubach, who is the president of the society, presided as general chairman of the supper.

TROOP D TO TAKE PART IN BIG DRILL

Local Cavalrymen to Be Inspected by Captain Rockwell of the U. S. A.

Troop D will hold the largest drill in its history tomorrow night at the Roseville Armory, on Roseville and Rear Orange avenues, in Newark. The troopers have been ordered to report in uniform at 7:30, and all those who contemplate joining the organization or are interested for any other reason, will see a fine turn out if they are present half an hour later. The armory is that of Troops A and B of the First Squadron, Troop A being the famous Essex Troop, and the horses used will be those of these organizations. It is expected that the riding will be largely blanket-back, which is always more interesting than regular formal drilling. Captain Rockwell, of the regular army, detailed inspecting instructor to the troop, will be present.

The number of recruits has increased so rapidly within the last several weeks that the troop promises soon to have reached the full peace strength of sixty men. At the last regular drill Frederick Goddard joined, and the week before that the organization added another first-rate bugler, Warren Ackermann, to cooperate with the original bugler, Louis Williams. Donald A. McGee has been appointed as guidon sergeant, to carry the troop colors.

MISS ANNA L. OUTWATER BRIDE OF VICTOR TODD

Miss Anna Lou Outwater, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Outwater, of Tiliston road, Fanwood, was married at noon today in the Little Church Around the Corner, New York city, to Victor Todd, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Todd, of Bellvale, New York. Only the immediate relatives of the couple witnessed the marriage, after which Mr. and Mrs. Todd left for a honeymoon trip through the South. Mr. Todd was a former resident of Fanwood, and both he and his bride have a large circle of acquaintances in Plainfield.

SUSPECT IS ARRESTED FOR HORRIBLE DOUBLE MURDER

Trenton, Feb. 16.—Mulford Udell, a resident of the Sourland Mountains, near Zion in Hunterdon county, was arrested at Bound Brook, yesterday, charged with the murder of Richard J. Wycoff and Miss Catherine Fisher on the Wycoff farm last Friday. The prisoner denies all knowledge of the crime but is known to have been in the vicinity when it was committed. Other clues also led to his arrest. He is in the Hunterdon county jail and will be held without bond until a thorough investigation is made.

A CORRECTION.

In connection with the arrest of Edward Whitely for stealing jewelry from a Rahway home two weeks ago, the Daily Press stated at the time that Whitely and John Baker Pellinger, formerly of Scotch Plains, were one and the same person. This, however, is not so, and full exoneration is made to Mr. Pellinger, who had no connection whatsoever with the case. Mr. Pellinger formerly resided at Scotch Plains, but is now living in New York. Whitely was arraigned in the Union county court last Saturday and, after pleading guilty on the charge, was released on parole.

A party of nine couples enjoyed a straw ride to Perth Amboy last evening. The party was arranged by Miss Rose Klein, of 339 East Third street. At Perth Amboy the party enjoyed a supper at one of the leading hotels. The trip to Perth Amboy was uneventful, but the return trip was marked by J. Frankel and Miss Minnie Solomon, of 438 West Front street, being thrown off the sleigh when the horses gave a sudden jerk while going under a railroad bridge. Neither were injured.

PLAN TO OBSERVE 'BABY WEEK' HERE

Visiting Nurse Ass'n Fixes on March 4-11 to Advance Infant Welfare.

INVITE SUGGESTIONS

Extension of Work Includes Starting of Additional Branches in Different Parts of the City—Other Local Societies are to Co-operate.

The Visiting Nurse Association of Plainfield, which will co-operate in the movement, has the following to say regarding the observance of "Baby Week":

"The Baby Week campaign is based on the fact that it is sound civic economy to reduce the sickness and death rate among babies and to improve the coming generation by mesaures which will keep the baby and mother well before and after the baby's birth. The community's responsibility for its babies is the central thought for Baby Week.

"There are 1,727 communities considering some preparation for Baby Week, according to the inquiries received by the Children's Bureau of the United States Department of Labor. This number does not include those of whose interest in the campaign word has come to the Bureau indirectly.

"The letters about Baby Week are still coming in from every State in the Union and from every eype of community, such as a Colorado settlement forty miles from a railroad, a club of women on one of the Government reclamation projects, a Montana coal mining town with a large foreign population, a southern mill village, and a club of farm women in a middle western State.

"Texas has its own Baby Week slogan—Baby Health is Texas Health—and Mississippi has started a competition to secure a slogan for that State. North Dakota reports plans for a State wide essay contest in the public schools. In a few State campaigns the State Federation of Women's Clubs, the State University Extension Department, the State Health officials, and those who are especially interested in education are all cooperating in the Baby Week campaign.

"Many large cities are going to have a Baby Week. Definite plans

PRESENTATION OF "HANSEL AND GRETEL"

Miss Sumner Entertains the Plainfield Musical Club in Charming Manner.

The Plainfield Musical Club met at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. George Megrew, on Central avenue, yesterday afternoon, to hear a presentation of Humperdinck's opera, "Hansel and Gretel," by Miss Margaret Sumner, of New York. Miss Sumner presents the entire opera in slight reduced form, impersonating all the characters, the orchestral score being taken by the piano, Miss Erin Ballard, pianist.

The stage setting in the charming billiard room was artistic and unique. Miss Sumner has returned to America after some years of study with the conductor of the Royal Opera at Dresden. Her singing and acting show the true artist, not only as expressed in the pure spirit of youth as shown by Gretel, but in the versatility of presentation. The members of the club and their friends were enthusiastic in their applause at this delightful musical treat.

The animal will be examined in its stable today by a veterinary under the direction of Mrs. Eva Van Hoesen, the local agent of the S. P. C. A. It will probably be condemned. This is the fifth case of this nature that the borough police have taken a hand in this week.

GRIM REAPER CALLS PETER M'DONOUGH

Popular Young Telegrapher Passes Away After Long Illness.

Following an illness which first became apparent last October, Peter William McDonough, Jr., a well known Plainfield young man and for many years a telegrapher in the employ of the New Jersey Central, died early this morning at the home of his brother, John M. McDonough, 233 East Second street. Valvular heart trouble is ascribed as the cause of death. The young man had been detained at home most of the time since October, but it was not until several weeks ago that he was compelled to take to his bed. His case became hopeless about the first of the month and he continued to sink until the end came at 3 o'clock this morning.

Peter McDonough, Jr., was the son of Peter W. McDonough, of East Second street, and was born in this city thirty-two years ago. The family lived for many years on West Third street, near Plainfield avenue, where the father conducted a blacksmith shop and the young man grew to manhood in that neighborhood.

From this humble start he arose to the position of operator and at the time of his illness began was one of the most trusted telegraphers in the railway service. His work at the key was brought to a high state of perfection under the guidance of the late Charles Schermerhorn and it was the latter's boast that "Petey" McDonough was one of his most apt pupils. The boy was always of an ambitious nature and even when he was suffering on his sick bed his one hope was that he could recover sufficiently to get back to his key. His last station was at Brill's Crossing on the Newark branch of the Central at what railroad men know as Oak Island Junction.

Mr. McDonough was greatly liked by his superior officers and many high officials of the company were among the callers in his last days. In the West End especially, where "Petey" played baseball and enjoyed youthful sports with his companions of the day, he had hundreds of warm friends while in other sports of the city and borough as well, his death will cause deep regret. He was always of a happy and a genial disposition, the kind that makes and holds friendship through life.

Beside his father, the young man is survived by four brothers and one sister. These are, William P., James, John M. and Francis Howard McDonough, all of this city, and Mrs. Allen L. Steib, of Bayonne. He was a member of Court Plainfield, No. 44, I. O. F., and also of the Brotherhood of Railway Telegraphers. The funeral will be held at the late home on East Second street, Friday morning at 8:30 and at St. Mary's church, where he always attended service at 9 o'clock. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

ESTIMATED SEWER COST $90,783.06

Work to That Extent Has Been Completed in Borough of Dunellen.

CLAIM IS ADJUSTED

Perth Amboy Requests Council to Cooperate in Defeat of Legislative Bill No. 98, Which Favors the P. S. C., it is said.

The report of the firm of George W. Fuller, the borough's sewerage engineer, submitted at last evening's adjourned session of the Common Council, gave the estimated cost of the work complete to date as $90,783.06, and the streets yet to be finished are as follows:

Madison avenue, between the railroad and North avenue; North avenue, from near Madison avenue to Washington avenue; Prospect avenue, between North avenue and the railroad; South avenue, between Grove street and Madison avenue; Washington avenue from Fourth street to the ejector station; Mountainview terrace (the entire length); Sanford avenue, between Front street and Bound Brook road; Dunellen avenue, about 300 feet west of Sanford avenue.

With reference to the claim of the Watchung Water Company, dated January 3, 1916, for breaking a water main on Washington avenue at Fourth street, which was referred to the Fuller firm at a recent meeting, the firm stated that the condition was investigated and H. K. Corbin, the contractor, advised that the break was caused by his work and that he should make satisfactory settlement with the water company.

A communication was received, apprising the council that the American Good Roads Congress and the thirteenth annual convention of the American Good Road Builders' Association will be held in Pittsburg from February 28 to March 3. The letter stated that the affair would bring together men who are engaged in the practical and scientific construction and maintenance of streets and highways, and that the papers and discussions are sure to be of great value to those engaged in street and road building. The borough was asked to send three delegates to the convention, one of these delegates to be the city engineer. The matter was placed on the table.

A communication was received from Perth Amboy, calling the attention of the council to Bill 98, which was introduced in the State Senate on February 1 by Mr. Rathbun and is considered detrimental to every municipality in the state. The intent of the bill, the communication stated, is to deprive municipalities of the privilege of exercising functions which have always been theirs by inherent right and place over them a state commission with the power to dictate every important detail of management in connection with the operation by the municipalities of the sewer, water, light and other utilities. If this bill is passed, the letter stated, it would be of particular benefit to the Public Service Corporation. The Council was asked to exert its every effort in having the measure defeated. The matter was ordered filed.

Chairman Castner, of the Street Committee, reported that a carload of cinders had been placed on Dunellen avenue, between Madison and Lincoln avenues, and that the street is now open for traffic.

The following bills were ordered paid: Bernard Gannon, $3.15; F. O'Gorman $5 (one marshal's coat); G. Sumner Smith, $9.50 (Board of Health); G. Sumner Smith, $15.75 (collecting sewerage); L. Vossler, $13.50 (North avenue drain). G. Sumner Smith's bill of $15.75 for inspecting, collecting sewerage work was ordered billed to the H. K. Corbin Co., which has been paying these bills since its contract was extended.

Mayor Latham was not present at the meeting, and President Richard M. Ryan presided. The following councilmen were present—Williams, Craig, Castner.

Mrs. John Conklin, of Elizabeth; Mr. and Mrs. William Conklin, of Blairstown, Warren county, and Miss Nellie Henry and Miss Florence Gilchrist, of Glens Falls, N. Y., were entertained by Mr. and Mrs. Marshal Henry, of Washington avenue, over the week-end.

Mrs. William Brokaw, of Dunellen avenue, is numbered among the local grip victims.

After the body had been brought to Briggs' morgue in this city several memoranda were found in the clothes. They were all made out in the name of T. George Meade. One showed that the man had been working in some capacity for the Erie railroad.

Liquor [illegible] jubilant over the defeat of the bill but prohibitionists are not downhearted, for they polled a larger number of votes in the House than ever before, except in 1888 when a similar bill was passed to be repealed a year later. U. S. TERMS ARE MET BY BERLIN

Lusitania Case Expected to Close Today.

BERNSTORFF GETS CABLE.

"Recognizes Liability," but Asks Change of Word Regarding "Illegality" Teutonic Officials at Capital Are Optimistic and See Ending of Long and Bitter Controversy.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Germany's reply to the United States' latest representations regarding the sinking of the Lusitania reached the capital. It is understood that Berlin substituted the words "recognizes liability" for the words "assumes liability."

The revised draft was received here from Berlin. It was submitted to Secretary Lansing today by Count von Bernstorff, the German ambassador.

Several other changes desired by the United States and described as being of minor importance are also said to have been made. In one instance, however, Germany is understood to have proposed a change in the language suggested by the American government.

From high Teutonic authority came the statement that it was expected the Lusitania case would be finally settled to the satisfaction of the United States and Germany at the conference today between Secretary Lansing and Count von Bernstorff. American officials have already said the two governments were "substantially in accord."

The ambassador is understood to be prepared to make the tentative communication a formal note setting forth the instructions which have been given to him by the Berlin foreign office.

It was also stated that the one modification made in Berlin was not material and that German officials here did not consider that the state department would object to the change.

German Officials Optimistic.

Teutonic officials seemed most confident that in acceding to the American request to substitute the word "recognizes" for the word "assumes," preceding the mention of liability of Germany to make reparation for injury to neutrals, the Berlin foreign office had removed all cause of possible difficulty.

The reply accepted one of the two changes suggested by Secretary of State Lansing, but proposed a new wording for the other.

Germany also is understood to have authorized Count von Bernstorff to state specifically in the communication that it is in answer to the last American note on the Lusitania and to direct attention to the assurances which have been given previously in connection with the Arabic case.

Insertion of these provisions was informally requested by Secretary Lansing. With them included, the formal document will in itself be a complete record of the assurances given, the concessions granted and the agreements made.

Officials and diplomats said that if the communication as submitted by Count von Bernstorff contained the statement that Germany recognizes liability for the lives of neutrals lost in the commission of an act such as the sinking of the Lusitania the last cause of contention had probably been removed and that the administration could well proclaim having achieved recognition of the principles for which it has contended.

Berlin, Feb. 16.—Germany's reply to the American government's latest representations regarding the sinking of the steamer Lusitania was forwarded to Washington.

NOTED RUTGERS PROFESSOR DIES AFTER SHORT ILLNESS

Dr. Julius Nelson, one of the best known scientists in this country, died at his home in New Brunswick last night, following an attack of heart trouble which was brought on by pneumonia. He had been professor of biology in Rutgers College since 1888, and was probably best known as an investigator of the shellfish industry in the United States. Dr. Nelson was born in Copenhagen, Denmark, in 1858, and was graduated from the University of Wisconsin, later being awarded a Ph. D. degree by Johns Hopkins University. He is survived by a wife and six children. The funeral will be held tomorrow in Kirkpatrick chapel, Rutgers College.

ASSAILS BRANDEIS BEFORE COMMITTEE

S. W. Winslow Opposes His Appointment to Bench.

Washington, Feb. 16.—A letter arraigning Louis D. Brandeis for [illegible] was read to the senate judiciary committee today by Samuel W. Winslow, president of the National Slow Motion Photo Company, of New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn., who as counsel for the Lake Torpedo Boat Company, of Bridgeport, Conn., was a witness before the committee last week. Mr. Winslow, president of the National Slow Motion Photo Company, of New Haven and Bridgeport, Conn., who as counsel for the Lake Torpedo Boat Company, of Bridgeport, Conn., was a witness before the committee last week. Mr. Winslow charged that Mr. Brandeis as counsel for the Lake Torpedo Boat Company had "deliberately and with premeditation" [illegible] to mislead the committee by the presentation of facts and "falsehood."

Mr. Winslow told the story to Mr. Brandeis, who was present, and the latter, [illegible] Mr. Winslow, rose and said he was "most emphatically not a crooked lawyer." He stated he was "unsolicited to do everything he could by senators disposed to stand by the administration in the controversy that has been raised over the Brandeis appointment."

Charges of unprofessional conduct were also made against Mr. Brandeis by Hollis R. Bailey of Boston, who charged that Mr. Brandeis took advantage of his position as counsel for lessee and lessee of the estate involved in the so called Warren will case to enable one set of interests to derive undue returns for the management of the $21,000,000 paper mill property.

The committee decided not to summon Charles W. Mellen to testify in connection with the assertion of Charles W. Barron that Mr. Brandeis had assisted in an "attempt to wreck the New Haven road."

SAYS HOT WATER WASHES POISONS FROM THE LIVER

Everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it, before breakfast.

To feel as fine as the morning sun and have a healthy appetite [illegible] take a glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, before breakfast, to flush from the liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible material, the poisons, sour bile and toxins, thus cleansing, sweetening and freshening the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach.

Limestone phosphate does not restrict the diet like calomel, because it cannot salivate, for it is harmless, and you can eat anything afterwards. It is inexpensive and almost tasteless, and any pharmacist will sell you a quarter pound, which is sufficient for a demonstration of how hot water and limestone phosphate cleans, stimulates and freshens the liver, keeping you feeling fit day in and day out.

TURKS DRIVE BACK BRITISH COLUMNS

Relief Forces Suffer Defeat on the Euphrates.

London, Feb. 16.—A Turkish war office report told of a serious setback suffered by the British in Mesopotamia and adds greatly to the anxiety felt for many weeks concerning the actual status of the campaign.

The latest defeat, according to Constantinople, was suffered by the second British relief force dispatched to the aid of the main British army bottled up in Kut-el-Amara. The British losses are said to include 500 killed.

The Turks attacked the relief force at Suk-el-Schuchuch, where the Euphrates reaches its southernmost point and flows slightly to the northeast to meet the Tigris at Korna. The city lies a little more than twelve miles southeast of Nasrije, which was captured by the British early in the campaign.

The Turkish official statement indicates that Nasrije is again in Ottoman hands and that the southern relief force has been blocked in its advance to the point where the Shatt-ell-Amara flows into the Euphrates.

London, Feb. 16.—The German offensive in the west, which has been felt in Champagne and in the region to the north of Arras, was shifted to the sector southeast of Ypres held by the British. At this point the German official statement announced the capture of British trenches on a front of 800 meters, or nearly half a mile. The German statement added that one officer and "dozens" of men were captured.

MONTREAL WIDOW STRANGLED

Montreal, Feb. 16.—With finger marks on the throat, the body of Mrs. Kate Matthews was found frozen rigid in her home after policemen had forced an entrance. An expert said that the finger prints were those of a woman.

Mrs. Matthews, a well to do widow, about fifty-three years of age, lived alone. The last person known to be in the house with her was a negro maid called Isabel.

BABY WEEK OBSERVANCE

are under way in Albany, Baltimore, Boston, Cleveland, Milwaukee, Minneapolis, Philadelphia, Richmond, San Francisco, Washington and other cities. New York had a successful Baby Week in 1914 and will probably hold another this year in the late spring.

"In its suggestions for Baby Week observance the Children's Bureau lays special emphasis on the opportunity it affords for extending permanent work for infant welfare, such as infant welfare stations, visiting nursing, special nursing and instruction for prospective mothers, city inspection of milk, special work for the prevention of blindness, and little mothers' classes and home nursing instructions for school girls in the upper grades.

"Plainfield is going to have a Baby Welfare Week from March 4-11. If you are interested to know just what some of these plans are telephone to the Visiting Nurse Association, 103 or call at the office, 323 Babcock building. Meetings of interested individuals representing different societies in the city are meeting regularly on Wednesdays at 2:30 at this office to perfect these plans.

"As the public knows, we already have city inspection of milk, visiting nurses, and an infant welfare station. We wish to increase the work of the infant welfare station and start new branches in different parts of the city. This will be the permanent work for the welfare of Plainfield's babies this summer.

"What shall we have for our slogan? Please send suggestions either in writing to 323 Babcock building or telephone these to 103."

Y. M. C. A. SENIORS GIVE A BANQUET

Following "Spread" Dr. Norman Probasco Makes Address on "Health."

The Y. M. C. A. senior dinner, held in the association rooms last night, proved a great success, and was well attended. A short talk by Dr. Norman H. Probasco on "Health," and the need of physical exercise proved to those that attended that the Y. M. C. A. was doing a greater work toward developing and strengthening the young men of the city. Secretary Estes also spoke upon loyalty among men and towards their work, also commenting that last night was the first anniversary of his coming to Plainfield, and of the pleasure that he has derived from his many acquaintances, and the work that has been accomplished during his first anniversary.

Mr. Meermans, physical director, spoke of the coming circus, which is to be held the latter part of March, and asking for the co-operation of every able-bodied man to take an active part, even if it was only to sell peanuts and lemonade. This circus is to be the greatest ever given in Plainfield under the roof of a gym.

There will be issued further information in regard to the show later in the month. In closing with the dinner, three cheers were tendered the women of the auxiliary, who so ably assisted in making it the great success that it was.

TEACHERS TO BE TAUGHT PROPER BREATHING ART

With a view to forming a class in physical culture among the teachers in the local public schools, George A. Keene, a well-known physical director of New York city, and former editor of the physical department of the Health Magazine, will meet with the teachers in the Plainfield High School Friday afternoon, at 4:30. Several of the teachers have accepted the initiative in interesting their friends in the science of proper breathing and body development taught by Mr. Keene, and it is expected that a class will be formed that will prove beneficial to the members themselves and to their classroom pupils, inasmuch as a certain amount of calisthenic exercises, such as are taught by Mr. Keene, are required of every teacher as a part of her classroom routine.

A number of classes have been formed among society people in Plainfield, and it is probable that the members of the Y. M. H. A. will take action regarding the formation of a class at a meeting to be held tonight. Since coming to Plainfield, Mr. Keene has identified himself prominently in the introduction of physical training work.

SELECT LOCAL ALLEYS FOR EAGLES' LEAGUE ROLL-OFF

At a meeting of the executive committee of the Eagles' Bowling League in Rahway last night, the Plainfield Eagles' alleys were selected for the roll-off between the Newark and Elizabeth teams, which finished the season tied for first place. The deciding series will be rolled during the week of February 28—March 4, the exact night to be selected later. Each Aerie has promised to have a great crowd of rooters on hand, and will also have their lodge bands with them.

"AN IDEAL HUSBAND" WILL BE PRESENTED

Stanley W. Burke Has Important Part in Yale Dramatic Ass'n Play.

Plainfield Yale men will be interested in the announcement that the Yale Dramatic Association is to appear at the Waldorf-Astoria, in New York, on the afternoon and evening of March 4. Oscar Wilde's "An Ideal Husband," the play that met with such success on the Christmas trip through the Middle West, will be presented.

The Yale men, under the guidance of E. M. Woolley, 1911, who coached the four one-act plays which were given a year ago, have put on the piece entirely in black and white. There is not a suggestion of color in either the scenery or costumes.

One of the leading parts is taken by Stanley W. Burke, 1917, of Ravine road. At a meeting of the association, held last week, Burke was elected president for the ensuing college year. This is one of the most coveted undergraduate honors, and is awarded only as result of ability.

The matinee performance makes it possible for Plainfielders to se "An Ideal Husband" conveniently. The play will be over in plenty of time to get home for dinner. Tickets may be secured by mail orders addressed to Shepherd Krech, local manager, 37 Wall street, New York city.

DOG SHOW COMMITTEE IS MAKING MUCH PROGRESS

Much progress is being made by the committee in charge of the Plainfield Kennel Club dog show to be held in Co. K armory, March 4. These will be two judging rings, presided over by two of the best known judges.

Trophies will be given for almost every breed of dogs known. Medals will be given to children under 15 years of age showing the best dog and the best bitch.

Policemen and firemen have not been forgotten and will receive a club medal for owning the best dog in these departments.

The premium list will be given to the printer in a few days and will probably be issued the first part of next week. The entries will close on February 29.

An office will probably be opened shortly in the city for receiving entries and also as an information bureau for the convenience of members and exhibitors.

RUNNING ON "HOT AIR."

The time has passed when men are elected to important public office because they can make good Decoration day speeches, because they are not afraid to kiss babies, or because they have whiskers. The American voter long ago learned that national politics plays too prominent a part in the government of the nation and party politics in the government of the State to trust to personality in naming a public official. Those who aspire to serve the people must first evidence a willingness to take the people into their confidence, to discuss all matters of public interest frankly, and to do it both before and after election time.

As the Newark News points out, former State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen, of Somerset county, is a candidate for United States Senator and has told the public what he stands for, while former Governors Franklin Murphy and Edward C. Stokes are candidates in fact, but have not made a single positive statement on any public question, except that Mr. Stokes eternally and forever damns the Federal Reserve act. It is time that these men acquaint the public with their platforms. Mr. Stokes is "agin" anything democratic if one is to judge from his speeches being made in all parts of the State, and Mr. Murphy may be expected to line up with the "regulars" in the Republican party on any question at any time, but so far neither man has shown originality enough, or courage enough, whichever the case may be, to frame a platform of his own. The News says:

"Mr. Murphy should announce same kind of a platform and so should Mr. Stokes. The voters are not betting much on "masked marvels." They may be willing to trust to a man's honesty and loyalty, but they want to know what sort of principles he has in mind to which he will be both honest and loyal. It is time for Mr. Frelinghuysen's rivals to speak up."

GARRISON TO "STAY QUIT."

With the possible exception of leaving the Wilson administration during a crisis the public record of Lindley M. Garrison is an enviable one, and apparently it is closed. Since leaving the cabinet Mr. Garrison has refused to authorize the use of his name as a candidate for office in New Jersey. Republicans feared he would become a candidate for governor and they realized that his name at the head of the Democratic ticket, with Wilson again a candidate, would possibly mean another term of Democratic rule. Governor Fielder and other Democratic leaders have urged Mr. Garrison to enter the gubernatorial race here, but he has not listened to the siren voices from Trenton and Newark. "I would not accept a certificate of election as Governor of the State if it were handed to me," he said the other day, and he followed this positive statement with another that we hope will prove true, "I wish to retire absolutely from politics." Mr. Garrison dropped out of public office of his own free will. If he would have the people believe he was really sincere in his differences with Wilson let him refrain from using the incident as a stepping stone to another office and stay "quit."

A NEW LEGISLATIVE RECORD.

The present week marks the limit of time for the presentation of new bills in either house of the Legislature. The hopper of the law-making machine will be flooded before the week is over, and there will be all manner and forms of bills introduced for the consideration of the Senators and Assemblymen; but few of which will be of moment. There will be bills for personal purposes, bills for political purposes and bills that have no purpose at all, but by cutting down the time of legislative business by resolution members have shown unusual intelligence for law makers. If the present Legislature leaves no record other than that of a short session and a minimum number of new laws put on the statute books it will go down in history as one of the greatest of all time.

NOT ACCLIMATED AS YET.

"Moving is such a bother!" said the housewife who also suffered, but we use stronger language. The Press is in its handsome new home but not exactly acclimated as yet and for a few days editors, foremen, compositors, stereotypers and pressmen will be retarded in their work by a lack of familiarity with their new surroundings. As is inevitable when a big plant shifts working quarters there are many minor parts which have not yet been properly adjusted and until the end of the present week we will not be as proud of the Press as we hope to be after the new plant is working smoothly. We ask the indulgence of our readers and advertisers for another day or two while we are working under severe handicaps.

News reports of yesterday told of the breaking of a levee along the Missisipppi, and today there are thousands of people there homeless while the mad, muddy waters sweep over their farms. Here is an opportunity for the people who gave $3,000,000 to starving Jews in Europe to exercise charity at home, but the destitute people are so near they will probably be overlooked.

This man Ford is a hog for ridicule. He is preparing to start a new peace joy-ride, he says.

Bishop Woodcock declares that worry is a sin.

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

The Greenwich Press wishes the Plainfield Press success in its new home with an enlarged and improved mechanical equipment. As Rev. Dr. Eaton intimated in resigning his charge to enter upon a larger field of usefulness, the press has supplanted the pulpit in its power for public meat. We know that "Community Service" is yours as it is ours. Good luck to you!

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

Polish Up the Gun.

I'm studying the scriptures,
About "Peace on earth, good will,"
And "Love thy neighbor as thy self,"
And all such precepts, still,
While believing all these doctrines,
And precepts, every one,
I feel it is our duty
To polish up our gun.

The golden rule we ponder,
And scarcely ever cease
To offer up petitions
For everlasting peace;
But somehow we can't help feeling
Our duty isn't done,
In this world of warring nations,
Till we've polished up our gun.

Uncle Abner

A feller never knows until the time comes whether he is going to be a daredevil or a coward, and you can't tell much by the looks of a feller, either.

The Hardshell congregation of our village is thinkin' some of cuttin' down expenses by dispensing with the sermons and the music.

A feller gets a worse reputation for drinkin' after he stops than he had before, for everybody says: "You oughta seen him when he was hittin' em up—a regular souse." But then, it's a purty good plan to quit, anyhow.

A Kind-Hearted Editor.

Editor George H. Briggs, of the Remus (Mich.) Index, is a tender-hearted old soul. Recently one of his subscribers passed to his final reward, and among other things which he left behind was an unpaid subscription account of some fourteen years' standing. At the obsequies, after the friends and relatives had taken a last lingering look, the editor, who is also village undertaker, slipped a linen duster, a thefmometer, a palm leaf fan and a recipe for making ice into the coffin before he screwed down the lid.

Conservation.

"And," continued the lecturer, "I warrant you that there is not a man in the entire audience who has ever lifted his finger or in any way attempted to stop this awful waste of our forests and our lumber supply. If there is I want that man to stand up."

There was a slight commotion in the rear of the room and a nervous little man rose to the occasion—and his feet.

"And now, my friend, will you explain in just what way you have conserved the forests of our nation?"

And with the utmost gravity and sincerity the little man said: "I have used the same toothpick twice."

The Nemesis.

Take ye heed, all clever grafters, say no word to any man.
Shun all arts of conversation and upon it place the ban.
Do not speak above a whisper, do not argue, do not shout,
For the dictograph'll get you if you
Don't Watch
Out.
If you've got to speak to someone,
better talk upon your hands,
Or they're liable to have you on a dozen witness stands.
You may have a secret session and may think no one's about,
But the dictograph'll get you if you
Don't
Watch
Out.

Fewer Owl Cars in Seattle.

An interesting feature of conditions accompanying the new dry regime in at least some of the larger cities which closed their saloons December 31, 1915, is the fact that the street car management has changed the schedule of late outgoing cars. Some "owl" cars have been dropped entirely, while others will go earlier than in the past. Officials of the Seattle Traction Company stated recently that "since the dry law went into effect the patronage of late outgoing cars had dropped off 30 to 40 per cent, which necessitated the cutting down of late car service."

Evidently numbers of suburban residents have concluded that as business in general closes at 6 o'clock p. m. and there are no longer any saloons requiring their presence, there is no real need of their remaining in town until the "wee sma' hours" of the morning. Possiby they now enjoy the novel sensation of an evening at home with their families. To some it must be a decidedly new experience, and, let us hope, a happy one.

A retired business man, writing recently from Seattle to an Eastern friend, says: "As was expected, there have been some violations of the dry law, but generally it has been respected, and I think the feeling is that prohibition has had a beneficial rather than a deterrent effect upon staple business generally. The head of a large commission house stated to me that his local flour sales have largely increased during the last two weeks, and that his city salesmen tell him the bakers all agree that their output of bread and cakes is larger than heretofore."

An employe of a large shipbuilding firm says that the last pay day, a few days ago, at their yard was the first time within his recollection "when there was not a long line of women at the pay window waiting to get their husbands' checks." A striking commentary! Do away with the saloons and the workingman's money goes for household supplies and the man goes home to enjoy with his family the fruits of his toil. Why should city or State tolerate the liquor traffic?

The business stagnation which some feared would follow the closing of the saloons has not materialized, so far as Pueblo, Col., is concerned, says the Pueblo Chieftain. Some rooms which formerly were used for bars are being rented without difficulty. The Ackerman store will occupy the remodeled Manhattan bar. A jeweler is having extensivechanges made in another saloon. Business men's lunch and soft drinks are being sold at the former Arkansas Hall. The Waldorf bar is selling soft drinks.

"Bankers say there is an upward trend in business conditions, and there is every indication that Pueblo has adjusted itself to the new state of affairs, and that business will continue to improve," says the Pueblo journal.

"Among the real estate men even more optimism is seen. New buildings are in the course of erection. Real estate transfers are coming in faster than ever according to the county clerk, and the adjoining agricultural and stock raising sections are in greater demand than ever before. Local merchants are enlarging their stocks to meet the increased demand."

Because the men are working now that the saloons are out of commission, Spokane is out of washerwomen, remarks one of the Oregon papers. Dairies are selling more milk. Business is increasing everywhere. In Portland the sheriff's office, district attorney's office and the city police are running a race to see which one can arrest the bootleggers first. They can hardly wait for sufficient evidence before arresting them. Mrs. Jennie M. Kemp, president of the Oregon W. C. T. U., ascribes this condition to the fine work the daily papers are doing to keep up the sentiment. "I did not believe it was possible for people to accept a prohibition law as is being done all over Portland," writes Mrs. Kemp.

On New Year's Eve the Bartenders' Union presented its flag to Dr. Anderson, father of the prohibition law. He had conquered, the men said, and should have the flag of victory, as they are out of business forever.

ROLLER SKATING TO BE A FEATURE

Recreation Committee Will Introduce Popular Sport in This City.

A class in roller skating will be started in the Washington School gymnasium, Thursday night, under the auspices of the Community Center of the West End. Many calls have come to the association for the opportunity of enjoying this popular sport, and by making arrangements with the Board of Education, this added feature was available. No steel rollers will be permitted, the fibre and wood rollers being required for admittance on the gymnasium floor.

Roller skating has become one of the most popular of winter indoor sports, and many public and private skating rinks have been in vogue during the last few months. This innovation of the Public Recreation Committee in Plainfield, however, is the only instance of the kind in the State, and much credit is due the executives, who desire in every way to meet the needs of the residents of the city.

Another recent addition, that of pool tables, will be open for use for the first time on Thursday night. Beside the above two entertaining features, members of the Glee Club will hold a rehearsal in the kindergarten room of the school, while dancing will be enjoyed in the auditorium.

"A GARRISON FINISH"

Proctor's Theatre

By special arrangements made with the William Fox Film Company, the Proctor theatre has the exclusive privilege of presenting the Fox features in this city, which are shown at that theatre every Wednesday and Thursday. Today and tomorrow the greatest newspaper play ever written entitled "The Fourth Estate," which was adapted to the screen by William Fox at an enormous expense, will be shown at Proctor's. An all-star cast appears in this production, including Ruth Blair. To give this feature the atmosphere of true realism, the mammoth mechanical and clerical departments of the Chicago Herald were hired for several days. On Thursday, Friday and Saturday an extraordinary four-reel Keystone, "A Modern Enoch Arden," with Joe Jackson in the leading role, will be seen at Proctor's. Joe Jackson, as most everyone knows, is the famous tramp comedian, trick bicyclist, acrobat and all-around phenomenon. On Friday and Saturday, Henry Woodruff will make his debut before Triangle audiences in "The Beckoning Flame," an engrossing tale of the Far East, in which Mr. Woodruff is supported by the talented Japanese actress, Tsuru Aoki. The vaudeville menu, starting tomorrow, consists of Kathleen Schalloner and Jack Walters, who present an uproariously funny playlet entitled, "A Bachelor's Wife"; Kennedy and Kramer, who will render several high-class song and dance numbers; Jack Onri, one of the cleverest jugglers in vaudeville, and Jones and Johnson in their own original nonsensical skit presented for laughing purposes only. On Friday, "The Red Circle" will be shown as an added attraction, and Saturday afternoon has been set aside for the children's bazaar, at which time a large amount of toys are given away absolutely free.

Plainfield Theatre

The handsomest costumes shown by any tabloid musical comedy that has been presented at the Plainfield Theatre this season, were seen yesterday when "The Mountain Maids" gave their first performance as the feature number of the big seven-act bill for the first half of the week. Ten people are in the company and the gowns worn by the young women excited the warm admiration of men and women alike. Each costume is an absolutely original creation and was set off to perfection by the wearer, in each instance a pretty and shapely girl. "The Mountain Maids" offering is described as a "midsummer breeze," and the comedy and songs in it were as welcome as a cooling zephyr on a hot August afternoon.

Another decided hit in yesterday's bill was made by Rawls and Gillman, a man and woman couple, presenting original songs and comedy. Their act is as full of laugh as an egg is of meat, and their musical numbers were very much out of the ordinary. They were compelled to respond to numerous encores both yesterday afternoon and last night. Other numbers on the program which will be continued today were LeRoy and Goff, singers and dancers; Brunelle and Wilcox, sidewalk comedians; Margo's Mannikins, mechanical pantomimists; Billy Joy, comedienne; and the comedy dramatic sketch, "Putting One Over."

The Pathe semi-weekly is shown at the Plainfield Theatre each week, with changes on Tuesday and Friday. There are also feature photoplays and short comedies and dramas on every program. The added attraction this evening is the popular "Japanese Night" presentations.

The New Liberty Girls show, featuring Jack Conway, is the attraction next Monday at the Plainfield Theatre. The performance is a two-act ten-scene laughable musical melange entitled "Manless Isle," in which Jack Conway, everybody's favorite, assisted by Tom Welch, Sam Bachen, Billy Petrie, Jerry O'Donnell and Jack Kerns are seen in the leading roles, while Etta Joerns, Katurya Dickey and Jennie Ross are the feminine contingent of the company.

Thirty chorus girls introduce many novel airs and late song hits. From the Hotel Cosmo, in New York, the plot runs to mid-ocean, Turkey, the palace of the Sultan; Normandy, a Spanish bull fight, a cannibal island—a wonderful place said to be a thousand miles away, and the crystal palace.

Specialties will be introduced between the two acts by the Bohemian Four and The Daring Sherwoods.

Another great feature will be a travesty on the famous Planquette's comic opera, "The Chimes of Normandy."

Golden Crook Burlesquers.

As usual, the managers for Jacobs and Jermon, the well-known burlesque producers, have used rare judgment and discretion in selecting the various members of the chorus and cast of "The Golden Crook" company, headed by the inimitable Billy Arlington, known the country over as an excellent tramp comedian, which is scheduled to appear at the Plainfield Theatre Tuesday (matinee and night), February 29, as a benefit for Dave Rogers, the genial treasurer of the theatre. Besides his usual funny specialty, Mr. Arlington is the Atlas upon whose shoulders rests the burden of producing the mirth in the main feature of the show, a two-act musical revue entitled "The Midnight Club." In his aid is Frank Dobson, the much talked-of comedian; Alva McGill, the stately soprano; Eleanor Cochran, the dainty soubrette; Hite and Reflow, who are well classed with Vernon Castle; the Beau Brummels Trio, singers with real harmony of latest numbers; and the Russian ballet troupe, headed by Sam Raskin—who are making their first appearance in the United States with "The Golden Crook" Company.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

TO SPEAK ON CHILD LIFE.

Parents and teachers will be pleased to hear that another opportunity will be given them to hear W. D. Murray in his address on "Child Life," in the Congregational church parish house this evening at 8 o'clock. A cordial invitation is extended to all who are interested in the children to attend this meeting. Mr. Murray has long been a close student of children and is acknowledged as an authority in their training.

It Would Not Bend For Any of the Nobles.

Daddy's Bedtime Story — The Tale of Twelve Rings and An Old Bow.

DADDY took Jack and Evelyn on his lap. When they stayed still he told them: "The rude nobles who made Odysseus' palace their home for ten years, even when he was home still disguised as a beggar, voted to hold games and give his wife, Penelope, to the noble who could shoot an arrow through twelve rings set in line. Now, you must please remember that Odysseus and his young son, Telemachus, had planned these games in spite of the nobles. So now Telemachus brought a very strong old bow that a king had once given Odysseus when he was a boy and with it a quiver full of arrows. These he laid on the great hand carved table that stood in the beautiful hall of the palace. Then Telemachus carelessly said that, lest somebody get hurt in the excitement of the shooting game, all other weapons must be put away. Remember that Odysseus was a king and that all ancient palaces had their walls hung with all sorts of axes, slings, bows, arrows and knives. So while the nobles laughed, ate and joked Telemachus had servants clear the hall of every kind of a weapon except the huge old bow and its arrows. He, too, laughed and joked, pretending that he was making lots of room for the game."

"I forget how many nobles there were, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"One hundred. Imagine how much it had cost Odysseus' estate to feed and care for so many men ten years, to say nothing of all the annoyance they had been, making love to his faithful wife. Well, when everything was ready for the game the first thing to do was to bend the bow and tie the bowstring. As the host, Telemachus first tried to do this, but he was only about sixteen, and when he had tried and tried he modestly said that the game was beyond his strength and passed the bow on to the noble sitting beside him."

"Could the noble tie the string?" asked Jack.

"No. He tried with all his might and, with his face flushed by the strain, with his comrades laughing and jeering at him, passed it on to another noble. Another noble tried it and another. Then the next one ordered a slave to fetch some tallow."

"Just like Anne's tallow candle, daddy?" asked Evelyn.

"So they greased the old bow, hoping to make it slippery and soft. But nothing mattered. It would not bend for any of the nobles. Then the old beggar, who, you know, was Odysseus disguised by the goddess Minerva, humbly stepped up and asked if he might be allowed to try," daddy finished, with two good night kisses.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Is Jacob Townsend, Overworked and Worried, Approaching Breakdown?

Ortrude and Jacob Townsend were going out to dinner. It was Ortrude's first dinner invitation. The Parsons were neighbors, friends of the Mortons and Ellsons. Ortrude felt it indicated a distinct score in her favor and was accordingly elated. She had dressed early and was waiting in the parlor for Jacob to appear. She began to get uneasy at the protracted delay and went upstairs to tell him it was time to start. Mr. Townsend was sitting by a table, his head resting on his hand. He was all dressed but his coat, which hung on the back of a chair.

"Why, J. C., what are you waiting for? It is time to start," she said brusquely.

There was no answer, and she continued: "We must not be late of all things at our first dinner party."

Jacob raised his head with apparent effort. "I am not well. I am afraid I cannot go," he said in a low voice.

"Nonsense! We have got to go; they are all ready for us, and it is too late to send regrets." She peered into his face.

"I'll call Tupper and have her get you something to make you feel better. This will all pass off in a minute. Besides, once there, if you feel no better, you can excuse yourself and come home. They will know then that it was no fault of ours that——" She hurriedly left him and called the housekeeper.

"Tupper, Mr. Townsend is not feeling well and he has to go out this evening. Can't you bring him something to help him?"

"What seems to be the matter?" Tupper passed Ortrude and going up to the sick man asked in a voice full of concern: "What can I do for you?"

"Something hot and bracing. I feel faint," he whispered.

"You help him off with his things and onto the bed," she directed, as if addressing a child. "I'll be back soon." And she was gone.

Ortrude made no move to follow Tupper's directions. She walked up to Jacob and laying a hand on his arm said encouragingly: "You will feel all right when you have taken something bracing."

"Is Dudley here?" asked Jacob. "He could take you over and come after you when you called up."

"The children have not come in yet. Besides I could not go without you. You surely will feel better in a minute," replied Ortrude.

Here Tupper entered the room and looked reprovingly at Ortrude when she found Jacob still sitting up.

"Now, drink this, and I will get your shoes off in no time." She bent to unfasten them as soon as Jacob had drained the bowl.

Jacob put up his hand to unfasten his collar, but Tupper had it off in a flash. Then she assisted him to the bed and spread a blanket over him as he wearily closed his eyes.

"I'll get a wet cloth for his head," she remarked and departed noiselessly.

"Do you think it will be impossible to go?" asked Ortrude, determined to make one more effort.

"I am afraid so. You go. Tupper will take care of me. You will have just as good a time."

"Of course I would not go without you. It would never do. I must go and let them know. They are waiting dinner by this time." Her concern was so evidently for the Parsons' inconvenience and her own disappointment that Jacob said bitterly:

"What a pity it is bad form to go alone a few steps in daylight." Ortrude flushed and left the room as Mrs. Tupper came in with the wet towel.

EVANGELIST TELLS OF "THE NEW BIRTH"

Declares That it is the Most Important Truth in This Life.

"The New Birth" was the subject of the discourse by Evangelist Renicks at the German Reformed church last night, in which among other things he said:

"This is the most important truth that can come before us in this life. It is the A. B. C. of the Gospel, the foundation stone, and if a man is unsound in regeneration, he is unsound in everything.

"The new birth is not church joining, baptism, confirmation, or reformation, but a change of heart and life, an implantation of the divine nature in the heart, wrought by the Holy Ghost."

Rev. Renicks spoke of the perfect analogy between the natural and the spiritual birth. He said, "The natural comes first and is earthly, the second is from above, the first is given by another so is the spiritual, the only way into the world is to be born into it, the only way into the Kingdom of God is to be born into it.

"There is great pain at the natural birth, and when Zion travaileth, she bringeth forth children. He said that soul saving is hard work, and there can be no real spiritual births, until the church labors in prayer for souls. Every real revival has been brought about by prayer, preaching is useless without prayer. Moody said he would rather know how to pray than to know how to preach. There is the natural and the spiritual birth cry, no cry where there is no life.

"At natural birth we partake of the nature of our parent, at spiritual birth we partake of the divine nature.

"This new birth is a necessity, a personal necessity, and a universal necessity, and all can be born again by looking, believing and obeying. You are either saved or unsaved."

REPENTANCE IS SORROW

is simply coming back home. We get off the wrong road and get on the right one—that is what conversion is—it is just coming back home.

"Repentance is also sorrow and sham for our sins, not simply being sorry. It is the act of stretching out our hands to God and making a whole-hearted resolve to accept Christ, not just a fugitive attempt. Repentance is a progress toward God. It is getting right and staying right with Him.

"A man may get on a wrong train in going to his destination, but when informed of the fact he is not foolish enough to tell the conductor that he knows where he is going and continue in the wrong direction. If he is sensible he will get off at the next station and board the right train. That is the way it is in the Christian life. You must get on the right train and stay there."

The service at the church yesterday afternoon attracted an unusually large number of worshippers, who were deeply impressed with the Bishop's straightforward Gospel talk. These services will be continued every afternoon as well as in the evening and the Bishop will continue to answer questions that are sent to him. Tonight he will preach on "The Atonement."

In connection with these services there will be a Children's Mission at Holy Cross church, the borough, this afternoon and tomorrow and Friday afternoons at 4 o'clock. Rev. Ralph B. Pomeroy, of Trinity church, Princeton, will be in charge of these services.

Household Hints

APPLE COOKING GERMAN ART

Apple Sauce—Do not pare apples before cooking. They should be well ripened and sound. Wash them well, halve and core them, put into a sauce pan—unless you have a steamer—with merely enough water to prevent scorching. When cooked or steamed tender, but not mushy, rift out and mash through fruit press or colander. Sweeten to taste, sprinkle cinnamon or nutmeg on top.

For company sauce add one heaping teaspoonful of butter to each quart of sauce, two tablespoonfuls of rich cream and sugar to taste. Beat until stiff the whites of three eggs, add to sauce, beat thoroughly, flavor with one-half teaspoon vanilla. Serve cold with whipped cream.

Company Cake—Cream together one-half cup of butter and one cup of sugar. Add one cupful of sweetened apple sauce made plain, into which has been beaten one-half teaspoonful of soda, spices to taste and one-half cupful of seeded raisins. Into this beat two cupfuls of flour until smooth, bake in a moderate oven about thirty minutes. This cake should not be eaten before it is at least twenty-four hours old. It will keep fresh for a week and is very nice to have on hand for unexpected company.

Apple Bread—This is a great favorite among the Germans. It is made by sifting together one and one-half pints of flour, one teaspoonful of salt, two teaspoonfuls of baking powder. Take half pint of plain apple sauce, one-half pint rich sweet milk, sugar to taste. Mix well, then add to flour and other dry ingredients to make a smooth batter. Pour into a greased baking pan and bake about forty minutes in a moderate oven. This should be eaten plain with butter and apple jell.

Baked Apple Dumplings—This is a favorite dish which the children like above all others. To make it, pare, core and cut into halves as many tart apples as you wish to make dumplings. Make a puff paste or pie crust, roll about the same thickness as you would for pie, cut in squares large enough to fold over each half apple, place in baking dish and bake in moderate oven until apples are tender. Serve with milk and brown sugar.

Snowballs—Take one cupful of rice, wash well and boil in water until dry and tender. Add a little salt. Pare and core six tart apples, press rice firmly around apples, roll in sugar and cinnamon, place in baking dish, add the remaining sugar and a small piece of butter to each apple, bake until tender. Serve with whipped cream.

Apple Fritters—This is another apple dish when made by the German method tastes quite different from the usual article. The batter may be either plain or sweetened. Most persons like the plain which is made by sifting together one cupful of flour, one-half teaspoonful baking powder and one-quarter teaspoonful of salt. When ready to use beat in one cupful sweet milk and two eggs well beaten. The batter should be just thick enough to stick to the sliced apples. Unless you know well the flour you are using it may require a little testing to get the batter just right. The apples should be pared, cored, cut into quarter-inch rounds and immersed at least one hour in a syrup made of two heaping tablespons of sugar, one cupful of water and your favorite spice used sparingly.

The fritters should be cooked in a deep kettle of hot fat—smoking hot, but not scorching. Dip a slice of apple in batter, hold a moment to drain, then drop into smoking fat. The fritter will sink to bottom of kettle, but as soon as the baking powder heats it will rise and should them be turned carefully with a fork until it is a golden brown on both sides. When taken from fat they should be dusted with sugar.

PROTECTS WOODWORK

Protect woodwork back of the stove by washing with liquid asbestos paint mixed at home of 3 parts gum lac, 4 parts sodium borate, 7 parts powdered asbestos, 20 parts water. Heat the water, add gum lac and borate and when all have been dissolved stir in asbestos. Half a dozen coatings dried between applications are none too many.

ONION STOPS COUGH

Cut up a fresh onion in pieces small enough to carry in the side of the mouth. The juice going down the throat stops irritation and gives the patient rest from coughing when nothing else seems to do any good.

KEEP URIC ACID OUT OF JOINTS

Tells Rheumatism Sufferers to Eat Less Meat and Take Salts.

Rheumatism is easier to avoid than to cure, states a well-known authority. We are advised to dress warmly; keep the feet dry; avoid exposure; eat less meat, but drink plenty of good water.

Rheumatism is a direct result of eating too much meat and other rich foods that produce uric acid, which is absorbed into the blood. It is the function of the kidneys to filter this acid from the blood and cast it out in the urine; the pores of the skin are also a means of freeing the blood of this impurity. In damp and chilly cold weather the skin pores are closed, thus forcing the kidneys to do double work, they become weak and sluggish and fail to eliminate the uric acid, which keeps accumulating and circulating through the system, eventually settling in the joints and muscles, causing stiffness, soreness and pain called rheumatism.

At the first twinge of rheumatism get from any pharmacy about four ounces of Jad Salts; put a tablespoonful in a glass of water and drink before breakfast each morning for a week. This is said to eliminate uric acid by stimulating the kidneys to normal action, thus ridding the blood of these impurities.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, harmless and is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is used with excellent results by thousands of folks who are subject to rheumatism. Here you have a pleasant, effervescent lithia-water drink which helps overcome uric acid and is beneficial to your kidneys as well.

Buying for the home cannot be done wisely and economically unless the "buyer" is a student of the advertisements—no more than a store may be made prosperous without advertising.

The store's advertisement is the store's daily message to you—and there is not often a day in which there is not something new and interesting in that message.

The "buyer for the home" who does not read the ads is as unprogressive as the merchant who does not advertise.

GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN.

Death could not have claimed any dog whose demise would bring out more general regret in the kennel world than the passing of champion Meadowview Bob Roy will cause. The peer in his class, Bob Roy had gained a place in the affections of show frequenters, and his appearance in the ring was a feature at any fixture. The loss Mr. Cooley suffers financially—though this amount is considerable—is insignificant compared with the actual loss he feels in the passing of an old friend—a companion for whom, through long association, he had formed an indelible attachment. The numerous inquiries about the late of Bob Roy's condition during his fatal illness, and the many expressions of sympathetic regret which have been received since his death, attest the popularity of the dead champion.

No defeat slipped to any local basketball team this winter carried with it more credit than that 28-25 trimming the Plainfield A. A. has handed in Co. M. armory at Somerville. When it is considered that the Recreation Five, which looms up as the best court combination in this city, was smeared by an overwhelming score on the same floor, the feat of the Jonesmen can be better appreciated.

Only trapsshooters with a keen zest for the sport would have faced the traps in such weather as that of Saturday, and the fact that the season's biggest field turned out at the Log Cabin Gun Club gives a line on the allurement that breaking the clays holds to members of that club. Pursuing the same string of reasoning, if a six-foot blizzard and a 90-mile gale happen along next Tuesday, a record jam can be expected for the Washington's Birthday program.

The selection of Baltusrol for the W. M. G. A. championship comes as a balm to local golf enthusiasts, who had dispaired of any title tourney being decided near this city this year. When Belmont Springs was awarded the women's national over the popular Short Hills club, Plainfielders thought their last chance of seeing a big tournament decided near home was gone, but Baltusrol made an eleventh-hour application for the Metropolitan, and won. The dates for the event are June 12 to 17.

When it comes down to rating any one man on the best in his particular line of athletics, much difference of opinion is generally expressed, but local bowling fans who have seen Jack Speary in action are almost of one accord in giving the palm leaf to the pin-busting newarker. Of a number of observers spoken to about Speary's work, every one has unhesitatingly declared the rangy Newark shooter to be the best alley knight seen in this city in many a moon.

The National and International Leagues recently followed the example of the American League, and made their president all-powerful. Maybe the City League, when it convenes in the Press offices this evening, will make Prexy Dobbins czar of the local baseball government.

Carroll Taylor is home from the Colorado School of Mines, nursing a dislocated shoulder, hurt in football last fall. "Curly" met with his mishap the first part of the season, and although he played later, it was necessary for him to have an operation recently, so that the bone might be reset. Taylor, who was one of the N. P. H. S. stars in 1913 and 1912, was a regular on the Colorado eleven, and had an enviable record in athletics. He will not return to college until September.

Y. M. BOYS COME FROM BEHIND AND WIN OUT

Take First of Series With Plainfield High School Sophomore Quintet.

In a series of three games, the first which was played yesterday in the Y. M. C. A. gym. between the Plainfield High School Sophomores and the High School team of the Y. M. C. A., resulted in a victory for the Y. M. C. A. boys, 19 to 14.

During most of the second half the score was tied and only during the last few minutes of play did the Y. M. C. A. boys lead the Sophomores. O'Donell starred for the High School team, with four baskets, while Jackson and Seal were the leaders for the Y. M. C. A. boys, scoring three baskets each. The next game of the series will be played on the High School court, probably next week.

SPORT NOTES

The American League meeting, which takes place tomorrow, will complete the gamut of weighty preliminaries to the real baseball season.

Leach Cross figures that his rest at Palm Beach will get him right for his bout with Young Sayler, at Cincinnati, next Monday night.

From a distance of three weeks head, there is nothing in sight to induce sport followers to believe that Willard and Moran will furnish a show-down.

Capablanca may not be a popular hero, for the game of chess is reserved for the nighbrows. But the way he cleans up tournaments deserves notice.

The annual championship of the Women's Western Golf Association will be held at Grand Rapids, this year, with August 21 as the date for the opening round.

A $1,000 side bet is up on the match play for the professional squash championship between Kinsella and Feron, to be played next week in New York.

Frank Moran is dubbed a clumsy, awkward boxer, but if he can land on Willard's chin he will bring fame and fortune to Pittsburg.

The one big outlook in the wrestling game is a match between Joe Stecher and Frank Gotch. Stecher has them all laid out in a row except the grand mogul.

Many of the Atlantic coast motorboats are on their way to Miami, where a big regatta of the speeders will open on Saturday.

Distance runners in the East are already training for the annual Boston marathon, to be run as usual on April 19.

Eastern college relay teams will take part in the indoor games of the Missouri Athletic Association at St. Louis, next month.

The only living old-time billiard champion is John Deery, who is celebrating his seventy-fourth birthday today.

The Middle Atlantic A. A. U. boxing championship begins Friday night at Pittsburg. Seven classes are on the card, and a big list of entries is in.

Joe Mandot, who "got his" last month from Benny Leonard in New York, will make his come-back in a twenty-round battle with Johnny Dundee at New Orleans, Monday night next. Joe seems to go better on his home grounds.

P. H. S. GIRLS AT ROSELLE PARK.

The Plainfield High School girls' team is playing a game with the Roselle Park girls' basketball team, at Roselle Park, this afternoon, as the result of an eleventh-hour arrangement. Both teams have met twice before this season, each quintet winning once, and today's game will decide the season's honors.

HIGH SCHOOL ALUMNI WILL GATHER TONIGHT

Grads of Two Institutions to Play Basketball and Dance in Saengerbund.

Alumni of the two city and borough High Schools will meet in a basketball encounter at Saengerbund Hall tonight. The occasion is expected to be a reunion of the graduates of the two schools, and the game will be followed by an informal dance.

Players well known in scholastic circles a few seasons ago will take part in the game. For Plainfield High School, Dan McNamee, captain of last year's Red and Blue quintet, will play one forward, and John Heron, hero of the 1913 team that won the championship in an overtime period, will be the other shooter. Alfred Manley, a P. H. S. captain in 1911, will play center, while the guards will be Ted Gavett, former Cornell man, and Clyde Doane, who matriculated to Williams, after getting on all the P. H. S. teams.

The N. P. H. S. representatives will be picked largely from the teams of two and three seasons ago. Bill Taylor and Frank Dunning will be forwards, Roy Love will play the pivot position, with George Townley and Ashley Burner filling in the guards.

ST. JOSEPH'S ON K. C. COURT TOMORROW NIGHT

The St. Joseph's Club and the Knights of Columbus basketball teams will meet for the second time this winter on the Columbus club court tomorrow night. The game will be one of a round-robin series in which the St. Joseph's club, Columbus club and T. A. B. club are struggling for the Catholic championship of the city.

WILL NOT BE ANY SAURER BALL CLUB

Team's Withdrawal From City League Was Announced Last Evening.

LEAGUE MEETS TONIGHT

Election of Officers and Other Important Business on the Slate—Saurer Players Will Join Other Plainfield Nines.

Announcement was made last night that there will not be any Saurer Baseball Club on the diamond this year, and that the Saurers will not be represented at tonight's meeting of the City Baseball League. The meeting will be held in the Daily Press offices at 193 North avenue.

Britt Martin, who ran the Saurer team last year, said some time ago that he would not be able to manage the team this year, and as no one to take the veteran's place has appeared, sentiment at the shop seems to be that there will be no Saurer nine.

Several of the members of the team have made arrangements to play on other teams. Eddie Bergen, catcher, and Jack Wilson, left fielder, will wear Clinton Avenue uniforms, while one or two other players will join the Plainfield A. A. Providing the Saurer combination is not organized the players will probably scatter to most of the various teams in the city.

A rumor was current a few days ago that many of the Saurer players, including Manager Martin, would represent Hope Chapel in the league.

The Saurer team has been one of the leading clubs in this vicinity for several years, and had its greatest success in 1913, when it surprised local fandom by defeating the Plainfield Pets for the city championship.

Election of officers and other important business will be transacted at the City League meeting.

THREE MEXICANS SHOT TO DEATH

2,000 See Public Execution In Juarez.

PARADE BEFORE KILLING.

Trio of Victims Go to Their Doom Without Flinching—Paid Penalty For Stealing Ammunition—Obregon Declares In Dispatch He Will Remain Loyal to Carranza.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 16.—Facing a firing squad, three Mexicans were executed against an adobe wall in Juarez. The trio was accused of stealing ammunition from the Twenty-seventh regiment armory in the latter city.

Three other offenders, one thought to be implicated in the theft of the ammunition and the other two said to have stolen beef and lard from the Hearst ranch, were reprieved after the shooting of the first three men, and the reprieve was received with applause from hundreds of people who stood along the canal bank peering over the border line of upraised guns.

The three men shot were Juan Aguilar, trumpeter to General Gabriel Gaviria; Francisco Rejas, civilian, said to have bought the ammunition, and Jose Moreno, a soldier said to have been implicated in the theft.

Parade Precedes Execution.

The six men were marched through the streets of Juarez, guarded by two companies from the Twenty-eighth regiment, stepping to the beat of drums and the occasional blare of trumpets. As the parade went through the streets the crowd increased in number, and when the soldiers and civilians had reached an adobe house near the stockpen where the execution was to occur exceeded 2,000.

Juan Aguilar, the trumpeter, was the first to stand against the adobe wall. He assented to having his eyes bandaged with a soiled handkerchief from one of the soldiers' pockets and fell under the rain of bullets without a whimper.

Francisco Rojas, the second to be executed, waived the mercy of bandaged eyes and stood facing the squad. He cast aside a cigarette before the signal to advance was given, looking straight ahead, and fell in a distorted heap, his face wrenched in agony.

Women Weep.

The death of Jose Moreno, soldier and the last to take the tragic stand, was the most dramatic of the three. He stepped forth in blue overalls, looked eagerly toward a small band of women who were weeping for him, bent low to remove a clump of earth, as if it might soften the fall, then stood erect, hands behind his back. The saber of the commanding officer flashed, and the little man crumpled up like a wisp of straw under the sun.

In answer to rumors that he is not loyal to Carranza, General Alvaro Obregon wired the following to the border:

I will ever be on the side of the Constitutionalist cause and with our first chief, even though this course may lose the remaining arm I now have.

TO HALT COLOMBIAN TREATY

Moore Resolution Asks House Inquiry of Tariff Rights.

Washington, Feb. 16.—Another stumbling block in the way of ratification of the Colombian treaty appeared in a resolution introduced by Representative Moore of Pennsylvania.

Mr. Moore said the treaty would give Colombia not only a cash payment of $25,000,000, but would make it a specially favored country in regard to removing and lessening import duties on some articles.

ARETHUSA SURVIVORS LAND.

Three Hundred Saved—Sixteen Stokers Killed—U-Boat Laid Mine, is Report.

London, Feb. 16.—About 300 officers and men of the crew of the British cruiser Arethusa, which struck a mine and sank off the east coast of England several days ago, arrived at Chatham. It is reported that the mine was placed by a German submarine. Sixteen stokers were killed outright.

Butte, Mont., Feb. 16.—Twenty-one men were killed in the fire which swept through the Pennsylvania shaft of the Anaconda Copper Mining company. Several miners who attempted to rescue comrades perished too. Two bodies have been recovered.

NEED FUNDS FOR BIG CONVENTION

Letter Carriers Appeal to Civic Pride for Financial Backing in Big Undertaking.

WILL ADVERTISE CITY

Elaborate Arrangements for Big Event Will Cost $1,500 to Carry Out—Citizens' Committee Aiding Participants—Souvenir Booklet.

One of the most extensive programs for the entertainment of outsiders ever arranged in Plainfield will be that proposed for the annual convention of the New Jersey State Letter Carriers' Association, which will be held in this city May 30 next. Although the program is designed primarily to mark the yearly session of the State carriers it will be one of the most elaborate and best advertisers of the city's advantages ever attempted and on that date Plainfield will be a mecca for letter carriers and their friends from all parts of New Jersey and sections of New York and Pennsylvania. While the assemblage of Uncle Sam's employes will number nearly 2,000 it is probable that the total of visitors will reach triple that number.

In order to carry out the ideas advanced for the entertainment of the visitors the Citizens' Finance Committee will need approximately $1,500 and this sum will have to be raised largely from voluntary subscriptions. A Federal law prohibits the carrier from soliciting funds of any kind and a number of prominent citizens have come to the rescue and offered to handle the affair. Letters have been widely circulated with a view to appealing to the civic pride of individuals and inducing them to contribute money. In order to carefully plan the program it is essential that the money be secured immediately and small donations are urgently requested. The fund must be raised at once in order to go ahead with the proposed arrangements and all contributions should be forwarded to William Floresch, the treasurer of the committee.

When the committee met last night it discussed in detail the plans and much enthusiastic optimism was advanced from all quarters. Indications at present point to the appearance of between 1,200 and 1,500 New York carriers here on that date accompanied by a brass band of forty pieces and a fife and drum corps of forty pieces. Invitations have also been sent to all of the carriers of New Jersey's larger cities and big delegations are expected from Hoboken, Jersey City, Elizabeth, Trenton, Newark, the Oranges, New Brunswick and other places. It is seventeen years since the carriers convened in Plainfield and the inviting details of the 1916 convention will no doubt draw a record attendance. This year's session has created no little amount of interest, primarily because of the fight waged between Plainfield and Newark to secure the convention this year.

At least 2,000 uniformed carriers will be in the line of march in the afternoon's parade and it is possible that the same number of uniformed lodge members will march. The committee has extended invitations to all local fraternal orders having uniformed ranks and these will turn out in full regalia.

Refreshments will be provided for the visitors and in the evening a big banquet will conclude the festivities. The banquet will be given for invited guests and several prominent speakers will be present to deliver addresses.

As an avenue for advertising Plainfield the commitee will have as its chief asset a souvenir booklet, 2,000 copies of which will be distributed free among the visitors. This will include pictures of various places of interest in the city and will be discriptive of what Plainfield offers the outsider. The cost of publishing this book will be great and several ways have been suggested to defray the expense.

Every Plainfielder having a spark of civic pride it is urged should take an interest in promoting this event as the commitee desires to make it a municipal celebration in which every citizen will have a part. All subscriptions are acceptable, no matter how small. Plainfield has twenty-six carriers and they are doing all possible to promote the big event.

COUPLE ARRESTED FOR DISORDERLY CONDUCT

Thomas H. Ross, of 208 Watchung avenue, and Alma Wing, who gave her address as 516 West 180th street, New York, were arrested at the store of Ross at 2:30 this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. When Patrolman Bader passed the store of Ross early last night he saw the man and woman in the store.

Finally the patrolman asked for an explanation and was told that the woman had come from New York for a visit and had torn a stitch loose in her side. When the officer found her still lying on the floor at 2:25 a. m., after having been there more than six hours, he offered to send her to a hospital and she refused to go, so he sent the couple into the police station. They will be tried tomorrow morning.

AGED WOMAN IS BURNED TO DEATH

Mrs. Julia Tyrrell Loses Life When Clothing Catches From Heater.

SURVIVES FOUR HOURS

Heroic Work of Daughter, Mrs. George Graves, and Volunteer Rescuers Fail to Extinguish Flames in Time.

Mrs. Julia Tyrell, the aged mother of Mrs. George F. Graves, was so badly burned at the Graves home this morning that she died at noon at Muhlenberg Hospital. The clothing of Mrs. Tyrell caught fire from a gas heater and despite the heroic efforts of her daughter and passersby who were attracted by the screams of the two she was fatally burned.

Mrs. Tyrell lived with her daughter, Mrs. George C. Graves, at 301 East Fifth street. She arose shortly before 8 o'clock this morning and began to dress for breakfast. Before her night clothing had been removed she passed a small gas heater in the room and the filmsy material caught fire from the blaze of the heater. Mrs. Graves was in the room with her mother at the time and the two fought desperately to extinguish the burning night dress.

The daughter had Mrs. Tyrell lie down on the bed and roll in an effort to smother out the fire, but instead the bed clothing caught and within a few minutes the room was completely filled with smoke and both women were in danger of suffocation. Mrs. Graves remained in the smoke-filled room and fought to save her mother's life even after she realized that she was powerless alone. She screamed and a passing milkman heard her cries for help. He ran down the street a short distance and notified Chief Kiely, who was passing on his way to police headquarters.

When the chief rushed upstairs and into the room he was almost blinded by the smoke. He quickly took in the situation and immediately removed Mrs. Tyrell from the burning bed, placing her on the floor. Eddie Kalorn, who also heard the cries, rushed into the house and helped extinguish the flames. He then tore a heavy mattress from the flames and wrapped the aged woman in it. Within a few seconds he had extinguished her clothing and her hair, and put out the fire in the room, assisted by Paul Adams, a member of the Netherwood fire company, who was passing and ran in. Meanwhile someone had turned in a fire alarm. Chief Kiely also opened windows in the room and sent for a doctor and an ambulance. Dr. C. H. Pratt, who lives in this section, was at the Graves home within a few minutes. Mrs. Edward Moraller, another neighbor, also heard the cries for help and responded and she aided greatly in attending the injured woman.

It was found that Mrs. Tyrell had been badly burned about the arms, lower limbs, head and neck. She was removed to the hospital in the ambulance.

Mrs. Graves was not burned, although she was unnerved by the shock and almost suffocated by the dense smoke that filled the room while she was trying to save her mother.

Mrs. Tyrell rallied soon after being taken to the hospital, but began to grow weaker shortly before noon and died at 12:30. It is believed that

SEVERE PUNISHMENT PROMISED PRISONER

Nathan Lewis up on Cruelty Charge, to Be Turpentined If Found Guilty Again.

"Your client will be turpentined if he is brought before me again on a similar charge," said Mayor W. L. Smalley in the borough court this morning, in addressing Irving Kunzman, a young attorney, who was representing Nathan Lewis, a baker, of 511 West Third street, arraigned on a charge of cruelty to his horse, preferred by Mrs. Eva L. Van Hoesen, the local agent of the S. P. C. A.

His honor made the above remarks after sentencing Lewis to pay a fine of $30. In passing sentence the Mayor complimented Mr. Kunzman upon the strong plea which he had made in behalf of his client, and told the lawyer that he was inclined to be lenient for that reason. "If you hadn't been present," the Mayor told Mr. Kunzman, "Lewis would have received a heavier fine and a jail sentence as well."

Lewis was arrested by Chief Weiss as he was driving by police headquarters in his bakery wagon yesterday afternoon. The wagon was a heavy one, and it was all that the horse, which was worn out, could do to pull it. The police had had their eye on the outfit for some time. In court Lewis admitted that he had been driving the horse daily from 4 o'lock in the morning until 10 o'clock at night. Mrs. Van Hoesen has forbidden him to use the animal until it has regained its strength. This makes the seventh horse that has been condemned this week as a result of the tivities of Mrs. Van Hoesen and the police.

Jersey City, Feb. 17.—Naval Officer H. He said that he would later in the campaign present a complete platform to the public. His statement is as follows:

"At the earnest solicitation of large numbers of Democrats from every county in the State, and, in keeping with what I feel to be a laudable ambition, I have concluded to submit my name to the Democratic voters of New Jersey at the primary election next September for the party's Gubernatorial nomination. I desire to impress up the democracy how fully I

F. B. LEWIS TRUSTEE OF C. W. SMITH ESTATE

Order Signed by Surrogate Cohalan in New York City Today.

New York, Feb. 17.—An order, signed by Surrogate Cohalan, on file in his court today, gives Frederick B. Lewis, of New York, the right to become trustee of the estate left by Charles W. Smith, deceased father of Charles W. Smith, of 87 Willow avenue, North Plainfield, if he files with the clerk of the court a $120,000 bond.

The heirs are Elizabeth I. Smith, an 80-year-old widow, of New York, and four children: Charles W., of Plainfield; Frances P., of Mamaroneck, N. Y.; Lucy S. Lylie, of Mt. eVrnon, and Herbert J., who resides with his mother. The order of the court was granted on the application of the widow, the sole surviving executrix of the estate, who asked to be relieved from her duties of trust and the appointment of Mr. Lewis, because she was in poor health and too old to continue the duties.

According to her application she, her husband's nephew, George W. Striker, and her husband's friend, Morris S. Thompson, were appointed executors of the estate on January 3, 1893, and the estate today consists of New York real estate, the rents which amount to $19,000 yearly, and $94,000 in personal property. Thompson, she said, died on June 12, 1915, and Striker on July 21, 1915. The bulk of the estate goes to relatives living in and near New York city.

URGENT APPEAL FOR RELIEF IN FRANCE

Population in General is in a Condition of Serious Want.

The American Relief Clearing House of Paris calls the atention of the mercy committee of New Jersey to a new condition which has arisen in France. It appears in the invaded districts of France the stock of clothing and supplies has been practically exhausted and the population in general is in a condition of serious want. In addition to this the German government has made an order prohibiting the exportation of foodstuff from Belgium into invaded France, making the question of clothing and feeding the population in this district one of serious eminence. The question of clothing for these inhabitants demands any aid that can be given.

The situation is critical inasmuch as the small stock of supplies in the stores and warehouses of the provinces have become completely exhausted and there is no means of buying even with such money as passes current in these regions. The consequence is that even people of wealth and consequence are going barefoot, women and children are without clothing; the suffering is extreme on account of the rigors of winter and the impoverished conditions of their constitutions owing to lack of proper nourishment.

This population roughly estimated is 2,112,000, and the proportion of women and children is very large, as the available men have been mobilized or fled as refugees. There are about 25,000 children near Longroy, who are without shoes or sufficient clothing. The situation is rendered more acute by the fact that everything of any value by which the inhabitants might subsist has been confiscated by the enemy; there is not even sufficient wood left from which to make sabots to replace worn out shoes.

This population is entirely non-combatant. We make an appeal for their relief. Contributions of clothing may be sent to the mercy committee rooms at 828 Arlington avenue, or of money to Mrs. Albert Atterbury, 315 West Seventh street, treasurer. Any one willing to assist in serving will be welcome at the rooms any morning but Saturday.

MILITARY HONORS FOR CAPTAIN HAND

Many Comrades Attend Funeral of Well Known Veteran Held This Afternoon.

With the full military honors appropriate to a soldier of his calibre, the funeral service for Captain William Hand, whose death occurred suddenly Monday afternoon at Westfield, was held at 2 o'clock this afternoon from the home of his daughter-in-law, Mrs. Margaret Hand, at 215 Jackson avenue. Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., of which he was one of the members for many years, was present in a body, many of the old soldiers coming from distant points to be present when "taps" was sounded. The body reposed in a handsome casket draped with the national colors and the honored flag for which he had fought zealously during the dark days of the Rebellion.

Many other relatives and friends, beside Grand Army men, were present when the service was opened by Rev. J. Madison Hare, pastor of the Scotch Plains Paptist chlurch. The obsequies were extremely simple, comprising only Scripture reading and the offering of prayer. The floral tributes were numbered by scores, many of them being beautiful set pieces. Two of the most striking of these came from Winfield Scott Post and from Plainfield Lodge of Elks, of which Captain Hand's son, Frederick Hand, has dong been a member.

Following the service at the house the body was taken to the North Plainfield cemetery, a detail of old soldier acting as an escort. Among them were Chief T. O. Doane, John Goodwin and Thomas B. Titsworth, who fought side by side with Captain Hand in Company B, Eleventh New Jersey Volunteers. The ceremonies were of more than passing impression to Chief Doane, as he and Captain Hand had been special comrades in the war, and when the Chief was wounded at Gettysburg, it was only through the assistance of Captain Hand that he was gotten to a place of safety before being picked up by the ambulance corps. When "taps" was sounded at the graveside by the post bugler there was hardly a dry eye in the large gathering, and many of the veterans were almost overcome.

The casket was lowered by six members of Winfield Scott Post, all of whom had been friends of Captain Hand's for many years. These were Edward Willis, J. Worth Coddington, William N. Pangborn, James Fink, Alexander Sargeant and James M. Lewis.

SLEIGH UPSETS.

A sleigh containing two unknown women upset while crossing the trolley switch in front of the Somerset School this morning. Both women were thrown out, and one sustained a slightly injured arm. The sleigh was righted by Peter Freiday, of Coontown, and the women were able to resume their journey toward town after a delay of only five minutes.

URGES 'REAL' PLAN OF PREPAREDNESS

Dr. Richard Moldenke Says This Country Should Face Issues Squarely.

TRAINED MEN NEEDED

Believes in Compulsive Service by Every Man Fit to Fight, and Militia While Serving the State Should Be Under Federal Control.

The much discussed question of national preparedness, together with the recent resignation of Secretary of War Garrison, has led Dr. Richard Moldenke, of Watchung, to express his opinions on the subject, and in the following article he sets forth his views on "True Preparedness," which undoubtedly will attract considerable attention on the part of many who are interested in the matter of a proper national defense. Dr. Moldenke has for years made a special study of conditions in this country, as well as abroad, and for many years has been a prominent figure in national affairs. He says:

"The recent resignation of Secretary Garrison, and the chaotic state of the preparedness program of the country this reveals, prompts me to suggest that perhaps it would be well for the press of the country to invite an expression of the views of our plain citizens—the ones who do not shout from the lecture platform—but who, after all, have to foot the bills.

"I have taken the trouble to compare notes with many men in many walks of life as to the situation, and everywhere I find the desire to have a 'real' preparedness, not the sham article scared up in about the style of our late Spanish War. It will interest your readers that this feeling is particularly prevalent among our citizens of Teutonic blood, and practically all of them in and about Plainfield agree with my own views.

"May I say at the outset that I am an American by birth—from Wisconsin, the son of one of Wisconsin's early pioneers, a nephew of a man who fought and bled in the Civil War; that I am intensely American while extremely proud of my Teutonic blood—as are all of Plainfield's German-Americans. And that they are all eager for a proper preparedness of this country to meet whomever it may suit to challenge us, so that we may defend our hearths and families successfully.

"Can we not learn from the mistakes of the nations beaten and hard pressed in the great war now raging? Can we not learn from the preparedness of Germany, a nation now making so wonderful a fight? Had we not better face the issues squarely and take the best that can be had, adapting it to our peculiar tempera-

Y. M. H. A. GIVEN A BUILDING LOT

May Have Handsome Home Soon on Washington Street, Near Front.

A valuable building lot was donated to the Plainfield Y. M. H. A. at its meeting last night by President Samuel Schwartz. Notice of the gift was given to the association by Chairman Samuel H. Swartz, of the building committee. It is located on Washington avenue, near Front street, and has a 65-foot frontage on Washington avenue, running back 160 feet. The property is very valuable.

Prospects for a home for the association in the near future are very bright. The building committee has $1,000 in the bank, and with a lot on which to erect a building will start a campaign soon for sufficient funds to begin work. Plans are now being worked out by officers of the association.

New officers recently elected were installed at the meeting of last night. A social hour was enjoyed and refreshments were served.

The association passed a resolution opposing the lobst bill, now pending in the State Senate. A letter of protest will be sent to Senator Pierce, representing Union county. A movement against this bill has been started by the state association.

DAUGHTER CLIAMS THAT HER MOTHER IS INSANE

Somerville, Feb. 12.—The authorities of this county yesterday arrested Charlotte Van Kirk, a negress, aged about forty-six, on complaint of her daughter, Mary Van Kirk, of South Bound Brook. Mary charges that her mother is insane. The daughter appeared before Recorder W. R. Sutphen, and he, being familiar with certain facts in the case, issued the warrant.

'THE ATONEMENT' SERMON THEME

Bishop Charles E. Woodcock is Heard by Large Congregation at Grace Church.

ELOQUENT DISCOURSE

Distinguished Prelate Presents Some Positive Views on Perplexing Question—Services Are Largely Attended.

"The Gift of the Atonement" was the subject of Bishop Woodcock's discourse at the mission service at Grace church last night, when he addressed an unusually large congregation. In his talk, the bishop touched on the objections that are often raised. He took his text from Romans 5:10, "We also joy in God through Christ Jesus, by whom we now have received the Atonement." In part the bishop said:

"The two greatest conceptions possible to the mind are God and man. The Atonement is accepted by everyone, but views concerning it differ widely. The need for it is to be found in sin. This has come between man and God. The Atonement came by Christ. Conceived by the Holy Ghost. He possessed the nature of God, which nature He had with God from everlasting. Born of the virgin He possessed the nature of man.

"While there are many who cannot accept the Atonement because they say it is miraculous, that is the very reason why I do accept it. If I could understand Christ, His birth, His nature, I should not believe in Him. I cannot understand anyone of you and why should I be expected to comprehend the divine.

"As for the problem of the virgin birth, if Jesus had been born of Joseph and Mary, how could He have atoned? He would have needed atonement much as I. Besides, it is infinitely harder to believe in a Christ who was accepted after His birth, by the Father, for that would have involved a Saviour with two persons, two wills and two natures. Any man has a Saviour with one person, one will and wto natures. The objectors ask men to accept that which is harder than the truth.

"The Atonement did not buy off God's wrath. God was in the Atonement; God favored it and brought it about. The Atonement did not win God's love; God always loved the human race. It was because God so loved the world that He sent His only Begotten Son.

"Christ did not die instead of the people, but for the people. The distinction is made that the Atonemetn was harsh and meant the suffering of the innocent for the guilty. The idea of its harshnes falls to the ground, for the sufferings were voluntary, and as for the latter objection, the innocent always suffer for the guilty. The mother always suffers for the criminal son, but his guilt does not fall on her soul."

The service yesterday afternoon was largely attended, as usual, when the bishop spoke on the "Meaning of Prayer." His earnestness deeply impressed all present. The service will be continued evry afternoon and evening for the rest of the week closing on Sunday.

COLUMBIAN BAZAAR PLANS SHAPING UP

Big Committee of Workers is Optimistic Over the Coming Feature Event.

Members of the big committee in charge of the arrangements for the bazaar to be conducted in Columbus Club during the week of February 28 met in the parlors of the club last night and discussed the preliminary details. Several decisions were arrived at regarding the entertainment to be provided on various nights and indications are that the week's program will be replete with unique pleasure providing features.

The general committee is composed of club members and their feminine friends and sub-committees have been selected to keep in touch with the individual activities and attend to the various novelties. Enthusiasm was the keynote of last night's gathering and all present were optimistic of the possibilities to make this event a precedent setter in the recreation annals of the club. The entire clubhouse will be given over to the bazaar guests and bowling, pool, cards and dancing will be among the attractions. Booths will be installed in the spacious auditorium and these will be presided over by the women workers.

Many useful and ornamental articles have already been donated by interested friends of the workers and these will be used to supply the booths. A meeting of the numerous chairmen of committees will be held in the club parlors Sunday afternoon, when the plans will be outlined and final assignments made.

An orchestra will provide music adapted to the entertainment during the week and special instrumental and vocal selections will be announced later.

GERMANY TO WAR ON ARMED SHIPS

Does Not Even Exclude Passenger Liners, Bernstorff Tells Lansing.

NEW ISSUE IS RAISED

All Negotiations Between Two Countries Ended by Sudden Shock of New Declaration—Asks Pledge of England.

Washington, Feb. 17.—A new issue of far-reaching importance between the U. S. and Germany was raised today at a conference between Secretary Lansing and Count von Bernstorff, the German Ambassador. Germany never intended her pledges and assurances in regard to submarine warfare to apply to armed ships, it became known today. Germany does not now intend to nullify the success of her future submarine campaign by admitting that armed passenger ships should not be threatened as auxiliary cruisers. Germany is willing to take a pledge from Great Britain that her passenger ships are not armed, and that the secret British Admiralty order does not include passenger ships. If such pledge were given Germany would sink no passenger ships without warning and without vigilant search. This, in effect, is the German declaration.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The State Department today made public the text of the Austrian memorandum relating to the new submarine campaign against armed merchantmen. The note says that the British admiralty as far back as 1913 caused a large number of English merchant vessels to be armed that during the present war these merchant vessels have made use of guns against hostile war vessels and that instructions have been found on board captured English steamers showing that the Royal British government has incited their merchant vessels to these illegal acts in direct contradiction of the assurances given the State Department. The note says that merchant ships armed with cannon for whatever purpose loses the character of peaceful vessels and that therefore orders have been given to the Austro-Hungarian naval forces to treat such ships as belligerent vessels. This order will not go into effect until February 29, so that neutral powers may warn their nationals of the dangers to which they are exposed on armed merchantment vessels of the countries at war.

Roumania to Stay Neutral.

Paris, Feb. 17.—A despatch from Petrograd to the Petit Parisien says that Roumania will continue her present neutrality until Russia achieves success in Boukowina, when she will throw in her lot with the Allies. She cannot at the present time risk demanding from Roumania a categorical reply as to her intentions.

England's Big War Credit.

New York, Feb. 17.—A cable from London says that the Parliamentary correspondent of the Daily Telegraph reports that Premier Asquith will on Monday ask Parliament to vote a war credit of 500,000,000 pounds, the largest sum ever asked for in the annals of the empire.

Crown Prince in Command.

Paris, Feb. 17.—Crown Prince Frederick William, of Germany, is now in Command of the German armies in Alsace-Lorraine and in the Argone, according to the Echo de Paris.

Danish Order Stops Pulp.

Washington, Feb. 17.—The State Department has received a despatch from the American Consul at Copenhagen stating that the Danish Government had prohibited the exportation of wood pulp and heavy paper.

100,000 Turks Captured.

Petrograd, Feb. 17.—More than 100,000 Turks were taken prisoner and over 1,000 guns captured when the Russian forces captured the Turkish stronghold, Erzerum, according to the official messenger. There were 467 guns in the outer ring of forts, it is said, and 347 in the central group. More than 200 field pieces were captured in the city proper.

TO DARKEN HAIR APPLY SAGE TEA

Look Young! Bring Back Its Natural Color, Gloss and Thickness.

Common garden sage brewed into a heavy tea with sulphur and alcohol added, will turn gray, streaked and faded hair beautifully dark and luxuriant, remove every bit of dandruff, stop scalp itching and falling hair. Just a few applications will prove a revelation if your hair is fading, gray or dry, scraggly and thin. Mixing the Sage Tea and Sulphur recipe at home, though, is troublesome. An easier way is to get the ready-to-use tonic, costing about 50 cents a large bottle at drug stores, known as "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," thus avoiding a lot of muss.

While wispy, gray, faded hair is not sinful, we all desire to retain our youthful appearance and attractiveness. By darkening your hair with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur no one can tell, because it does so naturally, so evenly. You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning all gray hairs have disappeared, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, glossy, soft and luxuriant.—Adv.

Baby Week.

The Children's Bureau, under the Department of Labor, at Washington, has designated the week of 4-11 as a baby saving week, and until that time this column will be devoted to topics on that subject. It is hoped that by this method more parents will be given the chance to learn the accepted principles of infant care.

A Mother's Living.

More important than the mother's diet, although that is very important, is her manner of living. Worry, anxiety, loss of sleep, household cares, great fatigue and social dissipation often affect the quality and the quantity of the milk, and sometimes compel the mother to take the baby off the breast and put it on a bottle. Uncontrolled emotions, fright, grief or passion often cause sickness of the child, and at other times they cause a complete disappearance of the milk. A common cause of sickness of breast-fed children is too frequent nursing. It requires two hours for the baby to digest mother's milk and a longer time if it is fed on cow's milk. This means that a new-born babe should not be nursed oftener than once in two hours. Too frequent nursing will make the baby vomit and sometimes will bring on a severe diarrhoea. A baby that is nursed too frequently is almost sure to be restless and peevish both night and day.

What Children Should Eat.

Before nine months: Milk gruel (cereal), gelatin.

1 year—Milk, gruel (cereal), broth (chicken, mutton).

1½ years—Milk, gruel (cereal), broth, rice, bread, baked apple or sauce.

1½ years—The same, with butter on bread and ripe peaches.

1½ to 2½ years—Milk, gruel, broth, potato (baked), bread, butter, egg (soft), orange juice.

2½ to 3½ years—As before adding digestible young fresh vegetables, as peas, beans, squash; also a little meat every two or three days, chicken, mutton chop, beefsteak, roast.

3½ to 5 years—As before, with eggs and meat on alternate days; also light dessert custard, tapioca, gelatin).

How Children Should Live.

What children need, they must depend upon those that know needs, to secure for them. They are helpless.

Children need to be saved from wrong habits. Sometimes the habits are harder to correct than deformities of the body and may cause even more ill health and inefficiency. They cripple life as weak bones do the body.

Sleep is necessary to life. Health depends upon its regularity and duration. Children under three need twelve hours' sleep at night and a nap both morning and afternoon.

Rest is needed for all the body Air in plenty day and night is a common need. Sleeping in close or overheated rooms fatigues instead of refreshens a child. Lack of fresh air at night also deprives a child of a desire for food in the morning.

Exercise is needed in abundance, but children are delicate and easily harmed permanently when young. play or exertion may leave a boy with a weak heart for life. Strain or undue excitement may destroy the nervous strength of a girl.

Bathing the skin aids in disposing of waste products. Thorough and complete washing with warm water is needed once a day. Teeth and nails require close daily care. Feed children, rest them, wash them, provide water, air, sunshine and exercise.

Food Values.

Until a child has all its second teeth, foods that tax its digestion are to be avoided, so that those assuredly favorable to health and tooth formation may provide the aid required of food for such purposes.

Fats, except cream, butter oil as purchased), acid foods, as tomatoes, vinegar, pickled foods, woody fibre vegetables, as cucumbers, radishes, celery raw), carrots.

Preserved foods of all kinds,

Fresh and warm breads.

With these should be remembered those inadvisable throughout childhood:

Pastry, rich cake, rich nuts, rich pies, dressings; all heavy foods, sugar except as a food ingredient or a small quantity as a food ingredient or a small quantity as a food supplement, but not alone nor constantly. Coffee, tea and every stimulating beverage. The quantity of food daily needed during these years is approximately one and two-thirds pounds (as purchased). About one-fourth of this should be:

Building foods, as milk, eggs, beaus, peas, cereals. These should be eaten with

Energy foods, as starchy vegetables, cereals, breads, sweet fruits, sugar as a food ingredient; oils and fats in milk and meat and with Digestion foods, as green vegetables and fruits. Though not many foods should be eaten at one meal, variety should be wide during a week. —Extract from article by Edith Greer, in Child Welfare Magazine.

Catarrhal Colds.

* * * Very often a child is not getting sufficient fat or oil during cold weather. Note how the Eskimos and Arctic dwellers eat fat to keep well. Children do not enjoy fat food as a general thing and mothers do hence the colds and mucous membrane affections, with colds and bad throats.

But whenever catarrhal colds persist there is usually overeating, rapid and imperfect mastication of food, copious drinking of water, tea or coffee at meals, and too much meat in the diet. Schools, living and working rooms are overheated or poorly ventilated, and children as well as adults, who suffer with these colds, usually dread fresh, cold air and do not get it. Cough medicine, gargles and atomizer sprays will not cure conditions caused by these bad, unhygienic habits. Get rid of all these unwholesome errors and see if the catarrhal colds do not gradually disappear. —Mother's Magazine.

Child Labor Law.

Now is the time to write your Senators at Washington (Martine and Hughes for New Jersey) asking them to vote for the Federal child labor law, known as the Owen-Keating bill. The general purpose of the bill is to prevent in any State the employment of children undr sixten years of age in quarries and mines, and under fourteen in industrial establishments and factories. The bill is opposed in the Southern States, where no such State laws can be secured.

He is an authority on garden planting and the lecture to be given by him is looked forward to with much interest by garden lovers of Plainfield.

BIG EATERS GET KIDNEY TROUBLE

Take Salts at First Sign of Bladder Irritation or Backache.

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble, because we eat too much and all our food is rich. Our blood is filled with uric acid which the kidneys strive to filter out, they weaken from overwork, become sluggish; the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney troubles, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush and stimulate clogged kidneys; to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water beverage, and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.—Adv.

DRINK HOT TEA FOR A BAD COLD

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

DEATH COMES TO THOMAS M'CUE

Veteran Policeman Passes Away at His Home in This City.

WAS ILL A LONG TIME

Was Member of Local Police Department Twenty-six Years—First Officer to Be Retired Here on Pension—Four Children Survive.

Thomas McCue, for twenty-six years a member of the Plainfield police force and the first and only patrolman to be retired from service under a special pension ordinance passed by the Common Council in 1910, died early last evening at his home, 674 West Fourth street. Death came after a long illness which had its beginning in a slight stomach trouble and terminated in complications of the entire system. For the past three months he had been confined to his bed and the end had been expected for several days.

Thomas McCue was born in Ireland sixty-six years ago, but came to this country before he had attained his majority. He was located for a time at Lehighton, Pa., but had been a resident of Plainfield for forty-seven years. He was in the produce and garden truck business after first locating here, but in 1884 accepted an appointment to the police force. At that time the department was comprised only of the chief, the late Charles W. Dodd, and several officers. Among them then were Patrick Lynch, Patrick Flannigan and Charles Geise, all of whom have since died. Thomas McCue was the last of what might be termed the "old guard" that looked after the moral interests of the city previous to the completely organized department which was instituted many years later. Chief of Police Kiely is now the oldest active officer in point of servicee, having been appointed June 5, 1890. With the exception of former Captain Christian Frederickson, who was retired recently, Mr. McCue was the last of the patrolman who served contemporaneously at the time the chief began his duties.

At the time of Patrolman McCue's retirement, a state law existed which permitted cities of Plainfield's class to show appreciation to faithful officers, and a measure was passed in August, 1910, which retired the old patrolman. In 1911 the Legislature passed the general pension act which is now in operation and under the terms of which Captain Frederickson and Patrolman Nicholas Meyers were retired.

In speaking of Patrolman McCue this morning, Chief Kiely said:

"Thomas McCue was in every sense of the word a faithful and efficient officer, serving the people of Plainfield with conscientious scruples that permitted of no laxity. His one idea was to do what was right, and he permitted nothing to swerve him from it. He left the service with one of the best records that we have in the history of the department."

Mr. McCue's wife died several years ago and his surviving family comprises two daughters and two sons. These are Mrs. Jeremiah Elliott, of Wanregan, Conn.; Miss B. McCue, Edward and Joseph McCue—all residing on West Fourth street. There is also one sister, Mrs. William Monsell, of Fourth street and Spooner avenue. Mr. McCue was one of the charter members of St. Mary's church and in the early days of the parish was one of its most progressive workers. He was also a member of Court Plainfield, No. 1144, I. O. O. F.; St. Mary's Holy Name Society and the local Patrolmen's Benevolent Association. His youngest son, Joseph McCue, is president of St. Mary's T. A. B. Society.

The funeral will be held at the late home Saturday morning at 8:30 and in St. Mary's church a half hour later. At the latter service a solemn high mass of requiem will be offered for the repose of his soul. Interment will be in St. Mary's cemetery.

WINFIELD SCOTT MEMBER DIES AT SOUTH BOUND BROOK

William H. Williamson, a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., and widely known in Plainfield, died suddenly last night at his home in South Bound Brook. He had been ill only two days with pleuro-pneumonia. He became ill Monday afternoon while he was at work on a building in Bound Brook, his occupation being that of a carpenter.

Mr. Williamson was a member of Company H, 35th N. J. Vols., and served in the Civil Was with an honorable record. He joined Winfield Scott Post in this city when it was first organized and had been active in its work. One of his last requests was that he be accorded a military funeral by his old comrades, and all members of Winfield Scott Post are especially urged to attend the funeral service. It will be held at the late home, Franklin and Jackson streets, South Bound Brook, Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. C. J. Culp, pastor of the Bound Brook Presbyterian church, will officiate, and interment will be in the Bound Brook cemetery. Winfield Scott Post will conduct the military part of the funeral, and all old soldiers, whether member of the Post or not, are asked to attend.

Mr. Williamson is survived by his wife and one daughter. He has a number of relatives in Plainfield, one of whom is Whitney Frazee, of South avenue, a cousin.

COTTAGE PRAYER MEETING PLANS ARE PROGRESSING

Preparation for the cottage prayer meetings to be held in connection with the Beiderwolf campaign are progressing rapidly. The devotional sub-committee met last Saturday, and reports that eight superintendents have been appointed and accepted. Some of these have already organized their districts. There are nine districts left in which superintendents are to be appointed, and this work will probably be completed at the next meeting on Monday afternoon at 2 o'clock, at 200 West Eighth street.

After the seventeen superintendents are appointed thorough arrangements of all the work will be made. Leaders for the meetings have been provided, so that those opening their homes need not look after details except to the giving of their homes.

It is feared the loss of life at sea has been heavy, as nearly a score of fishing boats which received no warning of the storm have failed to return to their home ports. Ten men were drowned when the Norwegian steamer Njordis was blown ashore on Blacney Point, near Norfolk.

WILSON AGAINST U-BOAT THREAT

New Orders Block Lusitania Settlement.

LONG DISPUTE IS IN SIGHT

Secretary Lansing Refuses to Consider Berlin's Reply to Demands—Teutonic Plan to Sink Armed Merchant and Passenger Ships Reopens Submarine Question.

Washington, Feb. 17.—When the Lusitania case appeared to be settled a new hitch occurred as a result of Germany's declared intention of attacking armed enemy merchantmen without warning after Feb. 29.

More than that, it has reopened the whole question of submarine warfare.

In effect the German government, if it is to give the United States the satisfaction it demands, must practically revoke its recently proclaimed decree that armed enemy merchant ships are to be regarded in the future as auxiliary ships of war.

Before accepting the satisfaction which Germany has agreed to give for a settlement of the Lusitania controversy the United States, it was authoritatively said at the state department, probably will insist on having a written statement from Berlin that Germany in its new submarine campaign will not attack without warning enemy merchant ships armed for defense.

Whether Germany is to accept this new dictum is a matter of doubt. In any event the prediction was made in German embassy quarters that prolonged correspondence between the two governments is bound to ensue. In the meantime, however, there is a possibility that Germany may postpone the operation of her new submarine warfare. This Ambassador Bernstorff sugested in his confefence with Secretary Lansing.

Settlement Was Near.

But for this new development it was stated both at the state department and at the embassy that the comunication from Germany on the Lusitania dispute would probably have brought about an immediate settlement.

Count von Bernstorff when he called at the state department had with him a memorandum from Berlin containing a new draft of the proposed Lusitania agreement. This draft, it is authoritatively stated, embodied all the changes in phraseology which Mr. Lansing had asked for.

Instead of assuming liability for reparation in the case of the Americans who were killed, Germany in this new memo expressed willingness to "recognize" such liability. With the exception of one change, which Germany herself suggested, it is declared that the new draft was practically identical with what Mr. Lansing a week ago wanted written. And this change, it is said, Mr. Lansing does not regard as of material importance.

After reading the draft in the presence of the ambassador, however, the secretary is said to have declared that he and the president desired to consider it in the light of Germany's declaration concerning her coming submarine campaign against armed enemy liners.

Might Nullify Assurances.

Although not discussing the matter in detail with the ambassador, the secretary is said to have indicated a fear that the new German submarine campaign, if carried on in accordance with the circular decree from Berlin, might nullify Germany's assurances given at the time the Arabic was sunk, that liners which did not resist or seek to escape would not be attacked without warning and without measures being taken for the safety of the noncombatants on board.

The ambassador is said to have expressed his personal opinion that Germany, despite the circular warning, has no intention of attacking passenger ships and will confine her operations to enemy freighters and trawlers. This, it is said, appeared not to satisfy the secretary, who is said to desire a written statement from Germany to that effect.

State department officials explained that in its bearing on a settlement of the Lusitania case the new German decree is of utmost importance. In seeking an amicable settlement of this controversy it was pointed out the United States demanded two things.

Two Demands Made.

In the first place she wanted satisfaction for what happened—that is, for the killing of the Americans on board the Lusitania.

In the second place, it was stated, the United States wanted assurances from Germany that the future conduct of her submarine warfare would be in such conformity with the rules of international law that the lives of American citizens traveling on merchant ships of a belligerent power would not again be placed in jeopardy.

Until Germany proclaimed last week her intention of embarking on a new policy of submarine warfare and attacking all armed enemy ships without warning, it was explained, the assurances given at the time the Arabic was sunk were sufficient to cover the demand of the United States concerning the future conduct of submarine warfare. Since then, however, officials state the situation has changed.

RUN DOWN BY AUTO BUS.

Charles Ruten, of 426 East Third street, was knocked down by an auto bus at Park avenu and Randolph road shortly after 7 o'clock this morning, sustaining slight hurts. He was assisted to Muhlenberg hospital, where he is now undergoing treatment, but will probably be discharged in a day or two. Ruten was crossing the street and failed to notice the approach of the bus.

CARRANZA ARMY IS NEARING A REVOLT

Government's Downfall Near, Washington Is Advised.

Washington, Feb. 17.—Information to the effect that the Carranza government in Mexico is nearing a complete downfall was received by government officials in confidential dispatches from the Mexican border. Although officials refused to make any comment, the information is believed to arouse considerable concern in administration circles.

Not least disturbing was the statement made in several of the communications that Carranza followers, unable to get any pay and facing starvation, are in a mood for a new revolution the moment a man strong enough to lead them appears on the scene.

In view of the information received it is thought probable that the American authorities along the border will be instructed to maintain extra vigilance to prevent the organization of any anti-Carranza movements on the American side and also to prevent the shipment of any arms to persons not known to be in sympathy with the Carranza government.

Representatilve Egan of New Jersey presented to Secretary Lansing three Catholic priests, one a Spaniard, who pleaded with the secretary to take immediate action to save their church property in Mexico from destruction.

COSE IS NOT IN RACE FOR CLERK

Too Busy to Be Candidate for Calvert's Job, He Declares.

The use of the name of John T. Cose as a candidate for the Republican nomination for county clerk, to fill the vacancy caused by the death of James Calvert, was entirely unauthorized Mr. Cose declared today, and he is not a candidate

"I will not, under any circumstances, enter the race," said Mr. Cose. "I am too busy with my private business and with the affairs of Plainfield to seek any office and I will not permit my friends to put my name before the voters of Union county."

Mr. Cose is a member of the Plainfield Common Council and is chairman of the fire committee, which means that he is the real head of the local fire department and therefore his municipal work takes a great portion of his time. He was a candidate for the nomination for sheriff in the Republican primaries of 1914 and was defeated by a small margin by George C. Otto.

her advanced age made her recovery impossible.

Mrs. Tyrell was a daughter of the late Felix and Mrs. Sarah Lincoln, among the most prominent of Plainfield residents. She had been a resident of this city since birth, except for a few years spent in Brooklyn shortly after her marriage. She was a woman of exemplary character and was beloved by all who knew her through her long life. The only immediate relative surviving is Mrs. Graves. The deceased was a sister of the late Mrs. Charles M. Raybert. No arrangements for funeral services have been made.

FINED $10 FOR EXCEEDING SPEED LIMIT IN BOROUGH

J. H. Germershauser, a blacksmith, of Stirling, was fined $10 by Mayor W. L. Smalley in the borough court this morning for speeding his automobile on Somerset street.

Chief Weiss was gazing out of the window of police headquarters yesterday afternoon, when Germershauser's auto, going south at high speed, shot across his vision. Officer Kellor was sent out by the chief to follow the machine with his eye. He saw it stop at the Somerset garage. Hurrying there, he placed Germershauser under arrest.

Germershauser admitted to the mayor in court that he was exceeding the speed limit when he passed police headquarters. He said he was making about 25 miles an hour.

LADIES' NIGHT DREW RECORD CROWD AT COLUMBUS CLUB

One of the largest gatherings that has to date attended one of the Columbus Club's "Ladies' Night" affairs was present last night and enjoyed an informal program of entertainment. During the course of the evening a "mixed" bowling tournament was conducted, teams being composed of one male member and a feminine friend. The women in some instances exhibited a good quality of bowling and the competition was close and exciting throughout.

The pool tables and dance floor were also in use, many of the guests enjoying these two entertainments. Albert De Noyes, chairman of the committee in charge of the affair last night, played the part of a chef and provided dainty eatables for those present. He was assisted by several "waitresses," including "Doc" Doyle, Bill Sullivan and Jack Caulfield.

PRINCETON ALUMNI TO HOLD REUNION

Men of All Ages Will Return to Their College Campus On Feb. 22.

Princeton, Feb. 17.—Princeton University alumni of all ages will return to their college campus on Washington's Birthday to observe Alumni Day. The idea of the occasion is to bring the "Old Grads" together when the university is in its working clothes, and it is expected that this winter reunion will be attended by many hundred alumni from all sections of the country.

The program leads off in the morning with a general meeting of the alumni in the historic faculty room in Nassau Hall. Here short talks will be given by Professor E. W. Kemmerer, of the Department of Economics; Professor Frank M. Constant, of the Department of Engineering, and a representative of the chemistry department. These talks will be designed to let the alumni know more about the working methods of the university. Shortly after 1 o'clock a luncheon will be given in Proctor Hall of the Graduate College, and on this occasion President John Grier Hibben, who will have just returned from an extensive trip through the West and South, will deliver an address.

During the afternoon the various laboratories and buildings of the university will be open for inspection and tours will be conducted with members of the faculty or others in charge as guides. This is to give the alumni an opportunity to see the university free from the distractions of commencement or large athletic events. In the late afternoon President and Mrs. Hibben will receive the alumni and their wives at "Prospect."

Several athletic events have been planned in the gymnasium for the afternoon, the most thrilling of which will be a game of water polo; a sport which did not exist in college in the days of the vast majority of the graduates.

The committee in charge of this year's Alumni Day includes James E. Bathgate, Jr., chairman; Walter E. Hope (ex officia), Archibald A. Gulick, F. P. King, A. C. Smith, Philip A. Rolins and Lyman C. Butler.

GRADUATION TOMORROW OF STUDENTS IN SHORT COURSES

New Brunswick, Feb. 17.—Students taking the short courses in agriculture connected with the New Jersey State College will hold their commencement exercises this afternoon at Kirkpatrick chapel, Rutgers College. There will be 120 certificates granted to those completing work in the departments of general agriculture and dairy farming, fruit growing, market gardening, poultry husbandry and home economics.

President William H. S. Demarest of Rutgers College will offer the invocation and pronounce the benediction. Senator George W. F. Gaunt and Dean Jacob G. Lipman will deliver the principle addresses of the afternoon and Professor F. C. Minkler, director of the short courses, will present the certificates. The short course orchestra will present musical selections during the afternoon.

There was a banquet last night at Hotel Klein, at which Professor F. C. Minkler was toastmaster. J. Percy Van Sant represented the alumni. Miss Lanihan, the home economics department, Theodore B. Lewis the general division, and Miss Lyle the poultry section.

Dean Lipman responded to the toast "Service," and President Demarest spoke on the subject of "College Traditions." Professor Lewis of the poultry department responded to the toast, "Our Student."

Miss Ethel Blazier, who suffered an injury to her eye in the basketball game at Scotch Plains last Monday, is reported as being much improved. Miss Blazier is a forward on the Y. W. C. A. basketball team.

URGES PREPAREDNESS

ment without losing the salient advantages? Let us look at the situation as it is—in comparison with other systems. The President is commander-in-chief. He knows nothing of the business of fighting. About the same condition exists in France, and as the English King has nothing to say, in England also. In In Germany, Austria and Russian a different situation is to be found, which makes for less politics entering into the conduct of a war, and a freer hand for the General Staff of the army. Still, with a sensible President this country would not suffer specially from his lack of military knowledge.

"Going down one step we strike trouble. Our Secretaries of War and the Navy are politicians and not expert fighting men. Here is the first change we should insist on in this preparedness program. There are surely among the higher officers of the army and navy men of special executive ability and sufficiently mild political persuasions to fill these two posts acceptably under any President and any party. Then the business of preparedness will be taken out of politics and will be handled by men trained to plan and fight. The necessary check to a possible preponderance of military elements is always had by the Congressional Committee, who handle the purse strings. Look at the sad mess made by the Boards of Strategy of the Allies—nearly all politician instead of soldiers—and note the fate of Belgium, Servia, the Dardanelles disaster, and who knows what is yet to come. On the other hand, look at the German Ceneral Staff and what it has accomplished in fighting overwhelming odds, with the aid of Austro-Hungary, Turkey and Bulgaria, who had troubles of their own to occupy them thoroughly.

"Going down the next step we have our admirable army and navy—both of small proportions to the immense interests to be defended. I am very familiar with these, as also with nearly all the military systems of Europe. I will say frankly that any man who talks of increasing our navy to a point larger than that of Germany, but less than that of Great Britain, is, in my estimation, a traitor to his country. Either we should let our navy have a natural growth of a quite respectable number of ships per annum, or else we should rush as fast as possible to a point where we can tell Great Britain where she goes off at in connection with our strangled commerce. There is no half way in this. Either 'put up' or 'shut up.'

"As to our army, it is idle to tell the American citizen that we must have a big standing army, nor is it necessary. But what we do need is as magnificent a corps of trained officers as it is possible to obtain. We should have a least 60,000 of them on call in addition to the regular army corps. Lack of officers is spelling disaster to Great Britain and Russia. Of all the Allies only France has plenty of trained officers, and she is doing the real fighting of the war on that side. Germany has not found it necessary to advance subalterns, as she has an abundance of University trained men, who have had one full year's military training, and are now put through a six weeks' special training for their commissions. Contrast this kind of instruction with the recommendation of a famous engineer to the Congressional Committee in the preparedness matter. He claimed that two weeks' training would be sufficient to make effective officers. In my estimation he is a fool, and the parents allowing their sons to fight under such officers would be sending them out to be murdered.

"Next, whatever method we adopted to recruit our army—my own view being compulsive service by every man fit to fight—the command should be a central one, by the general government, not by States. I have a great admiration for ex-Secretary Garrison for maintaining his stand on this, and rather resigning than playing to the vacillating policy of the President, even though Garrison is intensely anti-Teutonic in his views. It is manifest that we must begin with the boys at school and train them carefully and with regard to the smallest disturbance of their curriculum of studies. Unquestionably also our militia should be retained, built and have care of State service and be State controlled—but under Government supervision. When our boys have grown to man's estate the proper way will have been found to merge them into the militia, which, in turn while serving the State, must be under Government direction as units of preparedness for fighting the country's battles.

"Let us build out the brains of the fighting machine, the brawn is the easier problem. We have the example of the German army organization that is so far ahead of any of the others that we would do well to study it and adapt the methods to our requirements. German militarism! What do those who talk so glibly about its menace actually know about it? The system of today is as different as that from which many of our German-Americans ran away years ago as night is from day. Let us not deceive ourselves lest we wake up too late. The nations now at war are not fourth-class powers like Spain, of recent memory. Take time to plan right, and then go ahead.

"I should be very glad to hear what others who have thought over these things have to say about the above points. The proof of the pudding is the eating. A friend of mine commanded a company in the storming of one of the forts of Antwerp, and, believe me, the story was not beautiful, but desperately bloody. He also witnessed an attack by a British brigade. Fine young men whom their officers, instead of digging-in at night, led magnificent to the charge right in the open. These young men—as our young men would—looked up to their officers for proper guidance and the care of life and strength. A few minutes later and a shambles was spread before the German machine guns, not a man remaining alive. From then on the German estimation of the British forces has been this: "An army of lions, led by asses."

"Let us not be led into the same blind alley, but adopt only that which is best of all the systems existing. Then we will have 'true preparedness.'"

THE FORUM

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

A bill has been introduced in the Legislature of this State designed to encourage the destruction of hawks and crows by the payment of a bounty of twenty-five cents for each hawk (excepting the fish hawk), and five cents for each crow.

So far as this applies to crows it may not be an unwise measure (although the wisdom of bounty laws of any kind is doubtful), but the proposition to destroy all hawks indiscriminately at once stamps this bill as ill-advised and vicious, and it should be by all means defeated.

Such a proposition can spring only from ignorance of the food habits of these birds. Contrary to the popular misconception, all ornithologists and many observant farmers know that most kinds of hawks seldom capture birds. The United States Department of Agriculture has proven conclusively by the examination of nearly two thousand stomachs of birds of prey, that these birds are for the most part beneficial and should, therefore, be protected by law.

Excluding the fish hawk, there are twelve species of this family found in the State. Five of them are more or less injurious, but three of these are years I have seen less than a dozen in-years I have seen les than a dozen individuals of the three species combined. This leaves but two common hawks that prey largely on birds, but one of these is so small and so scarce, except in spring and fall, that its influence is negligible. The male is scarcely larger than a robin and is unable to capture prey much larger than a sparrow. Furthermore, as it could be killed in any numbers only while migrating, the State would be paying out money for the destruction of a species that spends the summer in the forests of Canada and winters in the Southern States.

This narrows the issue to a single species, the Cooper's or chicken hawk, and it is this bird that is responsible for most of the prejudice against the members of this family. All our six other common hawks live almost wholly on mice, moles, shrews, frogs, snakes and large insects, particularly grasshoppers, crickets and large caterpillars. Owing to their habits of hunting, perching and soaring in the open these useful hawks are far more conspicuous than the sneaking, bird-catching species, and they would be the chief sufferers from the effects of a bounty law.

For years I have been especially interested in the food habits of the birds of prey, and the results of my studies fully bear out the conclusions of the government investigators. I have examined over one hundred and fifty New Jersey hawks, and in the stomachs of the common marsh, rough-leg, red-shouldered, broad-winged and sparrow hawks, have found no trace of game or poultry. One red-shouldered hawk contained five garter-snakes and a mouse; another held the remains of nineteen leopard-frogs, and a sparrow hawk had its stomach crammed with at least thirty-seven crickets.

A single meal of a red-shouldered hawk recorded by the government investigators consisted of ten mice, and the average for the forty-nine rough-legged hawks examined was about three mice apiece; not a single one of the forty-nine hawks contained birds of any kind. Owing to their large size these hawks consume great quantities of injurious insects. The owner of a game preserve in New York State, who had been paying bounties on hawks because of their supposed destructiveness to game, brought to the Museum last fall two red-tailed hawks which he had thus obtained. Between them these two hawks contained eleven mice and shrews.

The red-shouldered hawk is probably our commonest member of the family and large numbers would be killed were a bounty law enacted. It may be of interest, therefore, to give the stomach contents of the fifteen individuals that I have examined. One contained a screech owl; this hawk was found dead, his unusual meal having probably disagreed with him; contents of the others were as follows: 19 leopard frogs; 5 garter snakes and a mouse; 1 grasshopper and 1 spider; 1 chipmunk; 1 shrew; 1 shrew; 2 frogs, 2 salamanders; 1 shrew; 1 vole, 1 young turle; small insects; and six contained only grasshoppers and crickets.

The broad-winged hawks that I have examined had eaten only snakes, mice, large caterpillars, grasshoppers and other insects; while the sparrow hawks had fed almost entirely on grasshoppers and crickets. The evidence clearly shows the folly of the proposition to pay out thousands of dollars of the State money for the destruction of these inoffenisve if not actually beneficial birds. This measure, Senate Bill 39, should be decisively defeated.

W. De W. MILLER,
Assistant Curator of Birds.

WITTPENN IN GOVERNORS RACE

and annual financial expenditures exceeding those of many States in the Union, and later for three terms as the executive of a city also having a population and annual expenditures greater than those of a number of States—the combined revenues of which exceeded those of the State of New Jersey until recent years—have given me a vivid realization of the enormous responsibility and imbued me with a profound respect for and a deep sense of the obligations of executive authority.

"Therefore it is not my purpose at this time to submit a complete platform, but I deem it proper that I should take this occasion to outline some of the underlying principles which I purpose to elaborate as the campaign progresses.

"The old Board of Guardians and the corporations which they represent, who were driven out of political power in 1911, seem to have returned to the State House, where they are now dictating and controlling legislation. They have assembled a powerful band of lobbyists in the legislative chambers, of sinister aspect and corrupt intentions, which a vigilant public press has discovered, but seems unable to banish. Their evident plan is to again take possession of the entire State government, including the executive department, in addition to the legislative department.

"Indictments have already been brought against these bosses publicly by three or four of the handful of outspoken members of the majority in the House and the Senate, and evidence accumulates in other quarters of their designs. They even sought recently to intimidate and discredit the courts in the county in which I reside, by forcing a committee of the House of Assembly to entertain impeachment proceedings, instituted for the purpose of deterring these courts from bringing to justice a malefactor who was their friend, and they desisted from this procedure only when the whole State cried out against the outrage.

"During the past ten years, particularly since 1910, great progress has been made in New Jersey toward the curtailment of privilege, the emancipation of the people from bossism and the freeing of honest industry and labor from corporation greed. I am proud of the fact that my friends and I contributed very substantially towards these reforms. We forced through the Legislature bills that more equitably taxed railroad and other corporation property, and in the later years, under the leadership of Woodrow Wilson, passed the measures establishing the popular election of United States Senators, the Geran election law, the corrupt practices act, the workingmen's compensation law, public utilities act, the Seven Sisters laws, the the jury reform act, etc.

"I believe that there is much more to be done for the common good in the next ten years than was accomplished in the last ten, full as that decade was of progressive achievements. At this time it must be apparent that we can neither hold what we have nor make further advances in self-government unless we can drive the Board of Guardians out

"Privilege is always at work inventing ways to defeat an honest electorate, and therefore we must constantly revise and improve our election laws so that voting may be made simpler, fraud, bribery and intimidation harder, and new schemes of trickery frustrated. Let the work of improving the Geran act be done by its friends, and not by its enemies, as is now proposed at Trenton.

"Beter and cheaper transportation, both of persons and property, is one of the great economic questions of the day. Much of this traffic is passing from trolley cars and railroads to automobiles and auto trucks. Everywhere in this State we need broader and better paved highways over which these vehicles may be run cheaply and safely. These highways will cost millions of dollars, and the money must be found with which to build them. We are now annually frittering away from a million and a half to a million, eight hundred thousand dollars of State moneys alone without providing any permanent roads that will be adequate six or seven years hence. Regulation of the so-called jitneys is but a detail of this great highway transportation problem. Such regulations must, of course, proceed from the State and for the benefit of the people and the municipalities, not for the corporations that hope to maintain a monopoly in their territory. Not only are many five-cent fare lines in the State, which seem to be desired by the people, but auto lines that charge a higher price are starting or have been in operation for some time. All of this business must be regulated in the interests of the public, and not only must it be regulated, but highways must be built to accommodate these vehicles.

"Among the important questions that must be settled is the status of the Governor as the chief executive officer of the State. From a comparatively simple government of years ago, the administration has become a series of units, each in control of some branch of activity. With this condition and through the adoption of political expediencies, these units have ceased to co-ordinate, and the Governor has little but the moral control resulting from respect for his office. If the Governor is to be held responsible he must be made the executive in fact, and the office must become the most influential force in departmental work. He should be the head of a budget commission. He should have power and means to investigate the needs and the workings of every department. He should be required to constitute duly designated heads of departments as advisory committes, at meetings of which matters of general departmental policy might be discussed. In conjunction with this he should have definite power to compel the heads of department boards to submit to him all questions of broad general policy for the purpose of informing him and that he may voice his opinion thereon.

"In this way the Governor might become the actual and responsible business head of the State without infringing constitutional rights and without interfering with the prerogatives of the Legislature.

"In ordr to further insure the adoption of proper State budgets I would recommend to the Legislature the adoption of a rule requiring that appropriation measures should be introduced at least three weeks before the date set for final adjournment. After the introduction of these bills no new measures entailing appropriations should be presented except in cases of emergency.

"Honesty, efficiency and decency should form the bedrock on which to build up the administration of public affairs. On this issue and all that it implies, I purpose to make my appeal to the voters of New Jersey for their support in my campaign for the nomination and to invite all Democrats who believe as I do to join with me.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, FEBRUARY 17, 1916.

A SCHEME TO PAD THE CONVENTION.

Rumors of a scheme to pick delegates and alternates to the Republican National Convention in order that it may be handled by the "Regulars" who have appointed themselves custodian of things Republican in the country are borne out by the manner in which slates are being made in New Jersey. Unless some one protests and protests loud and strong enough to cause a break in the plans of the Dalrymple machine, New Jersey will send a delegation to Chicago that will line up and vote when and how Barnes, Penrose, Root and others of their ilk dictate. It would seem that Republicans in this State, as well as in all parts of the country, had been convinced of the utter futility of seeking justice at the hands of this gang and would be alert for such a deal as is now being planned, but apparently they are sleeping. The Trenton Times calls attention to the "frame up" in the following editorial:

"It is entirely appropriate that Governor Fielder, United States Senators Martine and Hughes should go as delegates-at-large to the Democratic National Convention, and that State Chairman Grosscup, National Committeeman Hudspeth and Congressman Scully should contest for the fourth place. They are leaders and representatives of their party, and presumably in touch with the Democratic voters, and most of them—possibly all, for the moment—are loyal to President Wilson.

"But where are the Republicans who were at one time prominent in their party's councils? The names of John W. Griggs, William M. Johnson, Charles N. Fowler, John J. Gardner, John Franklin Fort, R. Wayne Parker, Foster M. Voorhees, James A. Bradley, Edward C. Stokes, John D. Prince, Samuel K. Robbins and others are conspicuous by their absence from the tentative slates being made up for Chicago. If a similar situation exists in the other States it is not surprising that the party is floundering in its attempt to pick a Presidential candidate."

HELP BUILD A BATTLESHIP.

Marjorie Sterrett, a Brooklyn, New York, girl, has started a movement which has already spread to every section of the country. A few weeks ago she wrote to the editor of the New York Tribune, suggesting that the children of the United States build a battleship, to be called the "America." She enclosed a dime to start the ball rolling, and asked that other little girls and boys, too, send in their dimes.

The editor of the Tribune was favorably impressed by Marjorie's letter, and he published it. Now hundreds of dollars are being sent in by New York children, who are contributing ten cents apiece or more for the battleship "America."

Other big newspapers in various parts of the country are taking subscriptions, and patriotic girls and boys are contributing their dimes by thousands. Congress is expected to take official recognition of the idea very soon.

The Daily Press believes that there are hundreds of children in Plainfield who would eagerly subscribe ten cents, or perhaps more, toward a big, fine battleship for Uncle Sam. So an opportunity is hereby given the children of Plainfield to help in this splendid patriotic movement which is sweeping over the country. The Plainfield Daily Press has appointed a Dime Battleship Editor to receive the dimes of the children, and see that they are sent to Uncle Sam, Washington, D. C., and when he gets enough of them he'll build a battleship of which every American boy and girl can be proud.

A LESSON FOR THE UNITED STATES.

All is not well in England, despite the peaceful manner in which Britons appear to have accepted the conscription bill. The Manchester Guardian, which is the leading paper in the country outside of London, and spokesman for all of England outside of London, warns the government that if it persist in its course on conscription the result will be revolution. It admits a parlimentary majority, but warns that the people of Great Britian will fight the terms of the bill, which the outspoken paper calls a trick, as a deliberate attempt at governmental revolution for its own safety at the expense of the liberties of the people and the civic institutions of the empire. The Guardian further warns the government that its attempt to make it appear that the only opposition to the conscription program comes from the hidebound labor unionists is also a trick unworthy of a great government. The labor organizations are opposing the conscription bill, it declares, but the greatest fight against it is in the hands of the mass of the people without regard to labor or political affiliations. In other words, it is a national civic problem. English people are afraid of war. They are afraid of militarism, even with the life of their country at stake, and it is too late now to convert them. How much better England would have been able to fight had she given more time to preparedness, and how clear is the lesson to this country.

CARRANZA RULE IS DYING.

From Mexico come advance reports of the death of the Cararnza government. Those on the inside with the whiskered chief admit that he will be an ex-president and an outcast within a few months, going the route of Diaz, Huerta and possibly that of Madero. This is not news to those who have studied the Mexican situation. Carranza founded his government on outlawry and brigandry. He was actuated by nothing higher than a greed for gold and power when he sought the presidency and he won his way to the chair over the bloody bodies of thousands of ignorant persons who knew no better than to fight. Even after he became ruler of all excepting a few northern counties he did nothing to raise his countrymen out of savagery. He taught them nothing but how to fight and a soldier's hero is always a soldier. The only redeeming feature that anyone in this country could ever see in Carranza was his fear of the American government and developments of the past few weeks have shown that this is paled when compared to his fear of the bandits who control Chihuahua and other northern countries. Mexico's only hope is a ruler whose policy is one of blood and iron, but who will stand in fear of American intervention, and there is but little hope of this so long as this country pursues a bashful policy of watchful waiting toward its turbulent little Southern neighbor.

Naval Officer Otto Wittpenn today makes formal announcement of his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for Governor of New Jersey. Mr. Wittpenn is frank on those important issues touched in his initial statement to the voters but there are many things he must declare for or against before he is given serious consideration by the voters.

There are not many in Plainfield who would oppose an increase in pay for the firemen, if there is enough money in the city treasury to make the payments. Theirs is a work requiring courage, loyalty and constant service and it is second in importance not even to that of the police department.

Just land a few upon the lad

The Country Editor.

Behold the country editor: He ariseth with due humility in the morn and goeth forth unto his labors with fear and trembling, for he knoweth not what the day shall begat him. He findeth the sanctum woodpile has scattered to the four winds by vandals during the night and he buildeth the office fire with a bunch of old exchanges. He sitteth down amid the wreck of his former desires to write an obituary of a departed subscriber, who left the world and an unpaid subscription account at the same time. He getteth his morning mail and findeth many duns therein; the rent man appeareth at the door and threateneth dire things, and the grocer demandeth his pay in advance. The children crieth aloud for things like other kids have and the wife revileth him for making her wear a last season's hat. The politician cajoleth him into giving him many free puffs and the fond mothers throw fits if he faileth not to flatter their freckled-faced offspring. The life insurance man tackleth him, the book agents and the peddlers lieth snares, and his day is full of woe if he succoreth them not. The ready print-house and the type foundry crieth aloud for their money, and eventide findeth him outside the city gates, busted and alone. Verily his days are full of sorrow and his nights full of repinings, lo, even unto the end of his allotted time.

Knocking Your Town.

It's simple to sing the pessimist's song;
It's easy to find fault all day long;
It doesn't take brains fer to do that stunt;
It's simple to knock and to grouch and grunt,
And say that everything's going to pot,
Whether it's exactly true or not.
And crabbin' a town, fur as I kin see,
Don't never bring no prosperity.
If you find that you've got to growl about
Your town, it is time to git clean plumb out
And hide your discontented face,
And let the folks stay who enjoy the place.
Just wrap your duds in a nice round pack,
And beat it down to the railroad track.
When the train pulls out you kin shake your fist,
And go your way; you will never be missed;
For there ain't no room on the old home roost
For the feller who doesn't know how to boost.
There are lots of men who can't earn their salt,
'Cause they spend all their time a-finding fault
The booster's the boy who knows his cue,
And he sticks right to it through and through.
If he has kind things of his town to tell,
It's dollars in his jeans and he knows it well.
And the feller who finds fau't, day and night,
Will never find a town that will suit him quite.

BAN ON DRUNKARDS.

Passaic Liquor Dealers Participate In Reform Wave.

Passaic, N. J., Feb. 17.—The saloonkeepers of Passaic have agreed not to sell liquor of any kind to an habitual drunkard or to one who spends money on liquor and lets his family suffer This is the result of a campaign which has been carried on here by clergymen and churchmen to have the excise law enforced. The Passaic Retail Liquor Dealers' association have now of their own volition decided that drunkards shall not be served with liquor, and a list is to be prepared which will be kept by city officials and saloonkeepers.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Several changes have been made in the cast of the Junior play, "The Sleeping Car," and the following people are now included: Mrs. Roberts, Lois Goetter; Aunt Mary, Marion Lansdale; California, Fred Smith; the conductor, Parker Newell; the porter, Paul Geary; Mr. Roberts, Everett Case. Miss Miller, who is coaching the cast, is trying to have the play ready for presentation within two weeks, and freequent rehearsals are now being held.

For the first time in many years, the Sophomore class is planning to present a class play. Both "Miss Civilization" and "The Mouse Trap" have been suggested, and it is probable that both may be presented. Miss Miller will probably coach the casts.

The inter-society debate between the Omega and Alpha Literary Clubs of the school has been set for tomorrow afternoon in the auditorium. The question to be debated will be concerning the government control of the making of liquor, and the most successful four members of the two teams will be chosen to form the school team to represent the school in the Rutgers College League.

A leap year dance will be held in the High School auditorium on Saturday night and the girls are doing all of the inviting to the affair.

Dr. Silver, a member of the faculty of Rutgers College, will deliver an illustrated lecture in the High School auditorium tomorrow morning at 11 o'clock on "Life in American Colleges."

LITERARY

The War Has Greatly Inflated Paper Money in Europe.

Taking the present position of the world at large, there is no doubt whatever as to the fact of paper-money inflation. Between July, 1914, and the beginning of 1916, Germany's paper currency increased $1,000,000,000, or something like 320 per cent. France added $1,519,000,000 to its note circulation within that period, or 113 per cent. In Russia, the Imperial Bank's note issues alone rose $1,783,000,000, or 217 per cent., and there was probably other currency put out. Austria has not ventured to publish the figures of her war-time paper-money issues, but they are certainly very large. The Bank of England's note circulation at the end of 1915, together with the special currency—authorized when the war began, put out by the Treasury for account of the English joint-stock banks, and secured by government bonds and commercial paper—showed a total increase of $692,000,000, an expansion of 367 per cent. What might be thought to bear more immediately on the present discussion, the national banks of the United States, under a law passed shortly after the panic of 1907, issued $380,000,000 of "emergency currency" in the first three months of the European war, as against a pre-note circulation of $750,000,000.—Woman's Home Companion.

ANOTHER DANGEROUS SLIDE

- Proctor's Theatre -

"The Fourth Estate," that remarkable Fox attraction which appeared at Proctor's yesterday, will be seen tonight for the last time. This is positively the greatest newspaper story ever written, and is enacted on the screen by a superior cast, including Ruth Blair, Samuel Ryan and Clifford Bruce. Beginning today and continuing the rest of the week the Keystone attraction is a massive four-reel feature entitled "A Modern French Arden," and featuring Joe Jackson, the famous tramp comedian, acrobat, trick cyclist and all-around performer. Bring the children with you to see this picture, for it will delight both young and old. Tomorrow the latest episode of "The Red Circle" will appear at Proctor's as an added attraction, and tomorrow and Saturday also Henry Woodruff will appear for the first time on the screen in a thrilling and engrossing tale of the Far East, entitled "The Beckoning Flame." The vaudeville presented for the latter half of the week, starting today, includes Schallover & Walters in a comedy playlet entitled "A Bachelor's Wife," Kennedy & Kramer, offering several song and dance numbers; Jack Onri, famous eccentric juggler, and Jones and Johnson in a talkfest that will have the spectators in an uproar. The toy bazaar will be held for the children on Saturday afternoon, and "The Strange Case of Mary Page," with Henry Walthall, will soon make its appearance at Proctor's. Announcement is made that on next Wednesday and Thursday Theda Bara will appear in her latest and positively her greatest picture, "The Serpent."

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

PLAINFIELD THEATRE

Manager Shannon has again arranged a bill with seven of the best acts ever seen at the Plainfield theatre for the last three days this week. Probably the biggest number on the program is Lottie Alter and Company in the sketch, "The X Mark."

Lottie Alter, the charming little comedienne who appears in the leading role, is one of the best-liked actresses on the American stage. She is lovable and appealing in a rare degree, and is known from Broadway to Frisco and from London to Melbourne as a mistress of comedy and pathos.

She recently appeared for six months in London as Lovey Mary, in "Mrs. Wiggs of the Cabbage Patch," in which she toured through Australia. She was earlier with Ezra Kendall in "The Vinegar Buyer," leading woman with Roland Reed, and was "Menie" with Joseph Jefferson in "Rip Van Winkle." She has appeared in numberless Broadway productions as well as in motion pictures in which she is a popular favorite.

KATHRYN DICKEY
"Liberty Girls" Company
Plainfield Theatre, Monday (matinee and night), Feb. 21

In her present vehicle she plays the part of an Italian-American girl whose sweetheart has gotten "in bad" through knowing a "bunch of guys," and she makes it her business to get the judge to let him off, as they want to marry and settle down. She is a thrifty little soul and she proves to the judge that they can get along on the young man's very small salary, even if they have only a single chair to start housekeeping with. The story of the sketch is based upon a case that the author saw tried while serving as a juror in the Court of General Sessions in New York, and there is a sense of reality and humor in the playlet seldom found on the stage. The entire program will be repeated tonight, tomorrow and Saturday afternoon and night.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

What Bibbley Wah Did to the Mahogany Banister

'Twas the Greatest Fun.

"IN Uncle Ben's nice old farmhouse was a wonderful banister of very old mahogany," daddy started off soon as two children stopped wiggling. "The wood it was made of had been brought from Africa by a Dutch trader who was a friend of Uncle Ben's grandpa. Clever woodcarvers had fitted the beautiful spindles, and the top rail was graceful and solid, polished by the hands of three generations of the family. Right here I wish you would always remember that mahogany trees sometimes grow to be 100 feet tall. They have beautiful leaves which grow in four pairs of tiny leaves on one stem and the prettiest yellowish white blossoms. They bear nuts the shape of a buckwheat kernel and the size of a pecan, nuts hard as a pebble and glossy black, with a charming orange colored cap on the stem end. They make interesting playthings, and Bibbley Wah always carried a few around in her coat pocket, along with the seashells that a Dutch captain used to send her."

"Tell us about the Dutch captain, daddy!" cried Jack.

"One of the games the boys and Bibbley Wah loved best of all when they visited Uncle Ben over Saturdays and Sundays was to slide down the beautiful mahogany banister. When Anne was busy dipping tallow candles or making gingerbread men for Bibbley Wah and when Uncle Ben was fishing for pickerel over at Whist pond the three children always watched their chance to slide down this lovely old rail, which was so much prettier and smoother than any out in the big barn. You see, all the rest of the family loved the old rail so much that if the children had been seen riding on it they would probably have been set down in a straight chair for—well, quite a long time," daddy smiled. "They were rarely forbidden to do anything that was happy, but the mahogany banister was precious, you see.

"Well, one day Anne was out hunting a hen's nest in the hayloft that Hank Fritz had not been clever enough to find. She wanted to make some extra good ice cream for the children's Sunday dinner, and Uncle Ben was off way beyond Pond hill hunting some runaway calves. So the children slid and slid, their legs wide apart, their feet and arms out for balance, and when they struck the beautiful carved post at the bottom, off they bounded against the big white hall door. Oh, 'twas the greatest fun! Then suddenly Bobbie screamed, and Jim sat right down on the bottom stair and cried, for cut deep into the precious old rail was a straight, hard line dug right out of its old polished surface where the button on Bibbley Wah's little blue dress had gouged out a rut that may be seen there to this day," daddy finished.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Must Jacob Townsend Choose Between Divorce and Ruin?

"Dudley, you have been down to the safety deposit vault lately. Is there any sign of the paper that the 'present incumbant' promised to sign as soon as she was safely married to Dad?" George and Dudley were alone in the store.

"I looked shortly after they came back from their wedding trip, but saw no sign of such a paper." Dudley was rolling up and replacing on the shelves the bolts of gingham that he had been displaying to a customer.

"Daddy is too honest, too peace loving to ever break even with a woman of that sort. If he has not her signature now he will never get it. Things are not going any too well and she is having her own way about money matters in spite of anything he can do or say." George thrust his hands in his pockets and leaned against the counter.

"You are the oldest son and are married and have a family to suffer if things go wrong. Why don't you brace up and say something about it to Daddy?" asked Dudley.

George was silent and Dudley continued: "It is useless to try to hide the fact that we are running behind. We used to have a bank reserve. Now the cash drawer is empty at the end of every month. I do not pretend to take the sum that would be coming to me as junior partner. There is nothing to take. It makes me uneasy, I can tell you."

"In the first place, we are not doing as much business as we did last year at this time, and the way money melts up there at the house is enough to make your hair stand on end. Daddy is too much of a business man not to know where the ship is heading. Why in time doesn't he call a halt?" fretted George.

"You would not ask that if you were in behind the scenes. Precious much good it would do him to call a halt. In fact, I imagine he has tried to do it. That gorgeous young creature spends calmly on." Dudley put the last bolt of cloth on the shelf and sauntered toward the desk.

"You bet she'd stop if she was my wife," sputtered George.

"Would you mind outlining the policy you would pursue, my boy?" Dudley laughed.

"In the first place, if I had started out to be businesslike I would not have married her until I had made her sign the paper agreeing to have no further portion of the property than the third I had deeded to her," snapped George.

"Here, now, no ex-post facto acts. What I want to know is what you would do under existing circumstances. If you have a really respectable plan of campaign I move that you lay the plan before the Governor. The Lord knows he needs help all right enough."

George snorted. "I guess there is no room for argument there. Well, in the first place I would give my lady to understand that as she had a generous settlement she would be expected to confine herself to the income coming in from her own property, for her personal expense, and I would give her the amount Tupper had to run the house on before her marriage. If she could not manage on that amount, Tupper could, and Tupper should do it."

"Your system has great merits, but it lacks one necessary thing for success," said Dudley judicially.

"What is that?" asked his brother.

"It would not work," announced the younger man.

"Why wouldn't it?"

"Simply because my lady would not consent to it."

"She'd have to consent to it." George jerked his head and set his lips viciously.

"Oh, you mean you'd divorce her, and have the town agog with the scandal." There was a sour smile on Dudley's face. "That would be your only alternative."

"You don't mean it is so bad as that?" asked George.

"I do."

SAFETY FIRST FEDERATION INCORPORATES IN HUDSON

Jersey City, Feb. 17.—The New Jersey Safety First Federation of 46 Montgomery street, this city, filed articles of incorporation yesterday afternoon in the county clerk's office. The five trustees are Charles F. H. Johnson, of Passaic; Allison J. Van Brunt, of Newark; William H. Richardson, C. Howard Slater and Frank Stevens, all of this city.

The certificate contains this clause: "The purposes for which this corporation is formed are to study 'safety first' measures that will insure protection of life and limb and to property, and to devise ways and means of putting into operation practical suggestions for such protection as will efficiently increase safety, and to co-operate with and accept the co-operation of organizations, committees, public officials, employers, employees and individuals."

MULFORD UDELL FREED AS KNOWING NOTHING OF CRIME

Flemington, Feb. 17.—Satisfied Mulford Udell knows nothing about the murders of Richard J. Wyckoff and his housekeeper, Miss Catherine A. Fisher, the Hunterdon authorities yesterday released him from custody. Clue after clue is being run out, but the solution of the double crime seems as far away as ever.

The funeral services of the victims who were murdered at the Wyckoff home near Wertsville, Friday afternoon, was held at the Larison's Corner Presbyterian church yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock. The services were conducted by Elder Charles Vaughn, of Hopewell, assisted by Rev. George F. Baker, pastor of the Larison's Corner church. The body of Wyckoff was interred at the Larison's Corner cemetery, and the interment of Miss Fisher's body was in the Clover Hill cemetery.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

Laura Hope Crews, the noted dramatic star, who has appeared in many Belasco successes, will be seen again today at the U. S. Astor theatre in "Blackbirds," a Paramount production of engrossing interest. Miss Crews is splendid on the stage, but she is even better on the screen, and "Blackbirds," with her in the leading role, is one of the finest releases from the Lasky studios this season.

The story abounds in thrilling situations and there is plenty of rich humor at the right moment. Miss Crews, of course, dominates the action throughout, but she has the advantage of a splendid supporting cast of Paramount stars.

Tomorrow and Saturday the photoplay features will be "The Chorus Lady," another Paramount subject, featuring Cleo Ridgely, the beautiful golden-haired young woman whose ascent to stardom has been very rapid. "The Chorus Lady" is a photographic adaptation of the sparkling comedy of the stage, which James Forbes wrote for Rose Stahl several years ago.

The Astor management announces that Geraldine Farrar will soon be seen at the Astor in "The Temptation," produced by the Lasky production, one of the most artistic photoplays ever released.

THE WOMAN'S COLUMN

New York.—The much-heralded operetta for suffrage, written by Mrs. O. H. P. Belmont, will have its opening night tomorrow evening at the Waldorf. "Melinda and Her Sisters" is the title, and the piece is a satire on society. Marie Dressler, Mme. Frances Alda and other notables will be in the cast, and some clever burlesques of the follies of the age will be shown. It seems that Melinda is one of eight sisters. The other seven have been working egotistically for their own individual pleasures and desires, while Melinda alone has been working for others. Of course, Melinda is due to round up the selfish ones, and those of the audience who are susceptible to her arguments. Miss Elsie Maxwell, a clever young composer from California, wrote the music for the show, and her productions have a "go" to them that will captivate the audience.

Cleveland, O.—In last year's business records of women insurance agents in the United States, the name of Mariani tops the list of the successful. She is Mrs. Elizabeth Mariani, a daughter of the late Tom Johnson, mayor of the city and political leader in his day. She was a society belle, became a playwright, and married an Italian nobleman. After the death of her father it was found that the fortune he had possessed had shrunk to a small sum, and Mrs. Mariani became an insurance agent in New York. She is reputed to be earning $20,000 a year.

St. Louis, Mo.—According to articles sent to her home papers by Mrs. S. S. Douglas of this city, who is in Paris working in the American Hospital, the genius of the hospital is Miss Grave Gassette, of Chicago, who was formerly an art student. She has invented new kinds of bandages to meet war conditions, and she has fifty volunteer assistants turning out big quantities of surgical dressings.

Washington.—The President's granddaughter, Miss Ellen Wilson McAdoo, is the champion fresh-air baby. She has set the style, and mothers everywhere are interested in her new sleeping arrangements. So successful has proved her own window-box crib, protruding from an upper window of the McAdoo home, and so highly has it been recommended by prominent physicians, that similar models are being made in many homes where baby's needs are paramount. Mrs. McAdoo adopted the window-crib scheme to insure the health of her daughter, and the physicians who have seen it say it is particularly well adapted to the crowded districts of large cities. The main thing is that the baby is able to live in the fresh air, and any child can secure equally as good air as that which sweeps the McAdoo home.

St. Louis.—When the Democratic political leaders meet for their national convention here in June, they will find the suffraists camped on the next lot, ready to demand that a suffrage plan be placed in the party platform. A big parade will be one of the forcible arguments to show that the women mean business, and Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt will personally head the conference committee, it is said. A similar demonstration will be conducted at Chicago, when the Republicans hold their national convention.

Boston.—The prize play written by a Minnesota woman, Charlotte Chorpenning, while a student at the Harvard department of playwriting, had a successful presentation at the Castle Square theatre last week. The Minnesota woman won the annual prize for her play, "Between the Lines," and the public has taken a distinct liking to the play.

Washington.—Mrs. Leona Wells has completed fifteen years in the federal service, and she was once the highest-salaried woman in the government service. She has done important constructive work at the Capitol, and has an enviable record. She was the first woman to be given the important position of clerk to a Senate Committee. Mrs. Wells has voted in her home state of Wyoming since she came to voting age. Her sex has been no hindrance to her progress, she says, except that it has debarred her from the floor of the Senate.

BIG BATTLESHIP PENNSYLVANIOR TRIAL TRIP A NEARLY READY F

The Pennsylvania.

Newport News, Va., Feb. 17 (Special).—It has been announced by the Newport News Drydock and Steamship Company that the new superdreadnought Pennsylvania, which is to be the flagship of the Atlantic fleet and the biggest vessel of the United States will leave Newport News for her builders' trials this month, probably on or about Washington's birthday.

Powerful as are the new superdreadnoughts Oklahoma and Nevada, the future flagship of Admiral Fletcher is superior to those vessels not only in size, but in armament, for she carries a main battery of twelve 14-inch guns as against ten of the same calibre in the main batteries of the Oklahoma and the Nevada. Those ships are of 27,500 tons displacement, whereas the Pennsylvania displaces 31,400 tons.

The Pennsylvania's contract calls for a speed of 21 knots, but it is the hope and expectation of her builders that she will exceed that speed by at least one knot. The Oklahoma, which under her contract was required to make 20.5 knots, exceeded 22 knots in her recent trials off the Maine coast.

A little more than 200 yards from the spot where the Pennsylvania is receiving the finishing touches is the Elder-Dempster liner Appam, captured by a German raider and brought to Newport News as a prize of war by a German crew from the raider. When the Germans got into Newport News the first vessel that they saw was the magnificent new battleship. Lieutenant Berg, the prize commander, and his men did not hesitate to express their admiration for the mighty fighter, which American naval officers declare is to be the equal in battle efficiency of any vessel of the all-big-gun type afloat.

An idea of the power of the Pennsylvania may be had by a comparison of her broadsides with those of other first line battleships of the dreadnought type now in the Atlantic fleet, or soon to be added to it. The present fleet flagship, the Wyoming, fires from her main battery of twelve 12-inch guns a broadside of projectiles that weigh about 10,000 pounds; the New York, the flagship of the first division of the fleet, like the Oklahoma, fires from ten 14-inch guns a broadside weighing 15,000, whereas a broadside from the twelve 14-inch guns of the Pennsylvania will weigh 18,000 pounds—just nine tons.

In appearance the Pennsylvania is much like the ships of the Oklahoma class. Like them she has a single funnel and has her main battery guns mounted in four turrets. In the Oklahoma the guns are mounted three in two turrets and two in the remaining two turrets. There are three guns in each of the Pennsylvania's turrets, which are placed two forward and two aft.

The Wyoming is 554 feet long, the Oklahoma is 575 feet, and the Pennsylvania is 600. The Wyoming has two 21-inch submerged torpedo tubes, whereas the Pennsylvania, like the vessels of the Oklahoma type, has four 21-inch torpedo tubes.

The Arizona, building at the New York navy yard, is a sister ship of the Pennsylvania, but will not be ready for her trial trips until several months after the Pennsylvania is ready to be turned over to the government. It is expected that the Pennsylvania, Oklahoma and Nevada will all be added to the fleet at about the same time. This will necessitate an almost complete realignment of the first line vessels.

The Oklahoma and the Nevada, New York, Texas, and present fleet flagship Wyoming are expected to compose the first division, the second division being made up of the Arkansas, Utah, Florida, Delaware and North Dakota, which will give to the Atlantic fleet, for the first time in its history, two complete divisions of dreadnoughts.

"POWER OF FAITH" THEME OF SERMON

Evangelist Renicks Addresses Another Large Congregation at Revival Service.

"The Power of Faith" was the subject of the sermon by Evangelist Renicks at the German Reformed church last night, in which he declared that people are saved and kept by faith, they live and walk by faith, are sanctified by faith and the prayer of faith saves the sick. Continuing, he said:

"Faith looks into the future, and brings it down to the present; takes the unseen and makes it real; the key that unlocks the door into the Kingdom, and the only ship that sails the skies. Faith moves God and men, steps out and does things that no one else will do, and overcomes all difficulties. The man who has faith in God, faith in his brethren and faith in himself, will overcome.

"Faith in God and faith in man are the same. Faith in God links us with divinity, and makes us one; and faith in man links us on, and makes us one with humanity.

"When the man stretched forth his withered hand, he was healed. This was faith. The lepers were healed while they were on their way; the blind man went to wash at the command of Jesus, and came seeing; the father believed the words of Christ, went home and found his son healed."

Rev. Renicks spoke of some modern apostles of faith, such as George Muller, William Quarrer, Dr. Barnard, Aramabbi of India, Moody, Dr. A. B. Simpson, founder of the Christian and Missionary Alliance; Hudson Taylor of China and others. The subject for this evening and tomorrow afternoon will be "Divine Healing," or the "Lord of the Body." Subject tomorrow evening, "Signs of the Times." The services will close tomorrow evening.

SERVE SUPPER IN REAL DUTCH STYLE

Successful Affair Held Under Auspices of St. Peter's Lutheran Church.

The Dutch supper given by the Young People's society of St. Peter's Lutheran church in Debele's Hall, last night, was one of the most successful affairs of the kind ever conducted by the society. Covers were laid for 200 people for the supper, which was served between the hours of 6 and 9 o'clock. Everything on the menu was carried out in the Dutch style. The hall was attractively decorated for the occasion with cedar trees, American flags and crepe per, and the tables were lavishly decorated with carnations, daffodils and tulips, the latter the Dutch national flower. Dainty Dutch waitresses, costumed in the native dress and wooden shoes of Holland, waited upon each guest. The young women acting in the latter capacity were the Misses Anna Becker, Hedwig Grotmann, Louise Grotmann, Emily Eckhardt, Lillian Burgess, Lena Hoerster, Ernestine Richter and Emma May.

A feature of the evening were Victrola selections played on a machine loaned for the purpose by the Edison Diamond Disc Company. Miss Anna Moldenke was chairman of the supper, assisted by the following committee: Miss Sophie Faber, Miss Anna Kotte, and Arthur Frank. They were assisted by the following young men: Oscar Hernold, in charge of the wardrobe; Hugo Weber, in charge of the tickets; and the Messrs. Arthur Frank, John Bauer, Joseph Rial and Richard Moldenke, Jr., assisted in various other ways.

PLAINFIELD A. A. IN CITY LEAGUE

Gets Saurer Franchise — to Start April 29—Twenty Games for Each Team.

OFFICERS ARE ELECTED

Schedule Committee Will Meet for First Time Friday Night—Umpire Cortell Engaged—Will Use Only Three Fields—Hope Chapel In.

One change in the circuit of the City Baseball League was made at a meeting held in the Daily Press offices last evening, the Plainfield A. A. taking the place of the Saurer Club, which team, as announced in yesterday's Daily Press, will not be in the field this year. The other five teams that were in the league last year—Netherwood, First Baptist, Clinton Avenue, T. A. B. S. and Hope Chapel—will enter teams again this year.

Much was accomplished at the meeting. The annual election of officers was held, Walter C. Dobbins being re-elected president, and Daniel F. Randolph being reelected secretary-treasurer Thomas K. Apgar, manager of the Clinton Avenue team, was made vice-president, succeeding David B. Martin, who managed Saurer last year.

A committee, composed of Daniel F Randolph, James Monahan and Thomas K. Apgar, was appointed to draw the schedule. The committee will begin its labors Friday night, when the members will meet at the home of Mr. Randolph.

Each team will play twenty games, meeting each opponent four times, twice at home and twice away from home. The season will be started Saturday, April 29. On account of the letter carriers' celebration here Memorial Day, and the annual parade and demonstration Labor Day, no games will be played in the mornings of those holidays.

The suggestion that only three fields be used for league games, proposed some time ago, was put into effect last night. The Tabs and Baptists will share the Myrtle avenue field, Hope Chapel and Clinton Avenue will use the Soccer Field, and the Plainfield A. A. will probably whack up with Netherwood in the use of the latter club's Emerson avenue grounds.

Louis Coriell, one of last year's umpires, was at the meeting, and was reappointed to a place on the league's staff of arbiters. It was voted to increase the umps' salaries from $1.50 a game to $2. Two more regular umpires and one substitute are needed. Applicants should apply to Daniel F. Randolph, 506 Lee place.

It is expected that the team winning the championship this year will receive the same awards that the winners got last year—a pennant offered by Harry Drier, and watch fobs put up by Spalding Bros.

Hope Chapel's being represented at the meeting was a welcome surprise, as it was not known whether or not the former champions of the Sunday-School League would have a team this year. Thomas Heron was the Hope delegate at the meeting.

COMMUNITY CENTER NOTES.

The Municipal Dance in the Washington School auditorium, which was omitted last Saturday night because of Lincoln's Birthday, will be given the coming Saturday night as usual. The new pool tables secured by the Community Center have been installed in the library of the school and will be open for use tonight from 8 until 11 o'clock. The tables will be in operation every night that the school building is open. The roller skating class is to begin this evening in the gymnasium and all persons wishing to join should bring their own skates.

GAMES ON TABS' COURT.

The Independents and the Queen City Five will meet tomorrow night on the T. A. B. S. court and the T. A. B. S. seconds will likely line up against the Grammar School team.

With patched lineups on both sides, the Sophomores and Freshmen hooked up yesterday afternoon on the Plainfield High School court in an Interclass Basketball League scrap, and the Freshies, by winning the fracas, pulled themselves into a tie for second place and also helped the Juniors to a bigger lead.

McAfee was largely responsible for the Freshman victory, and corraled practically all of the 26 points that overcame the Sophomores' 24. The second year men tried hard in the second half to jump out into the lead, and succeeded in playing a tie with the Freshies, but the two-point lead of the first half could not be overcome. Snyder, although playing guard, was high point man for the losers.

P. H. S. GIRLS' SIX TO PLAY P. E. G. S. COMBINE

Following a layoff of three weeks, the P. E. G. S. basketball girls will resume their schedule in the Plainfield High School on Monday night, when they lineup against the Plainfield High School girls' basketball team. The P. H. S. girls won the second scholastic game from the North Plainfield girls last week and much interest is manifested in the outcome of this meeting. The game promises to be a lively tilt. The two teams will in all probability line up as follows:

P. E. G. S.	P. H. S.

Helen Brynairski	Mary Simons

RODMAN PARVIN OUT OF SCHOLASTIT COMPETITION

The Plainfield High School tennis team will be without the services of Rodman Parvin this year. Parvin has left school to accept a position with the Plainfield Trust Company. His loss will be a severe one, as besides being the winner of the Princeton Cup in the local interscholastic championships last year, Parvin was also recently captain of the P. H. S. racquet team. His successor will be elected in a few days.

ELKS GO TO RAHWAY

Eagles Have Chance to Clinch City Bowling Championship by Beating Tabs—Two Basketball Games on Knights' Floor.

Sport fans—the basketball genius as well as the bowling species—will have attractive menus dished up to them tonight. The leading attractions will be the basketball and bowling at the Columbus Club and the City League bowling between the Tabs and Eagles, on the latter's alleys.

One basketball match will be between the St. Joseph's Club, of North Plainfield, and the Knights of Columbus passers, and will be for the local Catholic championship. A girls' game will also be played, the Plainfield Five maidens meeting an out-of-town aggregation.

The five-man bowling championship of the city may be settled tonight on the Eagles' alleys. The Birds need three straight wins over the Tabs tonight to make sure of the City League title, regardles of how they fare in their final match next week, on the Imperials' alleys.

At the Columbus Club alleys, the Bayley Council team, champion of the Knights of Columbus League, will roll against the Plainfield Columbians. The Bayley team is the best in the league, but hard luck has been following the Elizabeth pinners this year, and their chances of finishing in front this year are slim, especially if they lose here tonight.

The Plainfield Elks' big team will go to Rahway. The Jungletowners are going at the fastest clip in their careers just now, and have won their last two matches, one from Jersey City and the other at Paterson.

Fireside Council, of Westfield, will roll a Royal Arcanum League match on the Westfield Theatre alleys tonight against Roselle.

On the Westfield Playhouse lanes, the Presbyterians will toll the Methodists.

TRENTON HIGH FIVE AT HIGH SCHOOL TOMORROW

Another team new to local basketball circles will come here tomorrow afternoon in the shape of Trenton High School, which will play the P. H. S. basketeers on the Ninth street court. The quintet from the capitol city is reputed to be a fast one, and Coach Patch will present his strongest line-up.

Plainfield High Scrubs Again Overwhelm Borough Subs.

The Plainfield High School second team handed the North Plainfield High School second squad an awful beating on the P. H. S. court yesterday afternoon for the second time this season, this time by a 52 to 19 count. The boys from over the brook were woefully lacking in shooting, and put up a great deal worse exhibition than in the first meeting.

The P. H. S. basketeers kept the visitors from scoring until near the end of the first half, and by that time they already had the game on ice. McDowell dropped in baskets from all angles of the court, and from all positions. Of the eight men that took part in the game for P. H. S., only two of theem went scoreless, while two out of N. P. H. SIDE CENTER LEADS ROSELLE'S SCORING

She Was as Near Basket as the Forwards—P. H. S. Girls Defeated.

After defeating the Roselle High School girls on the local court several weeks ago, the Plainfield High School girls' team journeyed to Roselle yesterday afternoon to taste a defeat for the first time in the last six games, the final score being: Roselle, 14; Plainfield, 6. The game was played on a very small court.

The locals were greatly troubled by overshooting, and they were not able to get any degree of teamwork either. Miss Reuhl, the Roselle side center, had her shots from the middle of the court timed nicely and caged a goal on two different occasions. Miss Apgar did all of the foul shooting for the home team and made one basket. Miss Good, the Red and Blue captain, was out of the lineup, and Miss Simmons, who took her place, was responsible for all of the P. H. S. points, making two baskets and two fouls.

N. P. H. S. GRADS WIN THE MATCH

Outclass Plainfield High Alumni at Basketball, 49-20.

SCORE IS ONE-SIDED

Bill Taylor Chief Point Maker for North Plainfield Forces, Making Six Baskets in Second Half—Dunning Plays Well at Center.

Old time rivalry between Plainfield and North Plainfield High Schools was evidenced last evening in Saengerbund Hall, when the Alumni teams of the two institutions met, the grads from the borough school being victorious, 49 to 20. Spectacular shooting, combined with whirlwind passing, made the combat most interesting for the spectators.

The borough combination outclassed the Plainfielders, both in executing pretty plays from signals and in shooting.

Starting off with a rush the homesters aggregated ten points, while the city team was collecting two. The playing continued fast for the twenty minute period, the score when intermission was called being 22-11.

The second period resulted in a repetition of the first, the teamwork being disconnected and shooting more frequent. Bill Taylor recovered his ability to drop the ball through the net, and slipped in a sextet of field goals. Dunning also collected six two pointers, while the other three members made two or more baskets apiece.

McNamee and Manley were the only reliable shooters for the losers, each collecting three field goals.

STEAMER ESCAPES U-BOAT'S SHELLS

British Craft Reaches United States After Long Chase.

New Orleans, Feb. 17.—Escape from a German submarine after a hard chase of more than two and one-half hours, with occasional shells falling on her deck, exploding and driving broken pieces of metal into the bodies of the crew, was revealed by officers and men of the Baron Napier, a British tramp steamer, of Ardrossan, Scotland.

The attack occurred while the Baron Napier was four days out from Alexandria, Egypt, bound to New Orleans for a cargo of mules. Between sixty and sixty-five American citizens employed as muleteers were aboard.

According to Captain B. Cameron, the German undersea boat crept up and without warning began shooting at the Baron Napier.

"We knew that our only safety lay in flight, so we turned on full steam and went our speed limit, about 15 knots," the captain said. "We slowly gained on the submarine, which kept shooting, and in two and one-half hours we were out of range and danger, but kept steaming on as fast as we could."

The captain said that the crew put on life belts when the submarine, flying the German flag, was sighted. He added that the belts sayed the lives of several sailors, because the only men wounded were struck by pieces of metal that hit the belts.

HARTMAN, BANDITS' VICTIM, FUGITIVE

Sought by United States on Revenue Fraud Indictments.

El Paso, Tex., Feb. 17. Guy Johnson, American ranch hand murdered recently in Chihuahua by Mexican bandits, was in reality Guy Hartman a wealthy distiller, of North Carolina sought by the United States government as head of a conspiracy to defraud the government of liquor revenues amounting to hundreds of thousands of dollars, United States officials here have declared.

Hartman had been working on a ranch owned by W. H. Acklin near Tejolocachic, Chihuahua. Leaving the ranch, he was waylaid by bandits on Dec. 26 at Basaseachic and was killed after he had himself killed five assailants. It is now declared here that Hartman, believing his location in Mexico had become known, was en route when attacked to Sonora, where he expected to find a new place of greater security.

According to the information available, the government's disclosures last summer of internal revenue frauds in the south caused Hartman to flee to Mexico and resulted in the indictment and prosecution of a group of southern distillers and the suicide of Knox Booth, an internal revenue official, at Nashville last July. Hartman in his escape abandoned a cash bond of $20,000.

CZAR'S TROOPS TAKE ERZERUM

Turkish Army of 160,000 In Flight.

LONDON CHEERED BY NEWS

Capture of Famous Stronghold Climax of Whirlwind Attacks That Began In December—Grand Duke Nicholas, Relieved of General Command, Chief of Besieging Force.

London, Feb. 17.—An official report from Petrograd stated that Erzerum, the famous Turkish fortress where the sultan's main Caucasus army, estimated at 160,000 men, had been besieged, had fallen into the hands of the Russians.

The report is not officially confirmed, but the fall of the fortress was forecast in the latest Russian war office statement concerning the fighting there, which was as follows:

In addition to the two Erzerum forts already announced as captured by our forces, seven other forts have been taken. There is thus a total of nine Erzerum forts now in our hands.

In view of the capture of nine of the forts of the Erzerum enciente it is believed here that the big Turkish army is doomed. The nine captured forts are believed to represent almost the entire outer ring. The inner fortifications are equally strong.

Four Turkish army corps—the Fourth, Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh—under the command of General Liman von Sanders, are believed to be in and around the fortress.

A "Tonic" to London.

To England the news has come as a much needed tonic, and London has not been more cheerful since the first account of the victory at Loos in the great offensive of September last. With unbounded enthusiasm the English seized upon the victory as the first of the long series that they have been hoping for since the war began.

The confident feeling that the fall of Erzerum will be followed soon by other successes is given strength by the optimism expressed by Lord Kitchener in referring to this phase of the allied operations.

Unofficial reports early in the present month said that Field Marshal von der Goltz and his troops were besieged in the city with provisions for only a fortnight.

Figured in Many Wars.

Erzerum, a historic Armenian stronghold, is strategically of tremendous importance. It forms the converging point of vital roads and is about sixty miles from the Russian frontier. It has belonged to Turkey for four centuries and has figured in many wars.

In the present conflict it first began to figure on Nov. 3, 1914, when the Russians inflicted a crushing defeat on three Turkish regiments, which fled in wild disorder in the direction of Erzerum. The Russians followed close upon their heels, but once under the protection of the fortress guns the Turks were able to recuperate and regroup.

On the whole, the Russian forces maintained the upper hand, although they were not able to begin actual bombardment of Erzerum until late in December. The defense of the fortress was confided to General von der Goltz. There have been frequent reports of re-enforcements having been dispatched to the hard pressed Turkish army, but it is not believed the German field marshal has succeeded in relieving General von Sanders' forces to any substantial extent.

The capture of Erzerum, if the report proves true, may be ascribed directly to Grand Duke Nicholas, who, relieved by his uncle, the czar, of the chief command of the armies in Russia last September, was sent to direct operations in the Caucasus.

At the time the change was generally taken as a shelving of the grand duke. Developments since, however, have demonstrated the importance of the Caucasian campaign, especially because of its effect on Russian operations in Persia and the campaign of the British troops in Mesopotamia.

YOUNG MEN TO AID HOSPITAL

Board of Governors Approves Plans for An Auxiliary of Twenty Members.

WILL ELECT OFFICERS

Purpose is to Interest Young in Charity Work in General and the Hospital in Particular—Resume of Past Months' Activity.

As another means of furthering the interest of Muhlenberg Hospital and its varied departments, the Board of Governors has authorized the establishment of a Young Men's Auxiliary to consist of twenty members. The young men will have an organization of their own, and will choose their own chairman and secretary and such other officers as they may decide to elect.

The purpose of the organization is to interest the young man of Plainfield and North Plainfield in charity work in general and in Muhlenberg Hospital in particular. It is hoped that this will give them an opportunity to familiarize themselves with conditions of the hospital, giving them an insight into hospital management and a chance to study the various problems that confront the hospital organization.

The board expects to find this auxiliary a very useful adjunct in carrying on the work at the hospital. The president has appointed the following young men as members of the organization:

Warren Ackerman, William P. Brandigee, Jr., Kenneth Brown, Stanley Burke, T. M. Day, Jr., Robert DeGraff, George Grandy, Lawrence Heely, Thomas Jewell, Howard Ladd, Thomas H. Leggett, Jr., John C. Martin, Roger D. Mellick, James O. Murray, Murray Rushmore, Alan V. Randolph and Edward Stevenson.

The work at the hospital during January, while showing some decrease from December, continues to show a considerable degree of activity as the following comparative statement will show:

Miss Cann, the directress of nurses, who has been ill for some time, underwent a serious operation a few days ago, performed by Dr. Erdman, of New York. She is doing very well and her condition is about as satisfactory as could be expected. Miss Pattee has been made assistant directress of nurses and in that capacity she is looking after the work in a most satisfactory manner during Miss Cann's illness.

MRS. SERIN P. CRAIG DIES IN BROOKLYN

Former Well Known Plainfield Woman Succumbs to Three Months' Illness.

Mrs. Sarah M. Craig, widow of Serin Potter Craig, and for many years a resident of Plainfield, died Wednesday at her late home at 30 St. James place, Brooklyn. She had been ill about three months with complications.

Mrs. Craig was born in Brooklyn, but spent most of her life in Plainfield. She last resided on College place, moving from there to Brooklyn about fifteen years ago. She was sixty-seven years old and was the daughter of the late Samuel Osborne Doane. She is survived by one daughter, Miss Beatrice Doane Craig; also four brothers and one sister. These are Fire Chief T. O. Doane, Charles E., J. Hervey and John H. Doane, all of Plainfield, and Mrs. Thomas T. Barrett, of Brooklyn. Miss Lillian A. Force, of Duer street, the borough, is a cousin.

Mrs. Craig always retained her membership in the First Methodist church, of this city, and the pastor, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, will officiate at the interment in Hillside cemetery, Sunday morning. The funeral service will be held at the late home in St. James place, tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock.

EVANGELISTIC SERVICES WILL CLOSE THIS EVENING

The special evangelistic services of the Christian and Missionary Alliance, which have been in progress at the German Reformed church, Duer street and Craig place, this week, will close this evening, when Rev. S. A. Renicks, the Scotch evangelist, will preach his last sermon here.

The subject will be "The Signs of the Times," and will be pertinent to the second coming of Christ. There will be a regular service at the church Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock.

STATE TRUST LETS BUILDING CONTRACT

Thomas J. Steen Company to Build Handsome New Bank Home.

A contract for the new office building at the corner of Park and North avenues that is to be the home of the State Trust Company was yesterday awarded to the Thomas J. Steen Company, of New York.

Bids were opened by members of the building committee of the Trust Company at a meeting held in the bank building. Thirteen separate bids were received. Five came from Plainfield builders, seven from New York firms and one from a Philadelphia contractor. The bid of the Steen Company was the lowest. No figures on the work has been given out but it is said that the bids ranged from $40,000 to $50,000. Members of the committee that awarded the contract are William A. Garrigues, Dr. Frank C. Ard, R. Henry Depew and E. F. Feickert.

Early in next month a force of men will be put at work tearing down the old building recently vacated by the Plainfield Press and others, so that the contractor can be ready to begin the erection of the new bank home within a short time.

A detailed description of the new building, with picture, will be printed in tomorrow's issue of the Daily Press.

GREY FOX KILLED IN THE MOUNTAINS

After Patient Waiting Walter Walker Kills a Fine Specimen Near Campbell Farm.

Walter Walker, of Watchung, shot a grey fox on the top of the second mountain near the Campbell farm yesterday afternoon. The fox was located by Walker's hounds at 8:30 and it was chased until 2:30, when it passed through a strip of woods in which Walker had been patiently waiting. Walker had a fine view of the animal and his aim was good.

William Titus, who was hunting with Walker, was stationed about three miles away at the time.

For the past year or so, hunters have been complaining of the scarcity of game in the vicinity of the mountains. This scarcity has been attributed to the presence of foxes, and lately hunters have been endeavoring to rid the section of the reynards. Since the campaign was inaugurated, four of the animals have been killed between Liberty Corner and Watchung. Walker and Titus had been out for the past four days, but had been unsuccessful.

Walker brought his catch to town this morning. He passed the Somerset school just as the younger pupils were coming out, and he was followed by a howling mob.

He took refuge in the borough fire house, where the animal was on exhibition for about an hour. It was a large fox measuring three feet from his nose to the tip of his tail. Walker will mount the animal. He will receive no bounty from the county for his catch. The county formerly offered hunters $3 a piece for each fox caught, but this offer was rescinded a number of years ago, owing to the fact that hunting clubs have been releasing animals for their pleasure.

MINSTREL COMMITTEE MEETS.

Plainfield Lodge of Elks' Minstrel Committee, appointed two weeks ago by Exalted Ruler Prudhon, met last night for the first. No action on the coming show was taken, as a New York comic opera producer made a proposition by letter which will be given consideration. At the next meeting of the committee the producer will appear in person to submit plans for the presentation of a musical comedy in place of a customary minstrel show.

ATTENDED COMRADE'S FUNERAL

Former Fire Chief Stagg, for many years head of Paterson's fire department, was among the out-of-town men who marched with the escort to the body of Captain William Hand, interred in the North Plainfield cemetery yesterday. The Chief was a boyhood friend of Captain Hand and fought side by side with him in Co. B, Eleventh New Jersey Volunteers, through the Civil War. The two had always maintained a fast friendship and the chief attended the funeral yesterday clad in his full G. A. R. uniform.

"THE PROBLEM OF PAIN" DISCUSSED

Bishop Woodcock in Revival Sermon Says World Would Lose Much.

IS A DISTINCT MERCY

Preacher Warns Young Woman Against Marrying Any Man to Reform Him and Even Opposes Matrimony With One Who Sins.

The preaching mission which is being held this week at Grace church under the auspices of the Episcopal parishes of the city and borough, continued to attract large and interested congregations to the edifice and all are deeply impressed with the forceful sermons by Bishop Charles E. Woodcock, of Kentucky, who has already won the profound admiration of his hearers.

The bishop's discourse last night was based on the Scriptural words, "He that doeth the will of my Father shall know the truth," in which the preacher drew a striking comparison between knowing and willing to do a thing. He said that a person knowing his duty and not doing it was more responsible than one who does not know and he urged all to both know and do the will of God. Previous to the sermon the bishop again answered many questions and prayed for those who had sent in such requests.

"The Problem of Pain" was the subject of the bishop's interesting sermon yesterday afternoon. He drew attention to the fact that pain is a warning. When a man permits a passion to become master, when he tampers with vice until it gets control, then pain comes as a warning to stop and reflect. If he is wise he will change his course of living and give up his evil habits.

"Pain is a distinct mercy," continued the bishop. "The world cannot go on without it. If there was no pain of hunger men would starve to death and not know the cause, men would die of disease because they felt no ill effects and would therefore seek no remedy.

"Take pain out of life and the world would lose patience, love, memory, many things that make life beautiful. Pain suffered by one's nearest and dearest causes their friends to feel sympathy, to deal with patience, to show love to give aid, to make sacrifices and it enobles and enlarges the lives and characters of those who mourn over the sufferers.

"There is a close relation between sorrow and pain. It does not seem fair to some that a woman should break her heart and spoil her life over a husband who is a drunkard and brutal. It is hard that these cases should be but there are many of them. Sometimes the strong love and devotion of the wife restores the husband to his manhood and reforms him. Then the sorrow is more than compensated and the joy is a hundred times greater than the sufferings of the past years."

The bishop warned young women against the folly of marrying any man in order to reform him. He grew emphatic at this point and spoke with vigor on the foolishness of entering into the bonds of matrimony with a man who already indulged in sin.

It was not always possible to find an answer as to why some troubles come, troubles that last through life and end only with death, but there are so many cases when the philosophy of pain and sorrow can be discovered and that the rest may be left safely to God.

This afternoon's topic is "The Power of Love," and this evening "Holy Baptism." There will be no services tomorrow, but there will be services at 10:30, 4 and 8 o'clock on Sunday.

LAST SAD RITES FOR PETER W. M'DONOUGH, JR.

The funeral of Peter W. McDonough, Jr., whose death occurred early Wednesday morning, after a long illness, was held at his late home on East Second street at 8:30 this morning, and later in St. Mary's church, where a solemn mass of requiem was said. Rev. Father B. M. Bogan acted as deacon, Rev. Father McDonald subdeacon, and Rev. Father McGrath, of Stony Hill, master of ceremonies. The large gathering present included besides relatives and other friends, many of the young man's boyhood companions from the West End of the city and officials of the New Jersey Central Railway.

The numerous handsome floral tributes included several beautiful set pieces. Among these were a pillar from the family marked "Dear Son," another from the family marked "Dear Brother," a pillow from Court Plainfield, No. 1144, I. O. O. F., and a magnificent wreath from the employes of the New Jersey Central at Brill's Crossing, where the deceased was employed.

Burial was in St. Mary's cemetery, the following members of Court Plainfield acting as pall bearers: John R. Cline, Martin Connaughton, Patrick Culliney, Thomas Cooney, Patrick O'Brien and James Welch.

THREATEN TO KILL LABORERS WHO WORK

Six Men Fired From Scott's Attempt to Cause a General Strike.

Six laborers at the Walter Scott Printing Press Machine Company, dismissed by the management Wednesday, came near causing a general strike among the unskilled workers there yesterday by threats to kill those who would not join them in a walkout. The men dismissed were Italians, according to an official of the company, and they were turned loose because of a tendency to make trouble among the workmen. Yesterday morning they appeared at the plant and accosted others of the race employed there, exhorting them to strike.

It is charged that the men dismissed threatened to kill the others if they did not walk out with them. Twice during the day it was necessary to resort to armed forces in order to drive the six disgruntled Italians away, but the trouble was ended by giving all other laborers an increase of two cents on the hour. All went back to work excepting the six originally dismissed and the trouble is ended.

WIDE INFLUENCE OF REV. W. E. BIEDERWOLF

Editorial Comment on His Excellent Work at Hamilton, Ohio.

The wide influence and extent of the work of Rev. W. W. Biederwolf, the evangelist, during a series of meetings at Hamilton, O., is shown by the following editorial which appeared in a daily newspaper of Hamilton:

"If we mistake not the signs of the times in Hamilton, this old city of ours has never been more religious than it is at the present time. People are deserting lives of wickedness by the thousands and turning to our churches, where, in a systematic way, they may combine their efforts with the efforts of other folk, and help to make this city of ours a better city.

"Pick up a daily paper any night nowadays and you will see that the Biederwolf-McEwan meetings are showing strength right now, almost four weeks after the evangelist left town. Turn to your neighbor, and if he wasn't a church member two months ago, the chances are he has united now.

"Look at the thing from any standpoint, and you will recognize at once that life in this city is very different, especially among church people, than it was two months ago.

"Never before, so far as we can remember, has there been such an expression on the part of the people, Godward, that there is right now. Personal workers, by the hundreds, have pledged themselves to bring someone into the kingdom, and this, we take it, is an omen of better things for Hamilton. We hope it will continue, and we believe it will. It is our desire that the whole town be wrapped up in and that thousands turn to this our one desire: 'To help the city better for our homes and our families.'

"Dr. Biederwolf is gone; away off to another State, holding out his invitation to other folk, but the work he started in our city goes on uninterrupted, and will go on as long as Christian people practice Christianity as effectively as they have done since the revival meetings closed."

RAYMOND ON TRIAL IN FEDERAL COURT

Plainfield Man Charged With Violating Food and Drug Law.

Trenton, Feb. 18.—George T. Raymond, of Plainfield, was arraigned in the United States Court here today on a charge of violating the Federal pure food and drug law. ASKS $40,000 FROM 4 NEW YORK PAPERS

Paul Carl Sues for Libel as Result of Alleged Confession in Ellis Case.

Somerville, Feb. 14.—Paul Carl, of East Stroudsburg, Pa., has begun suit against the New York American, the New York Times, the New York World and the New York Herald for $10,000 each because of an alleged confession as to his guilt in the famous Monroe Ellis case that was printed soon after Carl was arrested as a suspect in connection with the crime.

The damage suits have been instituted in New York courts, but newspaper men representing the four big metropolitan papers have been in Somerville for the past few days seeking evidence with which to fight the claims of Carl.

Monroe Ellis was shot through the window of his home near Bernardsville on the night of November 20, 1911. Shortly afterward Carl was arrested by Pinkerton detectives at Camden through information secured by Chief Williams, at that time in charge of the Pinkerton agency for this district. A detailed confession alleged to have been made by Carl was given to newspapers by Pinkerton men and it was printed in the four papers that are being sued. In this, Carl was alleged to have said that he had a grudge against Ellis and attempted to kill him because of this. Later, when County Detective George C. Totten and Prosecutor Pope, of Somerset county, interview the suspect he told an entirely different story, and it was found that there was no evidence upon which to prosecute him so the case was dropped. Carl insists that he did not make the confession credited to him and that he knew nothing of it until it was printed in the papers.

THE FORUM

Editor Daily Press: I would like to call the attention of our Assemblyman to two laws that a large number of taxpayers think woud be good laws. First, if there is no such law on the statutes that it be compulsory for any one holding a public office where he handles public money to have a separate bank account for the public money and not deposit it with his individual accounts. Second, that where real estate is needed for public improvement the authorities be compelled to have it appraised, which is their privilege now, according to the law as it now stands, and not buy it until the value of the land is passed on by disinterested parties where the amount involved is $5,000 or more.

My reason for the first-mentioned law is that a public officeholder has recently died. His account had not been audited for a number of years. It was found he had the public money, which amounted to more than $1,600, deposited with his personal account. I don't wish to say there was anything wrong, but if any license was overlooked the public would be the loser and the officeholder the gainer. Some unprincipled office-holder might take advantage of it at times.

Second.—My reason for the second law is that Plainfield and company recently purchased a farm containing ninety acres for $36,000, to locate a sewer disposal plant on. Now, if it had been appraised and condemned by three disinterested men who knew the value of swamp land, it is the concensus of opinion of hundreds of taxpayers, who have to foot the bill, the price put on it by the three appraisers would not be more than $12,000 at the outside, thereby saving Plainfield and company $24,000. That is quite an item for a city of the size of ours. Now the authorities are kicking because the tax valuation on the land is $27,000. I hope Plainfield will not have to pay taxes on that valuation very long.

Then there is another deal in real estate where Plainfield is involved: namely, the site for the new city hall. I overheard a man who owns more property on Watchung avenue than any other one man and who has bought and sold more land in Plainfield of his own than any other man now living, say the property at the outside is not worth more than $23,000 or $25,000. The city paid $31,000 for it.

The first intimation the taxpayers had of the deal was that they read it in the papers that the authorities had bought it. Almost every one that I have heard speak of it thinks it is too far on one side—a splendid plot if it was nearer the business section. But then, as I understood the mayor's message of 1916 to say, the taxpayers have no more right under the law to know where the city hall is to be located than they have to know where a fire hydrant is to be placed, or words to that effect.

If we had a law whereby the authorities were compelled to appraise and condemn where such a large amount of money is involved, the taxpayers would get a look in and could express an opinion before the purchase was made.

It is to be hoped our Assemblyman will take this matter up and try and get a law passed whereby such deals cannot be repeated.

NEW DEMAND IN U-BOAT DISPUTE

United States Insists Armed Liners Must Be Warned.

LUSITANIA CASE HELD UP

Bernstorff Informs Lansing That Germany Would Observe Assurances Previously Given, but Doubted She Would Withdraw Order Unless Great Britain Entered Into an Agreement.

Washington, Feb. 18.—Unable to reconcile Germany's new U-boat threat against armed merchantmen with the Lusitania proposals, Secretary Lansing said that the United States would accept nothing short of a full and complete agreement that warfare in the future would be conducted in accordance with the established principles of international law.

The secretary made it plain in his conference with the German ambassador that the government could not separate the Lusitania case from the whole quuestion of the future conduct of German submarine warfare and that before accepting any proposal for the settlement of the Lusitania case, in whole or in part, the United States must have definite written assurances that submarine warfare against merchant ships would not be conducted in such a way as to imperil Americans travelling the high seas under the rights accorded by international law.

Forecasts a Deadlock.

The German ambassador informed the secretary of state that it was his belief that, while Germany would observe the assurances previously given to the effect that unarmed merchant vessels, enemy or neutral, would not be sunk without warning, he did not believe his government would agree to desist from its threat to attack armed enemy merchant vessels without warning unless the United States could obtain definite guarantees from England that armed merchant ships would use their guns solely for defense and would not attack German submarines. While he explained that he had no authority from his government to speak on this point, the ambassador said that such was his personal view of the situation.

Count von Bernstorff suggested that Germany might be willing to postpone the application of the new order, but it was made plain after the conference that the ambassador learned from Secretary Lansing that this government did not intend to ask that Germany postpone the new policy and that any proposal on that subject must come from the German government on its own initiative.

Count von Bernstorff sent a cipher dispatch to Berlin narrating the result of the conference. At the German embassy it was intimated that it was expected that within a week or so the German government would respond with a statement to the effect that it could not modify its orders for attacks without warning on armed enemy merchant ships unless definite written guarantees were given that the guns on such vessels would not be used in attacking German submarines.

Means All Merchant Ships.

The United States government holds that all merchant vessels are immune from attack without warning unless they resist or attempt to escape and draws no distinction between passenger ships and freighters. This was made clear at the state department when a definition was sought in an authoritative quarter of the department's interpretation of the word "liner," used by the German government in furnishing assurances that liners would not be attacked without warning.

It was pointed out that the United States interpreted "liner" to mean any merchant vessel, passenger or freight carrying, that belonged to a line of vessels—that is, a vessel owned by a company. But it was also said that this government regarded tramp ships as "liners" within the meaning of vessels that were entitled to treatment under the established rule of visit and search.

The pivotal point in the American government's stand in this matter is that American citizens traversing the high seas in merchant vessels, belligerent as well as neutral, and whether on board such ships as passengers or as employees, shall not be placed in jeopardy by submarines or other warships.

Somerville

About twelve members of Raritan Valley Aerie, No. 2013, F. O. Eagles, met this week for the purpose of organizing a band. Through another newspaper a wrong impression has been given out to the effect that any musician can join the band, regardless of the applicant being a member of any other band. Thomas Fisher, one of the organizers of the local Eagles' band, has stated that the band will be picked from members of the order only.

The Somerville Merchants' Association dinner was held at Cawley Hotel last evening. President Selah Schoonmaker was toastmaster. Assemblyman C. G. Morgan, of Elizabeth, was present and delivered an address, dealing with the need of a Normal School at Elizabeth.

WITTPENN HEARD AT ELIZABETH DINNER

Denounces Board of Guardians and Republican Campaign Arguments.

That the old Board of Guardians has returned to power in the legislative halls of the State of New Jersey and is fighting desperately to win all State offices that year, was declared by Naval Officer Otto Wittpenn, candidate for the Democratic nomination for Governor, in a speech made at a dinner in Elizabeth last night. Mr. Wittpenn warned Democrats to be careful lest they restore the "invisible and sinister government which cursed the State for a long time prior to the birth of a new freedom in 1911."

He continued:

"So, in the nation we recently saw the same old agencies of privilege gather at Chicago to arrange for a convention and a campaign, which they hope may restore them to the posts from which they were expelled in 1912. New Jersey was represented there by a familiar figure, who also cherishes an ambition to set in the Federal Senate. They have framed the issue upon which they foolishly hope to delude an intelligent electorate.

"It is easy in the glow of rank partisanism to criticise. We had an illustration of this no later than two days ago. Elihu Root, Secretary under President Taft, arose in a Republican convention and turned his batteries on the national administration.

"Almost in one breath, he charged the Democrats with 'hostility towards American business and enterprise,' and with 'nervous dread lest somebody should make money,' and then with putting dollars and business above ideals and patriotism.

"Like another distinguished jingo of his party, who recently left for the West Indies, he would have had us recognize and uphold Huerta, the assassin, and plunge us into the European war to punish the Germans for the invasion of Belgium; but he finds fault with the recognition of Carranza, and he can see no wrong in the violation of the neutrality of Greece in the landing and occupation of Salonica by Germany's foes.

"These inconsistencies but indicate the desperate condition of mind of the leaders of the Republican party, who find themselves without a real issue. They are desperately trying to make one out of the warp and woof of their own chagrin.

"Calamity was to have been their main battle cry. They had used it again and again as a substitute and successor to the "bloody shirt," when through hard usage the crimson garment had been worn to tatters and was no longer serviceable.

"But two years after the Democratic administration was installed the country woke up out of the lethargy of the preceding period, and an unexampled era of prosperity set in, which is still accumulating force and volume, and promises to go rolling on for a decade to come. Calamity became a poor issue for a discredited party in the face of the good times, present or prospective, which appeared or are appearing on all sides.

"Calamity could no longer be used nakedly and without qualification by our opponents, so they have now modified their attack to fit the circumstances of the case. There is great prosperity, they admit, but it is due to the war, and it will disappear as soon as hostilities cease in Europe. We must have the Republicans in power to meet the emergency, they say

"Our answer to this specious reasoning is that prosperity began soon after the enactment of the new Underwood tariff bill and the Federal reserve measure. It is undoubtedly true that the flood of exports which the European situation accelerated increased business in some sections of the country, but it must be remembered that the war has also laid its heavy hand upon imports. While it acted as an elixir in some cases, in many others its effect was paralyzing. No man can say, with these two forces operating against each other, what has been the war's net effect upon the business and activities of the nation. But this we can all understand and must acknowledge, that if some of the jingoes and imperialists who are now raising their voices in criticism of the administration could have their way, the country would speedily be plunged into bloody and wholly unnecessary strife; heartbroken fathers and mothers and widows would fill the land, forests of headstones arise where are now wheatfields, and hundreds of factories and workshops be given over for use as soup kitchen in which to feed the hungry."

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The results of the tryouts for the Sophomore class play, "Miss Civilization," have been announced as follows: Alice, Dorothy Cockburn; Peddy, Frank McGuire, and Hatch, Mac Fullerton. Tryouts are now being held for the other sketch, "The Mouse Trap," and will be known in a short time.

The meeting of the dancing class scheduled for this afternoon has been postponed until next Friday afternoon.

Plainfield High School's debating team has another tilt ahead of it when it meets the East Orange High School team on March 27, in the local auditorium. The team for the visitors was decided Wednesday night at a debate between the pupils of the school. Lindsey Best, principal of the High School, was one of the judges of the debate, and from the impression McCullough, one of the competing lads, made, the team should be a good one. McCullough won the debate, and will be a member of the team that comes here, besides Hariss, McBratney and Warren. The affair will be under the auspices of Colgate University, and it will probably be on the preparedness program.

N. P. H. S. NOTES.

The custom of public speaking, which was abandoned six years ago, will be revived by the members of the senior class, when each member will be required to give a short talk in chapel before graduation. Magdalene Layton has already recited Lincoln's Gettysburg address, while Charles Roll selected Kipling's "Mandalay" as his subject.

Clarence Roddy and Sherman Chandler appeared in chapel this morning and recited "National Character" and "Poor Little Joey," respectively.

When N. P. H. S. plays Plainfield High School on Washington's Birthday the pupils will be pleased to greet former Principal Benjamin Phelps, and George Ebster, the manual training instructor, who turned out many championship teams while in charge of athletics of this school. Mr. Phelps is now at High Bridge, while Mr. Webster hold a position at Rye, N. Y.

WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY OBSERVANCE IS PLANNED

The Community Center of the West End will hold a Washington Birthday entertainment in the auditorium of the Washington School on Monday night. The committee in charge has arranged an attractive program with appropriate numbers. J. J. Carroll will make the address of the evening, taking as his topic, "Washington." Musical, vocal and piano selections will be rendered during the evening and Miss Lillian Lamson, supervisor of the Recreation activities of the city, will recite scenes from "The Fortune Hunter."

Miss Lamson presented these scenes a year ago in the Plainfield High School and received much praise for the excellent manner in which she depicted the characters of the play. The entertainment is absolutely free to residents of the West End.

TO GIVE A CONCERT.

The Plainfield branch of the Vaterlandshilfe will hold a concert at Columbus Hall on the evening of March 7 for the benefit of the widows and orphans of the central powers.

It Pays to Secure a Tenant Who Pays.

The uncertain sort of tenant is easy to find. He is always answering the call of the window sign of "To Let." He is easy to please. Even a rather high rental does not frighten him away.

But the Stay-and-Pay tenant is not so easy to secure. He is surer of what he wants. He does not take the first house, or apartment, or store that he finds. He watches and answers "To Let" Ads.

And to secure him for your tenant is a good day's work—a good week's work.

Property that is advertised adequately in the Plainfield Daily Press is rarely rented injudiciously.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, FEBRUARY 18, 1916.

SENATOR HENNESSY'S CHALLENGE.

The suggestion of Senator Charles O'Conner Hennessy that Democratic candidates for the nomination for Governor of the State of New Jersey go over the State together presenting their respective claims for the honor to voters at joint meetings is a sane one and should be accepted by Mr. Martin and Mr. Wittpenn if they have any respect for the overworked voter. It will not only result in a saving of time and money for the candidates, and a great economy for the Democratic party, but will enable a voter in the ranks to hear the three men to equal advantage and to make a fair choice between them. Mr. Hennessy defends his plan in the following statement:

"I assume that both Mr. Martin and Mr. Wittpenn will be glad to join with me in an effort to arouse greater interest in the primary campaign to save expense to the candidates and to party organizations in the manner suggested by me. Many prominent Democrats have assured me of their approval of this idea. My own candidacy is based upon no mere ambition for the dignities and emoluments of the governorship, but primarily for the opportunity it offers to present to the people principles and policies which I deem to be vital to the welfare of the people and which I would endeavor to promote should the governorship come to me. Mr. Wittpenn and Mr. Martin are also, I am sure, desirous of a full and fair opportunity to present to the Democratic voters their conception of what Democratic leadership in New Jersey should stand for at this time. Neither the party nor the public could suffer, it seems to me, by an insistence upon the theory, which I now propose, that principles and policies, and not personalities, should be made the basis of selection in the primary contest that is soon to be entered upon. Should other candidates come into the field they too should be included in the invitation that has been extended to Messrs. Martin and Wittpenn."

THE PURPOSE OF THE SURVEY.

Plainfield's municipal survey is not an investigation into the conduct of city departments for the purpose of uncovering any irregularities that are believed to exist, for this city is governed as honestly and efficiently as any of its size in all the country. Many taxpayers who read as they run have gained the false impression that the survey now being made was ordered as an audit, but the real purpose of the work is to have experts on municipal government become familiar with local conditions that they may be able to suggest improvements that have been found practical in other cities. Officials of Plainfield have no time to collect data on the best municipal practice. For example it would take Mayor Calkins a year, if not longer, to carefully examine the files of the Bureau of Municipal Research as to various systems of finance used in other cities and their proven value, whereby the work can be done in a short time by an expert who has given his entire life to a study of this particular feature of government. If Plainfield could afford a city manager he would have his own Research Bureau and keep up with things modern in city affairs, but the overworked heads of departments have not time to keep constantly in touch with every city in all the country to see what is the last word in road-building, fire fighting, street lighting and other works. As Mayor Calkins has explained it, "No one, who likes to get to the bottom of things, could possibly be mayor of the city for six months without appreciating that we unconsciously drift along the beaten path. We do things a certain way, just because that's the way 'it has always been done.' Nobody has the time to be constantly on the lookout for a better way; a cheaper way; the most approved way. Now all this is nobody's fault. But it proves the necessity of taking stock once in a while. A survey is merely calling in experts to look us over."

THE BATTLECRY OF THE "REGULARS."

If Senator Root's speech before the New York convention is to be accepted as the battlecry of the Conservative element of the Republican party then they can be called conservatives no longer. He has stolen the Colonel's thunder. Instead of a battlecry it is a cry for battle. Mr. Root declared that the Wilson administration was "blindly stumbling along the road that, continued, will inevitably end in war," after which he proceeded to denounce the pacific patriotism of President Wilson and to insist that this country should have been at war long ago over the Lusitania incident. Senator Root also covered a lot of territory. He intimated that the Chicago platform would include a reference to the invasion of Belgium and the declaration that this act on the part of Germany was not only a shock to all liberty-loving people but a breach of the international law contract between this country and Germany. There are too many evils in the Republican party to be corrected before it seeks to reform Europe, and where was there a greater violation of personal liberty than in the Chicago convention of four years ago?

A bill to abolish the State census has been passed by the New Jersey Senate. This is a step toward economy for the government. There is not the slightest excuse for spending the people's money in the taking of a general State census when government experts do the work at frequent intervals and the data obtained by them is available to everyone. The bill should be passed by the House.

Old Grand Duke Nicholas came back. Most everyone wondered how the Russians managed to take Erzerum with 100,000 Turks until it was incidentally mentioned in a news report that the Grand Duke was at the head of the beseiging army.

Do not feel discouraged if you have been floored by the "grip." Jess Willard, the man who wrested the heavyweight championship of the world from Jack Johnson when all other men had failed, has taken the count under the punishment of the busy little cold kid.

In view of recent disastrous fires laid to the door of German secret agents working under the German ambassador, the New York Herald suggests that it be written Baron Von Burnstuff.

When a big 270-pound prize-fighter, admitted the best in the world, lays down before a bad cold, how can the boss expect a man to show up early after a big night at a reunion dinner.

The Allies have made a solemn pledge not to make peace until Belgium is freed. But will there be anything left of Belgium to free?

And somehow or other that phrase, "A Garrison Finish," had always suggested something heroic.

If the capture of Erzerum from the Turks has no other importance it shows that the Russians have found someone they can lick.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

Ebenezer Amos Blue
Journeyed his existence through
Nothing seemed to go just right;
And he wandered through the town
Spreading seeds of discontent,
Each and every place he went.
On his shoulders, sure as fate,
Rested all the cares of state.
Full his country safely through.
Worried when he went to bed,
Fearing that he'd wake up dead.
Worried when he rose next morn,
Said he wished he'd ne'er been born.
When the day opened bright and fair,
"Weather breeder," he'd declare.
Folks would walk around a block
To dodge Ebenezer's knock.

Other fellers got ahead,
Spite of all that Eben said;
Spite of all the warnings he Gave them absolutely free.
He smelled trouble for a mile
In the true detective style.
Worrying he couldn't shirk,
Didn't leave much time to work.
No one seemed to realize,
Nor was willing to surmise
What the world was coming to,
Same as Ebenezer Blue.
Some folks thought the future bright;
He said they were fools, all right.
So he worried night and day,
Lost his appetite, and, say,
He was thin as any rat.
Care, you know, will kill a cat;
And he left this vale of tears
At the age of thirty years.

The Hickeyville Clarion

There is some concern over the safety of Mr. Elmer Jones, our congenial crayon portrait canvasser, who left this town two days ago on a canvassing trip. It is feared that he has met with foul play, as no picture postcards have been received at the local postoffice for the village milliner.

Mr. Amassa Jones, of our village, mail order house for a glass eye and mail order housefor a glass eye and he can't see with it any better than he could before.

Rev. Hudnutt, of the Hardshell church, says he thinks his church has paid too much attention to the heathen abroad and not enough to the heathen right here at home. Five of them went to sleep during his sermon Sunday, and he had to announce a hymn to drown out the noise.

Mr. Ford has arranged to reimburse Judge Lindsey for giving up that lecture tour. So, of all the peace crusaders, to the Denver reformer must be awarded the itching palm of victory.—St. Louis Republic.

Oh, that's all right. Persons who didn't have to hear the lectures will perhaps reimburse Mr. Ford.

The difference between 10 cents for the movie ticket and the $2 for a seat at the other kind of a show is always going to be just $1.90 no matter what kind of self-kidding arithmetic the managers of the talking theatres use in trying to prove the contrary.

DEADSHOT DICK'S FATEFUL MISTAKE

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

Etta Joerns, Liberty Girls Company, Plainfield Theatre, Monday, Matinee and Night, February 21.

Without any exaggeration, the bill presented at the Plainfield theatre for the first time yesterday afternoon is the best the playhouse has offered since the present vaudeville policy was adopted. Every number is a crackerjack and laughter and applause was continuous throughout the shows yesterday afternoon and last night. The same bill will be retained for today and tomorrow and Plainfielders who like a good vaudeville performance will make a mistake by not seeing it.

One of the biggest hits on the program was made by Lottie Altar and Company, presenting the comedy dramatic sketch, "The X Mark," based on an actual occurrence. The Hughes family of musicians, three in number, caught the popular fancy with their instrumental selections, and Holton and Cecil, singers and dancers, were a complete surprise. The team carries their own special scenery and three drop changes are made during the action. The other numbers, all of which went big, are: Albert and Joe, novelty wire act; Brown and Roy, blackface comedians; Shane and Meyers, in a novelty piano act, and Dippy and Duffy, "The Nuts of Matteawan," who keep the audience in a scream of laughter all the time they are on.

The Plainfield theatre always has fine moving pictures. The Pathe semi-weekly "newspaper" depicting the world's latest happenings is presented every Tuesday and Friday. Every bill includes either a comedy or a drama so that movie fans are not slighted in the vaudeville policy. Tonight will be "Country Store" night and as usual many valuable gifts will be awarded to people in the audience.

Hurrah! Three cheers for the Boy Scouts—will be the cry of every boy in the country with good true American blood in his veins when the Plainfield theatre manager announces the coming of Gus Hill's big musical comedy production, entitled "The Boy Scouts," Wednesday, February 23 (matinee and night), a play designed solely and distinctly for the pleasure amusement and the aggrandizement of the youths of America—the big men of the future generation. Mr. Hill has shaped this production on lines approved by the National Boy Scout organizations, the commanding generals of the United States Army, the admirals of the navy, and the unanimously-expressed sentiment of the American people. Nothing in the theatrical world has attracted quite so much attention or has assumed such mighty proportions since Ben Hur. The Boy Scouts are the bulwark of our great Republic. They represent not only a superior race of men for the future, but they will have acquired the same knowledge and training in military affairs that the militarism nations of Europe require of the youths who are required to give up years of their lives to their country.

Jacob and Jermon's popular burlesque company, "The Golden Crook," known to patrons of the Plainfield theatre as one of the leading attractions, will be seen at the Plainfield theatre, Tuesday (matinee and night), as a benefit for Dave Rogers, the popular treasurer of the theatre. The clientele of the Plainfield theatre will doubtless be glad to see an entire change of faces and talent. "The Golden Crook" is again headed this season by the well-known tramp comedian, Billy Arlington, who as usual will offer a new routine of mirth-creating material, rendered in his laugh-creating style. Aside from his specialty he will appear in the principal comedy role of the new two-act musical revue, "The Midnight Club." This skit, according to New York reports, where the play opened the regular season at the Columbia to great business, is more elaborate than past burlesque productions, with more and prettier members of the feminine sex and a number of songs and melodies that result in the patrons leaving the performance whistling.

- Proctor's Theatre -

The latest episode of "The Red Circle" appears at Proctor's today as an added feature. This exceedingly interesting serial story is more than half finished and is becoming more exciting every week. An episode of this serial is presented every Friday at Proctor's. Today and tomorrow the dramatic attraction from the Triangle studios is entitled "The Beckoning Flame," a thrilling narrative of adventure in far-off India, with Henry Woodruff, famed as the handsomest man on the stage, in the leading role, this being his initial appearance in motion pictures. He is ably assisted by Tsuru Aoki, the famous Japanese actress, and by a specially picked supporting cast. This is a novel production in many ways, and should prove a decided treat for all those who see it. "A Modern Enoch Arden," the gigantic four-reel Keystone feature also appears at Proctor's today and tomorrow with Joe Jackson, the famous tramp comedian, at the head of an all-star cast of funmakers. There are thrills and sensations galore in this wonderful picture and it will be enjoyed by the little ones as well as the grown-ups, for a clever little girl assumes a prominent part. Tomorrow the kiddies will enjoy their regular entertainment in the form of the Saturday toy bazaar. Bring the children tomorrow, you will enjoy the fun as much as they. The management announces that on next Wednesday and Thursday they will present Theda Bara, the most famous star in the amusement world, who will appear in her latest and positively her greatest picture, entitled "The Serpent." This photoplay has created a sensation wherever it has been presented, and the acting of Miss Bara is simply supreme. The management are preparing to accommodate enormous crowds on those two days, and patrons are urged to attend in the afternoon in order to secure choice seats. Don't forget about "The Strange Case of Mary Page." It will appear at Proctor's in a very short time.

NAME POLICE BOARD MEMBER.

Elizabeth, Feb. 18.—Consulting with the three remaining members of the Police Commission is the latest plan of Mayor Victor Mravlag in his effort to select a fourth member of the commission to take the place of the late Francis J. Blatz.

There are now four names prominently mentioned for the place, those of Joseph McCandless, Francis J. Engel, John J. Devine and Benjamin Campbell. Mr. Engel was formerly president of City Council, and seems to be leading for the place today. The new commissioner must be a Democrat.

There are a host of aspirants for the place, one applicant having filed an application during the illness of Commissioner Blatz.

ONE WALLOP IS OFTEN ENOUGH IF IT HAS THE STEAM

Ring history shows that many a famous fight has been brought to a close by one violent wallop at the auspicious moment. In several cases this has occurred so early in the bout as to make the contest of a most brief duration. After one or two moments of sparring one of the participants hauled back just for luck and let loose a swing with great abandon and very little edo. It reached the adversary's inferior maxillary, and the latter was obliged to have all his features restored

Something of this sort occurred at Carson City in 1897, when Dal Hawkins crossed bats with Martin Flaherty. This one is down as the shortest fight on the books. Hawkins' first swipe at Flaherty was a k. o., and the stop watch showed just four seconds of fighting.

Another one almost as good took place in a Brooklyn street car barn in 1900. Matty Mathews and Kid McPartland were welterweight rivals, and were fighting for a chance at the belt. They had fought a draw just about a year before, and both were hot for victory. At the first sound of the bell they hopped clear to the middle of the ring and mixed furiously at once. They had scarcely exchanged jabs when Matty, with all his strength and weight behind the blow, reached McPartland's jaw. The kid dozed late into the evening.

Probably the shortest official championship battle was the affair at Tuckahoe, N. Y. in 1899, when Terry McGovern met Pedlar Palmer, the Englishman, for the bantam belt. Terry put over the kayo within the first minute of sparring. And in 1902, at Fort Erie, Canada, Joe Gans won the lightweight title from Frank Erne with one swift wallop.

W. M. G. A. TO ADOPT NEW COURSE FOR DATE MAKING

After years of worry and inconvenience, due to respecting the wishes of others, the Women's Metropolitan Golf Association has determined to suit itself in the matter of selecting a date for its annual championship tournament. At an executive committee meeting the other day it was voted that this year would be the last time the association would await the pleasure of any other organization.

The body favors the first week in June, and that will probably be its choice in future, no matter what the Women's Eastern Golf Association may do. It has been claimed that the Eastern makes its selection without consulting the wishes of the Metropolitan, and it was only to avoid friction that the latter, at its executive session the other night, consented to put its championship off until June 12.

Provided this policy is followed, the Metropolitan Association will in all probability select both course and date at its annual meeting, which always takes place the latter part of January. It would then be up to the Eastern to take a time that would not conflict with the W. M. G. A.; otherwise, a reorganization of the former would be imperative, as the intercity matches for the Griscom Cup take place the same week as the Eastern championship and over the same course.

The Dunwoodie Country Club will be one of the first to entertain women of the district with a one-day tournament. May 23 had first been named, but now it is believed that May 16 will be the final choice. From present indications the one-day affairs will be more numerous than ever.

TRENTON CANCELS; P. H. S. MAY PLAY PRINCETON TEAM

Trenton High School's basketball manager has cancelled the game scheduled with P. H. S. for this afternoon on the local court, and as a result the local boys are idle. Yesterday Coach Patch put his charges through a long workout on the Saengerbund court in preparation for the third tilt with N. P. H. S. next Tuesday for the city scholastic championship. Manager Carlton Dunham expects to book the Apollos, a team composed of Princeton University players, for tomorrow afternoon on the High School court. With such players as Dan O'Kane and others in the lineup, P. H. S. will have to travel at a fast clip to keep from being swamped.

BOYS' HIGH SWIMMERS IN MEET AT P. H. S. TOMORROW

The Plainfield High School swimming team will clash with the Boys' High representatives in the High School pool tomorrow afternoon in what promises to be a closely contested meet. The meet will start promptly at 2 o'clock and will find Captain Brower and all the rest of the locals' best water men in the list of those competing.

HORSEMEN PLAN CHANGES AT THE WAVERLY TRACK

While improvements are being made at Waverly track, horsemen are advocating that a fence be constructed six feet back from the present inside rail, on the stretch and on the turn rounding into the back stretch. This, they argue, would be in keeping with the other alterations now being made at the twice around which, when the work is completed, will be one of the finest equipped racing plants in the country.

The matter is to be brought to the attention of the race committee at its meeing nex week, with the idea of having it request the Essex County Park Commission to erect the fence. The horsemen contend that horses often have shied while racing because of spectators suddenly leaning over the rail at the points referred to.

Some have suggested a tunnel under the track to be used by the public to reach the arena. For spectators to reach the inside of the track now it is necessary for them to cross the ring. There have been several close escapes, and the horsemen are afraid some day a spectator crossing the track will meet with an accident. Some of the more daring spectators will elude the park police and dash across the track in front of a field of racing horses.

Several distinct new features will be taken under consideration at the first meeting of the new race committee, of which Theodore S. Miller, Jr., is chairman. The plans will be laid before the new body at its initial meeting by the chairman.

SPORT NOTES

Now that Sam Langford has taken the leading place in the colored heavy-weight ranks, Joe Jeanette has decided to come out of retirement and challenge the "Boston Tar Baby" to a long-distance bout. Jeanette's last appearance in the ring was at Boston, where he received a referee's decision over Langford.

George Chip and Young Ahearn will meet in Brooklyn, Washington's Birthday. Chip recently forced Jeff Smith to quit. Chip sent a terrific smash to Smith's body and the latter claimed a foul.

Leach Cross is to fight Milburn Saylor in Cincinnati, Monday. He will tackle Johnny Griffiths, February 28, at Columbus, O.

Hughey Jennings is on his way to Detroit to marshal his team for the Southward march.

KNIGHTS TROUNCE THE ST. JOSEPH'S

Columbus Club Players Take Game for City Catholic Championship.

BRYNIARSKI RETURNS

Columbians' Star Who Was Injured a Month Ago Plays Fine Game at Forward—Both Sides Play Well—Score is 54 to 27.

In a one-sided game, the Knights of Columbus basketball team defeated the St. Joseph's aggregation by a score of 54 to 27, on the former's court, last night. The Columbus Club boys now occupy first place in the Catholic championship series for the city title, which is played annually between the teams of the T. A. B. S., St. Joseph's church and the Knights of Columbus. The Knights have defeated both of their opponents. Last year the boroughites were victorious and claimed the title.

One of the surprises of last night was the return of Al Bryniarski on the Columbus Club line-up. Although the injury he sustained four weeks ago, in the Recreation Columbus Club game, has not entirely healed, he donned the K. of C. uniform for his team last night and played a forward position. During the forty minutes of play he caged eight field goals and eight fouls.

Goyle and Linke were in the scoring limelight as usual, the former numbering six pretty long-distance shots and the latter being credited with eight. In Frank Lee, Linke had a formidable opposing center.

For the losers, LaPorte, Daley and Seidel played fine games. Carty and Wilson showed up well at guard for the West Front street combine, and held their forwards down in a fine manner.

Following the game dancing was enjoyed.

Wednesday night—Knights at Tabs.

The Eagles drove another spike into the city bowling championship crown last night, when they took two games on their own alleys from the Tabs. The Eagles are now three games in the lead, with three left to roll. They need to annex only one game of their dual series on the Imperials' alleys next Thursday night in order to cop the title. If the Imps win all three games they will create a tie for first place.

Had the Eagles won three games instead of only two last night, they would have settled the competition then, but the Tabs prevented the Lomesters from running out by taking the first game with a total of 931. The Eagles came back with 925 and 911.

Rohrs and O'Keefe had counts of 218 and 219, respectively, in the first game. For the winners, Mahoney scored 232, and averaged 202.2. Radin shot pretty tenpins, getting scores of 201, 194 and 194.

The Abstainers took the opener by ninety pins, lost the second by forty-four, and were 122 pins behind in the third.

ICY SURF HAS NO TERRORS FOR THE HUMAN POLAR BEARS

By TOMMY CLARK.

WITH the thermometer hovering around the zero mark, how would you like to don a bathing suit, take your ax in your hands, saunter out on the ice and chop holes big enough to are persecuting me; you are tormentlet you dive in and swim around for a few minutes, and then after your icy bath come out and roll around in the snow for a few minutes more? Well, this is required of every member of a winter bathing club in New York.

Several years ago there were a few men who took their daily dips in the icy surf, but during the past two years hundreds have taken it up. The well recognized fact that pneumonia, rheumatism and tuberculosis are unknown ailments in the arctic and that the Eskimos never catch cold are the foundation stones upon which these bathers base their belief, but any one else should of course consult a physician before attempting this heroic cure.

Recently the writer met several of the winter "surf bathing fiends" as they were "warming up" on the beach and at Brighton Beach, N. Y., preparatory to going in for a dip. It was a bit chilly, even though the sun was shining brightly, and some of the bathers seemed to be trying to conceal a shiver by hopping around and throwing a medicine ball from one to another. The bathers stood in a big circle, each man about ten feet from the other, and they kept throwing the ball about vigorously.

The bathers have access to the bathing pavilion, and they dress and undress in the same rooms that they used in the summer time. Two men first made their appearance on the beach about 11 o'clock. They stalked about for awhile trying to appear unconcerned, but they soon got the ball into action to try to stop the chattering of their teeth, which had been making a noise like castanets.

Throw Medicine Ball.

In a few minutes another joined these two, and soon half a dozen hardy citizens, attired in the regulation bathing suits, with sweaters over them, were at work on the medicine ball. Quite a crowd had collected on the beach to watch them. Some of the curious had come in automobiles, and these stood around in greatcoats and furs and were none too warm at that.

After tossing the medicine ball around for fifteen or twenty minutes an elderly man with gray hair and closely trimmed beard broke out of the circle of ball tossers and edged slowly toward the ocean as if he wasn't particularly anxious about sampling its delights. Another followed his example after a little while, and finally the whole half dozen started for the surf.

Those who had remained to watch shivered a little more, and some buttoned their overcoats under their chins. But the bathers, well warmed by this time, gave a yell and dashed into the surf all together. They had to wade out some distance before striking water deep enough to swim. All were apparently good swimmers, and they splashed about in the chilly February water like porpoises.

They could not swim out to the diving platform, as do those who bathe there in summer, for there was none there. It had been smashed to pieces and scattered in all directions by the fury of the winds and waves of the winter.

The swimmers did not remain in very long. One, who said he was getting a cramp, staggered out on the beach. He was quickly followed by another and another. They did not say they were getting cramps, but it certainly looked as if they were getting cold feet. All were shivering.

Did they stand around and throw the ball again to warm up before dressing. They did not. They went as fast as their shivering limbs would carry them to the dressing rooms in the pavilion and with heavy towels began to undo the work of the water.

Rubbing to Restore Circulation.

One man rubbed another vigorously, and soon their circulation was active again. It was rumored among the watchers that a bottle had been seen in the possession of one hoisted at an angle which would indicate that it was doing the work intended for it, but this could not be verified.

For some years various persons have taken dips in the ocean in the coldest weather. Dr. W. E. Crockett of Boston, Dr. Boise Small of Brooklyn and Ed Manley of the New York A. C. haven't missed their daily plunge in the seas in the winter for many seasons.

George Bothner, the famous lightweight wrestler, once astonished several hundred people by diving in among the cakes of ice in the Hudson river and remaining in the water almost an hour.

Some doctors are of the opinion that winter bathing has a bad effect on the heart. In many cases this is true. A person who does not possess strong lungs and a strong heart should not attempt to go winter bathing. The writer recently witnessed a bad case of this sort. The person was Dave Murphy, one of the best swimmers in New York city and a protege of Henry Ellonsky, the famous long distance champion. Murphy had been competing in an indoor pool meet, and at the request of several friends he decided to swim a hundred yards in the icy surf. He started, but failed to finish. Murphy dove into the water and started to swim. He had gone but a few yards when his arms and legs stiffened. He was helpless. His friends rushed to his rescue. It was an hour or more before Murphy was restored to consciousness. It is said that he will have to forever quit competing in races, due to a weak heart action. Murphy was one of the most promising young swimmers developed in New York in the past two seasons, but now his career is ruined.

One of the most remarkable feats in connection with winter surf bathing was that performed by Ford Welp, a husky young Brooklyn swimmer, at Brighton Beach, N. Y., a few weeks ago. Mr. Welp swam nearly a mile with the temperature of the water around 45 degrees. He finished the swim in remarkably fast time and none the worse for wear.

Welp has been indulging in winter bathing for the past three years, and he states that he has felt no ill effects from the sport. However, we'll give Mr. Welp the once over a year from now and we'll bet dollars to doughnuts that his heart action is not as strong as it was twelve months before.

BASKETBALL TWENTY-FIVE YEARS OLD

"PLAY BALL!" cried Eve, tossing the apple to Adam. And ever since their descendants have been doing so.

The instinct to evolve games in which balls of various kinds figure seems to be universal, and its history is, as the highbrows say, lost in the mists of antiquity. The earth itself is a ball, although slightly flattened in spots, as if it had been pasted on the trademark by some celestial Ty Cobb.

When the first palefaces invaded this now well known continent they found Poor Lo amusing himself with a ball game which the French afterward called lacrosse. Baseball, which is a development of the older games of rounders and "town ball;" football, which was first played by the English with the head of a captured Dane as the ball; cricket, billiards, tennis, golf, hockey, polo, bowling, basketball and various other games are played with balls.

Youngest Game.

Youngest of the popular ball games is basketball, which passes the quarter century mark this year, having been invented in 1891 by Dr. James Naismith, then director of physical training at the Springfield (Mass.) training school, but later with the University of Kansas. It was twenty-four years ago on Jan. 15, 1892, that the first match basketball game was played at Springfield between two class teams.

In the previous month, at a meeting of the faculty of the Springfield school, the need of some new mode of exercise was discussed. It was agreed that there was a demand for a sport that would provide plenty of action without brutality and which would serve the purpose of scientific physical development. Dr. Naismith gave much thought to the problem and soon evolved the game of basketball.

The first contest demonstrated that the new sport has a powerful appeal. Goals were made of iron hoops from which nets were suspended. The latter were at first so woven as to hold the ball, but later it was found desirable to change the nets so that the ball would drop through to the playing floor.

Quick Popularity.

The Y. M. C. A. was largely responsible for the immediate and widespread popularity of basketball. The game is now played by nearly 175,000 boys and men in the United States and Canada and probably has more devotees than any other sport, with the exception of baseball.

Nor is basketball confined to America, for it has been introduced with great success in several European countries and in the Philippines, China, Japan, Hawaii, Argentina, Brazil, Uruguay and Chile. In South America the newest of ball games is much better known than is baseball, and in the Philippines and Japan basketball threatens the popularity of the diamond pastime. As a winter sport, basketball has wonderful possibilities, and in the years to come it will doubtless play an increasingly important part in raising the physical standards of youth.

HELP TO ENGLISH MOTORCARS.

The famous Brooklands track, in England, is maintained by a gentleman who is a devotee of speed. There are no meetings there such as we have in the United States, but nearly every day owners of fast cars go out, pay a fee and then see what speed they can maintain. There is no doubt but the information manufacturers and inventors have derived from the work of engines and cars on the Brooklands track has had much to do with the development of English motorcars.

Tex Rickard, Promoter, Makes Big Name by Taking Big Chances

SOME of the gamest men that ever walked in shoe leather belong to the class of sports who promote boxing. Dan A. Stuart, who pulled off the fight between Jim Corbett and Bob Fitzsimmons at Carson City, Nev., was the pioneer in handling modern Queensbury contests, and to him a worthy successor appeared when Tex Rickard bounded into the limelight with a $30,000 purse for Battling Nelson and Joe Gans at Goldfield, Nev., in 1906.

Rickard is coming back after years of inactivity in the promoting line. Recently he offered to stage a ten round contest between Jess Willard and Frank Moran in New York city. A glad hand should be extended this man, who is a credit to the game.

Stages Gans-Nelson Fight.

No such a shock was ever handed the sporting world as the announcement of Rickard ten years ago that he would pull off the championship fight between Battling Nelson and Joe Gans for the lightweight championship in the little town of Goldfield, Nev. Tex was roasted on all sides, but he went through with the job, and that his judgment was right was proved by the fact that the contest drew over $69,000. Rickard quit a big winner and gained the reputation of being the greatest promoter in the history of the American prize ring.

Rickard's second play that required the nerve and honesty of a real gambler came in 1910, when he pulled off the fight between Jim Jeffries and Jack Johnson for the world's heavyweight championship at Reno, Nev. This match attracted people from all over the world.

Pays Jeffries $117,000.

It was fought in the hot sun on the Fourth of July, and Johnson won on a knockout in the fifteenth round. Tex had promised the fighters a king's ransom for their share, and they got all that was coming to them. Jeffries received $117,000. Johnson got $120,000. The total gate receipts were $270,775. No better evidence is needed that Tex is the king of promoters than these two fights. He is in a class by himself and will make them all hustle when he gets back in the harness.

TEX RICKARD, ON RIGHT, TALKING MATTERS OVER WITH HIS SIDE PARTNER, SAM M'CRACKEN.

SOME PECULIAR KNOCKOUTS

WHEN Frank Moran, the Pittsburgh heavyweight, knocked out Jim Coffey in the ninth round of a recent bout in New York he remarked that every time he pinned the sleep producer on the chin of the Roscommon giant the latter fell on his face. As it was their second meeting and Moran had scored a knockout in the third round of their initial combat, he is well qualified to know what he is talking about incidentally his remarks call to mind many knockouts, some of which were funny enough—to the ringsiders and to the opposition, but not to the knocked out scrapper—to cause a big laugh. Every one who is inclined to the sporting game and has attended a wrestling show has seen some funny bouts, burlesque and otherwise, but the effect of a clout on the jaw has produced equally laughable results.

Tale of Peculiar Knockouts.

One of the most peculiar knockout blows ever landed happened in a Chicago ring more than a decade ago when a pair of husky middleweights clashed before the American Athletic club members, but it wasn't a "k. o." because the receiver was so tough he refused to take the ten count. The contestants were Billy Stift, who now is a park policeman in Chicago, and Jack Driscoll, one of the toughest Irishmen who ever drew on a glove. The two boys were of the rough toss sort, and exchanging wallops was really a delightful pastime to both of them.

They did not allow cleverness to interfere with the joy they got out of slugging, and as the result both took many a stiff wallop that would have caused a fighter of less sturdy structure to seek the canvas. For three rounds of that mill they went at each other like wildcats, and both showed plenty of evidence that the blows had landed. In the fourth round, however, Stift swung a right hander that started a couple of feet behind himself. The fist connected with Driscoll's jaw, and the impact could be heard all over the arena.

Driscoll Keeps His Feet.

But the strangest part of all was that Driscoll didn't drop when the blow connected. He stood like a statue in fighting pose, and Stift, who knew that he never had landed a harder punch, was so mystified that he didn't follow up his advantage instanter. Billy simply dropped his hands and gazed at his statue-like opponent. Finally, after standing several seconds, Driscoll started to straighten up, and then he dived to the canvas. When his head hit the floor he was still standing on his feet, and his feet started going around in a circle. He did a whirl on his head that set the house wild, and finally slipped face downward to the floor.

Driscoll took all the count allowed and got up to continue the remainder of the bout of six rounds.

McCue Packs Vigorous Kick.

Matty McCue of Racine, Wis., who a year or so ago looked like one of the most promising featherweights in the game, gained his greatest claim to fame in the sport of boxing through his hitting ability. For a little fellow Matty packed an awful kick in each of his hands. From an obscure position he suddenly shot into the limelight by knocking out his opponents as fast as the promoters could set them up for him.

McCue got so good that he quit his manager, and no less a managerial personage than Tom Jones, who looks after the management of heavyweight champion Jess Willard, took him under his wing. Jones, however, found out a lot about McCue that he didn't know before he became his manager, and the principal one of these was that Matty was sadly lacking in boxing ability. McCue turned out to be a failure under the Jones regime.

Matty Fails as Boxer.

But, while McCue didn't have the goods as a boxer, the credit for his ability to deliver the knockout stuff cannot be taken away from him. He put a number of his opponents away in one and two rounds, and finally was hooked up in a match with a British scrapper by the name of Jeff O'Connell. O'Connell had a pretty good record, but his reputation was made more through cleverness than through hitting ability.

The finish of this bout also had its funny side, for the count of ten was tolled off as O'Connell lay on the floor in the second round. Three times McCue knocked him to the canvas in that session before winning the scrap. The first time it was a right hook, and O'Connell, although badly dazed, regained his feet at the count of nine. A left hook floored Jeff the second time, and as one of his seconds saw his head going toward the floor he stuck his hand through the ropes and put it on the canvas so that it made a pillow for O'Connell's head

PENNSYLVANIA COAL MINERS DEMAND MORE PAY, SHORTER HOURS, RECOGNITION OF UNION; OPERATORS REFUSE; STRIKE EXPECTED

STUDENT WAITERS PROVE A SUCCESS

Plan Now Being Used at Princeton University Meets With Approval.

Princeton, N. J., Feb. 11. [illegible] establishment of student waiters in the Princeton University Commons is now, according to the college authorities, an assured success. The students who have their meals at "Commons" have received the innovation naturally, the student waiters are earning a considerable part of their college bill, and the university prides itself on having a better service than ever before. All this has been done under the direction of the college bureau of self-help, which occupies what is probably a unique position in its particular field.

Unlike most American universities, Princeton is not situated amid the business activity of a large city, and the problem of financial aid for the student is thus somewhat harder to solve. It is seldom that the Princeton student is able to pay his entire bill out of his own earnings, but there are about 20 students enrolled with the student bureau of self-help. Practically all these are partially self-supporting, and in their efforts they have exhausted practically every money-making opportunity that the town or the university can offer.

While the average man probably profits much through tutoring catalogue work in the library, and similar pursuits, there are a great many novel occupations, some of which return a fair salary. At present some of these are managing boot-black parlor, acting as watchman, playing the piano at motion picture houses, tending furnaces, conducting a student clothes-pressing establishment, working as a telegraph operator, etc.

George M. Galt, a Princeton graduate of twenty years ago, has recently assumed charge of the self-help bureau. Mr. Galt takes the position that the student should work for all he gets, and American colleges practice a great deception to hold out [illegible] "Any student who [illegible] Wilson's [illegible] make it and [illegible] his freshman year."

DESERVING HONORS FOR A. B. WILSON

Local Manager for Telephone Company Made the Best of Spare Time.

The Telephone Review in its current issue contains the following interesting story concerning the manager of the local branch of the New York Telephone Company:

"A. B. Wilson, local commercial manager at Plainfield, has recently been elected to membership both in the American Institute of Electrical Engineers and in the American Society of Mechanical Engineers. The attainment of these distinctions by one of the Commercial Department, whose business does not involve the highly specialized technical knowledge of the electrical or mechanical engineer, is particularly noteworthy. Only the keenest interest in one's business as a whole, over and above the special problems requiring immediate attention, and the most untiring devotion to purpose could have made possible the accomplishment of the study and training requisite to eligibility to either society. To undertake a university course in engineering when one's time is already well occupied by a man-sized job, is an ambitious beginning, and to maintain it through the ups and downs and pressure of months of night work until the goal is attained, is the mark of determination and ability [illegible] York is not advisable for a [illegible] thing, it is usually true that [illegible] pressure can be applied for a [illegible] with no ill effect, for the sake of attaining some [illegible] known to be worth the effort. Moreover it is always true that the zest of accomplishment, than which there is no more impelling force toward success, gives a stimulus to the outside work and no less to the regular daily job."

Vol. 1, No. 18 NEWARK, N. J., FEB. 18, 1916 Priceless

If George Washington had been a clothing man instead of a statesman, we believe he would have followed a policy something like what is followed in the Marshall and Ball Store.

He would have handled dependable, trustworthy clothing. He would have sold no other kind.

He would have made honest representations of their character.

He would have priced them fairly.

And, doing business with such merchandise and working along such lines as we do, he would have not had any occasion for breaking his rule of never telling a lie.

To Buy a First-Class

Overcoat at $8.75

When It's Worth $12 to $15

In these days, when you hear so much about the advancing cost of materials, the increased wages and heavy overhead expenses, when taxes are up and the cost of living high, it seems really remarkable that any one should be able to offer even a poorly made, coarse quality Overcoat for as little as $8.75.

And here, in face of all the rising cost, we offer truly first-class Overcoats—of good materials, rightly fashioned, up-to-date, particularly well tailored, neatly lined and trimmed—handsome Coats at only $8.75.

Of course, it is not a matter of money making with us. It is a matter of quick disposal. A means we employ to lower our stocks to make way for the Springtime Clothing soon to arrive.

The Coats by any fair standard are worth no less than $12 and many are in the $15 class.

Take your pick of them at $8.75.

Silk-Lined Overcoats that Were $35 Are Now Priced at Only $29.50

PLEA OF SWEDEN REJECTED BY U. S.

Conference on British Sea Acts Frowned Upon.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The American government rejected a proposal from Sweden that the United States call together a conference of neutral powers for the purpose of joint protest against the violations of international law by Great Britain.

Secretary Lansing gave the reply of the United States in the course of an informal talk with the Swedish minister. Although a formal note from the Swedish government was before the department for nearly two weeks, Secretary Lansing admitted that he had not seen it.

In rejecting the verbal proposal the secretary informed the minister that it was against the traditional policy of the United States to join with foreign powers in dealing with foreign questions and that in respect to the British violations as well as all other violations of international law by the belligerents in the present war the American government preferred to act independently.

It was learned the Swedish minister at London had been in conference with Colonel E. M. House for the purpose of setting forth the attitude of Sweden on all pending disputes with Great Britain.

The Swedish note to Mr. Lansing charged that Great Britain despite repeated protests by the neutral powers has steadily increased her violations of international law and her unlawful strictures on neutral trade. Particular stress is laid on the British seizures of mails en route between the United States and Sweden, and it is said that Sweden realizes "its responsibility not to omit any measure" to prevent Great Britain from disregarding the last remaining tenets of international law.

British Mail Held by Sweden.

Berlin, Feb. 18.—The Overseas News agency issued the following statement:

Reports from Stockholm are to the effect that there are in Gothenberg 80,000 parcels bound for England which have been retained by the Swedish government as a measure of reprisal against British violation of Swedish mails.

BURNS FATAL TO WOMAN.

Night Clothing Catches Fire From Gas Heater in Room.

Plainfield, N. J., Feb. 18.—Mrs. Julia Tyrrell, aged about sixty-five, died, the result of burns received at her home. She was walking about her room in her nightdress when the thin material caught fire from a gas heater.

WOMAN BLOWN INTO SEA.

Lifted Off Bridge by Wind in London Gale.

London, Feb. 18.—A gale estimated in some places to be blowing a hundred miles an hour swept the country. At Llanelly a woman crossing a bridge was lifted up bodily, dropped into the sea and drowned.

Weather Forecast.

Overcast; somewhat colder; southwest winds.

SECRETARY WILSON SIGHS.

His Second Hand Auto Is Greedy For Repairs.

Washington, Feb. 18.—It costs a lot of money to maintain a second hand automobile, according to Secretary of Labor Wilson, who started his career in the Pennsylvania mines. When Mr. Wilson became a cabinet member he found that congress had provided him with a team of horses.

Mr. Wilson sold the horses and and bought an automobile. It cost Mr. Wilson $1,367 for repairs to the auto in the first year. Testimony to that effect was given before the house appriations committee by the secretary.

1,500 SQUARE MILES FLOODED

Mississippi Towns Submerged by Sea Water.

Natchez, Miss., Feb. 18.—Newelton, a town of 2,000, was submerged by sea water which swept through Tensas basin as a result of the Mississippi levee gap which has widened to 700 feet. It was estimated the flood now covers 125,000 acres.

SEES MAN FALL TO DEATH.

One Cent and Pair of Scissors Found in Clothing.

New York, Feb. 18.—An unidentified man fell or jumped from the roof of a five story tenement to the rear yard and was killed. Mrs. Jennie Ferguson was hanging out clothes from the back window of her apartment and saw him fall to his death.

Keep on Right Side.

"Perhaps that's why so many people like to keep on the right side of you," said the court attendant.—Yonkers Statesman.

PROTECTED BY ANTI-GAS MASK, SOLDIER THROWS HAND GRENADES FROM TRENCHES

Every day the cable dispatches tell of hand grenade fighting on all fronts. These small bombs when they explode do frightful havoc. An Austrian soldier is seen here throwing one of these grenades from his trench, protected against gas attack.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest-tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a door sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by.

RUSSIANS CAPTURE 40,000 OTTOMANS

Erzerum Also Yields 1,000 Guns to Czar's Troops.

London, Feb. 18.—The Turkish losses with the fall of Erzerum are variously estimated at from 40,000 to 100,000 men. A Tiflis dispatch placed the loss at 40,000, while a semiofficial Petrograd dispatch placed it at 100,000.

All reports agreed that the booty taken was enormous, probably greater than in the capture of any other stronghold during the present war. The number of guns taken is about 1,000. Large quantities of ammunition and supplies of all sorts were left behind by the Turks in their hasty flight.

Dispatches indicated that the victory was even more decisive than yesterday's reports stated. The Russian losses in men were insignificant in comparison to the magnitude of the capture. The victory was complete. What is left of the Turkish garrison is the [illegible] in utter disorder, while the victorious Russians are pushing forward [illegible].

Washington to Be Scene of Momentous Religious Gathering.

All the important foreign and home missionary agencies of the United States are making preparations to participate actively in the men's national missionary congress, which meets in Washington April 26 to 30. The congress will be one of the most momentous religious gatherings since the world missionary conference in Edinburgh in 1910. In religious circles it is regarded as a potential event. The assemblage will face the new world conditions of opportunity and need and is expected to exert a profound influence on the missionary activities of the next ten years.

It also will be the climax to the series of great conventions of the national missionary campaign now being held in the leading cities of the United States under the direction of the laymen's missionary movement. More than 54,000 men have been delegates to the thirty-seven conventions thus far held.

The arrangements for the congress are being made by the laymen's missionary movement. The sessions will be held in the Memorial Continental hall, opening on Wednesday evening, April 26, and closing on Sunday evening, April 30. The congress will be a deliberate body, and the delegates, limited to about 2,000 men, have been allotted to the various Protestant religious denominations upon an equitable basis. Each denomination is selecting its own representatives, and delegates are registering from every part of the United States.

The outstanding leaders of the Christian world will appear upon the program of addresses, and the topics to be considered are related to mission work in the United States and in non-Christian lands. The future activities of laymen in all branches of mission work will have a large part in the discussions.

The Diamond.

While the diamond is the hardest substance known, it is also brittle and may be fractured by a blow. But if it is placed between two hard steel faces in a hydraulic press and a slowly accelerating pressure applied the hard steel will become indented.

HENNESSY WOULD HAVE JOINT DEBATE

Urges Democratic Candidates For Governor to Tour the State Together.

Trenton, Feb. 18.—A letter has been forwarded by Senator Charles O'Connor Hennessy to Naval Officer H. Otto Wittpenn and Secretary of State Thomas F. Martin, rival candidates for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination, suggesting that in the party interest and in order to save expense and minimize factional spirit, that the candidates should go together throughout the State and present themselves and their arguments to meetings to be arranged for them by the Democratic organizations in the various counties. The Senator's letter to Mr. Wittpenn is a duplicate of that sent to Mr. Martin, and reads as follows:

"Dear Mr. Wittpenn:

"From present appearances it would seem that the conest for he Democratic nomination for the Governorship is to be confined to you, Mr. Martin and myself. I am desirous, for personal as well as party reasons, that the contest should be made as inexpensive and as interesting to the people as possible. Each of the candidates should have the opportunity to present himself and the principles for which he stands, to the Democratic voters throughout the State. If, however, each candidate is obliged to provide for the organization of public meetings in the various counties, there will be an unwarranted duplication of effort and expense, as well as some danger of the generation of factional spirit that might operate against that party unity which will be necessary to a successful campaign for the election of the candidates chosen at the primaries.

"I offer the suggestion, therefore, that each of the candidates should appoint a representative, who will join with the representatives of the other candidates in arranging through the party organizations in the various counties, for public meetings at which the candidates will appear together, each in his turn, to present to the Democratic electorate the reasons why he should be chosen as the party standard-bearer. The order in which the candidates should speak at each meeting could be arranged by drawing lots or in some other fair manner, and time could be divided equally. Such part of the expense of meetings of this kind as might have to be borne by the candidates could be shared equally.

"This kind of a primary campaign would be democratic in the best sense of the word, and would have the result, I am sure, of stimulating an interest throughout the State that would result in attracting large audiences, and a large vote not only at the primary, but on Election Day.

"I would be pleased to have an early reply from you as to your position respecting this matter."

Hot Water for Sick Headaches

Tells why everyone should drink hot water with phosphate in it before breakfast.

Headache of any kind is caused by auto-intoxication—which means self-poisoning. Liver and bowel poisons called toxins, sucked into the blood through the lymph ducts, excite the heart, which pumps the blood so fast that it congests in the smaller arteries and veins of the head, producing violent, throbbing pain and distress, called headache. You become nervous, despondent, sick, feverish and miserable, your meals sour and almost nauseate you. Then you resort to acetanilide, aspirin or the bromides, which temporarily relieve but do not rid the blood of these irritating toxins.

A glass of hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it, drank before breakfast for awhile, will not only wash these poisons from your system and cure you of headache, but will cleanse, purify and freshen the entire alimentary canal.

Ask your pharmacist for a quarter pound of limestone phosphate. It is inexpensive, harmless as sugar, and almost tasteless, except for a sourish twinge which is not unpleasant.

If you aren't feeling your best, if tongue is coated or you wake up with bad taste, foul breath, or have colds, indigestion, biliousness, constipation or sour, acid stomach, begin the phosphated hot water cure to rid your system of toxins and poisons.

Results are quick, and it is claimed that those who continue to flush out the stomach, liver and bowels every morning never have any headache or know a miserable moment.

HAWAIIAN VOLCANO TO BLOW UP IN TWO YEARS, SAYS SCIENTIST

Prof. T. A. Jaggar ascending Mauna Loa; gas vents in Hawaiian volcanic region; observatory at Mt. Mauna Loa, Hawaii.

By ROBERT F. WILSON.

Washington, Feb. 18.—The volcano, Mauna Loa, on the island of Hawaii, will blow up between Dec. 1, 1917, and Jan. 31, 1918. If this prediction misses, then the explosion is sure to come between June 1 and July 31, 1918.

The prediction is Dr. T. A. Jaggar's. Dr. Jaggar is neither a seer nor an astrologer. He is a professor of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology who has been living on the slopes of Mauna Loa since 1912 studying its activities.

Dr. Jaggar believes that the prediction of volcanic eruptions can be made a science approximately as exact as that of weather prediction. He is in Washington urging that the Mauna Loa volcano, the most active one on earth, be made into a national park and that the weather bureau's work be increased to include volcanic eruptions and earthquake prediction.

Such a service might prevent possible great disasters of the future, Dr. Jaggar thinks. The government of Japan began studying volcanoes twenty-five years ago. At least 90,000 people live in the danger zone around Mt. Sakurajima in Japan. Yet when the great eruption occurred in 1914 scarcely any lives were lost, because the Japanese scientists had predicted the explosion and the government had temporarily removed the 90,000 population from their homes.

Town in Path of Lava Flow.

Mauna Loa is one of the mightiest of volcanoes. In one single eruption in recent years it poured forth more molten lava than the entire bulk of Mt. Vesuvius. The thriving town of Hilo with 7,000 population lies within the path of the coming lava flow.

In 1899 the lava from Mauna Loa came within two miles of Hilo. The frantic population sent for a native princess from a neighboring island. She sacrificed a pullet and a pig at the edge of the lava and the flow ceased.

In 1918 science will have supplanted superstition. The population of Hilo has been warned of the approaching cataclysm by the first American prediction of a volcanic eruption. The population will be moved, perhaps at government expense, and if the lava engulfs the city no lives will be lost.

"The Messina earthquake might possibly have been predicted if science had really understood the workings of Mt. Etna," says Dr. Jaggar. "The United States probably possesses more than a quarter of the active volcanoes on the globe. There is no doubt whatever that the great eruptions are predictable.

An Eruption Every Decade.

"Our observations at Mauna Loa have showed us that its activities occur in regular periods. There are six stages, as follows: (1) earthquake period; (2) explosion of gas and foamy lava which turns to dust upon cooling in the air; (3) release of gas and adjustment of subterranean pressures; (4) eruption of liquid lava; (5) cooling within the volcano; and (6) accumulation of new pressure in the depths below.

"It takes about ten years to complete this cycle in Mauna Loa. It was possible for us to predict the gas and lava foam eruption of Mauna Loa between 1911 and 1915, and it actually came on November 25, 1914. Since then there has been the escape of gas (No. 3 in the cycle of stages), and the next activity to be expected is the flow of molten lava.

"This should come in or near January or June, 1918. Why these particular months? Science has discovered that there are tides in the solid crust of the earth just as there are in the sea. University of California scientists have demonstrated that the ground beneath our feet rises and falls as much as a foot twice each day. The land tides, just like the ocean tides, are caused by the attractive force of the sun and moon.

"These tides cause tremendous squeezing in the subterranean depths. The heaviest tides come near the summer and winter solstices, when the combined attractive force of the sun and moon is greatest. In 1918 the pressure beneath Mauna Loa will be near the bursting point. The tremendous squeeze of the winter of 1917-1918 is likely to touch it off. If it has not reached the bursting point by then, the next great squeeze will be in the summer of 1918, when the eruption is almost certain to occur."

SCHMIDT PAYS DEATH PENALTY

Goes to Electric Chair Protesting Innocence.

RAVES AT PROSECUTORS.

"I Will Be Put to Death For Lying, Not Murder," Doomed Man Says In Final Statement to Attorney—Spends Last Hour In Cell Praying and Weeping.

Ossining, N. Y., Feb. 18.—Protesting his innocence of the killing of Anna Aumuller, Hans Schmidt went to the electric chair at daybreak and paid the penalty for the crime for which he stood condemned.

The condemned man passed his last hours on earth praying and sobbing and protesting his innocence. Schmidt was abandoned by everybody save Rev. Father William Cashin, the prison chaplain, who accompanied him to the execution chamber.

Schmidt refused to eat supper and said little or nothing to the four guards who watched over him.

For several hours previous to the journey to the death house Schmidt was on the verge of collapse as the result of his year of confinement in the death house. In that time the condemned priest had seen a score of murderers go out through the little green door.

Schmidt was under arrest since September, 1913, and has passed through two nerve racking trials. In spite of his original confession and the tight net of evidence which enmeshed him Schmidt continued the protestations of his innocence which he began after his first conviction.

Alphonse G. Koeble, attorney for Schmidt, issued the following statement:

The condemned man asked me, in effect, to say that he was fully reconciled to die and willingly accepted death as retribution for his frailties, but he deeply resented the imputation that he was dying the deserved death of a murderer.

"I will be put to death for lying, and not for murder," said Hans Schmidt," for poor Anna Aumuller died from the results of a criminal operation. Had the police not shown such a wonderful facility for believing everything I told them and had they made any independent investigation they would speedily have shown that a criminal operation had caused the girl's death. Detective Casasa tried very hard to make me admit that fact. But I felt I was morally responsible for the girl's death and could not in honor drag those to ruin who took part in the operation at my solicitation.

"It may be that shortly after the girl's death I was mentally deranged, but I never have been insane, though I admit I may be abnormal. Some things I am credited with having said I do not recall as coming from me, even though the records show them. But it is possible my mental excitement was responsible, but I never lost my senses long enough to drag in the others.

Miscarriage of Justice.

"I consider my death a miscarriage of justice. The machinery of the district attorney's office and the police is overwhelmingly against the most innocent.

"The justice who tried me practically told the jury to convict me of murder in the first degree, for he said that even if I believed I was inspired by God to kill Anna Aumuller I would be guilty of murder if I knew that I was violating the law of the state of New York. I always maintained I had violated the law of the state of New York, so the jury couldn't help convicting me.

"I charge bad faith on the part of nobody. It is only weakness of the judicial system, just as there is weakness in human nature. But I happen to be the victim this time, and I hope and pray that time will prove every one of my contentions and that my judicial murder will help to abolish executions. For not one-third of the men who have been in the death chamber with me, including Becker, were guilty of murder."

THE PRESS' SPECIAL OFFER TO PLAINFIELD

THIS is one of our big achievements, of which we are justly proud. Every reader of this paper—yes, every family in the city and in its environments—can this year enjoy either of these two nationally famous magazines, or both of them, with this paper, for but little more than the price of the paper alone. These two great magazines with approximately 1,500,000 subscribers, are known and loved the whole country over. At 15 cents a copy, $1.80 a year—$3.60 for the two, purchased by the month—they are unquestioned leaders in their respective fields.

How We Did It

We went to the publishers of these magazines and told them about this city. How its population has increased! How its wealth has increased! How its trade has increased! How its bank clearings have increased! We showed them how desirable it was for them, and for their advertisers, that they should have a large circulation here! Then we showed them how this paper was the one paper in this city to make this offer, and how we knew that the citizens of this city would welcome this opportunity enthusiastically.

Woman's Home Companion

Splendid Serial Novels Woman's Home Companion is famous for the excellence of its fiction, particularly its full-length serial novels. There will be at least four novels this year, by Margaret Deland, Fannie Heaslip Lea, and others of equal power. Hundreds of thousands will later pay $1.50 each for them, when they are published in book form, but readers of Woman's Home Companion will have had them first.

Fifty Splendid Short Stories By distinguished authors whose work you are always eager to read, will fill the pages of the Companion. Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, William J. Burns (the great detective), Zona Gale, Mary Heaton Vorse, Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, Grace S. Richmond—these are only a few of the popular favorites whose stories will appear during the year.

The Finer Things of Life Inspiration, ideals, culture, the things that lift us above the commonplace and the monotony of living—these have an important place in the program for 1916. The Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson has prepared a series of intimate sermons for the Companion family on the duties and privileges of family life and the real meaning of family ties.

Laura Spencer Porter will help those who love pictures and want to know the best. Anne Bryan McCall, in The Tower Room, will continue her popular department for girls.

The New Fashions Fashion's new ideas, the chic touches that distinguish the smartly dressed woman of Fifth Avenue will always be found first in the Companion. Grace Margaret Gould, the Companion Fashion Editor, keeps her readers in constant touch with the great creators of fashion in Paris and New York.

For the Little People The Cherubs are coming! The cunningest, funniest little people you ever saw—drawn and versified by Olive Rush. Also stories, puzzles and prizes, plays for school and nursery, plans for kites, aeroplanes and boats, doll dressmaking lessons—all kinds of things to interest and amuse the little Companion readers.

Helpful, Home Departments The Companion is famous for its practical departments. Every month it offers new ideas for cooking, for serving, for entertaining, for fancy work. Hundreds of ideas every month! Practical, really helpful ideas. Companion readers find these departments most valuable.

The American Magazine

Walter Pritchard Eaton
James Montgomery Flagg

These, and scores of other favorites, will contribute the timely and interesting articles, the stories, the striking illustrations, the departments. You will find The American Magazine always full of the things you are interested in; the things you want to read about.

The Effect of the War on America New industries have been created; old industries have been given new life; new cities have sprung up full sized in a month; men have become millionaires over night—these are some of the effects of the war on America. These articles tell a wonderful story of problems met, difficulties overcome, and successful achievement. They give a splendid, true picture of the war industries, the war fortunes, and the men that made them.

Being Better Business Men An intensely interesting series of practical, fact-bottom articles about the Retail Business, Real Estate, Advertising, Selling, and other important lines of business. Other articles for young men will take up the problems of young men—going into business in his own town; going into business with his father; going to the large city. It will be a very interesting and really valuable series.

Stories—Short and Long There is always a generous measure of stories in The American Magazine. Stories of city life; of country life; home stories; dog stories; love stories and adventure stories—a real feast of fiction. Important, too, no suggestive or unclean story has ever found its way into The American Magazine. Its stories are wholesome and cleverly told, that the whole family can, and does, enjoy.

The Big Saving

TELLS SENATE OF MEXICO KILLINGS

93 Americans Slain Since Wilson Entered Office.

Washington, Feb. 18.—At least ninety-three Americans were killed in Mexico since President Wilson entered the White House.

A statement submitted to the senate by Secretary Lansing in response to a resolution gives a list of seventy six Americans who lost their lives in the southern republic in the years 1913, 1914 and 1915. This, of course, does not include the seventeen Americans massacred by the Villa bandits early in January, so that the known list now totals ninety-three.

In addition to this Secretary Lansing disclosed that twenty civilian Americans in those three years and sixteen American soldiers were killed on American soil as the result of border troubles. Thus the total of Americans officially acknowledged to have perished is 129.

The statement submitted by Mr. Lansing to the senate is the first list that the Wilson administration ever has made public of the loss of American life in Mexico. The resolution which called forth disclosure was introduced by Senator Fall of New Mexico, Republican.

In addition to the list of names Secretary Lansing sent to the senate a long statement in reply to other information called for by the Fall resolution. While Secretary Lansing met the demands of the senate in some particulars, his report as a whole was regarded as more notable for what it failed to disclose than for the information that it contained.

BORO ASKS BIDS FOR REMODELING

Will Change Fire House Into Home for All Departments of Government.

MARCH 17 DATE SET

Councilman Stahl Votes No on Resolution, But Aids Work by Striving to Get New Fire Apparatus Ready.

Bids for alterations to the firehouse in the borough of North Plainfield, to make of this building a central hall for all borough officers and departments are to be received by the Council at the meeting of March 17. The work must be done at a cost not to exceed $3,000.

Plans and specifications for the remodeling have been approved by the Council. This was done at a meeting held last night, and March 17 fixed as the date on which all bids must be in. Copies of these plans may be had from the borough clerk. Charles H. Smith is the architect.

The work will be paid for out of a building fund of $3,500 to be created through the issuing of seven $500 certificates of indebtedness. Each will be dated April 1, 1916, and the longest will run for five years. All will draw interest at 5 per cent. The first will be payable in 1917, the second in 1918, the third in 1919, the fourth and fifth in 1920, and the sixth and seventh in 1921.

Resolutions providing for all necessary steps in the work were passed by members of the Council at the meeting of last night. All were introduced by Councilman Milne. Mayor Smalley and Councilmen Milne, Wilson, Tingley, Mobus and McGee all voted for each of the resolutions, but Councilman Stahl voted against them. He has been opposed to the plans for remodeling the firehouse from the first, contending that it would be more economical to build a new building adjoining fire headquarters for the clerk, police department, tax collector aand Mayor. Councilman Stahl has not attempted to delay the work, however, but realizing that it is the will of a majority of the members of the Board, he has given every possible aid in preliminary arrangements. Before the new building can be occupied, the old horse-drawn apparatus must be disposed of and a combination motor chemical and truck put in its place. As chairman of the fire committee, Mr. Stahl last night presented a resolution authorizing the clerk to advertise for bids for the new apparatus, but when it was ruled that this could not be done until specifications had been adopted. It was finally decided to let this matter go over for two weeks, however, so as to give Mr. Stahl more time to go over the field of motor fire-fighting apparatus.

The report of experts on the condition of the borough at the close of last year was presented to members bers of the Council in printed form.

A resolution calling upon the Public Service Corporation to change the street light at Manning avenue and Chatham place and put it in the center of the street crossing was passed.

The Mayor, clerk and treasurer were authorized to sign checks for the final estimate on sewer contract No. 1. This money will be paid immediately. The amount is $6,756.71. The engineers reported that the contract had been completed, but that tests were being conducted on sewer contract No. 2 to determine the leakage on all lines. It is believed that that section of the sewer north of Greenbrook road leaks excessively.

Work Soon To Start On New Home For State Trust Company

Structure Will Be One of the Finest For a Banking Institution Ever Built in State of New Jersey

The State Trust Company New Building.

The Daily Press shows today a cut of the handsome new bank building soon to be erected by the State Trust Company at the corner of North and Park avenues, on the site now occupied by the Vanderbeek building.

Bids were opened for this work on Thursday, the award being made to the T. J. Steen Company, of New York city, with which Charles Fisk, son of C. J. Fisk, is connected. The officials of the State Trust Company would have preferred to give the work to a local contractor, but their bids were too high.

It is to be a three-story fireproof building of tooled Indiana limestone. The State Trust Company is to occupy the basement, first and mezzanine floors, while the floor above is to be leased to office tenants, the entrance to the office being provided on North avenue. An automatic electric elevator will be installed for the convenience of the occupants, who will be supplied with electric light, heat and janitor service, and these large, light offices, ten in number, will doubtless be rented before the building is completed. The entrance to the bank is to be on Park avenue. The banking room plan shows that a great deal of thought has been given to the convenience of the bank's rapidly growing business, the women coming in for special attention. The public space is to be in the center of the banking room, an arrangement new in Plainfield. At the left of the bank entrance is the women's reception room, equipped with telephone, dressing table, comfortable lounge and chairs and other conveniences for their use. Opening out of this room is the ladies' check desk room, where they may write their checks, and adjoining, a teller who will devote his entire time to the business needs of women patrons. On the right as one enters the bank are rooms for the of-

PREACHING MISSION LARGELY ATTENDED

Bishop Woodcock Continues to Impress Worshippers at Episcopal Church.

Bishop Charles E. Woodcock, who is conducting the preaching mission at Grace church this week, addressed two large congregations at the church yesterday afternoon and evening. In the afternoon he spoke on "The Blessing of Peace," and in the evening on "Holy Baptism."

In his discourse last night the bishop held that baptism is a necessary ordinance linking man to God While some people believe that baptism is of little consequence, it is one of the greatest importance. The bishop appealed to his hearers to accept the opportunity to make a visible sign of the faith within, to be ashamed of cowardice and act as real manhood and womanhood demanded.

Bishop Woodcock, in discussing "The Blessing of Peace," said that the world is suffering from restlessness, relief being sought by excitement and by amusement which at times goes to excess; but peace is not to be found that way. The preacher said that the peace which passes all understanding is possible for all and it is to be found in the Christian life, a true acceptance of Christ by the individual.

The preaching mission will come to a close tomorrow with three services. The bishop will preach at 10:30 o'clock in the morning on "The Holy Eucharist," and in the afternoon at 4 o'clock there will be a service for men, and in the evening at 8 o'clock the sermon theme will be "Then Cometh the End."

SAVE THAT DOLLAR FOR THE BIG SALE

Prosperity Day Will Be Celebrated by City's Enterprising Merchants.

That dollar of yours feels at home in Plainfield—let it stay here. Keep it until Monday, February 29, and see how much you can get for it in Plainfield stores. The city's leading merchants have taken advantage of the extra day Leap Year gives the universe by laying plans for what promises to be the largest and most successful "Dollar Day" ever held here. "Prosperity Dollar Day," as the February 29 event will be known, will be participated in by Plainfield's representative merchants and every enterprising business man has already laid tentative plans for the affair.

Primarily, "Prosperity Dollar Day" will be for Plainfield people, but every effort is being made to interest residents of the suburban districts in the immediate vicinity of Plainfield, and it is a foregone conclusion that many outsiders will visit the city on that date. The fact that the most reliable merchants of the municipality are promoting the feature day should assure the public that "Prosperity Dollar Day" will be conducted on a plane that will give entire satisfaction to the buyer.

A committee composed of members of the Plainfield Busines Men's Association is in charge of the preliminary arrangements and some extensive advertising is being done in the suburban districts. It is hoped that all of the city's merchants will enter into the spirit of the project and offer special "dollar values" on that date.

Several days prior to the sale date a horse-drawn vehicle covered with a canopy canvas announcing the Plainfield sale will be sent into the suburban towns and it is expected that this scheme will arouse interest among the people of these places. Various other novel advertising plans have been drawn and indications point to a record day's business for all local merchants who join with the "dollar dayers."

AGED MAN FROZEN ALONG R. R. TRACKS

John Giles Starts to Walk to Oak Tree and is Found Dead.

John Giles, an aged resident of Oak Tree, was found on Park avenue south of the Lehigh Valley railroad tracks at an early hour this morning, badly frozen, and died before an ambulance could take him to Muhlenberg hospital.

Giles started out to walk to his home last night, after spending the evening in South Plainfield. He left here at 11 o'clock and evidently grew tired and stopped to rest, but was overcome by the extreme cold and lay down. Frazee Suydam, a milkman, found him lying on the side of the road shortly after 6 o'clock this morning. Giles was still alive, but he was frozen stiff. An ambulance was hurriedly called, but he was dead before help could arrive.

Giles is survived by a wife, three daughters: Mrs. Thomas Johnson, Mrs. Walter Connors, and Miss Grace Giles, all of South Plainfield; and three sons: James, of Plainfield; John, of High Bridge, and Isaac, of New York. He is also survived by a sister, Mrs. John Hoagland, of Bound Brook.

WM. STILLGER'S FUNERAL IS LARGELY ATTENDED

The funeral of William Stillger, who died in the Muhlenberg Hospital Thursday morning, after a short illness with pneumonia, was held this morning from the late home at 8:15 o'clock and from St. John's church, Dunellen, at 9 o'clock. Rev. E. J. Dunphy, rector of the church, officiated. The funeral was largly attended and there were many floral tributes. Interment was in St. Mary's cemetery. The bearers were: John Wood, John McGarrigle, Edward Gray and Martin Boyle.

ANALINE DYE PLANT AT LINCOLN DESTROYED BY EXPLOSION AND FIRE

TWO MEN HURT, PERHAPS FATALLY, WHEN BIG CHEMICAL WORKS IS BLOWN UP—LOSS CANNOT BE ESTIMATED AS YET.

ENTIRE TOWN IS SHAKEN BY THE CONCUSSION

Ruins Catch Fire and Department Fights Bravely for Hour and a Half—Debris Blocks Central R. R. Tracks—One of Few Firms in Country Making Fast Dyes Under German Formula.

The entire plant of the Middlesex Analine Chemical Company at Lincoln was totally destroyed shortly after 7 o'clock this morning by an explosion followed by a fire. The loss cannot be estimated because of the valuable dyes and acids in the building, some of which may have been saved, but the plant and building is a total loss.

There were but two men in the building at the time of the explosion and both were badly hurt. They were Albert Phieder, aged 30, of Bound Brook, and Howard Pestner, aged 20, of Bound Brook. Both are in the Somerset hospital at Somerville and both may die.

The explosion was caused by a running together of acids in the mixing room. The regular force of men had not reported for work and Phieder and Pestner were alone in the mixing room. Both are expert chemists. Phieder having been brought to this country from Germany at the outbreak of the war because of his knowledge of analine dyes. Neither of the men was able to tell of events immediately preceeding the explosion.

It was at 7:20 that the explosion occurred. The roof of the building was blown off, all windows and doors torn loose and thrown into the air and woodwork scattered in every direction. The factory was located near the tracks of the New Jersey Central Railway Company and much of the debris was thrown across the tracks. It was necessary to send a wrecking crew out to clear the track so as to make it safe for trains to pass the scene of the wreck.

Every building in the little town of Lincoln was shaken by the force of the explosion. Residents rushed to the street in their night clothing, or half-clad, fearing that a big portion of the town had been destroyed. The plant was b[illegible] and its outside walls [illegible] that was left standing. Debris caught on fire from the explosion and blazed fiercely. The Lincoln Fire Department with Chief A. M. Goble leading, responded and worked for more than an hour and half throwing water on the burning debris, finally extinguishing the flames. There was little left after the explosion to burn, all frame parts of the building having been blown yards from the building.

Phieder and Pestner were removed from the ruins as soon as possible, and were sent to Somerville, where they were placed in the hospital. Both men were badly burned about the head, face and hands, and were bruised by being blown against the inner walls of the building by the explosion. They are in the Somerset Hospital and it is believed that both will die, although shortly before noon today they were said to be resting easily.

The Middlesex Analine Chemical Company was organized shortly after the start of the European war by capitalists who had secured a German formula for making analine dyes. Most of the expert workmen are German chemists. It is one of the few plants in the country making chemical dyes and its output has been eagerly sought after by textile mills all over the country. Before the war all fast dyes were made in Germany or under the supervision of Germany industry and it was feared that the inability to secure these dyes from that country would result in all woolens in this country being worn in natural colors. However, one or two plants have secured formulas and the Lincoln company was among this restricted number. It will be rebuilt at once, although no plans have been announced.

MRS. J. O. M'KELVEY CHOSEN PRESIDENT

Officers Elected and Reports Presented at Meeting of Warren Chapel Society.

In connection with the annual meeting of the Missionary and Aid Society of Warren chapel held yesterday afternoon, a short time was devoted to an address and informal celebration of the twenty-fifth anniversary of the organization of the society. Rev. J. O. McKelvey, pastor of the church, addressed the women on the growth and splendid results of the organization during the twenty-one years of its existence and voiced his hearty good-wishes for the future success of the work. Mrs. James T. Goodwin opened the meeting with a short devotional service, taking as her topic, "Great Men of the Bible and History." During the business meeting reports were read by the following chairmen: Mrs. J. H. Snyder, treasurer; Mrs. John H. Higgins, refreshments; Mrs. Henry Bishop, box work; Mrs. Charles L. Holstein, secretary of literature, and Mrs. E. Gibson Smith, secretary. In each case gratifying results during the past months were recorded and the members expressed themselves as much pleased with the work of the society.

The election of officers followed and the following members were installed for the coming twelve months: President, Mrs. J. O. McKelvey; first vice president, Mrs. A. J. Stiglitz; second vice president, Mrs. D. C. Harrower; secretary, Mrs. E. Gibson Smith; treasurer, Mrs. J. H. Snyder; secretary of literature, Mrs. Charles L Holstein; corresponding secretary, Mrs. J. W. Gavett.

Arrangements were also made for a cake sale to be conducted by the society in the parlors of the church on Saturday afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock, on February 26. A large musical entertainment will also be given on March 24. Details of the latter will be announced later. Following the meeting refreshments were served under the direction of Mrs. J. H. Higgins.

INSURANCE MEN TO FIGHT RUNYON BILL

State Association Goes On Record as Opposing Rate Measure.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 19.—That the insurance men of the state of New Jersey are to bitterly oppose the Runyon bill, giving authority to the banking and insurance commissioner to reduce or increase rates upon a hearing, was shown at a meeting of the state underwriters held yesterday in this city. The bill was presented by Assemblyman Runyon, of Plainfield, and is now pending in the lower house. Its purpose, according to the printed statement attached to the bill, is "to afford a means of relief to the public as well as to the insurance companies in case insurance rates are either unjustly high or low, while interefring in no way with the non-discriminatory features of the supplement known as Chapter 85 of the laws of 1913."

C. J. Doyle, associate general counsel for the National Board of Fire Underwriters, told members of The New Jersey association yesterday that given in Illinois the powers that would be conferred upon the banking and insurance commissioner in this state under the Runyon bill, he would guarantee to name every officer in Illinois from United tSates senator down to pound-keeper for the next twenty years. Following the speech of Mr. Doyle, the association went on record as opposing the bill.

GO TO ADIRONDACKS INSTEAD OF THE ALPS

New York, Feb. 19.—A New York Central train for the Adirondacks, which usually carries two sleeping cars, left the Grand Central Terminal last night in three sections, with twenty-one sleeping cars. There has been an increase in travel all during this winter, but this is the heaviest train that ever left for that section. The large increase is due to the fact that the European winter resorts have been closed, and that the sports in the Adirondacks are being taken advantage of by many who have heretofore traveled to the Swiss Alps.

JOHN WILCOX ANDERSON.

John Wilcox Anderson, the two-months'-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas C. Anderson, of 1011 Park avenue, died yesterday. The funeral will be private.

NO LIGHT AHEAD IN CONTROVERSY

U-Boat Wrangle With Germany Still in An Unsatisfactory Stage.

MAY BE DRAWN OUT

U. S. Hopes to Have It Extend Through Life of War—Will Send Second Note to England if Reply is Not Forthcoming.

Washington, Feb. 19.—Nothing in the situation concerning the U-boat controversy with Germany gives warrant for optimism. Apprehension over the difficulties ahead is general. The best that can be said about the outlook is that some phases of the developments warrant the hope that nothing worse will result than a long-drawn-out diplomatic controversy, which has little promise of satisfactory adjustment and wich may continue so long as the war lasts.

With the central powers and the entente allies taking radically different attitudes about the arming of merchant vessels and this country unwilling to depart from recognized international laws without general assent by the nations, it is fully recognized here that there is grave danger of American rights being caught between two fires.

It would give great relief here if the central powers were to extend the date for the beginning of their threatened unwarned attacks on armed merchant ships. Intimations are given this may be done, although the United States has not asked it.

CIVIC ASS'N CONTRIBUTES TO LETTER-CARRIERS' FUND

The West End Civic Association at its regular meeting last night appropriated $10 to the fund which the local letter-carriers are raising to entertain the State Letter-Carriers' convention in this city on May 30. There was also a discussion regarding the movement to have taxes paid semi-annually instead of annually as at present.

The association will give a "ladies' night" affair early in March and plans for an elaborate affair are now underway. In the absence of Wm. J. Boyd, the secretary, who is detained at home by illness, Rodney S. Lewis acted as secretary last night.

PRESENT PROSPERITY ABNORMAL, WAYS OF KEEPING GOOD TIMES

BY THEODORE BURTON.

The abnormal conditions which prevail in the business world today and the results of the present European war have given great concern to our bankers, financiers and those charged with administering the fiscal affairs of the government. There is a general fear that, with the termination of the war, and the upheaval of both local and international commercial and financial dealings which will then ensue, there may be a period of depression somewhat approaching the panics which in former years have had such disastrous effects in the United States.

Theodore Burton.

We must exert every energy at our disposal either to obviate such a result, or else to soften its effects, and, so far as possible, neutralize its dangers. While it is true that we are, in this country today, enjoying a certain type of prosperity, yet that prosperity is purely artificial in its origin, and is unfortunately spotted and marked with a great deal of speculation. It is based primarily upon the exigencies of the present war and the demand of countries which are engaged in conflict for supplies necessary to its conduct. The activity along this line has very naturally made itself felt in other more or less allied industries. If, by some fortunate chance, peace were to be declared within a few weeks, we should have an immediate cessation of this unusual and unnatural industrial activity.

We must adjust ourselves gradually to this situation, and must be prepared, when that time comes, to meet the conditions which will then confront us. To successfully accomplish this end, and to protect ourselves from a financial disaster due to these conditions, we must, in the meantime, develop other lines of industry, other fields of trade, and other avenues of commerce. Indeed, to a close observer of industrial conditions, financial reports and market speculations, it seems that we have already reached the point where the demand for essential munitions of war and supplies of that description are commencing to diminish.

Over production in any line of industry is certain to lead to a period of financial depression. Crises of this nature have in the past occurred with such regularity that business men have come to expect their recurrence at intervals of about a decade apart. Indeed, some observers actually have been led to believe that they were the result of sun spots, though no one has ever demonstrated how this was possible.

While alternating periods of expanding and contracting credit are certain to produce stagnation in industrial centers, much can be done to relieve the situation by a proper preparation and comprehension of the causes. In the first place the federal reserve act of two years ago has materially improved our banking and financial legislation and by furnishing a more elastic currency system it will do much to prevent or neutralize any money stringency in the future. There are those who feel that the termination of the European war will find the United States in a period of intense industrial depression. This need not follow and should not follow, if our manufacturers and business houses will give proper attention to the development of industries manufacturing goods for which there will be a substantial demand from the very nature of our civilization. We should, among other things, attempt to build up a foreign trade in those sections of the world which we are qualified to supply. For instance, we have sent to South America in the past only about six per cent. of our total exports. This section offers the most promising field for commercial development.

Moreover, the war has closed to us sources of supply for many of our most essential products, and we have been forced to produce in this country either these articles themselves, or satisfactory substitutes for them. By continuing this line of development, we will be able in the future to manufacture more and more articles which we need, and in a greater sense be independent of foreign complications, and, at the same time, we will increase the diversity of our industries, and in that way diminish the chances of industrial depressions. Moreover, a careful study of conditions of production and consumption will enable us to detect more easily the [illegible] of approaching depression, and in that way enable us to avoid the dangers of over production. While such crises cannot be entirely avoided, yet their severity can be diminished and their serious effects to a large extent avoided.

U. S. ASTOR THEATRE

"The Chorus Lady," that delightful comedy adaptation of the play by James Forbes will be the chief attraction again this afternoon and evening at the U. S. Astor Theatre, with beautiful and accomplished Cleo Ridgely in the leading role. Miss Ridgely is a consummate artist, and in a few months has risen to stardom by her splendid work in Lasky productions released through the Paramount.

Monday and Tuesday the principal film will be "The Cave Man," produced by the Vitagraph Company, with Robert Edeson in the leading role. It is in five parts, and one of the strongest dramatic subjects produced at the Flatbush studios in many weeks. Indeed, the Vitagraph Company claims it to be the best production of the season, with Mr. Edeson in the lead. "The Cave Man" is rich in romance and adventure, and is designed to appeal to the young folk as well as to the grownups. Monday and Tuesday there will be the usual supplementary program of smaller films, all chosen with an eye to their entertaining qualities. Wednesday and Thursday's attraction will be "The Secret Sin," with Blanche Sweet in the principal role. Some unusual photographic tricks have been introduced into "The Secret Sin." It unfolds a gripping story about two beautiful sisters, both of which parts are portrayed by Miss Sweet, and one of them is addicted to the drug habit. It is concerning her adventures in Chinatown that the story centers.

A WOMAN'S BACK.

The Advice of This Plainfield Woman is of Certain Value.

Many a woman's back has many aches and pains.

Ofttimes 'tis the kidneys' fault. That's why Doan's Kidney Pills are so effective.

Many Plainfield women know this. Read what one has to say about it: Mrs. O. C. Moore, 57 Manning ave., Plainfield, says: "I endured much misery from backache, caused by my kidneys. Many nights I was unable to rest at all, and in the morning my limbs were so stiff and sore that I could hardly get out of bed. Whenever I caught the least cold, it settled on my kidneys, and any strain on my back made the aches and pains worse.

I was treated by physicians, but their medicine didn't help me, and it was not until I got Doan's Kidney Pills at Randolph's Drug Store that I had any hope of getting rid of the trouble. They made me feel like a different person, and I have never had any serious trouble since."

Price 50c, of all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Moore had. Foster-Milburn Co., Props., Buffalo, N. Y.—Adv.

NOVEL FEATURES FOR LEAP YEAR RECEPTION

Columbus Club Members Will Be Invited to Escort Feminine Friends Monday.

Arrangements have been completed for a novel reception to be given in the Columbus club auditorium on West Front street Monday night, the affair taking the form of a Leap Year dance. Feminine friends of club members will act as hostesses, inviting their own escorts and arranging their male companions' dance cards. The dance will be a typical Leap Year event in every sense of the word and it is expected that much amusement will be afforded by the unique plans.

A large committee has had charge of the preliminary details and the evening's program has been finally decided upon. One of the chief features will be dancing, music for which will be furnished by "Al" Squires' orchestra. The entire clubhouse will be given over to the reception and the bowling alleys and pool tables will be used for novel tourneys.

Various other informal numbers have been arranged for, and a committee will have charge of the serving of refreshments during dance intermissions. Affairs of this kind have always drawn large crowds to the Columbus club, and Monday night's dance will probably be no exception.

IN LOVING MEMORY OF MY SON

HAROLD LAWRENCE BURLINGAME MULFORD

Born January 30th, 1891—Passed on February 20th, 1910

Blessed be the tie that binds our hearts to those we love so dearly,
When torn asunder it gives us greatest pain—
But we are still joined in heart and soul and shall gladly joyously meet again.

Yes, Harold, dear loyal loving devoted son, we shall gladly, joyously meet again—it seems to me as tho' I hear your dear voice in low sweet refrain—We shall meet again, Mother dear.

Out beyond the distant stars there is a mystic borderland, and within its limits I know you must dwell—into that great silence you vanished six years ago today.

And even tho' we have lost the hold of hand with hand, and parted with aching hearts, yet still we feel so close is that dear land, that only a thin veil hangs between our pathways, and in time we shall meet again—how our hearts respond to that great song—to meet again in God's glorious world just beyond.

Some think and say you are dead, but I feel you are just away, have gone to God's higher school of life, have wandered into that enchanted land to meet your dear father, Samuel Potter Mulford, who went on years ago, and to join the other loved ones there.

How well we remember your leaving us with a cheery smile and a wave of the hand as mother watched from the window of the Park Place home when you went away to your earthly school.

And now, as then, I feel you have gone to the Heavenly school, to that higher world of light, love, and duty—and left us here to dream and think of you, and of how very fair and beautiful it must be since you and all of the others still linger here.

Across the silence in the very same way, we think of you as dear, loyal loving and true there, as we did while here, and when I grow sad and long for the sight of you, I just begin to think of that glad day when we shall meet again.

I do believe that God will give a sweet surprise to my beloved son and I, that we shall have much to see together there, by and by,—and that just the same dear face, more beautiful and glorified, will be in the place, where we shall gladly joyously meet again.

So often I yearn for the familiar step and the glad return of the son I love so dearly, but since this may not be, I will leave you trustingly in God's tender gracious care, and ask of Him the precious boon to bless, love, guide and protect you everywhere—now, and throughout all eternity.

May His loving arms enfold you until we shall gladly joyously meet again is the fervent daily prayer of

Your loving and devoted mother,

MINNA MULFORD POMEROY.

"PUCK IN PETTICOATS" AND "RING OF SALT" PRESENTED

The two plays, "Puck in Petticoats" and "Ring of Salt," presented by the Sunshine Mission Band of the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church, yesterday afternoon, in the church rooms, were the most successful ever given by the youthful thespians, who showed a remarkable degree of histrionic ability. The audience which witnessed the productions was an unusually large one and showed much appreciation of the efforts of the participants. During the afternoon members of the band sold candy and realized a neat sum as a result.

The Misses Mary Rushmore and Dorothy Leal had charge of coaching the young people and the able manner in which the cast portrayed the various characters reflected much credit on the two young women.

John Gray, who has been ill for the past few months, has returned to his mother's home on West Fifth street.

TELLS OF SECOND COMING OF CHRIST

Evangelist Says People Are Now Living in Closing Days of Present Age.

The Rev. S. A. Renicks closed his series of evangelistic services at the Christian and Missionary Alliance last night. He spoke to a good sized audience on the "Signs of the Times." The text was taken from Matthew 24:37: "As the days of Noah were, so shall also the coming of the Son of Man be."

Mr. Renicks drew a picture from the scriptural record of Noah's day, summing it up in the following words: "It was an age of inventions, an unbelieving age, an age of corruption, of violence, sensualism, and an age of intemperance and money making."

Then the evangelist read some New Testament prophecies referring to the closing hours of this age, and sought to prove by scripture and facts, that people are living in the closing hours of the age. He said:

"The world was not converted in Noah's day, neither will it be converted when the Lord returns the second time, as God's judgment fell upon the Antediluvian world suddenly, and they knew not until the flood came and took them all away, so the Lord will come as a thief in the night, when the world is least expecting Him. For when they shall say peace and safety, then sudden destruction cometh.

"Every dispensation," said the evangelist, "ended in failure, Adam failed, Noah as a family failed, Israel as a nation failed, the church is here only as a witness to the saving grace of God, and to snatch men as it were as brands from the burning, and when the church has run her course and preached the Gospel as a witness to all nations, the Lord is coming for her, according to His promise, and this unbelieving age will end in the 'Great Tribulation' such as this world has never seen."

The evangelist appealed to men and women to get right with God and accept His offer of mercy. The ministry of Rev. Renicks was blessed of God to all who heard him. He begins a series of meetings in a Baptist church near Corning, N. Y., on Sunday.

The unfinished questions of the previous meeting will also be discussed.

BURIAL TOMORROW AFTERNOON

The burial of Mrs. Serin P. Craig, who died in Brooklyn on Wednesday, will take place at Hillside cemetery tomorrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, Rev. Dr. C. M. Anderson, of the First M. E. church, of which Mrs. Craig was a member, officiating.

Josh Billings Once Said This:

"Consider the postage stamp, my son. Its usefulness consists in its ability to stick to one thing until it gets there."

There's both wit and wisdom in this homely paragraph.

The Swedish people have a word that is spelled SKAAL, which is said to mean "Here's How."

Whoever can give us the "here's the how" of doing the things we would like to do is a benefactor and a friend.

We are working at our vision of what the right kind of a clothing store should be, and we are sticking to the one thing and shall keep on doing so until we get there.

BUILDING PRICES ARE STILL FIRM

Heavy Future Engagements for Materials Mark the Wholesale Trade.

BRICK IS SHUT OFF

Complete Closing of Navigation in Hudson and Raritan Rivers Holds up Transportation—Season Outlook Good.

New York, Feb. 19.—Heavy future engagements for building materials marked the wholesale market this week. Lumber was one of the conspicuous factors in this regard. Common brick was entirely shut off from the market because of the complete closing of naviation in both the Hudson and Raritan rivers. That made prices firmer, although the demand out of the West 52nd street market was practically nil, because the same element that closed the supply to this market also shut off demand.

Commitments for spring building operations having merit still show confidence on the part of financial interests. One important operation for the Greeley Square section was financed on engagement this week. It is to be an office building with stores and restaurant club on the top floor. Another loft building met favorable financial encouragement for the Grand Central Terminal zone. There was an overture made by a prominent speculative builder for a Broadway development in the district between Herald and Times Squares. Another operation that was financed by engagement was in the Queens Borough plaza district, and still another was negotiated for the Washington Square district. A $775,000 loan was negotiated for a factory development in Long Island City and a big cold storage operation was reported to be under consideration in the Hudson river district above 34th street.

Important steel contracts were let this week involving large tonnages for dock and industrial operations. Fabricators are figuring some of the largest industrial operations of the recent past. In some cases premiums are being paid to facilitate the movement of structural steel. The tonnage for the Pennsylvania pier at Greenville for the Corwith plant of the Crane Company was reported to be close to 2,000 tons and the tonnage for the Goodyear plant was reported to be in the vicinity of 2,700 tons W. F. Plass & Sons, Inc., were the low bidders on the Forty-sixth street pier on the North river, covering about 4,000 tons. The Hedden Iron Construction Company is figuring for a 250-ton steel installation for the National Sugar Refining Company in Long Island City. Bids have been asked on a loft building in Union Square.

The continued stiffness of linseed oil and asphaltum is giving concern to waterproofing compound interests. All ingredients used in making this commodity are going up in price and some of the leading firms will not make quotations for publication on the ground that any figure they might give is merely nominal under the present conditions. All paint components are also high and ready mixed paints this year probably will be far above last year's prices. An authority in this department said that if there ever was a time when the paint men were crowded to narrow margins of profit it was right now. The price of every single commodity from the label on the tin can to the tin itself, the contents and the gasolene driving the motor that delivers the purchase are up anywhere from five to 105 per cent, and the end is not in sight.

The lumber situation offers problems for the analyst. The mill supply has improved because of the recent heavy snows that have permitted logging in the northern part of the country and around the lake region. In the meantime there is a shortage of cars to get the material to market and premiums on bottoms are such as to make the price here exceptionally firm. Dealers have been making heavy reservations in anticipation of active spring building, and they are straining every means of getting the rough lumber here. In the meantime the spring building season is advancing, inventories are over and dealers are actively in the market and are finding lists rigidly adhered to. At the same time, compared with other commodities, notably brick, steel, glass, flashing metals, roofing and cement, it is probably the cheapest commodity in the market today.

All factors considered, there is a stronger building material buying market than is indicated by current plan filings. There is no low ground for any building material and at the same time there is no bull movement because of a general belief among building material producers that prices have gone high enough. High levels may, therefore, be considered basic for estimators until the spring movement gets under way and the real volume of 1916 construction can be gauged.

PRETTY HOME CAN BE BUILT FOR $3,000

The concensus of architectural opinion of the entire country as to what typifies the ideal home to cost $3,000 will be visualized at the First American Complete Building Show in Cleveland, Ohio, February 16 to 26.

Not only will a complete model of this prize house, accurate in every detail, be on display at the show, but a full-sized plan of the first will be reproduced, complete with furniture, carpets, pictures, etc.

This house was selected by a committee of five Cleveland architects from among more than 300 designs from all parts of the country in competition. The design is by a Buffalo architect, Olaf William Shelgren.

The feature of this first prize house is the elimination of the entrance from the front of the house, and the substitution of a large bay window for the conventional porch. The exceptional ventilation of the large living room will make it livable all year round—cool in summer and light during the long winter months.

The dining room is virtually a part of the living room, making both available as one room in case of need. French doors open onto the porch, which makes an ideal lounging place out of view from passers-by. The kitchen contains all the necessities of the culinary department. The stair arrangement provides an excellent short cut from the working part of the house to the second story.

Upstairs the little house is well laid out, providing, in addition to a guest room, a large family room and a smaller room for children. Each contains good closet space.

This first prize house is of stucco with roof of green slate. Window and door frames are green to harmonize with the roof. This color scheme will blend with natural scenery and combine with it to make a perfect picture of an artistic home.

$6,000 HOUSE FOR W. SEVENTH STREET

Permit Issued to John Greene Only One Granted Past Week.

A permit granted John Green for the erection of a new residence at 1098 West Seventh street, was the only one granted by Building Inspector T. O. Doane during the past week. The structure is to be 39x36 feet in outside dimensions and will cost a total of $6,176. George Wilson has been awarded the carpentry and William Dennick the masonry. The plans were drawn by Architect William H. Clum.

The new residence is to be located just west of Monroe avenue, and is to be two and a half stories in height. The first floor plan calls for four rooms and a large reception hall. Four sleeping rooms and a sewing room will be located on the second floor and an additional room is to be on the top floor. The building will be of ornate appearance on the outside, while the interior will be fitted with all modern improvements.

A large number of plans are now being completed by local architects and builders and it is probable that several of them will be passed by Inspector Doane next week. February has been somewhat slow in new work, but indications point to a high total by the first of March.

STREET COMMITTEE PLACES CITY LOT ON THE MARKET

The large lot at the southeast corner of Plainfield avenue and West Third street, which is owned by the city, and which has been used as a storage yard by the street committee, is to be placed on the market. The street committe has decided to do this, believing that the ground is too valuable for storage purposes All information can be had by prospective buyers from Thomas F. Hylan, chairman of the committee, or the other members, Messrs. Graves, Smick, Cox and Booth.

The lot has a good frontage on about 150 feet on West Third street. It is in the midst of a good business neighborhood, and would make an admirable situation for business and residential structures.

BUILDING PLANS OF ALL SAINTS' CHURCH

Fanwood Congregation Raising $10,000 for Much Needed Improvements.

Members of the congregation of All-Saints' Episcopal church, of Fanwood, have started an organized campaign to raise a fund of approximately $10,000 with which to build a rectory and parish home. Societies have been organized to hold various social affairs, and with people working at other sources it should not be a long time before the amount is raised.

It is expected that ground in the immediate vicinity of the church will be secured, and on it a house of modern construction for the pastor will be erected. No plans have been drawn up as yet, but it will undoubtedly be of two and a half story construction with all improvements. The parish house, too, will be adjoining the church, and it will embody meeting rooms, kitchen and probaoly a gymnasium.

PISCATAWAY BOARD SPEEDING UP CONTRACTOR

At a meeting of the Piscataway Township Board of Education, this week, it was reported by the building committee that the school building at South Plainfield had not yet been finished. A letter was read from Pierson & Son, architects, on the subject and some discussion as to just what to do was indulged in. A motion was finally passed that unless the work was completed during the present week, that the committee be empowered to finish it at the expense of the contractor, without further notice or delay.

SCHOOL DEMANDS GROWING RAPIDLY

Plainfield Among County Municipalities Feeling Growth of Population.

BUILDING CONSTANTLY

County Superintendent Johnson Tells of Cost of Structures and Maintenance—Eight Public Schools in This City.

Comparatively few people realize what an important and far-reaching institution the educational system of Union county is, or that it costs more than $2,000,000 annually to maintain, and embraces property valued at close to $4,000,000, while $732,402.72 is the amount of the last annual appropriation for teachers' salaries. There is no section of the county which is not making its demands for new buildings, and in many cases these demands are made while the mortar in the last structures built is scarcely dry.

In Plainfield and surrounding communities there is a rapid growth in population which is making itself felt in the demands for new public school buildings everywhere. No suburban section has schools sufficient for the very near future. County School Superintendent A. L. Johnson estimates that some boroughs and townships which have only recently erected new buildings will find it necessary very soon to plan more structures, because of the rapid growth, due to the establishment of manufacturing plants, and an influx of residents for other reasons.

Much demand for increases to the public school plants of the various municipalities of the county has come within the past five years. In that time Union county has taken great strides forward, and has caused to be erected in every section the very finest class of public school buildings; many of which will compare favorably with the schools of any other city in the country. The day of the old one-room school has passed in this county. There are three two-room schools still in existence in remote sections, but even these are to be doubled in size within the coming year, and additions must be made to several of the newer schools in growing communities.

"People generally do not realize the immensity of the public school problem," said Mr. Johnson, "nor do they comprehend that the greater portion of the money raised by taxation is expended in the maintenance of the schools of the cities, townships and boroughs. The demands for accommodations for rapidly-growing communities are ever increasing, and the more thickly populated municipalities are finding it very difficult to keep up with the increases in numbers of pupils, even when they make what they consider at the time adequate preparation for the normal growth of their particular sections. We have ninety public school buildings in the county, thirty-six of which are located in the townships and boroughs, and the remainder in Elizabeth, Plainfield, Rahway and Summit. Some townships and boroughs have within the past two years erected large, up-to-date buildings which were thought large enough in capacity to take care of the pupils, but find the growth in population has been even more rapid than they had any idea it would be. The result is that more schools will have to be built and large additions to others will be necessary.

"To secure teachers for these schools is also somewhat of a problem. The county adds more than 140 teachers to its force each year, which means a large addition to the annual teachers' salary appropriations. Other expenses incident to the maintenance of the schools run the total up to a large figure.

Of the ninety schools in the county, eight of the buildings are in Plainfield, not counting the Evergreen structure, not yet completed, or the Whittier building, which is owned by the Seventh Day Baptist church. The Board of Education has authorized the erection of another school on Emerson avenue and when this is finished it will give the city ten buildings. Demands are being made by residents in other parts of Plainfield and new structures will be commenced as financial conditions and population warrant.

SLEEPING PORCH A PASSING FAD

Former Enthusiasts Giving Them up and Returning to Rooms.

BUILDING NO MORE

Only Faithful Retain "Bunks" in Open Air—Rise and Fall of Outdoor Fad is of Morte Than Passing Interest.

Hrs your house a sleeping porch? If so, you are in danger of being classed as behind the times. The architectural death-knell of the sleeping porch has been sounded. The newest bungalows are built without it, and when the bungalow repudiates it its fate is sealed.

A business man in an Eastern city, anxious to secure an option on a summer home before the season's rush set in, haunted the real estate offices examining various plans. One particular house in a nearby suburb was exactly what he wanted. It contained just the right number of rooms, and a tennis court on the front lawn, and a model garage. "But," complained the business man, "it has no sleeping porches."

The real estate agents regarded him with tolerant amusement. It was as if he had complained of the absence of a windmill. They explained that the sleeping porch is an architectural fad which had gone out of date, and there was no longer any demand for them. To the business man's timid assertions that he liked sleeping porches, they had but one reply: "It simply isn't being done."

The sleeping porch, in a sense, is the ideal way to sleep. But the constant living of an ideal may grow monotonous, and one by one people have gone back to their solid brass beds with a sigh of relief.

There is no question as to the beneficial effects of sleeping outdoors on the health generally, and particularly in the treatment of nervous diseases and tuberculosis. To the modern sanitarium sleeping porches will always be indispensable. They are a great boon, also, to those who are kept shut up in an office all day, where it is almost impossible to secure proper ventilation, and hence are deprived of the amount of fresh air which their systems require. Sleeping with all the windows open is not the same as being actually out in the open air. So as a necessity for good health the sleeping porch is here to stay, but as a luxury for those who can afford to gratify fads, it has ceased to be interesting.

When people had explored to the depths the aesthetic sensations of sleeping outdoors, it occurred to them to go a step further and live outdoors. Our remote ancestors, whom it became everybody's desire to imitate, lived out of doors or in well-ventilated caves. Whereupon the architects once more became busy, and in came the living-room porch. If one were fortunate enough to possess a front veranda, it was immediately screened, curtained and furnished. Wires were connected to the electric lighting system and fixtures attached to the porch ceiling.

With rugs of jute, or some other coarse fabric, willow furniture and low-hanging couch hammocks comfortably stocked with pillows, the living-room porch made an attractive addition to any home. It was an ideal dining-room in summer. In winter it could be converted into a veritable garden by window boxes and hanging vines. Trellises were tacked to the walls and ivy trained through them. Hanging fern baskets added an effective touch. Oriental lanterns of complicated metal design showed up well against the green of the vines. A bowl of gold fish and a canary were almost indispensable.

The custom of dining on the porch, begun in the summer, was continued far into the winter months. People were delighted with the novelty of it, and refused to pay any attention to the currents of cold air, admitted through the glass panels, which circulated around the back of their necks. It became the vogue to invite one's friends for breakfast on the living-room porch. In New England, where the winters are not mild, this form of entertainment had its drawbacks. The hostess would excuse herself to run upstairs and get a pair of gloves, and someone would suggest that she drink her coffee first or it would be cold. Such interruptions were frequent.

It is romantic to eat breakfast on the porch with the eggs freezing, but it gets monotonous after a while. It is thrilling to sleep outdoors in a thing like a diving suit while trees crack in the frost, but the thing wears off and the frost remains, especially if you forget the hot-water bottle. That is why the living-porch and the sleeping porch are "going out." The faithful few who really like that sort of thing will stick to it, and so will those who benefit by the regime; but the great majority, who took it up because it was the fashion, are going back to bed.

TO SELL CARS OF RAILWAY.

Sale Forced by Public Service Company's Refusal to Supply Current.

East Orange, Feb. 19.—Tax Collector Frank A. O'Connor of West Orange will sell two cars, rails, wires, tools etc., the property of the defunct Mountain Railway company, next Thursday at the terminal of the old road, which ran cars up the Orange mountain until July, 1914, when the Public Service corporation refused to furnish any more electric current until an unpaid bill was settled.

SCHOOL BOYS SOLVE BUILDING PROBLEM

New Providence Pupils Erect Much Needed Addition to School Structure.

The Borough of New Providence has a very capable manual training teacher who has had several years' trade experience as a carpenter. The Board of Education is about to erect an addition to the present building. A new class was formed because of increased attendance, but a suitable room could not be procured in the town. At this juncture the manual training teacher proposed as a solution to the problem the erection of a temporary one-room building in the rear of the present school. By the aid of forty-nine boys he erected a building in less than two weeks which is now ready for occupancy. This is an excellent community problem, and while an ambitious one, has revealed the possibilities of manual training in a very conclusive way. The whole community is proud of the accomplishment, and justly so. The building is 20 feet 4 inches wide by 28 feet long, has 2 by 12 inch floor beams, 2 by 4 inch studding, 2 by 6 inch rafters and 2 by 4 inch ceiling beams.

The Board was anxious to have the building ready as soon as possible, as there was a class of 32 pupils to house and no place to put them. It was decided to hire two unskilled men to help with the grading and rough work and get the material ready for the manual training classes during their class periods. The work was started October 6, and was finished, the furniture was installed and the class moved in on November 3, 1915.

When the building was begun it was impressed upon the boys that it would be a privilege to work on it, and that they could work only before school in the morning, at recess time, half the noon hour, their manual training periods and Saturdays. No one was allowed to stay after school in the afternoon to work on it. From the time the building was started until it was finished there was no lack of help; in fact, it was necessary to limit the boys to certain periods of time.

The work was started by the boys going into the woods with the men and receiving some practical instruction in cutting. Chestnut trees were used for the foundation posts. The boys were then given a demonstration in the shop on laying out the foundation for the building.

The following is the total cost of building, outside of heating, which was done by running a steam pipe from the main building and putting in four radiators:

Lumber (including wall boards)	$422.52
Hardware	9.93
Paint, stain and varnish	14.36
Unskilled labor	56.50
Total	$503.31

M. E. PARSONAGE TO BE REMODELED

Contract for the Work Will Probably Be Given Out Next Week.

Local contractors have been figuring plans for remodeling the First Methodist church parsonage at 612 Central avenue, and it is probable the contract will be awarded the next week. The arrangements are in charge of a building committee from the congregation of which is George M. Rittenhouse as chairman. The work will cost somewhere around $3000.

Among the improvements called for in the plans are the building of a large addition to the rear of the present structure, the entire reconstruction of the first floor and numerous changes on the third floor, together with the placing of a number of windows. The present front stairway from the first to the second floor will be removed and its place will be taken by an open staircase leading from a large reception hall. A new porch will be placed in front, and when the remodeling is completed, it will give the church one of the finest parsonages in the Newark Conference. Architect Charles H. Smith drew the plans. The property is owned by James W. Jackson and he has left the matter of reconstruction to the buildings committee from the church.

PAIN GONE! RUB SORE, RHEUMATIC ACHING JOINTS

Rub pain away with a small trial bottle of old, penetrating "St. Jacob's Oil."

Stop "dosing" rheumatism.

It's pain only; not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" right on the "tender spot," and by the time you say Jack Robinson—out comes the rheumatic pain and distress. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism liniment which never disappoints and doesn't burn the skin. It takes pain, soreness and stiffness from aching joints, muscles and bones; stops sciatica, lumbago, backache and neuralgia.

Limber up! Get a small trial bottle of old-time, honest "St. Jacobs Oil" from any drug store, and in a moment, you'll be free from pains, aches and stiffness. Don't suffer! Rub rheumatism away.—Adv.

PLANS FOR BANK BUILDING

ficers; adjoining these, the men's tellers' cages and back of the cages provision is made for the ledger bookkeepers, general bookkeeper, check clerks, stenographer, etc.

The present round door manganese steel vault is to be moved into the new building just previous to its completion and this will be the prominent feature of the equipment of the banking room. Convnient coupon rooms for the use of renters of safe deposit boxes are also provided.

Above the banking room at the front will be the directors' room also an anteroom. These rooms will be reached by an ornamental stairway ascending from the left of the banking room. At the rear a mezzanine gallery will extend across the entire building. This will also be reached by stairs at the left.

The basement is to be equipped with ample silver storage vaults and a completely equippel lunch room for the clerks, locker rooms, etc.

This building will certainly be an adornment to the city as well as to the prominent corner upon which it is to be erected and the Daily Press congratulates the officers and directors upon the progressivenes they have shown in providing their institution with such a modern well-equipped building. That the public will not be slow to appreciate the conveniences placed at its disposal, goes without saying.

The plans for the building were drawn by Mowbray & Uffinger, a New York firm of architects, which makes a specialty of banking house structurs.

GIRL STRIKERS IN POLICE CLASH

Two Are Arrested, but Later Released.

MORE TROUBLE EXPECTED

More Money and Less Hours the Issue of Camden Girls—They Quit Their Jobs and Induce Others to Join—Situation Is Quiet.

Camden, Feb. 19.—The strike of the girl workers in the Seidenberger Cigar works has assumed a critical stage. Strikers were on the alert and tried to prevent others from taking their jobs. More money and less hours is the issue.

Two girl strikers were arrested when they attempted to keep from their work some of the 900 girls employed in the cigar factory of Seidenberger & Co. They are Blanche Majeski, thirty-one years old, of Camden, and Josephine Johannes, nineteen years old. The former is accused of having hurled sticks and stones at Detective Moffet, who was detailed to prevent disorder at the plant.

Both of the girls had a hearing and were released by Recorder Stackhouse under suspended sentence.

About sixty of the strikers followed the patrol to the police station and made a demonstration here.

Large squads of the girl strikers are posted in front of the factory acting as pickets.

Three hundred and fifty girls marched out in a demand for an eight hour day and an increase of 5 cents on every hundred cigars made. The strikers said that the factory is virtually tied up and that 500 employees are on strike. This was denied by Anthony Schneider, vice president of the company, who says that not more than 100 are out and that these are dribbling back from time to time.

MARTIN WILL DEBATE.

Accepts Challenge of Hennessy to Make Tour of State.

Trenton, Feb 19 Secretary of State Thomas F. Martin accepted the invitation of Senator Charles O'Connor Hennessy that the Democratic candidates for governor make a joint tour of the state. This was subject to the understanding that all other candidates for the Democratic nomination take similar action.

Mr. Martin said the Hennessy proposition appealed to him as Democratic in principle. Mr. Wittpenn, the third candidate in the field, has not been heard from.

COURT UPHOLDS EDWARDS.

Original Ruling In Cushing Case Affirmed by High Courts.

Trenton, Feb. 19.—The supreme court upheld the action of State Comptroller Edwards in levying a tax of $10,382 upon the estate of the late Nicholas B. Cushing, who died at Upper Nyack November, 1913. Part of the estate consisted of bonds and mortgages aggregating upward of $300,000 deposited in a safe in Jersey City at the time of Mr Cushing's death. They covered real estate located both in New York and New Jersey.

Seashore Judge Laid Up.

He was compelled to call on Judge Walter Taylor of the First district court, Asbury Park, to relieve him on the bench. In a few days he will leave for a stay at Hot Springs, Va.

WASHINGTON.

We are at the period just between the birthdays of Abraham Lincoln and George Washington, and probably there never were two as great men in history, who are so divergent in their personal characteristics and life.

Lincoln's life began in poverty and ended in tragedy. Washington's life began in reasonable comfort and ended naturally. The military part of Washington's life, I shall not refer to. His position after the Revolution, as to the form of government for the States was controlling and far-reaching in its results. When Washington surrendered his sword and resigned his commission to the Continental Congress at Annapolis on December 23rd, 1783, he said: "Having now finished the work assigned to me, I retire from the great theatre of action; and, bidding an affectionate farewell to this august body, under whose orders I have so long acted, I here offer my commission, and take my leave of all the employments of public life." In this act, he made it forever impossible, by his self-abnegation, for any person to become king and assured to this nation a form of government of some other character than that of a monarchy. Because at that time, no other person could have assumed to become king, but Washington.

His subsequent conduct after retiring to Mt. Vernon indicates his great anxiety to secure a stronger union of the States, under a constitutional form of government, than that which was then established under the Articles of Confederation, which had been adopted in 1778. Washington knew how ineffective these had proven during the Revolution and he felt that unless they would be strengthened, the country was in danger.

On March 4th, 1783, he wrote Hamilton: "It is clearly my opinion, unless Congress have powers competent to all general purposes, that the distresses we have encountered, the expense we have incurred, and the blood we have spilt, will avail us nothing."

In August 1786, he wrote to Jay: "I do not conceive we can exist long as a nation without having lodged somewhere a power which will pervade the whole Union in as energetic a manner as the authority of the State governments extends over the several States."

Holding this view and being anxious to see a permanent and strong form of government established, Washington was continually writing to the leaders of his day and to the generals, who had served under him advocating a Constitution; and it was, no doubt, due to his efforts that the Continental Congress called a convention of delegates from the States to revise and amend the Articles of Confederation of 1787.

Washington's part in the making of the Constitution of 1787, which we still have, creating a Federal Government, was marked and potential. He did not wish to become a delegate to that convention from his State, but Virginia insisted upon sending him, and it was very fortunate that she did. Naturally, he became President of the convention and while he never, but once, left the President's chair to take part in the discussion of the convention, the various reports of the secret proceedings of that convention, and comments and articles upon it by Madison, Adams, and others, indicate the marvelous effect his influence had upon its work. Several times the convention, which framed the Constitution of 1787, was in danger of falling apart through bitter disagreement between the representatives of the States and it was in these hours that the calm, yet firm, positions which Washington took, prevented it. No candid reader of history can fail to believe the truth to be, that it was the love all had for Washington, coupled with his kindly, but firm, counsel, which held the convention together and made possible the creation of this Republic under our present great written Constitution.

Washington lived to see this great instrument adopted by the people and piloted the country during the first eight years of its existence, as the first President under it. The first few years of any country under a new form of government are always the most trying and difficult and it was fortunate that Washington, whom all loved, and many feared, was at the head of it.

It would be, of course, impossible to review generally in a short article like this the wonderful character, career and forcefulness of George Washington, but he lived and assumed office for but one purpose, namely—the good of his fellows and for the developing and strengthening of a Constitutional Republic.

Probably, just now the language of his Farewell Address when he retired finally to private life, fits the condition of our time and the hour better than anything that anybody could now write and I commend it to all readers of this article. He wrote:

"Be united, be Americans. The name which belongs to you, in your national capacity. * Let there be no sectionalism, no North, South, East or West; you are all dependent one on another, and should be one in union. Beware of attacks, open or covert, upon the Constitution. Beware of the baneful effects of party spirit and of the ruin to which its extremes must lead. Do not encourage party spirit, but use every effort to mitigate and assuage it. Keep the departments of government separate, promote education, cherish the public credit, avoid debt. Observe justice and good faith toward all nations; have neither passionate hatreds nor passionate attachments to any; and be independent politically of all. * In one word, be a nation, be Americans, and be true to yourselves."

Long live the memory of Washington!

JOHN FRANKLIN FORT.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

The Alpha Literary Society carried off first honors in the inter-society debate with the Omega Literary Society, held in the auditorium of the school yesterday afternoon and by so doing got three members of its team on the school team that will face South Side on March 3 in the Rutgers College Debating League. The debate was on "Shall the Government Control the Prohibition of Liquor?" and it brought forth some excellent arguments. William Backer and Richard Borden, both member of the Alpha team, were judged as tied for first place with Dickerman Williams, one of the Omega team, being placed in second place, and Olive Lawrence, another Alpha member, receiving third place. The judges were Miss Iola Moore, Miss Cummings and Principal Lindsey Best.

Dr. Silvers, a member of the faculty of Rutgers College, gave an illustrated lecture in the High School yesterday afternoon to the student body on "American College Life" and in the course of his talk depicted some of the pleasures and work mingled together in a four years' college course. He explained the stereopticon views of Rutgers from the time of its founding one hundred and fifty years ago, when it consisted of a professor and six students in an old house, up to the present day. In closing his address he advised everyone to go to college if possible, but he also said that it was by far the wiser plan to choose a small college than a large one, because besides having as good scholarship opportunities, life was more intense.

The sixth period will be eliminated at the High School, Monday, and instead the student body will gather in the auditorium for short exercises in observance of Washington's Birthday.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

Written by a Victim.

Ripperty Rip—I've got the grip.
I know I'm sinking fast.
My poor bones ache, as tho' they'd break;
Wonder how long it'll last.

Bobbity Bob—my pulses throb
A million times a minute;
My neck is sprained, my eyes are strained,
I don't believe I'm in it.

Coughity Cough—my head is off
And pains shoot through my breast;
I shiver and shake; I squirm and quake.
Oh, when do I get a rest?

I grunt and groan, I write and moan.
And then I gasp and sigh;
I strangle and choke, my back is broke;
Great Scott! It seems I'll die.

I cannot talk, nor crawl nor walk;
I know I'm getting worse;

She Was Some Kid.

The recent cold spell recalls to our mind a hired girl that we were afflicted with during the earlier years of our matrimonial experience. She was the coldest blooded female that we have ever encountered, and it seemed that the poor thing could never get warm. All day long she would spend her time feeding beech and maple into the hungry maw of the old wood burner that used to do furnace duty in those days, and she became mighty handy at it, too. In fact, so proficient did she become that she was offered and accepted a job as fireman on a lake steamer when navigation opened that spring.—Pewamo News.

The Truest Poem Ever Penned.

My auto, 'tis of thee,
Short cut to poverty,
Of thee I chant;
I blew a pile of dough
On you two years ago;
Now you refuse to go,
Or won't or can't.

Gone is my bank roll now,
No more 'twould choke the cow,
As once before.
Yet if I had the mon,
So help me John-amen,
I'd buy a car again
And speed some more'

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

Gus Hill offers "The Boy Scouts," a musical play of Young America, at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday, Matinee and Night, Feb. 23.

The wonderful success of the Boy Scouts, the latest Gus Hill offering, which will be the attraction at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday, matinee and night, February 23, has been the talk of press, pulpit and public. In fact, no play produced in recent years has aroused such favorable comment. This is not at all surprising in view of the fact that it is the only vehicle of its kind written in years with a theme so wide and far reaching in its appeal. Not alone does it serve its principal purpose of entertaining, but it goes further in creating an uncontrolable desire in the minds of the young to live clean and wholesome lives and parade before the public eyes that refreshing inherent trait in Americans, chivalry and patriotism; being a combination of melodrama and musical comedy makes the production all the more unique. It was written by Hal Reid, an author of acknowledged skill and reputation, with music and lyrics by Messrs. Phil Welker and W. A. Downs. It requires three acts and four scenes to tell its absorbing story and a company of fifty artists to interpret it.

MARRIAGE A LUXURY IN PERU

Panama Religious Congress Hears Only Rich Can Afford to Wed.

Panama, Feb. 19.—Marriage as an institution is weaker in Peru and other countries on the west coast of South America than in any other Christian land. In Peru, according to one missionary, "marriage is considered a luxury for the rich." Even civil marriage is costly. The poor regard it as almost impossible.

THUMBS DOWN!

- Proctor's Theatre -

At Proctor's Theatre, Wednesday and Thursday.

An extraordinary program of supreme photoplay productions is provided at Proctor's the first half of next week and is headed on Monday and Tuesday, two days only, with a Griffith supervised feature entitled, "The Wood Nymph," starring dainty Marie Doro, the distinguished star of a score of Broadway successes and formerly one of Charles Frohman's most capable leading women. "The Wood Nymph" is Miss Doro's first Triangle picture and suits her personality perfectly. "The Wood Nymph" is a play that mingles very beautifully the atmosphere of aesthetic Greek life with the life of today, and Miss Doro is surrounded with a distinguished cast of Triangle stars. The Keystone comedy feature appearing in conjunction with the above on Monday, Tuesday and also Wednesday, is entitled "Perils of the Park," with Harry Gribbon in the leading role. It is a clever burlesque on the marital mishaps of a young couple and will bring forth storms of uncontrolled mirth. An extraordinary picture is booked for Proctor's on Wednesday and Thursday. On those two days William Fox will present Theda Bara; the greatest of vampires, and the most famous screen star appearing before the public today, in positively her greatest production, entitled, "The Serpent." Miss Bara runs the gamut of emotions in this play and her acting is the sort that she can do better than anyone else on the screen. The management wishes to announce that in the very near future, beside the wonderful Essanay serial, "The Strange Case of Mary Page," with Henry Walthall and Edna Mayo as the leading stars, which will appear very soon, they have made arrangements with the Pathe Co. whereby they will present the new Pathe serial, "The Iron Claw," an episode appearing each week. The stars of "The Iron Claw" are the most famous serial participants in filmdom, namely, Miss Pearl White, star of "The Perils of Pauline," and Creighton Hale, the inimitable Jameson of the "Exploits of Elaine." "The Red Circle" will appear again on Friday and the toy bazaar for the children will be an added attraction on Saturday afternoon.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME—

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

How the Squeegee And the Grink Got Dick Back In Bed.

His Face Shut Just Like Two Crackers.

"OH, daddy," cried Jack and Evelyn, "please tell us a boy fairy story!"

So daddy began: "When the Squeegee, the little boy Dick and the Wazzle all waited in Jeebooland to see what a mighty noise crashing through underbrush was they found it to be merely the footfalls of a strange small-creature that the Wazzle introduced to Dick as the Grink.

"'Hello, Grink!' said Dick, who by this time felt quite at home in Jeebooland. 'How did you ever make so much noise with those small feet of yours?'

"'It's my breath,' the Grink confessed. And he opened his face, which looked exactly like two crackers, one on top of the other, and let out a breath that sounded like a roaring wind. Dick looked at him with joy and surprise, for when the wind passed his face shut just like two crackers pasted together. He had the funniest way, too, of wiping off his face with his tail, which was almost as big as a mouse's. And when he was introduced instead of offering his hand he offered his tail, which Dick took politely and shook. 'You must please excuse me if I don't talk,' the Grink told Dick. 'I have a sore throat.' And for the first time Dick noticed a little strip of red flannel tied around the Grink's throat."

"Oh, daddy, just the way mamma fixes ours!" said Evelyn.

"Just then a merry whistling began to sound through the branches of the hat tree, and, looking up, Dick saw what he took to be the Jangaree. 'This is my favorite friend. You'll find him a jolly chap!' cried the Squeegee. And down the trunk of the hat tree slid a little fellow who looked something like Puss In Boots. His head was like a turkey's, but his coat was cut just like a turtle's shell, black and yellow plaids, and he carried a little sword, which he used for a cane as soon as he reached the ground.

"'Glad to meet you,' he assured Dick as soon as the Squeegee told him who the little boy was. 'And if ever you need a friend in Jeebooland just call on me.' He clicked his heels together, jumped up in the air and came down on both red boots in the neatest fashion. This gave Dick confidence in him. 'Do you happen to know the way back to my house?' Dick asked at once. 'Yes, indeed!' cried the Jangaree, beginning to dig in the ground with his little sword. When he had made a hole big enough for Dick and the Squeegee to squeeze through they both bade goodby to the Wazzle and the Grink and slid right back to earth. When Dick opened his eyes the next morning he found himself in his own bed," daddy finished.

"Oh, how jolly!" clapped Jack and Evelyn.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS EVA LEONARD

In Sickness as in Health, Ortrude Townsend Shows Her Disloyalty.

"Your pa is sick," announced the housekeeper as Marian and Dudley came up on the porch, swinging their tennis racquets.

"Was he taken sick over at the Parsons?" asked Marian.

"No; he was getting ready to go to the dinner party. She was waiting below." Mrs. Tupper always referred to the new wife as "She." "It was time to start and he did not come down, so she went up to see what was the matter. He was nearly ready. Just sitting there too weak to finish."

"Have you called the doctor?" asked Dudley.

"No, I thought you would be here in a minute and would see to it," explained Mrs. Tupper. "He is lying down. We had better get him to bed."

"You telephone Dr. Ellson, Marian. I will go and see to him." Dudley rushed up the stairs.

After telephoning Marian went out to the kitchen to make further inquiries about her father.

"Why did not that woman telephone for a doctor, I should like to know?"

"Telephone for a doctor! She was bound he should go to the dinner party. I heard her say, 'You could excuse yourself and come home if you did not feel able to stay.' All she thought of was to get to the dinner party, where she would have stayed, no matter what became of him." The woman's face was red with anger.

"Much she cares!" exploded Marian. "I believe she wants him to die; then she could take her money and go. I wish she would. I, for one, would be in favor of giving her the entire property to get rid of her."

Dudley came into the kitchen and Marian turned to inquire about her father.

"He seems very weak. He made no objection when I told him we had sent for a doctor. I've got him to bed and made him comfortable. We had better not disturb him till the doctor comes; he seems not to want to talk."

"Let's get supper out of the way before he gets here so we will be ready to do what we wants done," suggested the housekeeper. "Call—her."

Dudley went to the bedroom with the doctor when he came. Marian sat on the top stair and waited anxiously for any sounds from the sick room. When they opened the door she hurried downstairs and beckoned them to seats on the porch when they reached the hall. Ortrude heard them descend and came out to inquire about her husband.

"He seems to have been under some great strain," the doctor was saying as she joined the group. "Has he been worrying about something?"

"Business has been bothering him. Money is very slow, and bills keep pouring in." He glanced at Ortrude.

"The weather has been oppressive and that taken together with his worries has been too much for him. He must have complete rest for some days and freedom from worry. With two men at the store and three women at the house he should be cared for easily."

"Do you think I had better sit up and give him medicine tonight?" asked Dudley.

"Oh, do not wake him to give him medicine. If he should be awake," he turned to Ortrude, "give him the powders, but sleep will help him more than anything else. He says he has not been sleeping well. I'll look in in the morning. Good evening." The doctor strode down the walk.

"You had better take your things in another room so you will not be disturbed. I will take care of father tonight," said Dudley, turning to Ortrude.

"Why, I——" demurred Ortrude.

"It will be better so," interrupted Dudley in a tone of finality.

(To be continued.)

The Making of a Beauty

There is a woman in this locality who has made over her figure. Though once she was ugly, she has now become pretty.

"It takes time to make yourself beautiful," she says, "and it takes age. You can't be beautiful when you are young. You may be pretty with a kind of inane insipidness which soon fades, but you can't be really beautiful.

Beauty Was A Necessity.

"I am a business woman, and I found that to succeed I must be better looking. That is why I have made over my figure.

"I might once have been pretty—far back in my early girlhood; but at the age of 28 I had lost all my good looks. Four years later I was at my worst and my ugliest. I was stout, and my complexion was that of the stout woman of 32.

"One day a cousin, coming to town, spoke of me as his nice old relative. The next day a shopgirl asked me if I would like to see middle aged hats, and I still a young woman.

"I resolved to reclaim my figure and my looks. What was more, I resolved to grow handsome while I was reclaiming my figure.

Diet For Reducing Flesh.

"My initial step was to go to the office of a reduction specialist. This was his prescription, copied verbatim:

"'When you get up in the morning drink two glasses of water. For breakfast, take nothing but a small cup of coffee and two rolls. For lunch eat nothing at all, but drink water. Drink water freely all day. At night eat a chop for dinner, and all the vegetables you want. But drink nothing at all with your dinner.'

"This sounded easy, and I went to work. At the end of three weeks I had lost one pound. At this rate, I calculated that I would be 80 before I would become slender again. It was plainly up to me to find some other way of reducing.

The Berlin Method.

"Consulting a friend who had been to Berlin, where they do wonderful things for the human frame divine, I found that a different course of treatment could be tried. The Berlin treatment is the exercise treatment.

"My first duty was to purchase an alarm clock. This I set for 5 o'clock. At 6 in the morning I was out walking.

"I took a walk of one hour, drinking copious glasses of water while I walked. It was not always pleasant to trot around for an hour in the morning, rain or shine, but I did it.

"For breakfast I had only one cup of weak coffee and some very hard rolls. This is the best way to diet. Sit down to something you don't really want. You will not eat too much.

"I kept up my system of exercise all day, seldom resting, and when I went to bed at night I was tired enough to sleep without rocking. Once I had been troubled with insomnia, but this disappeared.

"There were some rules which went against the grain terribly, but they proved beneficial before I got through. One was to take no hot baths. Hot baths are fattening and they act as a weakener to stout persons. Instead, I learned to take cold baths.

"The second thing was the matter of standing. I was told to stand whenever possible.

"The third and particularly disagreeable point was that of wearing my clothes loose.

Daily Exercises.

"Daily exercises were suggested to me by an osteopath. They were to occupy 15 minutes night and morning.

"I was to work the shoulder blades and the hip joints, and I was also to swing my arms and drop on one knee. I was told that the best hours were 5 in the morning and 11 at night. This gave me barely seven hours' sleep, but it was enough. I lost a pound a day.

"With regard to diet, I was told not to drink anything with my meals and not to eat very much. This was the only restriction. Otherwise, I ate what I wanted.

"After a while the person who is exercising becomes ambitious. I longed to walk a great many miles a day. So I bought a pedometer and measured my footsteps.

"I soon found that I could do five miles twice a day with no trouble at all, and I often did five miles three times a day. In a short time I was as slender as a postman and pretty soon I began to be as lithe as an athlete.

Blooming Hair.

"Then, while doing this, I worked upon my complexion and upon my hair. Indeed, for three months I quite neglected my business and devoted myself to the beauty quest.

"My hands I put in the care of a manicure, who shaped them and made them rosy and tapering. In a short time people began to tell me what pretty hands I had. I found that anybody can have nice hands. Mine were white as milk, with peach colored nails and tapering tips.

"My hair I taught to bloom. It was dark, and I brightened it with the right kind of shampoo. Of course, I did not bleach it, for I wanted dark hair, but I made it shine.

Other Beauty Tricks.

"It is easy to make your hair shine. It is only a matter of treating it a little. It will soon glow like a blackbird's wing. If it had been light, I would have washed it well with a little henna in the water to make it glow.

"My forehead I widened a little and I made it lower. This is done by treating the hair as it should be treated.

"And my lips I taught to curve. You can force your mouth to be expressive and you can have a rosebud in place of a slit. I massaged a dimple into my chin and I curved my mouth. It is all a trick of massage.

"Well, I kept on until I had made myself good looking. People began to tell me so, and I knew it, for I could see it in the glass. It is something to be handsome, even if you are a woman and a real estate agent, and to have succeeded is a matter of much pride to me."

NUTMEGS AS MEDICINE.

A drowsy state after meals is what we should welcome, for it is the most favorable condition for good digestion. Nutmegs may produce it because their effect is to increase the flow of gastric juice.

The nutmeg is much used by doctors as a remedy in weak digestion. If one has a keen appetite he does not need nutmeg, for appetite is the most powerful stimulant of the flow of gastric juice. If the appetite is not good the digestion will be feeble, and then the addition of a little nutmeg will be found of benefit.

A BOLERO EFFECT.

Many gowns for afternoon wear show either the bolero effect or actual boleros. A very quaint frock of gray taffeta has a black taffeta bolero. The sleeves of the jacket reach only to the elbow, from which point gray chiffon falls in fullness until it reaches the wrist. Here it is gathered into a narrow ruffle.

A white chemisette with a deep turnover collars adds a smart note. The skirt is quite full and is trimmed with three graduating bands of black taffeta. Each band is headed with narrow silk fringe. The edge of the collar is also finished with fringe.

To Keep Poinsettias

"Poinsettias when cut are rather a fragile bloom to keep for any length of time under ordinary care, but if properly handled they ought to keep fresh for a week," said a well-known florist the other day to a customer.

"If you treat them as we do here in the shop, you will find them just as lasting as any other flower. We dip the stem in boiling hot water just as soon as they come, and whenever they begin to wilt or they need fresh water, the hot bath is renewed. Of course, the steam should not be alowed to reach the flower itself, but this can be prevented by thrusting the stems through a hole in a sheet of paper or by standing them in a small-mouthed bowl, but under any conditions cold water should never be used for poinsettias, the water should be at least lukewarm and preferably hot."

A PORTABLE LIGHT.

There is a new sort of portable light that costs only $2. It is finished in both gilt and nickel, and there is a little switch at the bulb which turns it on and off. The long cord rolls up and can be packed neatly inside the shade and the base, so that the light can be easily carried from place to place.

SENATE RATIFIES NICARAUGUA PACT

U. S. to Secure Perpetual Right of Way Along Canal.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The senate, after long debate and by a vote of 55 to 18, ratified the proposed treaty with Nicaragua, under which the United States is to acquire perpetual right of way along the San Juan river and the Lake of Nicaragua for a transoceanic canal by the payment of $3,000,000 in gold.

General Chamorro, the Nicaraguan minister, stated that he expected early ratification of the convention by his government.

As originally negotiated by Mr. Bryan as secretary of state with the Nicaraguan governor Chamorra, the treaty contained provisions for American supervision practically tantamount to an American protectorate. To meet what then understood as opposition these provisions were eliminated before Mr. Bryan resigned his portfolio. Today in the senate's resolution of ratification those provisions so far as they relate to American supervision of the expenditure of the $3,000,000 are largely restored.

BRYAN IS SPEECHLESS.

Former War Secretary Is Greeted by Small Audience.

Tampa, Fla., Feb. 19.—William J. Bryan did not attack the administration in his speech here supposedly in criticism of preparedness. He carefully avoided all politics and lectured rather upon the danger of preparing for war. A small audience heard Mr. Bryan, who heretofore has drawn tremendous crowds.

St. Thomas, Dutch West Indies, Feb 19.—Colonel Theodore Roosevelt arrived on the steamship Guiana. The governor was at St. Croix, and in his absence his secretary welcomed the colonel.

After luncheon the colonel inspected with a show of interest the recently completed harbor works and other points of interest. He declined to be interviewed, saying he came for a rest.

Answer to a Query About the Wanamaker Piano Store

The other day we had a letter from a man who asked: "How is it that you don't advertise your pianos as extensively as some stores that don't do anywhere near the piano business you do?"

It was one of those anonymous letters that bloom so profusely, so we could not reply. If we had, we would have told the gentleman that his question answered itself if he studied it closely enough.

A good piano lasts a lifetime; please remember that. It is one of the best investments you can make.

A poor piano is dear at any price; please remember that. There are very few ways in which you can spend a large sum of money so unsatisfactorily as in the purchase of an inferior piano.

The people who buy pianos are usually of a high order of intelligence. They are not befogged by adjectives nor do they accept as facts all the claims they see on paper.

There are certain makes of pianos that are standard. Their honor is not questioned any more than is the value of a U. S. Treasury note or the integrity of the Supreme Court.

Five of them are

Schomacker Emerson Lindeman Kurtzmann And the Celebrated Knabe

These five pianos and the Angelus player-pianos, in which they are found, are established. Only a very few pianos in America are in the same class.

As if the reputations of these instruments were not sufficient guarantee of quality, the Wanamaker Store stands behind them with the whole force of its indorsement. So, doubly warranted, it is no wonder that people wanting fine pianos of unquestionable dependability (and who wants any other kind?) come here to get them.

This may explain to our anonymous correspondent, if he should chance to read, why we prefer dignified and less vociferous advertising for our pianos. Every musician in the city knows and honors the five pianos we sell. It is not necessary to shriek about their virtues.

The system of payments for any piano purchased in the Wanamaker Piano Store can be arranged to suit your convenience, and if you have an old piano we will accept it as part payment.

"THE PRICE OF SIN."

The Rev. Charles S. Gillaspie will preach Sunday evening in Grace M. E. church on "The Price of Sin." JACK MARTIN WILL COACH SCHOOLBOYS

First Practise in P. H. S. Gym Next Week—Another Game Arranged Yesterday.

Next week, probably Monday, will see the start of spring practice for Plainfield High School's baseball squad, and with the announcement from Captain "Box" Apgar that Jack Martin, the pride of local baseball fans, will assist in coaching the squad until his departure for Milwaukee, matters seem to be brightening for the chances of the Red and Blue on the diamond this year.

Martin's coaching, while it will be confined almost entirely to gym work, will be of great benefit to the school boys, especially since they have to fill several big gaps caused by last June's graduation. The pitching staff is in the most urgent need of bolstering, as both first string men have left school, and two men to take their places will have to be picked from the group available. The first call will be only for battery men, and besides the box men, a relief catcher for Apgar will have to be found.

Manager Holmes Clawson filled in one of his four open dates yesterday, when he received a letter from Pennington Academy accepting May 6 as the date for a game at that place. A game with a bunch of Princeton students, probably for May 10, is also sought by Manager Clawson.

FOOTBALL HISTORIAN SHOWS INDIANS PLAYED THE GAME

Although a form of football was played by both the Greeks and Romans under the title of Feninda and later Spheromakia, it has been recently demonstrated that the North American Indians invented and played a game similar to the football of early and middle age Europe. In a recent article upon the subject, Parke Davis, the statistician and historian of the modern game, writes as follows:

"The first American played football in a well specialized game, of which he also was the inventor. Like lacrosse, the Indian played his game of football upon the flat sands. The ball was made of leather, sewn with a thong and filled with moss. The goals were a mile or more apart. The players ordinarily were braves of the same tribe, but upon special occasions the game would be waged between selected players of different tribes, one tribe against another.

"In these tribal contests the players came to the sands arrayed in war bonnets, war paint, and full savage regalia. As the time drew near for the game to begin, bows, quivers, shields and bonnets were discarded, and the Indian, lithe and athletic, stood forth eager and alert. Before commencing play the rival players shook hands and rubbed noses in formal token of the friendliness of the fierce encounter.

"Our genial reporters of three centuries ago tell us that sometimes several days are required to obtain a goal, in which event the contending teams would mark the spot where the ball lay at sundown and resume the game at that point the following day. And there was fair sportsmanship in their game, for William Strachey, comparing the tactics of the Indians to the tactics of Englishmen, and clearly referring to tripping and hacking, says: 'They never strike up one another's heels, as we do, not acompting that praiseworthy to purchase a goale by such an advantage.' They played for stakes, did these Indians, so high that William Wood is afraid to tell the size. On this subject he says: 'It would exceed the belief of many to relate the worth of one goale, wherefore it shall be nameless.'"

N. P. H. S. SIX NEAR A SHUTOUT VICTORY

New Brunswick Girls Allowed Only One Point on Own Court.

One point prevented the girls' team of North Plainfield High School from a shut out victory over New Brunswick High School yesterday afternoon, at the latter place, the score being 29 to 1. Meeting with practically no opposition, the team from Canada had everything its own way.

The local combination is practicing hard for the final contest with Plainfield High School for the city championship next Saturday. The game yesterday afforded good signal and shooting practice, which was taken advantage of by the borough forwards.

Miss Burtis and Captain Spencer were shooting in their accustomed style, each collecting a sextet of field goals. Miss Griffiths supplanted Miss Burtis in the latter part of the period and broke into the scoring column with a pretty field goal. The N. P. H. S. guards loafed during the entire game, seldom having an opportunity to lay their hands on the ball. Miss Hye scored the point which prevented a whitewash for her team.

MANY WILL ATTEND "GOOD ROADS" HEARING

Legislative Bill Provides for Expenditure of $7,000,000 on State Highways.

Hundreds of manufacturers, farmers, traveling and business men and owners of both horse-drawn and motor vehicles will gather from all parts of the State to attend the hearing to be given Senator Charles M. Egan's "Good Roads" bill in the Senate Chambers at Trenton, next Monday morning, at 11 o'clock.

The bill, which is known as Senate bill No. 126, provides for the issuance of bonds to the extent of $7,000,000, the same to be used for the construction, reconstruction and maintenance of a number of fine and permanent boulevards which will branch out and make easy travel between any desired district. It further provides that the bonds will be redeemed by payment of moneys received through various channels from the principal users of the highways and not cost the taxpayers or automobilists more than the present poor roads.

The taxpayers throughout the districts affected by the bill will be relieved of the cost of maintaining the roads, and their pro rata tax will consequently be lessened.

The advantages of the bill are numerous, and no criticism has yet been heard from any quarter. All of those to whom good roads are an essential are strong in their praise of the bill, and Senator Egan is confident of its passage after the hearing. A referendum clause is attached.

The routes of the proposed new highways are shown in the accompanying cut. These new roads will be thirty feet in width.

Yale came back strong yesterday in the P. H. S. College Basketball League and by handing Cornell a 26 to 20 defeat, got into a tie for second place. Columbia walloped Harvard, 6 to 4.

The first game was close throughout, and resulted in some of the best shooting yet displayed in the league. At the end of the half Yale held a three-point lead and by the end of the game had doubled it. Clarkson did most of the scoring for the winners, and Eggie, after remaining scoreless in the first half, started boosting Cornell's score in the last period and threw quite a scare in the Yale camp.

BASEBALL NOTES

The New York Yankees have spent $175,000 for players since the close of last season.

The Boston Nationals will take with them to the spring training camp at Miami, Fla., Bernard J. Lee, of Irasbury, Vt., who was captain of the Tufts College baseball teams of the past two years.

Infielder Harry Fritz, the Philadelphia boy, was sold to the Syracuse club of the New York State League, yesterday, by the Chicago Nationals. Manager Tinker also booked an exhibition game with Syracuse for June 11.

Tom Seaton is the latest ball player to find difficulty in obtaining the same contract he held with the Feds. Seaton was recently sold to the Chicago Cubs, but he said yesterday that he had not signed a new contract offered to him and that he would not.

Ty Cobb, king of base stealers, and Buck Herzog, veteran infielder, believe that third base is the easiest cushion to steal.

Ty's reasons for thinking so is that runners can take a bigger lead off second than off any other sack. Herzog says the runner is helped by the fact that the third sacker must take the ball at a hard angle and the runner has more room in which to slide around him.

VOLLMER CLIPS RECORD.

H. E. Vollmer clipped 1 4-5 seconds off the intercollegiate record for the 100-yard swim in a dual meet last night, in which Columbia defeated Yale, 29 points to 24. This is the fourth swimming record Vollmer has smashed this week.

YANKEES LEAVE TOMORROW.

The advance guard of the New York American League Club will leave for the South tomorrow for the spring training trip.

MAHONEY AND RADIN HAVE BEST AVERAGES IN CITY ALLEY LOOP

Two Eagles Only Ten Pins Apart—Voorhees Third—Scott, Who was Leading Fortnight Ago, Drops Ten Points, and is Fourth Now—Lewis Holds High Individual Score, With 257—Leaders Own Best Average.

Jim Mahoney and Harry Radin are having a neck-and-neck race for the individual average leadership of the City Bowling League. These two members of the Eagles' team are only ten pins apart for fifteen games, Mahoney's average being 189.6 and Radin's 188.11.

The leading Eagles, who have rolled their last nine games at home, have boosted their team average to 880.5, nine points better than the Imperials' mark. The Tabs are averaging 837.14, and the Knights of Columbus, 832.2. The high score records are the Imperials' team total of 970, and George Lewis' count of 257. Lewis isn't eligible for an average prize, but unless his 257 is beaten in one of the remaining matches, he will get high score prize.

Art. Voorhees' big scores on the Tabs' alleys lifted him to third place in the singles. The Dunellen man's average of 222.2, which he had in the series on the Abstainers' lanes, is the record for a three-game match in the league.

George Miller, who would doubtless be a prize winner had he been able to be with his team in every series, has a mark of 182.5 for nine games. All his games have been on his home alleys.

Jim Scott, who was leading the pack two weeks ago, dropped from 191.6 to 181.2. Jim O'Keefe is shooting 180, and George Gates ranks 179.

Voorhees' 241 in second high score, and Radin's 239 is third. A peculiar feature of the average list is that there is no bowler in the 150 class, the next lowest average to 160 being 149.

An Italian-American bowling team took the firing line at the Eagles' alleys last night against a team of borough pinners, and the latter nosed out ahead in all three games, winning the second by six pins and the third by the same number.

Mahoney's team of Italians will bowl the victors of last night's match next week. Jim's team consists of D. Marra, D. Marruio, D. Parrette, B. Salvatore and Frank Ferraro.

MAJOR GENERAL FUNSTON.

To Consult With President Wilson on Mexican Border Situation.

FIVE DREADNAUGHTS FAVORED BY WILSON

Congress to Be Asked to Construct Battleships.

Washington, Feb. 19.—The administration is preparing to ask congress to authorize the construction of dreadnought slips at the Puget Sound and Norfolk navy yards. If congress approves the United States hereafter will be in a position to turn out five dreadnoughts or battle cruisers simultaneously.

It means also that the government will be prepared to complete the naval program in six years instead of nine, without any help from private yards, and that government slips hereafter can turn out capital ships at a greater rate of speed than any country except Great Britain.

The use of these five slips steadily, and it is assumed that the administration will build them to use steadily, means that a great naval program of a continuous nature will be supported by this adminitsation, with the result that the American navy within a few years will regain its position as the second greatest navy in the world.

When the five year program was announced the administration's critics immediately said that it should be limited to the capacity of American yards and should not be stretched over so great a number of years.

BOMBS FOUND ON SHIP.

Explosives In Cargo of Coal Were Not Exploded.

Madrid, Feb. 19.—Two dynamite bombs filled with explosives were found in the hold of the British steamship Rosebank, bound to English ports from Philadelphia with a cargo of coal, according to a Valencia dispatch received here. The bombs were sufficiently powerful to blow the vessel to pieces had they exploded.

Philadelphia, Feb. 19.—The Rosebank left this port on Jan. 22 under command of Captain Woodrow with a cargo of coal valued at $17,000.

DOUBT CUBA WILL TAKE ROADS

Officials of Lines Do Not Look For Government Ownership.

New York, Feb. 19.—The report from Havana that President Menocal of Cuba had appointed a commission to investigate the possibility of government ownership of Cuban railways is believed by the officials of Cuban railroads in this city to be without particular significanse. The general belief was that the creation of the commission was a political move in view of the approaching election and that the commission would drop out of sight through inactivity.

THOUSANDS HEAR BISHOP PREACH

Grace Episcopal Church is Thronged With People at Closing Services.

IMPRESSIVE SERMONS

In Appreciation of Prelate's Efforts Here Congregation Gives Him over $1,000 for Extension of His Work in Kentucky.

Grace Episcopal church was thronged yesterday morning, afternoon and night, when the closing services in the eight-day Preaching Mission were held, and at each service Bishop Charles E. Woodcock, of Kentucky, who has been in charge, deeply impressed everyone present by his forceful discourses. All seemed to be stirred as the bishop pointed the way to salvation through the Gospel.

The appreciation of the bishop's efforts during the week was shown at the closing service last night, when more than $1,000 was generously contributed to the prelate. It was a spontaneous response and all the more remarkable by reason of the fact that aside from the simple announcement that the collection at this service would be given to the bishop, no other effort was made to raise money. The sum given to the bishop will be used by him for his work in Kentucky.

"Go ye into all the world and preach the gospel to every creature" was the subject of the bishop's discourse last night, and he held the close attention of everyone as he emphasized the personal responsibility of the Christian. "If Christ is of any value," said the bishop, "it is the duty of the Christian to touch someone else and to pass along the good things which he enjoys."

Throughout his discourse, Bishop Woodcock touched on the social, political, community and national responsibility of every citizen and then said that one's religious responsibility was the most important of all. It meant the reaching out to the unfortunate, to the man who is "down and out," and it meant that the Christian must pass the "dead line" of social ambition and do all that is possible to rescue the unconverted.

The bishop was of the opinion that more people are preached out of the kingdom through the inconsistencies of the pew than are brought into the kingdom through the preaching in the pulpit, and he declared that this ought not to be so. He urged every Christian present to pass the gospel along, and to clear the darkness which surrounds the unconverted. The discourse was also a strong appeal to the unsaved.

Every seat in the large edifice was taken at the morning service, and the same condition was true in the afternoon, when the bishop addressed an audience of men. This service in many ways was a remarkable one, particularly because of the deep spiritual feeling which seemed to be present. Practically every denomination in the city was represented at last night's service, and all joined in the general belief that the mission had been and would continue to be one of great helpfulness to the whole community.

URGENT APPEAL FOR RELIEF OF ARMENIAN REFUGEES

The American Committee for Armenian Relief, in co-operation with the Committee of Mercy, has issued an appeal for the relief of Armenian refugees, who are victims of Turkish persecution. American consuls and missionaries from personal knowledge, not only endorse the truthfulness of reported atrocities, but emphasize the urgency of immediate aid being given to these sufferers. Not only are these refugees in desperate need of immediate relief, but all funds provided for them are most judiciously expended. It is a matter of record that 10,000 Armenians in Persia lived for one month on $10,000.

Think of it—a human being living for one month on one dollar. Every dollar contributed will be devoted in full for this purpose, all administration expenses being borne by members of the committee. The actual work of relief will be done by American consuls and American missionaries, thus guaranteeing that the proper supplies will be placed where they are most needed. Contributions should be sent to Charles R. Crane, treasurer, the American Committee for Armenian and Syrian Relief, Fifth avenue, New York city.

ATTRACTIVE PAGEANT FOR JUBILEE AFFAIR

Admission Will Be Free to Y. W. C. A. Portrayal at High School.

Everything is in readiness for the pageant, "The Girls of Yesterday and Today," which will be given in the Plainfield High School Auditorium tomorrow night, by the Y. W. C. Admission is free to the public.

Seventy-five members of the association will take part in the program, and the pantomime, as it progresses, will show all the work of the organization. The prologue will depict the problems that faced the young society when it was founded in 1866 and show how they were solved.

Then will follow symbolic representations of the work of the association during the procession of years. The pageant has been elaborately staged and the costumes designed by the many young women are especially beautiful.

Miss Miller has been making her home in Binghamton for the past two years, where she has been very successful with her work in music. Beside teaching music, she has been soloist and director of the chorus choir in the First Presbyterian church, that city.

Prior to leaving Plainfield, Miss Miller was soloist at the First M. E. church, and she also did considerable concert work.

Mr. Wilson is connected with the Ansco Camera Company, with headquarters in Binghamton. He was formerly a student at Syracuse University, giving up his studies to engage in business. While no date has been set for the wedding, it is believed it will take place in the spring.

MINSTREL GIRLS READY FOR SHOW

Y. W. H. A. Troupe Has Plans Complete for Performance on March 2.

NUMEROUS FEATURES

Miss Minnie Solomon to Act as Interlocutor in Big First Part—Program Will Include Professional Olio and Dance in Conclusion.

After several weeks of hard rehearsing, plans are now complete for the novelty minstrel show and dance which the Young Women's Hebrew Association is to give in the High School Auditorium, on Thursday night, March 2. The entire first part has been whipped into shape by Miss Carrie Dawes, of Westfield, a most efficient coach, and one who has had wide experience in musical and dramatic affairs. Miss Minnie Solomon has been selected as the interlocutor for the minstrel portion of the program, and from indications, the middle men in all previous local blackface shows will have to take their hats off to her natural ability in parrying the "gags" of the ends. All the jokes are new and up to date, many of them having a local flavor and touching on topics uppermost in Plainfield today. The ends will be taken care of by the Misses Rose Davidson, Celia Golison and Dorothy Augenblick, bones; Sadye Moskowitz, Mildred Weinrob and Bessie Adelberg, tambos.

The olio following the first part will consist of professional numbers, selected from one of the largest booking offices in New York. At the conclusion of the program members of the association will present a sketch entitled "The Last Rehearsal." Those who appear in it are the Misses Anna Moledezky, Rae Cantor, Rose Nathanson, Sadye Nathanson, Jennie Shrager, Rose Schiff, Anna Friedman, Lena Moledezky, Rose Kline, Lena Bender, Nettie Solomon, Elsie Davidson, Lena Rosenthal, Marion Heyman and Lillian Berger. In the first part or opening of the show, specialty number will be given by members of the troop as follows: Misses Sadie Rothberg, Rae Cantor, Esther Kivatinos, Adelaide Nathanson, Pauline Nathanson and Anna Moledezky. At the conclusion of the program dancing will be in order and will continue until 2 o'clock.

The chorus to back up the principals is one of the best that has been heard in Plainfield in years, in addition to the fact that it will be composed entirely of girls' voices. Handsome costumes have been secured for each one. Those in the chorus are the Misses Fannie Berkowitz, Elsie Davidson, Sadie Feldman, Marion Heyman, Rose Kline, Ethel Kline, Anna and Lena Moledezky, Rose Rosenbaum, Lena Rosenthal, Esther Rosenthal, Nettie Solomon, Jennie Shrager, Etta Stierer, Rose Schiff and Lillian Berger.

The committee of arrangements acting for the Young Women's association comprises the Misses Rose Nathanson, chairman; Lena Moledezky, secretary; Dorothy Augenblick, Anna Moledezky, Esther Kivatinos and Diana Siegal.

4 FIRES FOUND IN SHOE PLANTS WORKING FOR ALLIES

Boston, Feb. 21.—Discovery of four separate fires, all of incendiary origin, in secluded parts of the big E. E. Taylor shoe factory at Brockton today resulted in a detachment of armed policemen being placed on guard day and night. The factory is working day and night to fill an order for 1,000,000 pairs of shoes for the allied troops. Trained dogs of the Great Dane variety have been placed on guard at the aeroplane plant of the Burgess Company, at Marblehead, owing to threats of destruction received there. Motors and aeroplanes for the British and French Governments are being built there.

FIRE ON SHIPS LADEN WITH HIGH EXPLOSIVES

New York, Feb. 21.—Fire broke out today upon the small steamer Liberty, which was laden with powder and dynamite at her pier in Jersey City. After a fight of half an hour the blaze was extinguished before it could reach the explosives, but in the meantime panic reigned about foot of Hudson street, where the Liberty was tied up.

JOHN GILES' FUNERAL.

The funeral of John B. Giles, who died early Saturday morning, from exposure, on Park avenue, near the Lehigh Valley Railroad track, will be held at his late residence, Oak Tree, tomorrow afternoon at two o'clock. Interment will be in Hillside cemetery.

Following the usual custom, there will be no edition of the Plainfield Daily Press tomorrow (Washington's Birthday).

RESTING ROOM FOR VISITING SHOPPERS

Prosperity Dollar Day Will Set a Precedent for Plainfield Trade, It is Expected.

Members of the business men's committee in charge of the arrangements for Plainfield's Prosperity Dollar Day, which will be conducted here on Tuesday, February 9, this morning inaugurated their preliminary campaign to arouse interest in the project and indications point to one of the most successful sales of this nature ever attempted locally. J. J. Varley, chairman of the committee, is being assisted by Samuel Rothberg, George Finger, A. H. Osmun and Albert La Rock.

One of the features of the day this year will be the establishment of a rest room for women and children visitors to the city. This will be fitted up in a conveniently located store in the business section and every accommodation will be provided. Inasmuch as many out-of-town shoppers are expected this will be an essential feature and it is only one of the progressive steps that will contribute to the success of the first 1916 Dollar Day.

Hand-bills representing the real greenback are being distributed about town and in the surrounding districts. These have printed on them the official seal of the Plainfield Business Men's Association and the announcement of the Prosperity Dollar Day.

Automobiles will be sent into the suburban towns with announcement signs on them the latter part of the week and this feature will no doubt be the means of attracting the attention of the small townspeople.

LEAP YEAR RECEPTION TO BE A NOVEL EVENT

Columbus Club Will Be the Scene of a Gala Fete This Evening.

Members of the Columbus Club will be entertained by their feminine friends at a Leap-Year dance to be held in the auditorium of the West Front street clubhouse tonight. Elaborate plans have been made for the affair and dancing will be only one of the variety of features. Music for the program of terpsichorean numbers will be furnished by "Al" Squier's orchestra.

It will be a novel affair in every way, the women friends of the members playing the role of entertainers during the evening. Dance cards will be filled out by the feminine escorts and each male attendant is expected to be the guest of a lady friend.

The auditorium of the club has been appropriately decorated for the occasion and the bowling alleys and pool tables will also be put to use as sources of entertainment.

ENTHUSIASTIC BOYS' RALLY AT THE Y. M. C. A.

"Even better than last week" was the promise made for the boys' rally in the Y. M. C. A. yesterday, and all who attended felt sure that the promise was lived up to. Mr. Timmons, who was expected to speak on "Washington," found at the last minute that he could not get away from his work in Newark, and Mr. Lynn filled the breach by speaking on "Preparedness—National and Personal." "We cannot tell what a day will bring forth," President Wilson was quoted as saying, referring to the possibility of attack by a foreign foe, and just as truly we cannot tell how suddenly we shall be called on to repel an attack of our greatest enemy, Satan. True religion—loving God and our fellows and following Jesus—was urged as the basis of real personal preparedness for the fight for character.

An unusual feature of the meeting was the large number of young men and older men who were present, and older brothers of the younger boys. "A better meeting every Sunday," is the slogan that is being actually carried out, and the speaker next Sunday will be General Secretary Alfred C. Estes.

JUDGE RUNYON TALKS TO STUDENTS AT HOPE CHAPEL

SUDDEN DEATH OF WILLIAM E. TRACY

Well Known Mining Engineer Passes Away at New Home Helena, Montana.

NATIVE OF THIS CITY

Was Graduate of Yale and Columbia Leaves Wife, Two Children, Father, Two Brothers and Five Sisters—Funeral Services Today.

William Evarts Tracy, aged 38 years, the youngest son of J. Evarts Tracy, formerly of West Eighth street, this city, died suddenly on Saturday at Helena, Montana, where within the past few days he had taken a position as mining engineer with the Anaconda Copper Company. Word of his death came in a message to relatives here Saturday night, but no particulars as to the cause were given. The funeral and burial took place this morning at Helena.

Mr. Tracy was born in this city and spent his boyhood days here. He was graduated from Yale University in the class of 1900, and from the Columbia School of Mines in the class of 1904. Soon afterward he took a position as mining engineer with the Liberty Bell Mining Company and for ten years was located at Telluride, Col. The mine recently gave out and Mr. Tracy secured a position with the Anaconda company.

Before going to Helena about two weeks ago, Mr. Tracy spent some time in Plainfield, he and his wife and two children occupying J. Frank Raymond's house on Kensington avenue. When Mr. Tracy left here he was enjoying his usual good health and the message telling of his death was a great shock to the relatives and friends. Since leaving college, Mr. Tracy had had a successful career, and he had an unusually promising future.

Mr. Tracy leaves, beside his wife and two children, his father, J. Evarts Tracy, now of Muncie, Ind.; two brothers, Howard and Evarts Tracy, of this city, and five sisters: Miss Emily B. Tracy, of Muncie, Ind.; Miss Mary E. Tracy, who is a missionary at Yokohoma, Japan; Mrs. Melvin Mix, of Muncie; Dr. Martha Tracy, who is on the staff of the Women's Medical College, Philadelphia, and Miss Edith Tracy, of New York, who is an artist. Mr. Tracy's father, who is over 80 years of age, was recently quite ill in this city, but improved sufficiently to go to his daughter's home in Muncie.

BAZAAR COMMITTEE WILL DISCUSS PLANS

Columbus Club Event Will Be One of the Largest Ever Held in Plainfield.

What will probably be the final meeting of the big general committee in charge of the arrangements for the indoor bazaar to be held in auditorium of Columbus Club during the week of February 28 will be held Wednesday night, chairmen of the various sub-committees having been instructed to have their full quota of assistants on hand at that time. Plans for the monster fete are progressing in fine shape, and the Columbians expect to make the event the largest of its kind ever conducted in Plainfield.

The program for the six days includes many novelties, some of which will be entirely original. Many surprises have been mapped out by the committee members, and the chairmen will be expected to make their final reports Wednesday night.

According to present plans the entire clubhouse will be used during the week, entertainment being provided in he auditorium and in the basement where bowling alleys and pool tables are located. Pool, billiard and bowling tourneys, in which both men and women will participate, will be run, prizes being offered each night.

SKATING CARNIVAL FOR BELGIUM RELIEF FUND

A skating carnival will be held tonight on the South Plainfield Pond for the benefit of the Belgium Relief. The carnival will begin at 8 o'clock. The entire pond and boathouse have been turned over to the committee in charge for the evening and there will be music, lights and refreshments for the skaters. Tickets will include refreshments. Buses will leave Miller's drug store at 7:30 and 8:15.

OPPOSE NEW RULES FOR FERRY BOATS

Plainfield Men Will Take Part in Mass Meeting in New York.

That the proposed law now pending in Congress compelling ferryboats to limit the number of passengers would cause enormous inconvenience to hundreds of thousands of persons and add t least $3,000,000 to the debt of New York city alone, will be set out Thursday, when a public hearing is to be held in the New York aldermanic chamber on the law. A number of people from New Jersey will probably attend the meeting, and David T. Kenney, president of the Chamber of Commerce of this city, is leading the opposition in this city.

The amendment to the Federal law, placing upon ferryboats the same restrictions that apply to other steamboats, was well on its way through the Senate and House committees when Commissioner Smith interposed with a telegram of protest. He appealed for a hearing, and will go to Washington to speak before the Senat Committee on Marine Affairs and Fisheries next Friday.

LINEMAN'S ESCAPE MOST REMARKABLE

Combination of Fortunate Circumstances Saved Jerry Paoli From Death.

The fact that Jerry Paoli, of West Third street, employed as a lineman by the Public Service Corporation, was not killed outright Saturday afternoon, when a thirty-five foot pole on which he was working on Grant avenue, near Front street, snapped off short and fell to the ground is due to three fortunate circumstances. The first is that two wires were still guyed to the old pole and retarded its descent for a second or two. The second is that the pole dropped across the Grant avenue trolley wires and although they were pulled down for half a block broke the fall half way down. The third is that the cross-arms of the pole turned around so they struck the ground first with the desperate lineman clinging fast along side. There was just space enough between the pole and the ground to keep him from being crushed to death outright.

Fellow linemen of Paoli rushed to his assistance expecting to find him lifeless and were astonished when he started to struggle to his feet. He fell back helpless, however, and hurry calls were sent for Dr. Albert Pittis and an ambulance. The young man was taken to Muhlenberg Hospital, where he is still confined suffering from bruises, shock and possible internal injuries.

Local linemen consider Paoli's case one of the most remarkable in their memory. The pole which broke off was one that had done duty for many years and was about to be taken down. The injured workman was at the top releasing the last two wires when the combination of his weight and the heavy wind which prevailed proved too much for the rotten wood at the base. The break occurred without an instant's warning and when Paoli landed he was in the gutter across the street from the side where he was working.

ENGLAND MUST ANSWER U. S. NOTE

State Department Demands Reply to Polite Inquiry Sent Long Ago.

HAS BEEN IGNORED

Washington Also Wants Details of Searching of American Boat by British Warships—German Situation is More Acute.

Washington, Feb. 21.—Secretary of State Lansing has sent inquiries to Great Britain asking for a prompt reply to the American note relating to the mail seizures and the trading with the enemy act. Administration officials believe that the British foreign office has already delayed too long in making response to the American inquiries.

Preparatory to making a protest to Great Britain the State Department today also directed Consul General Simmons at Shanghai, China, to forward all available information about the stoppage of the American steamer China by a British warship, which took off 38 of her passengers. The China was halted not far from Shanghai.

Now Up to Germany.

The submarine situation has reached a delicate point and Secretary Lansing declined to make any comment on it today. He denied that the United States has asked for a modification of the decree. This is taken to mean that the State Department regards the decree so completely at variance with the pledges given the United States that the latter has merely called attention to the fact placing the next step squarely up to Germany.

Hear From Austria Soon.

Ambassador C. Penfield, at Vienna, cabled the State Department today that he expects to receive in a few days an answer from the Austrian foreign office in explanation of the attack on the American tank steamer Petrolite by an Austrian submarine. Secretary Lansing recently cabled Ambassador Penfield instructing him to investigate the circumstances attending the attack on the Petrolite.

It was stated that the British force at Sheik Osman withdrew after suffering the following casualties: Killed, one British officer and four Indian; wounded, four Britsh and 35 Indian soldiers.

Russians Continue Advance.

The Russians have occupied the entire Lake Van district, the Turks retiring southward and even evacuating Bitlis, according to a Petrograd dispatch received in Rome, and given out here by the Wireless Press. On the other wing, according to the dispatch, the Russian advance guards have arrived within a short distance of Trebizonde, on the Black Sea coast.

Germans Tell of Air Raid.

Berlin, Feb. 21 (by wireless to Sayville).—The following statement was given out by the German admiralty today:

"German naval aeroplanes attacked the British coast at noon Sunday. Bombs were hurled with good success on factories in the rear of the railway docks and on the gas plant at Lowestoft. The main station and docks in Lowestoft were hit several times. The gas plant was rendered useless by the projectiles. Two tank steamers were bombarded. In spite of the enemy's fire and pursuit by aeroplanes all the German machines returned safely to their base."

Germans Raid Belgium Coast.

The Admiralty today announced that German seaplanes had made an attack on the aeroplane camp of the Allies, at Furness, in Belgium, near the coast of the North Sea. The Allies replied with a heavy bombardment from anti-aircraft guns, but the Germans suffered no damage, and returned to their starting point, though pursued by the enemy's flying machines.

Artillery Action Weak.

Paris, Feb. 21.—French war statement:

"There have been weak actions by the artillery front, except north of Verdun, where there was a certain amount of activity. In Artois, to the northwest of Hill No. 140, the enemy attempted without success two local attacks with hand grenades. A squadron of five French aeroplanes bom-

BRANDEIS CASE MAY BE DELAYED

Tribunal Ends Recess With Justice Day Ill.

Washington, Feb. 21.—The supreme court resumed its sitting today after a recess of nearly a month. Several important opinions are expected. Only seven members of the court were present, for Justice Day, who has been ill since the beginning of the year, will not be able to resume his work. He is at his home at Canton, O., and will remain there some time. It is said to be doubtful if he will resume work this term.

There is no prospect of an early confirmation of the nomination of Louis D. Brandeis, whose case is still being investigated by a subcommittee of the senate committee on judiciary. The effect of the absence of Justice Day and the failure to confirm Brandeis is likely to be felt on the big trust cases, the International Harvester and Steel.

With a vacancy on the bench and Justice Day absent the court will have but six justices qualified to sit in the harvester case, for Justice McReynolds represented the government in the arguments in the case in the federal court below and he cannot sit. He would probably feel disqualified to sit in the steel trust case, for he was attorney general during part of the early litigation and directed some of the movements of government counsel.

GLASS OF SALTS CLEANS KIDNEYS

If Your Back Hurts or Bladder Bothers You, Drink Lots of Water.

When your kidneys hurt and your back feels sore, don't get scared and proceed to load your stomach with a lot of drugs that excite the kidneys and irritate the entire urinary tract. Keep your kidneys clean like you keep your bowels clean, by flushing them with a mild, harmless salts which removes the body's urinous waste and stimulates them to their normal activity. The function of the kidneys is to filter the blood. In 24 hours they strain from it 500 grains of acid and waste, so we can readily understand the vital importance of keeping the kidneys active.

Drink lots of water—you can't drink too much; also get from any pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast each morning for a few days and your kidneys will act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to clean and stimulate clogged kidneys, also to neutralize the acids in urine so it no longer is a source of irritation, thus ending bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; cannot injure; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which every one should take now and then to keep their kidneys clean and active. Try this, also keep up the water drinking, and no doubt you will wonder what became of your kidney trouble and backache.—Adv.

NO TRUTH IN YARN THAT WILLARD HAD A RELAPSE

Chicago, Feb. 21.—"My fight with Moran will positively take place on March 25. I am entirely recovered from my cold." Jess Willard made this statement this morning, after being told that reports had him suffering a relapse.

New York, Feb. 21.—Tex Rickard, the promoter of the Willard-Moran fight, said this morning: "I had a long-distance telephone talk this morning with Tom Jones, manager of Jess Willard, who is in Chicago. He told me that there was no truth in the report that Willard's condition was serious, and that Willard will box Moran on the 25th. Jones said that he had Willard out for a walk yesterday and he had entirely recovered from his illness. Jones expected to leave for this city with the champion the latter part of this week."

VICTIMS OF LINCOLN EXPLOSION IMPROVING

Damage to Plant of Middlesex Analine Chemical Company Will Not Exceed $15,000.

Albert Thiede, of Lincoln, and Howard Tescnner, of Bound Brook, who were injured when a nitrating kettle blew up in the factory of the Middlesex Aniline Company, at Lincoln, Saturday morning, will recover, according to a statement by A. R. Krueger, of Bound Brook, who visited the two men at the Somerset Hospital, Somerville, yesterday. Mr. Krueger, who is assistant superintendent of the Aniline Company, considers himself fortunate in missing his regular trolley, which would would have landed him in the building shortly before the explosion occurred.

Numerous people with their cameras visited the scene of the explosion yesterday and took pitures of the damaged building. The structure was not as badly damaged as first reports indicated. The outside walls, the roof and the floors, all built of reinforced concrete, are intact. The report to the effect that the roof of the building had been blown off probably originated from the fact that an addition which is being erected hasn't been roofed as yet.

The damage, in fact, is confined to everything made of wood, which was completely shattered, to the hollow-tile wall partitions, which were blown out, and to the fire, which burned itself out in the office, destroying all the books and records. While Mr. Marx would not commit himself as to the total loss, it is believed that it totals about $15,000.

The loss is covered by insurance, and as soon as the insurance inspectors have visited the scene and inspected the damage, reconstruction work will be started with a view of resuming operations at the earliest possible date. New machinery, in fact, has already been ordered, and a gang of men were at work all day yesterday in cleaning up the wreckage outside of the building. The headquarters of the company have been transferred temporarily to one of the Ostrander houses on Lincoln's main thoroughfare.

What caused the benzol in the nitrating kettle to explode still remains a mystery. The kettle itelf was tightly sealed. A pipe to allow gas to escape, however, led from the kettle to the outside of the building. The pipe faced the railroad about twenty feet away and it is possible, but hardly probable, that a spark from a passing engine may have flew into the end of the pipe and ignited the fumes.

There are only twelve concerns which manufacture analine in the country today. All but two of these have been organized since the outbreak of the war.

During the past several months five of these concerns have had explosions which have done considerable damage. Commenting on this fact Mr. Marx, a chemist, says that there is probably some agent at present unknown to the scientific world which causes benzol, although tightly sealed, to explode. With a view of ascertaining the identity of this agent, Mr. Marx stated this morning that he intends to devote all his spare time to lavatory work.

barded the ammunition depots of the enemy at Chateau Martincourt and Azoudanga, respectively southwest and southeast of Ileuze. German aviators during the night threw some projectiles on Luneville, Dorbasle and Nancy, but the damage was small.

London, Feb. 21.—From April, 1915, to February, 19, 1916, the British government spent $4,174,000,000 for ammunition and guns for the army and navy. It is costing approximately $15,000,000 daily to furnish army and navy munitions. Since the outbreak of the war England has advanced $792,500,000 to her allies and colonies in loans. The cost of the war has mounted steadily. During the spring of 1915 it was estimated at $14,000,000 daily, whereas now it is $25,000,000 a day.

PRESENCE OF MIND PREVENTS A PANIC

Evangelist Smith Has Choir Sing a Hymn When Stampede is Threatened.

Somerville, Feb. 21.—Presence of mind on the part of Gypsy Smith, Jr., the evangelist who has been conducting a three weeks' campaign in this borough, prevented a panic in the Second Reformed church last night and possibly saved a number of lives. The edifice was crowded to the doors, fully 1,500 people being inside, while several hundred were turned away, unable to gain admission. There were at least 500 people in the balcony, and possibly eight or nine hundred when Mr. Smith commenced his discourse. He had proceeded about three minutes when a sudden loud snap issued from the northeast corner of the balcony under which several hundred more people were congregated.

It is alleged that several prominent Somerville men yelled excitedly, "The balcony is falling." A number of persons hurriedly started for the door, causing a commotion which attracted the attention of the evangelist.

"What's going on?" Mr. Smith called out; but before anyone could answer he gave the signal to the organist and, with the choir, struck up a stanza of the hymn "Where He Leads I Will Follow." Before the music had finished the near-panic had subsided and an investigation showed that there was absolutely no danger. Although several names have been mentioned as the parties giving the thoughtless calls that the balcony was falling, the party in each instance made denials today.

Mr. Smith's campaign has lasted three weeks and is the most successful ever held in Somerville. As a result of his excellent sermons and heart-to-heart talks, 450 persons have "hit the trail." Many of those reforming had never been in churches in years, while many others not joining the movement have announced that they would give up liquor. The meetings for the first twelve days were held in the First Reformed church and for the remainder in the Second Reformed church, being conducted under the combined committee of clergy and citizens. Former Mayor Charles C. Kenyon acted as treasurer and announces that the Somerville people contributed generously at each gathering. The collections for the three services yesterday morning, afternoon and night amounted to $840. Mr. Smith will reecive practically nothing beyond his expenses, which total about $500. The evangelist will remain in Somerville for this evening in order to give one of his famous lectures, "From Gypsy Camp to Pulpit," at the Second Reformed church.

GOSSIP CAUSES DOCTOR TO ACT

Nutley Physician Puts Notice In Postoffice.

MARITAL UPSET REVEALED

Name of Former Employee Is Involved. Notice Is Posted Banning Theories as to Why Wife Quit Him—Townsfolk All Agog Over Physician's Action.

Nutley, Feb. 21.—Local society folk are all agog over this notice of Frederick Farrington that appeared in the postoffice:

It has come to my notice that there is a story being circulated in Nutley associating my name with that of a former employee and other women. This is to warn any one who repeats such a story that I have placed the matter in the hands of my attorney with instructions to prosecute for slander. My residence of ten years in Nutley should have established my moral reputation beyond question.

"Yes, I posted the notice," said Dr. Farrington later, "and I mean every word of it. My wife left me on account of those stories and took our two children."

A few days after Mrs. Farrington and her children returned from a vacation last summer a seventeen-year-old servant girl, who had been employed by the family left to go to a family in Ridgewood. Gossip at that time prompted Douglas P. Falconer agent of the Children's Aid society through which the girl obtained employment in the Farrington family, to summon her before James M. Post, police recorder.

The girl told Recorder Post that she left the Farringtons in order to get out of sight of Mrs. Falconer, who, she feared, would cause her to be sent back to the society's care. An investigation by a physician proved the gossip to be groundless, and the girl was discharged from court and allowed to continue in employment in Ridgewood. It is believed to be a continuation of this and other gossip that prompted Dr. Farrington to post his notice of warning.

Young, manager of the bureau of retail affairs of the Paterson Chamber of Commerce.

MOTHER DEAD; BABE BORN.

Remarkable Operation Performed by Jersey City Physician.

Jersey City, Feb. 21.—A nurse watching at the bed of Mrs. Mary Dooley, thirty-four years old, in the maternity ward of the Jersey City hospital noticed symptoms which prompted her to telephone for Dr. Irwin Moskowitz, assistant house physician.

Ten seconds later, when the doctor arrived, he found that the woman had died from heart disease. With the assistance of the nurse, he picked up the dead woman and ran across the corridor to the operating room. Just forty-five seconds had elapsed when the young surgeon came out with a nine pound baby boy in his arms.

RAPIDLY EAT UP FORESTS.

Chemical Makers to Use 300,000 Cords This Year.

Kane, Feb. 21.—For the first time in the history of this section wood is being hauled from the surrounding forests by moonlight. In an effort to get all the chemical wood which was cut during the past summer out of the forests before the snow disappears several of the wood contractors are now working their men night and day as well as on Sundays. The men, with teams, work every other night and will continue this system while the sleighing lasts. The chemical workers use 300,000 cords a year, it is said.

JAIL MUTINY; SHERIFF KILLED

Prisoners at Deming, N. M., by a Ruse Escape In an Auto.

Deming, N. M., Feb. 21.—Prisoners in the county jail here mutinied, locked the sheriff and attendants in a cell, then telephoned for an automobile and escaped in it. One of the prisoners told the garage man that it was the sheriff, Dwight Stevens, talking over the phone and that the car was wanted to take a sick man to a hospital.

Later the sheriff was released and with a posse pursued the prisoners. In a battle the sheriff was killed, it is reported.

FREEHOLDERS TO BUILD NEW COUNTY BRIDGE

Structure to Be Placed on Terrill Road—Mountain Avenue to Be Improved.

Plans for a handsome concrete and steel bridge to be built on Terrill road at the dividing line between Plainfield and Scotch Plains township have been approved by the freeholders of Union county and it is expected that bids for its construction will be received in a short time. The plans were prepared by County Engineer Bauer, of Elizabeth. The structure will be wide enough to prevent any future flood in case of high water, something which has given property-owners considerable trouble in the past.

Another fine improvement planned by the freeholders is the improvement of a half-mile of roadway on Mountain avenue. This will be treated with Amiesite. This road leads into Park avenue, Scotch Plains, and when the improvement is completed will provide an attractive thoroughfare leading to the Springfield road and direct into Newark. The work of repairing this road will be started just as soon as the weather conditions permit.

TRENTON'S GIFT TO SUNDAY $32,350

Vast Crowd Hears Evangelist at Final Service.

Trenton, N. J., Feb. 21.—If the Rev. Billy Sunday's tabernacle had been built to accommodate 30,000 persons instead of 14,000 it would probably have been insufficient to hold with comfort the crowds which flocked to hear the evangelist during his last day.

Billy told the great audience Trenton had broken several records and for a place of its size had eclipsed anything in his evangelistic career. It smashed another record after that when a check for $31,981.03 was handed the evangelist as the "free will" offering of the city for the evangelist. Belated contributions aggregating $377 more before Billy got away from the city and a check for this amount and anything else received will be mailed to him. To date therefore Trenton's contributions mount to $32,358.03.

This is about $20,000 less than the high water mark reached in Philadelphia, which has a population about fifteen times that of Trenton, where the tabernacle was a third larger and the campaign eleven weeks instead of seven weeks, as in Trenton.

The total attendance during the seven weeks' campaign was more than 900,000, not including the scores of special meetings in churches, theaters, factories and homes. The total number of trail hitters was nearly 17,000.

EDDIE COLLINS, EVANGELIST.

White Sox Second Baseman Gets Greetings From Sunday.

Palmyra, N. J., Feb. 21.—Eddie Collins, star second bagger of the White Sox and formerly a member of the Athletics, made a home run hit with 500 persons who heard him break into the "gospel team" league in his first venture as a platform speaker.

That Billy Sunday himself could not have been on the bleachers to cheer for Eddie was a keen disappointment to the great evangelist, who sent a message through Rev. S. Monroe Vansant, pastor of the Epworth Methodist Sunday school, expressing his delight at the idea that great players like Collins will come out as public exponents of "clean living."

"The day is gone when a man can hit the booze and be a tough and still make good in baseball," said the Sunday-gram.

FINED $200 FOR ATTEMPTED VIOLATION OF U. S. LAWS

New York, Feb. 21.—Judge Dayton in the United States District Court today fined Mrs. Elsie Schroeder and Heinerich Bachman $200 each on pleas of guilty on attempted violation of United States laws with an attempt to ship a large quantity of rubber to Germany by the Scandinavian liner Bergensfjord in trunks as personal baggage. Bachman claims to be a citizen of Switzerland, while Mrs. Schroeder is German. Both left the court to sail for Denmark, it is understood, this afternoon, and although they expected being detained by the British at Kirkwall they thought they would get through all right.

NEWARK

MANY COMMUNITIES PLAN TO CO-OPERATE

The "Baby-Week" Campaign from March 4 to 11 Will Reach all Parts of State.

Trenton, Feb. 21.—According to information received at the office of the State Department of Health, which is co-operating with the New Jersey Federation of Women's Clubs in the observance of Baby Week, many communities in the State are planning campaigns for this occasion during the week of March 4 to 11. A few are planning campaigns at a later date.

The information at hand indicates that Baby Week is to be observed in the following cities and towns: Audubon, Arlington, Bloomfield, Bound Brook, Bridgeton, Burlington, Cliffside Park, Collingswood, Dover, Flemington, Glen Ridge, Hackensack, Haddonfield, Jersey City, Long Branch, Matawan, Merchantville, Metuchen, Millville, Moorestown, Mount Holly, Newark, Paterson, Plainfield, Red Bank, Salem, Silver Lake, Trenton, Vineland and Woodbury.

Plans are no doubt being made in other communities for the observance of Baby Week, so that the celebration is expected to be quite general throughout the State.

The State Department of Health is preparing some leaflets to be distributed during that week. One leaflet will deal with the importance of birth registration, another will give instructions to mothers for the care of their babies, and perhaps a third will describe the community organization necessary to provide for the health of babies and young children. These leaflets will be sent free of charge to any community desiring to distribute them during Baby Week celebration.

It is believed by the State Department of Health that Baby Week offers an excellent opportunity for each community to study its own needs, and to find out for itself just what must be done in order to promote the health of its children, and thus insure a healthy adult population in future years. In fact this study of the needs of a community and provision for meeting these needs by the employment of visiting nurses and the establishment of other agencies concerned in securing good health for infants and children is regarded as one of the most important results that may be expected to follow the celebration of Baby Week.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

If Mixed With Sulphur It Darkens So Naturally Nobody Can Tell.

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's treatment, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color, which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have the troublesome task of gathering the sage and the mussy mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" for about 50 cents a bottle. It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive; besides, prevents dandruff, itching scalp and falling hair.—Adv.

HOT TEA BREAKS A COLD—TRY THIS

Get a small package of Hamburg Breast Tea, or as the German folks call it, "Hamburger Brust Thee," at any pharmacy. Take a tablespoonful of the tea, put a cup of boiling water upon it, pour through a sieve and drink a teacup full at any time. It is the most effective way to break a cold and cure grip, as it opens the pores, relieving congestion. Also loosens the bowels, thus breaking a cold at once.

It is inexpensive and entirely vegetable, therefore harmless.—Adv.

DEFENDANT DISMISSED AND COMPLAINANT REPRIMANDED

Patrick Honan, against whom a complaint was made a short time ago by Mrs. John Van Ness, was arraigned in police court this morning on a charge of disorderly conduct. Mrs. Van Ness charged that Honan came to her home, on East Third street, some time ago and threatened to kill everyone in the family. She later dismissed the complaint, but as the charge was serious, Mayor Calkins ordered all persons in the case brought into court. After hearing the evidence, he dismissed the charge against against Honan, and reprimanded Mrs. Van Ness for bringing the original charge.

WILL BE TRIED TONIGHT.

John Highshalk, arrested for disorderly conduct, will be tried before Mayor Calkins at 6 o'clock tonight. It is claimed that he secured whisky for Mike Onion, an Italian, who is on the blacklist.

Fisher Anderson, president of the Board of Education of Jersey City; ex-Judge Frank J. Higgins, Director of Education Charles Forst, Herman H. Apmann, Assemblymen Josiah Dadley and John H. Adamson, Colin R. Wise, City Engineer of Passaic; Dr. Stammerman, Jacob Kushner, William L. Saunders, Julius S. Grunow, Bertram Saunders, Charles C. Cooper, ex-Freeholder Frank L. Driver, of Essex; William Hetherington Taylor, William H. [illegible], G. M. Gottfried, George L. Hirst, Eli Miraudon and James C. Blauvelt, of the Passaic Valley Sewerage Commission.

After expressing his appreciation of the honor which had been conferred upon him by being unanimously selected to lead the fight, Mr. Record said:

"We start here and now the greatest fight that has been fought in New Jersey since the Republican party was founded.

"It is another emancipation fight.

"It is a fight to redeem New Jersey from the rule of the brewers and public utility corporations; to reduce the cost of living, encourage business, make employment for idle men and idle capital by forcing the idle land into use through exempting buildings and the product of labor from taxation.

"For twenty years, with only brief intervals, the combination of brewers and public utility corporations have actually governed the State of New Jersey.

"They have done it by supplying to the bosses of both parties the money with which they have controlled nominations and carried elections.

"The remedy for these conditions is to enact Local Option or Home Rule laws, giving to the majority in each municipality the right to decide whether they will have saloons or not; the power to own and operate their gas, electric light, water and trolley service; and the power to encourage business and home building by exempting from taxation buildings, farm improvements, machinery, household furniture and merchandise.

"Here is a definite program which every voter can understand for improving the condition of all the people who work for a living and all who do business in New Jersey.

"This program will plant the Republican party in our State upon the principle of majority rule on which it was originally founded, and will wrest the party of Lincoln from exploiters and dedicate it to a new career of service to mankind."

NEW JERSEY CONFERENCE OF CHARITIES AND CORRECTION

The New Jersey Conference of Charities and Correction will hold a meeting in the High School Auditorium, Hoboken, April 30, and May 1 and 2. Dr. David F. Weeks, of Skillman, the president of this year's conference, will give an address at the opening session on Sunday afternoon. His subject will be "Mental Deficiency in Relation to Social Problems." Efforts are being made to secure Rev. Father Francis H. Vavisk, president of the National Conference, to also be present and address the gathering. Sunday evening will be given over to demonstration of psychological clinics and an exhibit of modern ways of dealing with defectives.

On Monday morning there will be section meetings from 9 to 11 o'clock, dealing with Child Labor and, Child Welfare, Probation and Courts, and Public Health Nursing. The remainder the day also on Tuesday will be devoted to addresses and discussions.

GOES TO POLICE STATION AND ASKS TO BE LOCKED UP

Henry Harris, a negro, came to police headquarters, Saturday afternoon, and gave himself up. Henry was drunk and did not want to be left on the streets when everybody else went home, so he asked that he be arrested. The kind-hearted desk sergant accommodated him, and he will be tried before Mayor Calkins at 6 o'clock tonight.

While improvements are being made to the First M. E. church parsonage, Rev. Dr. and Mrs. C. M. Anderson are making their home at 521 East Second street.

A. R. LAWTON SPEAKS AT MEETING OF FRIENDS

Albert R. Lawton, of New York city, was the speaker at the Friends' Meeting House, yesterday morning, and told of the mission that is being conducted in the Twentieth Street Friends' Meeting House, in New York city. Several years ago those in charge decided to invite the foreign element living near the meeting to come to the house on certain evenings to receive instruction. They were taught reading, writing, arithmetic and religious subjects. They came for a while and then dropped out until there was only a handful left. A young woman met one of the men one day and asked him what was the matter with the Friends' meeting that they refused to come. His reply was the Friends do not want such fellows as they were in their meeting. She assured him, however, they did want them, and they would all be welcome.

Taking a handful of invitations cards, this man, a bartender in a low, downtown saloon, distributed them among the men who had been down and out. The following Sunday morning 200 of these men attended the meeting. Fortunately there were two men present who knew how to meet the emergency. They had them come early and partake of coffee and rolls, and talked kindly to them. Following the refreshment they had the privilege of staying for the service or not, just as they choose. A majority of them stayed. Mr. Lawton went on and told of the various activities taken up by the mission during the week, and was listened to with much interest.

Our Country

George Washington was one of America's great prophets when he said, "Against the insidious wiles of foreign influence, I conjure you to believe me, fellow citizens, the jealously of a free people ought to be constantly awake, since history and experience prove that foreign influence is one of the most baneful foes of republican government."

INCREASED INTEREST IN PERSONAL WORKERS' CLASS

The second session of the class in personal work will be held in Y. M. C. A. this evening at 8 o'clock. Rev. Dr. B. S. Hudson, who is the leader, is also the chairman of the committee on personal work for the Biederwolf Campaign.

Included under the term of personal workers are assistants, doorkeepers and ushers, composed of the workers from all the churches now uniting in the movement. The services rendered by these helpers is of great importance.

In the plan of organization of this personal workers' group there is to be one chief assistant and one chief usher, whose duties are distinct and of equal importance. The chief assistant has charge of the personal work done by the women and the chief usher has charge of the ushering and of the personal work done by the ushers.

It is very essential that all of those volunteering as personal workers should take advantage of the class now being conducted by Dr. Hudson, and an invitation is also extended to any others who may be inclined to better prepare themselves.

GOVERNMENT PLANS TWO AERIAL MAIL ROUTES

Washington, Feb. 21.—Opportunity to manufacturers of aeroplanes and hydroplanes to meet practical tests and to improve the mail service over difficult routes in Alaska and on the coast of Massachusetts, as well as in the line of military preparedness, is given by Postmaster-General Burleson in advertisements for bids for providing aerial mail service on one route across Buzzards bay and Nantucket, in Southern Massachusetts, and seven routes in Alaska.

The Massachusetts route extends from New Bedford by Woods Hole and Oak Bluffs to Nantucket, fifty-six miles and return, and the Alaskan routes from Valdez to Fairbanks, 358 miles and return, and the Alankan Tanana to Kaltag, 381 miles; Kaltag to Nome, 225 miles; Seward to Iditarrod, 380 miles; Iditarod to Nome, 280 miles, and Seward to Anchorage, 110 miles.

The Massachusetts route, it is said, for the most part lies over water, and the wind velocities average high during fall and winter, besides fog is prevalent. The service is now performed by steamboat to Martha's Vineyard and Nantucket, and on the first trip in summer not less than 3,000 pounds of mail is carried.

Need of improvement of the Alaskan mail service is said to be beyond question, and a strong showing as to the desirability of faster mail service from Seward and Anchorage to Fairbanks is said to have been made to the department by the Alaskan engineering commission. The seven proposed routes reach the principal mining districts thus far developed. The president summer service to Fairbanks is provided by river steamers.

Mail originating in the United States leaves Seattle for Skagway, Alaska; goes thence by railroad 110 miles to White Horse, Yukon territory, and thence by river steamer to Fairbanks. The time required is usually about three weeks.

Seward and Anchorage are the water termini of the government's operations in building the Alaskan Railroad. The executive offices of the northern division are located at Fairbanks. All accounts, reports and matters needing administrative action, however, must go to Seward, and are often six weeks en route. It is estimated that a practical aerial service will save the Alaskan engineering commission many thousand dollars.

The proposals for bids call for service more or less frequent all the year.

RECREATION NOTES

The Zephyrs will hold a basketball practice in the Plainfield High School gymnasium tonight at 9 o'clock.

The dancing class for adults will be held as usual in the Washington School tonight.

The Athenians will line up against a Newark basketball team tomorrow night in the Plainfield High School.

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

The final rehearsal for the pageant will be held in the Plainfield High School Auditorium tonight. As a result there will be no Bible class supper at the association tonight and all other classes will suspend meetings until Wednesday.

A jubilee vesper service was held at the association yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock. "Our Privilege" was the topic dwelt on by three speakers. Miss Winifred Mann, the local physical director, opened up the service and she was followed by addresses given by Miss McClintock, a graduate of the National Training School of New York city. The latter has done relief work in India, China and Japan and her addresses consisted mainly of the work the Y. W. C. A. has done in Turkey since the outbreak of the war. Miss Matthews, the national Y. W. C. A. secretary of Japan, also spoke of her work in that country. Mrs. Noel Evans and Miss Alice Titus led the hymns with instrumental selections.

HOAGLAND UNJUSTLY ACCUSED OF MURDER OF AGED COUPLE

James Hoagland, the negro that was credited with having killed Howard Wycoff and Miss Catherine A. Fischer, at East Amwell, last week, has been found innocent of the crime. He did not make a confession as was reported in the newspapers.

HOLIDAY RECITAL.

A holiday recital will be given in the Washington School Auditorium tonight, under the auspices of the West End Community Center. The committee in charge has arranged a pleasing program for the attendants. A feature of the affair will be scenes from "The Fortune Hunter," protrayed by Miss Lillian Lamson, supervisor of Recreation activities in the city. Instrumental and vocal selections will also be rendered and there will be an address on "Washington."

Mrs. J. P. Truitt, of "Tunlaw," Greenbrook road, is sojourning at the Traymore Hotel, Atlantic City.

Mrs. Joseph Rutledge, of Westervelt avenue, who has been detained at her home by illness for some time, is said to be improving.

THE PRESS' SPECIAL OFFER TO PLAINFIELD

THIS is one of our big achievements, of which we are justly proud. Every reader of this paper—yes, every family in the city and in its environments—can this year enjoy either of these two nationally famous magazines, or both of them, with this paper, for but little more than the price of the paper alone. These two great magazines with approximately 1,500,000 subscribers, are known and loved the whole country over. At 15 cents a copy, $1.80 a year—$3.60 for the two, purchased by the month—they are unquestioned leaders in their respective fields.

How We Did It

We went to the publishers of these magazines and told them about this city. How its population has increased! How its wealth has increased! How its trade has increased! How its bank clearings have increased! We showed them how desirable it was for them, and for their advertisers, that they should have a large circulation here! Then we showed them how this paper was the one paper in this city to make this offer, and how we knew that the citizens of this city would welcome this opportunity enthusiastically.

Woman's Home Companion

Splendid Serial Novels Woman's Home Companion is famous for the excellence of its fiction, particularly its full-length serial novels. There will be at least four novels this year, by Margaret Deland, Fannie Heaslip Lea, and others of equal power. Hundreds of thousands will later pay $1.50 each for them, when they are published in book form, but readers of Woman's Home Companion will have had them first.

Fifty Splendid Short Stories By distinguished authors whose work you are always eager to read, will fill the pages of the Companion. Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, William J. Burns (the great detective), Zona Gale, Mary Heaton Vorse, Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, Grace S. Richmond—these are only a few of the popular favorites whose stories will appear during the year.

The Finer Things of Life Inspiration, ideals, culture, the things that lift us above the commonplace and the monotony of living—these have an important place in the program for 1916. The Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson has prepared a series of intimate sermons for the Companion family on the duties and privileges of family life and the real meaning of family ties.

Laura Spencer Porter will help those who love pictures and want to know the best. Anne Bryan McCall, in The Tower Room, will continue her popular department for girls.

The New Fashions Fashion's new ideas, the chic touches that distinguish the smartly dressed woman of Fifth Avenue will always be found first in the Companion. Grace Margaret Gould, the Companion Fashion Editor, keeps her readers in constant touch with the great creators of fashion in Paris and New York.

For the Little People The Cherubs are coming! The cunningest, funniest little people you ever saw—drawn and versified by Olive Rush. Also stories, puzzles and prizes, plays for school and nursery, plans for kites, aeroplanes and boats, doll dressmaking lessons—all kinds of things to interest and amuse the little Companion readers.

Helpful, Home Departments The Companion is famous for its practical departments. Every month it offers new ideas for cooking, for serving, for entertaining, for fancy work. Hundreds of ideas every month! Practical, really helpful ideas. Companion readers find these departments most valuable.

The American Magazine

aims to be, and is, a magazine for the whole family to share, each with the other—full of the new things, the interesting things, this month, next month, every month!

George Ade
William Allen White
Ellis Parker Butler
David Grayson
Ida Tarbell
John Sharp Williams
Ray Stannard Baker
Hough Fullerton
Stephen Leacock
John Taintor Foote
Walter Pritchard Eaton
James Montgomery Flagg

These, and scores of other favorites will contribute the timely and interesting articles, the stories, the striking illustrations, the departments. You will find The American Magazine always full of the things you are interested in; the things you want to read about.

The Effect of the War The New industries have been created; old industries have been given new life; new cities have sprung up full sized in a month; men have become millionaires over night—these are some of the effects of the war on America. These articles tell a wonderful story of problems met, difficulties overcome, and successful achievement. They give a splendid, true picture of the war industries, the war fortunes, and the men that made them.

Being Better Business Men An intensely interesting series of practical, fact-bottom articles about the Retail Business, Real Estate, Advertising, Selling, and other important lines of business. Other articles for young men will take up the problems of young men—going into business in his own town; going into business with his father; going to the large city. It will be a very interesting and really valuable series.

Stories—Short and Long There is always a generous selection of stories in The American Magazine. Stories of city life; of country life; home stories; dog stories; love stories and adventure stories—a real feast of fiction. Important, too, no suggestive or unclean story has ever found its way into The American Magazine. Its stories are wholesome and cleverly told, that the whole family can, and does, enjoy.

The Big Saving

If you bought either of these magazines by the month you would pay fifteen cents for it. If you bought both of them you would pay thirty cents. One magazine purchased this way for the year would cost you $1.80. Both magazines $3.60. Our plan will give you the magazines each month by mail at your home, promptly on publication date for but a few cents more than this paper alone would cost. It is a big, big saving in convenience and in money.

ENJOYED HIS WORK AS WAR SECRETARY

DUMBEST OF ALL ANIMALS.

This Creature Sits on Its Mouth During Its Entire Lifetime.

What would you think of an animal who sat on his mouth? You would guess he didn't know very much, wouldn't you? Neither does he. You could call him the dumbest of dumb animals. In fact, he's so very dumb that most people don't know he's an animal at all. He's the sponge.

No, not the sponge you are acquainted with—not the bathroom kind. That's just his skeleton. The sponge we're talking about is the one that lives in the bottom of the sea, where he sits all day on his mouth.

In the beginning he's an egg, which splits all up in many cells and then swims around for a day or two. Then there comes a dent in one side—that's his mouth. Soon the sponge stops swimming and sinks to the bottom, mouth downward. There he eats and eats until sometimes he gets to be three feet tall and as thick as he is tall.

He's covered with a jellylike flesh. When sponge fishermen hunt him to sell they go out in boats and pull sponges from the bottom of the sea with long handled forks. Then they put them on the shore to dry. After days the jellylike flesh drops off and the fishermen tramp the sponges with their feet. Then they are considered clean enough to sell. We really get the bones of the sponge, that's all.—Exchange.

BURIES ITS OWN SEED.

How the Peanut Plant Protects Its Fruit From Destruction.

Here's a plant mother that buries her children to protect them. While the children of other plants are being kidnaped by animals and birds, these youngsters are carefully hidden away beneath the ground so they can grow in safety. But man won't permit the mother to keep her children long. He digs them up and eats them. The plant is the peanut.

Its leaves look like a four leaved clover. Its blossoms are a dainty yellow, shaped like those of the sweet pea. When they wither and fall off the mother plant begins to worry about her seed children, for if the birds and animals kidnap them before they ripen they won't have a chance to grow and produce more plants next year.

So she bends her stalks downward, and each head where the flowers have fallen off she pokes into the ground. There the little seeds develop inside of wrinkly, paper-like pods. Sometimes the little tunneling moles find them and eat them, or maybe hogs will come and root them out. Usually, however, they're safe from all marauders.

America gave the world the peanut. It was found first in Brazil. Since its commercial value was discovered it has been planted all over the world. Since 1866 it has been a staple product of southern United States.—Philadelphia North American.

Tavern Heroes.

The Marquis of Granby bears a title that swings from many a tavern sign board all England over. London alone has some half a dozen. Yet this popular soldier, who commanded England's troops in Germany during the Seven Years' war, was the target of some of "Junius'" most bitter invective. The secret of his popularity lay in the fact that Granby was always a soldier's general who not only led them well in the fight, but also cared for their comfort in the camp. The first inn to bear the marquis' head as a sign is said to have been opened by one of his own guardsmen at Hounslow. Apart from Wellington and Nelson, the marquis comes easily first among England's tavern heroes.—London Chronicle.

Poor Fare.

"What came before the literary club this afternoon, my love?" asked Mr. Dibble at dinner.

"Oh, 'The Merchant of Venice,' and some of the worst sandwiches I ever ate," answered Mrs. Dibble.—Birmingham Age-Herald.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, FEBRUARY 21, 1916.

CANDIDATE MARTIN ACCEPTS.

Candidate Thomas F. Martin has accepted the proposed plan of Candidate Hennessy to have all aspirants for the Democratic nomination for governor n thi State tour the counties together and it now remains for only Candidate Wittpenn to agree to make it unanimous. Of course these may, and probably will, be other candidates later but if such a proposition is agreed on before they enter the race they can hardly hold out. One good feature of the Hennessy plan is that it will result in a discussion of all issues before the people, for with each man advocating some pet project the others who speak with him will be forced to declare either for or against it. In accepting the Hennessy proposal, Mr. Martin says:

"Permit me to acknowledge receipt of your communication of February 16 and to agree most heartily in the proposition advanced therein. I agree with you that the contest for the Democratic gubernatorial nomination should be fought out on the lines suggested. That the principles and policies for each man stand, rather than the mere personal attributes which either one of the candidates may possess, should be the real standard by which they should be measured."

GOVERNOR STOKES IS "JUST RUNNIN'."

Former Governor Edward C. Stokes has been smoked out of his hole of political silence and has issued a statement as to the principles on which he hopes to be elected United States Senator from New Jersey. Credit for this, for the most part, must be given the Newark News, which repeatedly called attention to the fact that former State Senator Joseph S. Frelinghuysen has announced his policies and his position on all current political questions and demanded that Mr. Stokes and Mr. Murphy do likewise, as their personalities did not seem to warrant their election or nomination.

Mr. Stokes, apparently, is "just runnin." He refuses to make a formal declaration of principles on the ground that the party platform will be outlined later and a candidate should not prematurely express personal opinions. Stokes promises to make his policies known through continued public utterances and contact with the people. The News promises that it will exact a public statement from Mr. Murphy as soon as "Boss" Dalrymple returns from Palm Beach to prepare it for him.

THE WELFARE OF BABIES.

The Baby Welfare campaign in Plainfield has been well planned by those who have been placed in charge of the local end of this national movement, and they have gone about their work with an earnestness that promises well. But only a little good can be accomplished unless there is public understanding and general appreciation of what the campaign means for the community. All public welfare organizations should take an active interest in the program mapped out for the week, and every individual should do his or her part. Conservation of baby life is or should be one of the most vital subjects of the day. The future of the community depends upon its children of today, and unless they are brought into the world under healthy conditions and given proper care and training in infancy all the combined work of a nation cannot make them good and useful citizens later.

LINCOLN IS FREE NO LONGER.

Ignatius T. Lincoln, former member of the British Parliament and confessed German spy, was captured by United States officials on Broadway, Saturday night, after he had been free in this country for weeks. Lincoln's crime was not one against this country and he might have gone free forever, but for his taunts published in a New York newspaper. He insists that he is a political refugee from England and not a criminal, but he struck at the very foundation of American independence when his consummate egotism prompted him to write satirical letters to a daily paper calling attention to the fact that he was walking the streets of New York while agents of the law were searching for him. Mr. Lincoln need hardly expect further consideration from this country, and he will probably soon be sent back to England, where German spies trouble no one after they are caught.

CLARK GOOD SOLDIER.

Popular as Speaker Clark was in 1912 when he came near the nomination of his party, and ought fairly to have had it, his recent boomlet does not run like fire on the prairie. Some time ago the Speaker remarked: "If the present Administration is a success no name will be considered but that of Wilson; if it is not, the nomination will not be worth having." This is a phrase that will not die, at least until after November.—Camden Post-Telegram.

According to Maximilian Harden, German publicist, who was recently forced out of Germany because of his free expression of opinion, "No Stars and Stripes will protect a ship in the war zone," after the new order to U-boats has been put into effect. This evidently means that the Kaiser and his staff are becoming desperate and have planned a more hideously general warfare on sea boats. Every effort of the Wilson administration is being bent to secure from Germany a declaration of assurance that neutral ships and boats carrying neutrals or noncombatants will not be sunk without warning, but all that Von Bernstorff will promise is that boats not armed will be allowed to safely pass the undersea craft. All of this is but proof that President Wilson was looking far into the future when he said in his middle western speeches that no man could foretell what the near future would bring for this country. German atrocities against Americans or against neutrals cannot be tolerated forever, and instead of recognizing the rights of innocents the German admiralty seems to be preparing for their slaughter.

The Washington correspondent of the New York Tribune is authority for the statement that Elihu Root is preparing to declare for Roosevelt for president. Since the days of Tweed, Mr. Root has been loyal to the "Old Guard." He has been the friend and adviser and the tool of the "boss" element of the party during his entire career, and it would be strange indeed if he were to turn now, but this astute old politician and statesman may be entertaining a commendable desire to do something before he casts his last vote.

Truly this is leap year, but the only man that seems to be having any trouble fighting off a fair young political job is Justice Hughes. Still there is the Colonel who had to leave the country because of his bashfulness.

It is hard to even dream of spring, but the New York Yankees have left for training in Macon and the merry song of swat will soon be with us.

On the Spur of the Moment

Got It!!!

First it's tickle,
And then it's sneeze;
Then it's strangle,
And then it's wheeze.
Your throat is as raw
As an underdone ham;
You think you will die,
And you don't care a—bang!
There's noise in your head
Like Niagara's road,
From the throb and the rush
Of your germ-laden gore.
You shake and you shiver,
Then pairboil and grille;
One minute a fever
The next one a chill.
You breathe through your ears
And you talk through your nose,
And ache like the dickens
From head to your toes.
The world's upside down,
And you don't care a rip,
For it's caught you, by Jing!
Just the same darned old GRIP!

Nobody Satisfied.

Things are never just as we would have them. In the city the tired business man lies down to sleep, but an endless procession of little demons are marching through his brain, and he just lies there and wishes he was living in some quiet little country town, far away from the turmoil of trade. How he would sleep then! Over in Pewamo, a typical rural town, the tired native crawls into bed and closes his eyes. He would like to sleep, but he can't, for out there on the four corners of the burg is a windmill, owned by the town. It seems bent upon proving that municipal ownership is a success, for with every breeze the big wheel turns, whether the water tank needs replenishing or not, and with every turn of the wheel the is an unearthly sound like the wail of a lost soul. Citizens say the mill needs oiling, but there seems to be no official oiler in the place, and so the wheel goes on squeaking, and the tired citizens continue cursing and wishing they lived in the city, where windmills are unknown.

- Proctor's Theatre -

Never before in local theatrical circles have the amusement seekers had such a wonderful opportunity to see some of the greatest photoplay productions conceived by the brain of man as they have this week at Proctor's local theatre. Today only, the management will present one of the greatest emotional actresses appearing in photoplays in her greatest portrayal of emotionalism. It is "Camille," starring Clara Kimball Young. Her Camille is a sympathetic and passionate character that appeals both in a sympathetic and physical way. Tomorrow the dramatic feature is entitled "The Wood Nymph," and has as the star, Marie Doro, that dainty bit of femininity whose success under the Charles Frohman regime a short while ago astounded Broadway, and, incidentally, made Miss Doro one of the shining lights in the theatrical firmament. "The Wood Nymph" marks her initial appearance on the screen, and the vehicle selected for her suits her personality admirably. As a climax to the list of extraordinary features appearing at Proctor's this week, comes Theda Bara in her greatest picture, "The Serpent," which will appear on two days, Wednesday and Thursday. Miss Bara, known as the greatest of vampire actresses, is at her best in this production and will positively outdo all her former efforts by the splendid portrayal of the part alotted her.

The management wishes to call attention to the fact that, beside "The Red Circle," which appears every Friday, and the toy bazaar for the children, which is introduced every Saturday afternoon, they have made arrangements to present two more added features to the already splendid programs. These are "The Strange Case of Mary Page," the wonderful Essanay serial of mystery, intrigue and love, which will appear at Proctor's on Tuesday, March 7, and every Tuesday thereafter, an episode being presented each week. Henry B. Walthall, the hero of "The Birth of a Nation," and Edna Mayo, who wears gorgeous gowns in this production, are co-stars. The other attraction spoken of above is Pathe's latest serial creation entitled "The Iron Claw," which will be presented at Proctor's every Wednesday, starting March 1. "The Iron Claw" was written by Arthur Stringer, one of the foremost novelists in this country. The cast includes Pearl White, heroine of several serial productions; Creighton Hale, the famous Jameson in the "Exploits of Elaine," and Sheldon Lewis, the famous Clutching Hand. The vaudeville entertainment presented the first half of the week, starting today, includes Ruby Cavelle and Co., novelty song and dance; Ray Snow, comedian; Felix Duo, novelty musicians, and other novelties.

Owing to the holiday tomorrow, there will be no meeting of the Woman's Guild of the Grace P. E. church.

The next meeting for sewing will be held Tuesday, February 29, in the parish house.

AND THE WORST IS YET TO COME--

NOBODY LOVES ME

∴ Plainfield Theatre ∴

Gus Hill offers "The Boy Scouts," a musical play of Young America, at the Plainfield Theatre, Wednesday, Matinee and Night, Feb. 23.

A gala holiday bill secured especially for Washington's birthday, will be presented at the Plainfield theatre tomorrow afternoon and night. The seven big acts are headed by a miniature musical comedy entitled "The Fluffy Ruffle Girls," and Manager Shannon has assurances from the booking office that it is the best of the kind ever sent on the road. Ten "Fluffy Ruffle" girls are in the company, wearing "fluffy ruffle" costumes and backed up by special sets of elaborate scenery. The company also carries its own electrical effects.

The other six numbers are Stewart, Day and White, "Scotch Lads and a lassie" in a musical dancing act depicting songs and dancing of the Highlands; Haggerty and LeClair, singers and dancers with a new line of songs and steps; Juliet Wood & Co., presenting a novel singing act with a piano specialty; Marian Montross, the double-voiced singer, late feature of the Rose Maids company; Howard and Reynolds, a comedy duo with a protean novelty, and the "Red Ike" company, in a sketch that is a scream from start to finish.

Beside the vaudeville numbers, an added feature will be the latest and best Charlie Chaplin picture direct from the New York Hippodrome. The Pathe semi-weekly will also be on the bill for tomorrow only. The hours of performance will be the same as on Saturdays and holidays—afternoons at 2; evenings at 7 and 9.

Gus Hill is sending his biggest and best musical comedy production to the Plainfield theatre, Wednesday (matinee and night). It's title is The Boy Scouts. Mr. Hill believes firmly that in this play he has conceived one of the most entertaining performances ever under his management. The Boy Scouts offer a happy combination of drama, farce and music. The piece requires a cast of fifty singers, dancers and comedians; also a brass band of twenty-five pieces for daily street parade and grand concerts preceding each performance. The Camp Fire Girls will be there in great numbers. It is an event you cannot well afford to miss. Watch for the street parade in the morning at 10:30; also band concert absolutely free in front of the theatre at 1:45 and 7:45 p. m.

The Liberty Girls' Company with Jack Conway, everybody's favorite, will be the attraction at the Plainfield theatre this afternoon and night. Presenting a spectacular production in two acts and ten scenes, entitled "Manless Isle," from the ballroom of the Hotel Cosmo, the company is carried to the pier, from thence to midocean, then to Egypt and last to the palace of the Sultan.

A chorus of thirty Broadway girls aid in the introduction of the musical numbers, including late song hits.

The olio includes specialties by the Daring Sherwoods and the Bohemian Comedy Four.

A feature will be a ten-minute travesty on the famous Planquette comic opera, "The Chimes of Normandy."

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

Dressed Like a Beggar, Odysseus Made His Plans.

Telemachus Treated Him Politely.

"GREEK story night!" shouted Jack and Evelyn to their daddy.

So daddy sat down and told them how the brave Greek Odysseus managed to get rid of the nobles who overran his palace. "Odysseus had been away from his family twenty years, you see, ten years at the Trojan war and ten more struggling to get home. Now, imagine his feelings when, by the kind help of the goddess Minerva, he at last reached his palace to find that a hundred Greek nobles had been making love to his wife, Penelope, lording it over his palace and servants just as if they owned his place.

"To drive out the nobles it was necessary for him not to be known just yet. So his kind friend Minerva changed him into an old dirty beggar. And as a beggar this brave Greek first entered his own home, to be welcomed by his own swineherd, a faithful servant, instead of by his wife. The old swineherd treated his unknown master kindly, and from him Odysseus learned many things about the nobles. He also learned that his young son, Telemachus, was away seeking his father at the courts of all the other kings who had returned from the war. While on this trip Minerva gave Telemachus advice to return home at once. When he reached the palace he, too, went to the old swineherd to find out how his mother fared with the rude nobles. Seeing an old beggar talking with the swineherd, Telemachus treated him politely"—

"His own daddy!" cried Jack, jumping right off his daddy's knee.

"So Telemachus sent the swineherd secretly to tell Penelope that her son was home. They all had to be very careful about it, you see, because Minerva had already warned Telemachus that the nobles were watching for him, prepared to kill him.

"Soon as the old swineherd had started to the palace Minerva advised Odysseus to tell Telemachus who he was. At the same time she touched him and took away all traces of dirt, poverty and beggary, giving him back his handsome looks and manly strength. Evelyn, can you imagine how surprised the boy was? Telemachus gazed at his father, believing him to be a god, the father he had searched so long to find! But when Odysseus explained Minerva's part in the affair Telemachus understood. The father and son put their arms around each other and wept.

"Then they remembered the brave Penelope, alone in the palace, with a hundred nobles bothering her. So her husband and son planned that Telemachus should go and make friends with the nobles while Odysseus went to the palace as a beggar," daddy finished.

"Oh, daddy, how soon bedtime comes!" Evelyn mourned.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Jacob Townsend Still Foolishly Hopes for Fairness From His Wife.

It was Saturday afternoon and Marian had gone down to the store to help the boys with the heavy afternoon trade. Jacob Townsend was sitting up in an easy chair by the open window over which a giant elm cast its shadow. Ortrude was sitting in a low rocker opposite him making a languid effort to be entertaining. It was the first time she had sat down in the sick room.

"Perhaps you will be able to take a ride in the machine tomorrow. You have never been in it. This weather it is pleasant riding for that is the only way to get a breeze." Ortrude stirred the lace of the dainty white dress as she waved her fan and gently rocked back and forth.

"I will see how I feel tomorrow," answered Jacob. "I fear it would not be a nerve quieting prescription to ride with so new a driver." Jacob smiled amiably. He was pleased that she should suggest it for it was a new departure. She was so unusually pleasant that it occurred to Jacob that now would be a good time to broach the subject of the legal paper he wished her to sign.

"That is not much of a compliment to my driving." Ortrude yawned behind her fan.

"You certainly have a good record for accidents so far. You are one hundred per cent perfect." He cleared his throat after a little pause and began again in a different voice: "Ortrude, I was thinking this would be a good time to have a little quiet talk together. Someway we never seem to have any time to talk things over when both of us are rested and——" Ortrude looked up wide eyed and attentive at once. Her movement was so sudden that it was disconcerting.

"Perhaps you have forgotten the paper that I asked you to sign before we were married, stating that you had had your portion of the property and would make no further claim on anything I left. My sickness has made me think of what might happen if I should not get well."

"Don't talk so, J. C. You are well now, just a little weak." Ortrude fixed a sharp glance on his face.

"Yes, I am much better; But it would remove a load from my mind if the thing was all settled," continued Jacob quietly. "You see things are not on the best footing financially and there is likely to be enough for the children. You are provided for in any event, and there is no possible excuse for your refusing to assure the children against any trouble from you."

"Just what are you insinuating?" asked Ortrude in a low voice.

"I am insinuating nothing. I am asking you to clear your name of a suspicion as to your future conduct." Jacob leaned forward and looked earnestly into her face.

"My name needs no clearing; most of all I should not need it from my husband." Ortrude made a movement as if to rise. Jacob raised his hand to detain her.

"I ask a very simple thing. Common courtesy, common honesty demands that you grant it. I certainly expect you to. Your refusal will certainly be interpreted as a desire to keep affairs in your own hands so that if you decide to make trouble you will have the means to do so." Jacob looked fixedly at her.

"I am not responsible for other people's interpretations of my acts, nor for the motives they attribute to me. I am the best judge of what it is fitting for me to do. I do not want to hear any more about that ridiculous paper. I do not choose to sign it or anything else." Jacob did not reply. Two bright red spots burned in his cheeks and he leaned back wearily and closed his eyes.

"You are very foolish to make yourself worse by talking business when you should be resting and getting well. I will leave you to rest now for you need it. Let me help you to bed."

"No, thank you," replied Jacob wearily. "I will stay here."

Ortrude turned and left the room.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest-tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

In advertising a furnished room it is a simple matter to indicate that the tenant-to-be must have reasonably convincing credentials as to character. You will thus have applications from a desirable class of people while a door sign or window card would merely bring to you the chance passer-by.

NATION PLANS PUBLIC PARKS

Saving Rarest Places of Beauty In Its Domain.

ROAD FUNDS BADLY NEEDED

New Rocky Mountain Paradise In Colorado—Secretary Lane Tells How Yelowstone Park Has Been Developed In Recent Years Until It Is Show Place of America.

Secretary Lane in a recent report calls attention to the national parks as a valuable and undeveloped asset of the country. He says:

"The United States furnishes playgrounds to the people of this country which are, we may modestly state, without any rivals in the world. Just as the cities are seeing the wisdom and the necessity of open spaces for the children, so, with a very large view, the nation has been saving from its domain the rarest places of grandeur and beauty for the enjoyment of the world.

"During the year a new national park of distinction and unusual accessibility has come into existence. It crosses the Rockies in Colorado at a point of supreme magnificence; hence its title, the Rocky Mountain National park. Through it from north to south winds the continental divide—the Snowy range in name and fact. Two hundred lakes grace this rocky paradise, and bear and bighorn inhabit its fastnesses. It has an area of 350 square miles and lies only seventy miles from Denver. Many hotels lie at the feet of these mountains, and three railroads skirt their sides.

"This is Colorado's second national park, the other being Mesa Verde, where this department, with the assistance of Dr. Jesse Walter Fewkes of the Smithsonian institution, has uncovered during the last summer prehistoric ruins of unprecedented scientific interest.

Great Highway In Oregon.

"Oregon has but recently completed a great highway along the Columbia river. This should be connected by road with Mount Hood and a portion of the present forest reserve converted into a park. The Emits of Sequoia park, in California, the home of the great redwoods, should be so extended as to include the Kern River canyon, a most practicable project today, but tomorrow may be too late, because of the lumber interests. The Grand canyon is not yet part of the park system, although as part of a national forest it comes under the control of the department of agriculture.

"There is no reason why this nation should not make its public health and scenic domain as available to all its citizens as Switzerland and Italy make theirs. The aim is to open them thoroughly by road and trail and give access and accommodation to every degree of income. In this belief an effort has been made this year as never before to outfit the parks with new hotels which should make the visitor desire to linger rather than hasten on his journey

"While as the years have passed we have been modestly developing the superb scenic possibilities of the Yellowstone, nature has made of it the largest and most populous game preserve in the western hemisphere. Its great size, its altitude, its vast wilderness, its plentiful waters, its favorable conformation of rugged mountain and sheltered valley, and the nearly perfect protection afforded by the policy and the scientific care of the government have made this park, since its inauguration in 1872, the natural and inevitable center of game conservation for this nation. There is something of significance in this. It is the destiny of the national parks, if wisely controlled, to become the public laboratories of nature study for the nation. And from them specimens may be distributed to the city and state preserves, as is now being done with the elk of the Yellowstone, which are too abundant, and may be later with the antelope.

"If congress will but make the funds available for the construction of roads over which automobiles may travel with safety (for all the parks are now open to motors) and for trails to hunt out the hidden places of beauty and dignity, we may expect that year by year these parks will become a more precious possession of the people, holding them to the further discovery of America and making them still prouder of its resources, aesthetic as well as material."

DRINK WATER TO AVOID SICKNESS SAYS AUTHORITY

Glass of hot water before breakfast daily keeps the doctor away.

Sanitary science has of late made rapid strides, with results that are of untold blessings to humanity. The latest application of its untiring research is the recommendation that it is as necessary to attend to internal sanitation of the drainage system of the human body as it is to the drains of the house.

Those of us who are accustomed to feel dull and heavy when we arise, splitting headache, stuffy from a cold, foul tongue, nasty breath, acid stomach, can, instead, feel as fresh as a daisy by opening the sluices of the system each morning and flushing out the whole of the internal poisonous stagnant matter.

Everyone, whether ailing, sick or well, should, each morning before breakfast, drink a glass of real hot water with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash from the stomach, liver and bowels the previous day's indigestible waste, sour bile and poisonous toxins; thus cleansing, sweetening and purifying the entire alimentary canal before putting more food into the stomach. The action of hot water and limestone phosphate on an empty stomach is wonderfully invigorating. It cleans out all the sour fermentations, gases, waste and acidity and gives one a splendid appetite for breakfast. While you are enjoying your breakfast the phosphated hot water is quietly extracting a large volume of water from the blood and getting ready for a thorough flushing of all the inside organs.

The millions of people who are bothered with constipation, bilious spells, stomach trouble, rheumatic stiffness; others who have sallow skins, blood disorders and sickly complexions are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store. This will cost very little but is sufficient to make anyone a crank on the subject of internal sanitation.

SPEARY FAR AHEAD

With Mark of 198.4 He is Several Points Beyond Nearest Rival—Leading Newark Team Has Best Average and Highest Team Score.

Plainfield is averaging 904.41 in the Elks' Senior League. This is the sixth best mark. Frank Blatz is the only Queen City Antler near the top of the individual average list. He is sixth among those who are struggling for the six prizes, his average for thirty-six games being 188.24.

The Newark team, which is leading, has the best average, a mark of 942.18 for forty-two games. Jack Speary, of Newark, is far in the lead in the individual average list, his average being 198.4.

Neither Ted Coyne, of New Brunswick, nor Lee Johns, of New York Lodge, who stand second and third, respectively, have rolled in enough games to qualify for a prize, and as Joe Nolte, the Elizabeth pinner who is fourth, is in Florida, Speary's nearest rival for high average honors is Anderson, of Paterson. Anderson has a mark of 190.29, and is exactly 314 pins behind Speary.

The race is very close. Newark has lost thirteen games, and Elizabeth and New Brunswick have each lost fourteen. On a percentage basis, Newark ranks .690 and Elizabeth .689. Elizabeth, Paterson, New York, Rutherford, Jersey City and Rahway have nine games more to roll; Newark, Hoboken and Plainfield have twelve, and New Brunswick has eighteen.

Albright, the Rahway pinner who is last in the individual average list, holds the high score record, with 261. Elizabeth owns the team record, with a total of 1067.

The team records, and individual averages of the regulars, follow:

WIN GAME; ALMOST LOSE THEIR SHIRTS

New Brunswick Walks Off Floor When N. P. H. S. is in the Lead.

New Brunswick High School's basketball team refused to finish a game on North Plainfield High School's court Saturday afternoon. The home boys were leading, 47 to 45, with half a minute more to play, when the visiting coach ordered his charges off the floor. The climax ended an afternoon of wrangling, no love being lost among the players and officials. After the game some missing sweater-shirts used by the N. P. H. S. athletes were found in the visitors' suit cases.

The game required an extra period, the score being a tie, 43 to 43, at the end of the second half. The battle was a gruelling, see-saw fight, both sides maintaining a killing pace.

When only four minutes of the second half remained, the New Brunswick boys were five points ahead, 43 to 38. Kirch started a rally by dropping in his third basket, a pretty shot from the middle of the floor. Another point was tallied, lessening the lead to a two-point margin. Only a minute remained when a basket was shot by Townley, tieing the score. The borough leader was given opportunity to win the game on two fine fine shots, but failed in both attempts, neessitating an extra period of five minutes.

N. P. H. S. scored first, with a foul, but the team from the Raritan scored two points when Leach dropped the ball through the net. The borough combination assumed the lead when Dawe shot a field goal, followed by a foul by his running mate. Only a half minute remained, when the New Brunswick coach, who was umpiring, called his team off the floor, alleging that Townley had touched the foul while shooting the ball.

A considerable number of fouls was called on both teams. The coach from the visiting school failed to call a foul on his own players.

The locals had a hard proposition to overcome their rivals, and displayed all-around ability. Their teamwork and shooting which has enabled them to establish a fine record for the season, was high class. Last week they were defeated by South Side High, on the latter's court, by one point. South Side administered a 48 to 23 beating to N. P. H. S.

The N. P. H. S. players were on their mettle yesterday, executing their plays in a decisive manner, while they launched opportune spurts on two occasions when they were behind, bringing them on equal terms with their opponents. The first half ended 25-19 in favor of the home team, but shortly after the opening of the second half this lead was lost.

Dawe played one of his best games, shooting a quintet of field goals.

SPORT PROGRAM HERE TOMORROW

Feature Will Be Basketball Game—N. P. H. S. Favored to Defeat P. H. S.

TWO GUN CLUB SHOOTS

Both Log Cabin and Climax Men Will Be Out All Day—Park Club Bowlers at Elks' Alleys—Dog Show in New York—Other Attractions.

Heading the holiday sport program here tomorrow will be the rubber, P. H. S.-N. P. H. S. basketball game, for the city scholastic championship. The titular tilt will take place in Saengerbund Hall, and will start at 3 p. m.

The leading event in the evening will be the second match of the bowling series between the Park Club and Elks' Club teams, on the Antler's alleys. In the first match the Parks won two games.

Trapshooters will be busy at the Log Cabin and Climax clubs. At the Woodland avenue traps the regular holiday shoot for the Holiday Cup will begin at 10 o'clock, and the finals will be decided at 11 o'clock. A regular 25-bird shoot for the Take Home Cup is down for 2 p. m.

The Climax marksmen will have an all-day program, the feature of which will be the third block of the 500-bird competiton, 100 birds of which are shot on five holidays of the year.

A. Y. M. C. A. basketball team, composed of members of the senior department, will play on Hope Chapel's court in the evening. Ralph Seal will lead the association boys.

A Paterson team, the Royal A. C., will play the Athenians, of this city, on the Plainfield High School court in the evening. The Plainfielders are out after the colored championship of New Jersey, and a victory over the Silk City combination will give their stock a big boost.

Not a few local people will spend the holiday taking in the Westminster Kennel Club show, in New York. Local dogs will be among the features of the fixture.

The Elks will have to win all three games in order to win the series from the Parks, but should the home team get two games, giving each side three games won and three lost, total pins for the two matches will decide the winner. As the home team invariably wins two games in these matches, total pins is very likely to decide the series. The Parks have an advantage of 91 pins now.

The game in Saengerbund Hall will, like all P. H. S.-N. P. H. S. contests, provide intense excitement from beginning to end. Plainfield High is the present holder of the title, but North Plainfield is favored to win tomorrow's battle.

Provision has been made to seat more than five hundred spectators, grandstands being erected downstairs for the cheering sections, thus eliminating the vibrations in the gallery.

The ten players who have born the brunt of the battle will appear in the line-up as follows:

N. P. H. S.	P. H. S.
Dawe	Dunham
Townley	Coudray
forwards.
McDonough	Linke
center.
Kirch	Peacock
Dilts	Whelan
guards.

COLLEGE MEN WIN FROM SCHOOLBOYS

Princeton Ineligibles Toy With Plainfield High Combination.

A bunch of Princeton University boys took a day off Saturday and came here to show the city High School basketers how the court pastime is played. Traveling under the name of the Princeton Apollos, they managed to hand the locals a 41 to 22 trimming, and if they had tried they could no doubt have made the score larger. They were led by Johnny O'Kane, who is considered quite a player up Princeton way, but is barred from collegiate competition because he is a professional, and included other men that are members of the football and other athletic squads.

The visitors gained a good lead in the first half, and at times kept the ball passing among themselves for so long that the locals had time to stop and get their breath. McDowell's shooting was the only thing that kept Plainfield on anything like even terms, he making all but one of the baskets during the half.

O'Kane didn't work overtime in shooting baskets, but was adept in carrying the ball down the floor. Flinn, although playing guard, made six counters, as did McCormick, the Princeton forward. McDowell did as well as anyone on the floor, and was tied with the two college boys for shooting honors. The visitors did not have a foul called on them, and P. H. S. had but two.

It was the first time this year that Brower was really in shape to put up a good exhibition, and as it was, he was not extended to the limit.

BOTH GAMES WON BY FIVE POINTS

Plainfield A. A. Loses at Hope Chapel; Queen Citys Win.

Hope Chapel passers were victorious on their own court Saturday night, beating the Plainfield A. A. quintet, 29 to 24. The game was one of the fastest of the season, the visitors being in the lead until the last few minutes of play.

The Hope guards took good care of Benny Rosenson, and the Plainfield A. A. guards held March, each forward getting only one basket. Day and Hirsch, with four apiece, and Porter and Ted Snyder, with five each, did most of the scoring.

Jack Martin entered the game in the second half and played an excellent passing game. After being behind, 12 to 9, beginning the second half, the Hopes took a brace, Porter making four goals and Snyder three in the second half.

Eleven fouls were called on the visitors and fourteen on the Hopes.

A team of Y. M. C. A. Seniors will appear on the Hope court tomorrow night.

In the preliminary game Saturday night, the Queen City Five finished five points in front of the Hope chapel seconds. The score was 30 to 25. Carson starred for the vistors, and Randolph's foul shooting was a feature.

This week will be comparatively dull in bowling, locally. The holiday tomorrow will cut in on the first part of the week. The Plainfield teams of both the Knights of Columbus and Elks' Junior Leagues announced last night that their league games for this week have been postponed.

The local Senior Elks will entertain Paterson here Thursday night. A number of local Elks will go to Elizabeth Friday night to see the league leaders, Newark and Elizabeth, clash.

The City League will end this week. The Knights and Tabs will hook up on the Abstainers' alleys Wednesday night in a match for third place. The Knights need all three games to keep from finishing in the cellar. Two vicitories for the Columbians will put them on even terms. The Eagles will roll on the Imperials' alleys Thursday night, and if they win one out of the three games, the Birds will capture the championship.

A three-man house tourney will start at the Columbus Club Thursday night.

GILLAND SIXTH MAN.

Frank Gilland has been selected as the sixth member of the Newark Lodge of Elks' pinners who will compete in the American Bowling Congress at Toledo. Gilland is leading the Junior League team.

WILL ATTRACT NEW INDUSTRIES HERE

League Trying to Pass Bill Exempting Improvements and Personalty.

A public hearing will be given by the Taxation Committee of the New Jersey Legislature at Trenton, Wednesday, March 1, at 4 p. m., on a series of bills introduced by the Manufacturers' and Merchants' Taxation League, proposing to attract new industries to the State by exempting improvements and personal property from taxation.

The purpose of these bills is to encourage manufacturing and agriculture, thereby increasing the employment of labor; also to stimulate trade and lower the cost of living. The League will conduct an all-year campaign of education in favor of exempting from taxation, machinery, merchandise and household goods; and gradually reducing the tax on buildings, as Pittsburgh and Scranton are doing under a Pennsylvania law, providing for an increased rate on publicity created land values to supply the necessary revenue.

These principles have been unanimously endorsed in convention by the Manufacturers' Association of New Jersey, representing nine hundred manufacturers who employ 250,000 people and pay $130,000,000 wages annually.

New Jersey holds sixth place among the States in the total value of manufactured goods, and has held that position at each decennial census since 1850. It is the purpose of the League to put New Jersey nearer the top by attracting new industries and encouraging industries already located in the State. Thirty per cent. of the farm land in New Jersey is unimproved, and the League will try to increase the number of productive farms.

The officers and directors of the Manufacturers' and Merchants' Taxation League are: President, William L. Lyall, Brighton Mills, Passaic; vice-president, Charles H. Ingersoll, Robert H. Ingersoll & Bro., Trenton; treasurer, Charles F. Cushing, Montclair; Richerd Chambers, real estate, Camden; Frederick W. Donnolly, Mayor, Trenton; Sigmund Eisner, clothing manufacturer, Red Bank; Mark M. Fagan, Mayor, Jersey City; Edmund B. Osborne, The Osborne Co., Newark; Dan Fellows Platt, Englewood; Thomas L. Raymond, Mayor, Newark; William Riddle, Mayor, Atlantic City; Bertram H. Saunders, Hohokus Bleachery; Frazier A. Sofield, Denville; secretary, Gladwin Bouton, with headquarters in the Kinney Bldg., Newark, N. J.

JOURNALISTIC OPINIONS

WAR NEWS FOR YOUTH.

"All the children in the fifth and the higher grades must read the war news in at least one newspaper every day," reported a ten-year-old pupil in one of the suburban schools, returning home the other afternoon. The next morning she took with her to school a note in which was expressed parental disapproval of war news as a topic for youthful reading, with the explanation that the effect of the accounts of killing, and outrage, and suffering on the youthful brain was considered to overbalance any possible benefit through following the present process of altering European geographical lines. The question is, Were the parents right or were they not?

After this war is over, if it is fought to a conclusive result, it will, it now appears, be necessary to draw new maps for the school geographies. The histories will have added important chapters. Pupils who are well grounded in geography will be required to efface many mental maps from their minds. The new chapters of history must be learned. At least one school principal, it is evident, considers that an opportunity to study history in the making, geography in the altering, is rare, and thus should by all means be embraced. What is the effect on the tender gray matter of youth of reading the war news as it comes each day, sometimes authentic, sometimes based on speculation? It would seem that there is room here for extended debate.—Newark News.

HIGH SCHOOL NOTES.

Nearly a hundred of the High School student body enjoyed a leap-year dance in the auditorium on Saturday night.

Plans for the first Sophomore play to be presented by a second-year class at the school in a number of years are progressing rapidly. Miss Cornelia Lounsberry, a member of the faculty, is to coach the casts for the two sketches, and Harold Loizeaux has been appointed business manager. Tryouts for the two sketches, "Miss Civilization" and "The Mouse Trap," are now being held.

The Senior class will soon get busy preparing for the presentation of its annual play, which will be this year, it is expected, "The Taming of the Shrew."

Now that the debate between the Omega and Alpha Literary Societies is over, and the school debating team practically decided on, Professor Harold Biddle is going to start and get the team in shape for coming debates. The first one will come on March 3, when the team from South Side High School, of Newark, comes here under the league fostered by Rutgers College. On March 27 the team of East Orange High School will come here to debate, and on April 14 P. H. S. will take part in the Tri-Corner Debating League, with Battin High of Elizabeth, and Trenton High School. The students selected from the inter-society debate by the judges Friday include Richard Borden, William Badker, Dickerman William and Olive Lawrence.

"THE PRICE OF SIN."

"The Price of Sin" was the subject of the sermon preached by the Rev. C. S. Gillespie, at Grace M. E. church, last night. A thirty-minute song service preceded the sermon. Mr. Boyd was in charge of the choir of forty voices.

JOHN CALLAHAN TO SPEAK.

John Callahan, superintendent of Hadley Rescue Hall and chaplain of the Tombs, New York, will speak at Trinity Reformed church tonight under the auspices of the Dutch Arms. He will relate his experience in rescue mission work.

THREE INJURED IN AUTO CRASH

Robert Kraul, Fred Wagner and Walter Stryker Victims of Accident at Westfield.

MACHINE HITS A POLE

Kraul Sustains Fracture of Skull and His Condition is Serious—Others Escape With Minor Injuries—Car is Wrecked.

A report from Muhlenberg Hospital at noon today conveyed the information that Robert Kraul, twenty-five years old, of 602 Washington street, one of the two men injured in an automobile accident at Westfield yesterday morning at eleven o'clock, was still in a serious condition. He is conscious only part of the time and from present indications he is suffering from a fractured skull in addition to severe shock, bruises and lacerations of the face and head. Fred Wagner, also twenty-five years old and living at the same address, is the other victim. While not as badly injured as Kraul he was severely cut about the head and face and bruised over the entire body. Developments are being awatied in either case.

The accident happened on South avenue, near its junction with South Broad street and the car in which the men were riding in company with Walter Stryker, of the Stryker Garage, of East Fourth street, the owner, was completely demolished. It was an E. M. F. five passenger touring car which one of the men had practically purchased. Stryker took the two out yesterday morning for a demonstration. When nearing Westfield, Wagner, it is said, asked permission to try running the car and was at the wheel when the mishap took place.

In attempting to round the traffic pole which stands at the junction of South avenue and Broad street, the automobile skidded, fetching up against a pole on the side of the road. After the first impact it turned turtle, pinning Kraul underneath. He was released by Stryker and Wagner who were thrown some distance away. Kraul was unconscious when gotten out and remained that way until late yesterday afternoon, since which time he has been rallying occasionally. Stryker escaped with a few minor cuts due to the smashing of the windshield in his face.

Following first aid treatment secured in Westfield, Kraul and Wagner were hurried to Muhlenberg Hospital in another automobile. Both men have been in the city only a short time and have been boarding at the Washington street address.

DOLLAR DAY COMMITTEE BUSY ADVERTISING SALE

With a view to arousing interest in the suburban districts members of the Busines Men's Association's Prosperity Dollar Day committee spent part of yesterday and today in visiting the surrounding towns distributing handbills and displaying a large sign mounted on an automobile. The committee has been concentrating its efforts on the task of acquainting the suburbanites with the coming event and it is probable that the various schemes will result in an influx of outsiders next Tuesday, when the big bargain day will be held by local merchants.

The committee has attempted several novel schemes and nothing will be left undone in the work of advertising Plainfield's Prosperity Dollar Day. J. J. Varley is chairman of the committee, and he is being assisted by Samuel Rothberg, George Finger, Albert La Rock and A. E. Force.

ACTS AS HIS OWN LAWYER AND HAS NO ONE TO BLAME

Charles Tinsman, of Dunellen, acted as his own lawyer in the suit suit brought against him by Amos Stites to gain possession of a residence in Plainfield when the case was called in local district court this morning, and he has no one to blame but himself that the case was lost. Stites sough to have Tinsman ousted from the house, which is on West Front street, near Rock avenue, because his tenant refused to pay rent for the first month. Tinsman claimed that he took the rental of the house as a broker and then rented to himself, therefore he, the broker, was due a month's rental, which he gave to himself, as tenant. The verdict was against him.

CARNIVAL A SUCCESS.

A handsome sum was netted for the Belgian Relief Fund as a result of the skating carnival held on the South Plainfield pond, Monday night. The pond was illuminated with lights, and refreshments were served to the skaters. The Belgian Committee asknowldges, with thanks, donations from the following: Smith Brothers, Neuman Brothers, Marchant Brothers, Gavett, Smalley Brothers, and the American Sabbath Tract Society. The Edison Diamond Disc Company donated the music.

HALF CENTURY OF PROGRESS SHOWN

Pleasing Portrayal of "Girls of Yesterday and Today," Given by the Y. W. C. A.

ELABORATE COSTUMES

Each Period in Historical Drama is Faithfully Reproduced to Picture Advancement of Association Work in This Country.

"Girls of Yesterday and Today," the historical pageant given in the Plainfield High School Auditorium, last night, by the Young Women's Christian Association of this city as a part of their jubilee celebration attracted fully 1,200 members and friends of the association, who warmly applauded the pantomime presentations of the organization of the association in Boston on March 3, 1866, and the work as it developed during the fifty years of its existence in America.

The program opened with a prelude of piano airs of 1866 to give the atmosphere of the time. During this rendition the "Girl of 1866," portrayed by Miss Marguerite Ritchie, entered and soliloquized on the new and strange condition which women of that day were facing. She was gowned in a lavender silk dress cut with wide low neck and short puffed sleeves, the full "hoop skirt," trimmed with quantites of ruffles. Her hair was dressed in the Empress Eugenie style. Following her remarks, groups of girls illustrating the needs of the girls of that day crossed the stage in tableaux. The first group represented the girls looking for a place to live. They came slowly to the center and looked dazedly about as though uncertain as to where they should go.

Just as the first group retired there entered another group representing those who did piece work at home for tailoring and dressmaking establishments. Groups representing office workers and school teachers walked briskly across; a governess entered with a little girl of eight or ten years; and factory and mill workers hurried along, a number of them fatigued. As the pictures finished the "Girl of 1916" impersonated in the fashion of the present day by Miss Hazel Selby, entered and the "Girl of 1866" revealed in pantomime the beginnings of the association in America.

The first scene depicted a parlor furnished in the fashion of 1866, in which the first meeting was called for the formation of an association. After

COW CASE BEING HEARD HERE TODAY

Newark Dealers Seek to Collect on Note for Two Animals.

The suit of Rafael & Mobus, of Newark, dealers in live stock, against Frank Sikoro of Union county, was begun in local district court this morning. In September of last year Sikoro bought two cows from the Newark dealers, for which he agreed to pay $200. A part of the money was paid and he gave a note for $138, due in four months.

When the firm attempted to collect the note he refused to pay, declaring that the cows were not in good health when delivered. Both had cowpox, he says, and were otherwise bad. It was shown in court this morning that the State veterinarian had pronounced both cows healthy in August. The case will probably be decided late this afternoon. Attorney Francis J. Blatz represents the complainants.

DISCUSS COMING CONCERT.

The literature department of the Monday Afternoon Club had charge of the meeting held in the Parish House of the Congregational church Monday afternoon. Papers were read by Mrs. L. Best and Mrs. Wilbur H. Rogers on "Contemporaneous Russian Writers." Following the meeting a discussion was held of the concert which the club is to give on March 6, in the High School auditorium. All members were urged to attend as well as bring their friends. The concert will consist of selections by the stringed quartette of the Russian Symphony orchestra and Mme. Tina Dimitrieff.

The bride wore a gown of white satin with court train and veil. The gown was trimmed with pearls and orange blossoms and she wore rare old lace and a brooch which had been in the family for five generations. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies-of-the-valley.

The maid of honor, Miss Katherine Dolan, was gowned in ping charmouse with a picture hat to match. The bridesmaids, the Misses Nellie Carter, Lorena Harris, Marie Smith and Esther Thornton, were attired in shepherdess costumes of pink and blue, each carrying an ivory shepherdess crook with which they formed an archway, through which the bridal party passed. The flower girls, the little Misses Hazel Thornton and Agnes Whitley, both nieces of the bride, were dressed in pink and each carried a basket of sweet peas.

Charles Thornton, brother of the bride, acted as best man. The ushers were Elwood Johnson, William Thornton, James Gallagher and John Carter. WASHINGTON'S BIRTHDAY PROGRAM IS ENJOYED

A delightful program was arranged by the Community Center of the West End last night, in the Washington School, in observance of the birthday of Washington. The audience joined in general singing appropriate to the day, after which Miss Lillian Lamson, the local recreation supervisor, gave a number of impersonations of the characters in "The Fortune-Hunter."

Other numbers on the program included solos by Mrs. J. Edgar, piano solos by Miss Elsie Vail, lantern slides of popular songs, in which the entire gathering participated, and an address on "Community Center Work," by T. C. Vail.

GIRL GOES TO SHOW AND ALARMS FRIENDS

The attractions at local theatres proved irresistible to thirteen-year-old Annie Gordon Monday night. The girl, who lives in South Plainfield, came to town in the afternoon, expecting to return for supper. When she did not show up police headquarters was notified, and a search was made for her. While policemen were scanning faces on the street in the hope of finding one that answered the description of the missing girl, she was enjoying herself in a local theatre. In the afternoon she went to Proctor's, and in the evening she visited the Plainfield Theatre. She returned home shortly after 11 p. m., unaware of the excitement her theatre party had caused.

New Haven, Conn., Feb. 23.—An investigation to ascertain the cause of the train wreck near Milford, in which nine persons were killed and scores injured, was begun by the Connecticut public utilities commission.

Mr. Elwell said that he was confident of finding out the cause and whose was the responsibility despite the fact that the engineer, the fireman and the flagman, the persons most intimately connected with the collision, were killed.

The dead are:

A westbound local passenger train crashed into the rear of a westbound express stalled ahead of it, and the two trains, jumping from the rails, were sideswiped by a long freight train moving westward on the adjacent track.

MANY GUESTS ATTEND TRIPLE CELEBRATION

Wedding and Birthday Anniversaries and Announcement of Engagement Features.

The home of Mrs. C. Elizabeth Munoz, 110 East Fifth street, was the scene of a delightful gathering last night, which was in celebration of three events. The first was the thirty-fifth wedding anniversary of Mrs. Munoz' parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. M. Schorb, the second was the anniversary of Mrs. Schorb's birthday and the third the anniversary of George Washington's Birthday. During the evening further interest was lent to the occasion by the announcement of the engagement of Edwin M. Schorb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Schorb, to Miss Edith Oterbridge, of Bermuda. Miss Oterbridge is spending the winter in New York with her uncle, Dr. Oterbridge, but her permanent home is with her mother and sister, in Bermuda. Mr. Schorb is connected with the William Morrie Imbrie & Company, banking house in New York.

The triple celebration was attended by fifty friends of the Schorb family, many of them coming from distant points. The gathering included Herman Kellennich, recently of Germany; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cramer, of Cape May Court, Cape May County; Kenneth Lester, of New York, and Mrs. Lulu Higbie, of Newark, who was bridesmaid at the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Schorb. The ceremony took place in Rahway, Mrs. Schorb's maiden name being Miss Carrie Labaw Marsh. A number of those present last night were atendants at the wedding and there were others present from New York, Brooklyn, Newark and this city.

Dancing was one of the features of the gathering and one of the notable couples enjoying the pastime was Mr. Schorb and Mrs. Higbie, the bridegroom and bridesmaid of thirty-five years ago. An informal program of vocal and instrumental music was enjoyed throughout the hours. The color scheme in the decorations were the combination of red, white and blue, and this patriotic idea was carried to many novel ends. Flags and bunting were used extensively, the napkins were of the same hues as well as the wines used in the toasting. Both Mr. and Mrs. Schorb were heaped with congratulations and others were extended to Edwin Schorb and Miss Oterbridge.

Under the auspices of the W. C. T. U. a sale of home-made cakes will be held at the union's rooms on Madison avenue, Friday afternoon.

'PLAINS WANTS TO BECOME A BOROUGH

Men's Forum Will Discuss Its Advantages at Public Meeting on Sunday.

Agitation has started among the residents of Scotch Plains that may end in the passing of one of the oldest townships in the State. For some time discussion has been rife as to whether or not Scotch Plains would be benefited by being incorporated into a borough, and the matter has even been unofficially discussed by the township officials. The recently-organized Men's Forum has become interested, and it has been announced that a meeting will be held in the Scotch Plains Memorial Parish House, Sunday afternoon, when the topic under discussion will be "Borough Incorporation."

The news of the approaching meeting has spread rapidly and considerable interest is being shown. The various officials of the borough of Fanwood have been invited to attend and explain the workings of that town, and it would not be surprising to see something definite done by the township officials after they find how the voters stand on the subject.

With the Plains incorporated into a borough it would leave only what is known as the Willow Grove section in Fanwood Township outside. Originally the township embraced many square miles, but Westfield broke away and incorporated, and sections toward the mountains did likewise. Fanwood borough was the last to go, when it was incorporated in 1895, and in so doing it split the township in half, leaving Scotch Plains and Willow Grove separated.

F. B. SMITH WILL SPEAK AT THE Y. M. C. A. BANQUET

The Young Men's Christian Association has secured for the speaker at the forty-ninth annual banquet tomorrow evening, Fred B. Smith, of the H. W. Johns-Manville Company. For twenty-five years Mr. Smith was one of the leading men in Association work. As head of the religious work department of the international commitee, he was the chief promoter and executive secretary of the Men and Religion Forward Movment that swept the United States and Canada like a prairie fire of religious enthusiasm in 1912.

During that campaign Mr. Smith spoke to thousands of men in every part of North America. A little later, when the movement circled the globe, he addressed the largest audiences ever gathered together in Alexandria, Egypt; Calcutta and Bombay, India; Shanghai, China, and all the principal cities of Asia and Australasia.

BURNING CLOTHES CALL OUT FIRE DEPARTMENT

Burning clothing in a closet in the home of James Hansen, 255 Jackson avenue, called out the fire department shortly before 3 o'clock this morning. The blaze was quickly extinguished, and the damage was confined to the value of the articles in the closet. It is not known how the fire started.

CONDUCTOR SAYS THEY REFUSED TO PAY FARE

The cases of William Sheenan and Martin Dinburger, who were arrested Sunday evening at the corner of Watchung avenue and Fourth street, were not tried in police court this morning. The two men are charged with having refused to pay street car fare. Martin Moran asked that they be arrested. They insist that their fare was paid. The cases will be heard February 26.

"The Bracelet" and "The Red Lamp" Presented at the Park Club.

BOTH WELL RECEIVED

Cast in Each Production Displays Unusual Talent Under Coaching of Norman L. Swartout—Dancing is Enjoyed by Patrons.

Miss Elizabeth McGee, enacting the leading role in "The Bracelet," at the Park Club, Monday night, won much praise from the large audience which attended the two plays given by the Park Club Stock Company. Miss McGee has scored many former successes in private local theatricals but her clever portrayal of the wife of "Harvey Western"—one into which her own personality was entirely blended—was probably the best vehicle she has as yet appeared in locally.

"The Bracelet" was a one act comedy by Alfred Sutro and the situation showed a party about to leave the "Westerns" for the theatre when "Mrs. Western" (Miss Elizabeth McGee) misses a bracelet, a gift from her husband, "Harvey Western" (Alson M. Abbott). Search is made without avail. "Mrs Western," who appears to have an antipathy to "Miss Ferren (Mrs. D. C. Fenner), the governess, sends for her, and detects on her wrist what she thinks is the missing bracelet. The police are about to be summoned when the husband admits that he gave the bracelet, a duplicate of the one lost, to the girl. Alone with his wife, he tells her that as she has driven him out of her life, he had found some consolation in the friendship of the kind-hearted and sympathetic governess. As for the bracelet, he had purchased a second one because "Miss Ferren" had so much admired "Mrs. Western's."

At this point Miss Ferren returns ready to leave the house, and says she is about to go on the stage as her fiance had advised her. "Mrs Western" writes a cheque for the girl's wages and expresses a hope to her hubsand that their next governess would be as pretty. Mr. Abbott filled the part of the "lonely husband" with much credit, far eclipsing his former successes in this city. The remaining characters in the play were taken by the following: "Hon. Judge Harvey," D. C. Fenner; "Martin," E. M. Daniel, 2d; "William," T. Wardner Carpenter; "Mrs. Bankert," Miss Marie Salisbury;

The unmasking took place at midnight, when a sumptuous supper was served. Following the supper dancing was continued until 4 o'clock.

Halbfoerster's orchestra furnished the music for the occasion. The hall was attractively decorated with flags and bunting.

GERMANS HAVE SECRET WIRELESS

Several Stations Said to Be Located in Mountains of New England.

SEARCH IS STARTED

Two Miles of French Trenches and 3,000 Prisoners Taken Yesterday England Holds 730,000 Square Miles of German Territory.

Washington, Feb. 23.—Belief that one or possibly more secret German wireless stations are operating in the White Mountains in New England led the Navy department and the Department of Justice to begin a co-operative investigation. Officials, while admitting that the investigation was under way, declined to give details.

Berlin, Feb. 23.—Breaking through the French lines for nearly two miles, the German troops have taken 3,000 prisoners, the war office announced today. The point at which this latest German success was won was at Consenvoye, north of Verdun.

French Admit Losses.

Paris, Feb. 23.—The following official communique was issued by the French war office today:

"In the Artois district we recaptured some trench sections in the forest of Givenchy. In the region north of Verdun a bombardment by the enemy, energetically answered by us, continued during the night. Infantry engagements have developed on a front of altogether about fifteen kilometers. The conflict continues with violence on the right bank of the Meuse to southeast of Herbebois. We evacuated the village of Haumont of which we still hold the outskirts, after a bloody conflict in which our troops inflicted very heavy losses on the enemy. To east of that point a counter attack permitted us to recapture the greater part of Caures forest, located in the salient occupied by the enemy to north of Beaumont Meaum. A strong German attack launched against Herbebois was sharply checked by our curtains of fire."

Much German Territory Taken.

London, Feb 23.—A. Bonar Law, Colonial Secretary, announced in Parliament this afternoon that since the war began the Allies have captured 730,000 square miles of German territory in Africa.

Fierce Attack on Serbs.

MORE THAN ONE HUNDRED ENROLL IN WORKERS' CLASS

The class in personal evangelism, which started a week ago at the Y. M. C. A. with over fifty enrolled, met again Monday evening with more than twice that number present. Half the period was spent in a study of scriptural answers to the questions so often raised by the enquirer or the skeptic. Rev Dr. B. S. Hudson, in his lecture, explained that to accept Christ does not mean merely an acceptance of salvation and the prospect of Heaven, but he who accepts Christ must accept Jesus' program, His ideals and His point of view.

While this class is intended especially for those who are to act as ushers and personal workers in the coming Biederwolf campaign, and aims to prepare them for that work, it is open to all who are interested in this important phase of church work. Sessions will be held every Monday evening at the Association building until the campaign commences.

On Monday afternoon the committee that is arranging for the cottage prayer meetings that are to be held in connection with the revival, met at the campaign headquarters, with the chairman, Dr. Strong, presiding. The work of securing the superintendents for the several districts is nearly completed, and the prayer meetings will begin shortly.

DUNELLEN

All the Happenings of the Day in Plainfield's Hustling Suburb.

J. C. DORN WEDS MISS SCHNEIPER

Many Guests Witness Attractive Ceremony at Home of Bride's Sister.

Dunellen.....

An attractive wedding took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William G. Huenke, at Dunellen, at 7 o'clock last evening, when Mrs. Huenke's sister, Miss Isabella R. Schneiper was married to James C. Dorn, son of Mr. and Mrs. John C. Dorn, of Beechwood Heights. The ceremony was performed by the Rev. George Hauser, pastor of the German Reformed church of North Plainfield, in the presence of relatives and friends of the couple to the number of sixty-five from Philadelphia, Pa.; Peekskill, N. Y.; Westfield, Elizabeth, Bound Brook, Plainfield and this place.

The home was beautifully decorated for the occasion by Mrs. Letitia Clawson and Mrs. W. G. Huenke. The color scheme of the decorations was pink and white.

Mrs. Warren Root, of Elizabeth, accompanied by Miss Ethel Wendell, of Plainfield, at the piano, sang "Oh Promise Me," prior to the ceremony.

Miss Wendell played Mendelssohn's wedding march and the bridal party led by Julia D. Huenke, the niece of the bride, as flower girl, preceded down the front stairs and into the parlor, where they were met by the groom and his best man.

The bride was given in marriage by her brother-in law, William G. Huenke. The ceremony was performed under a canopy of pink crepe paper with pink and white streamers. The single ring ceremony was used.

The bride was attractive in a gown of white sprayed net with veil in cap effect to match. She carried a shower bouquet of white roses and lilies of the valley. Her only ornament was a gold lavaliere.

The maid of honor was Miss Mamie Wendell, of 998 Arlington avenue, Plainfield. She wore a gown of blue taffeta and carried a bouquet of white roses and pink carnations.

Julia Huenke, the little flower girl, wore a dres of white organdie with rose-bud trimmings and carried sweet peas. The best man was John Dorn, of Peekskill, N. Y., a brother of the groom. Henry Nelson, of this place, was usher.

Following the ceremony a wedding supper was served. The center piece of the table was a huge wedding cake. Later in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Dorn left midst a shower of rice. The supposition was that they were off on their honeymoon trip, but instead they went to 1022 West Front street, recently completely furnished, which is to be their home.

For the past eight years Mr. Dorn has been night station master at the Dunellen car-house of the Public Service Company. He is a member of the Junior Order of American Mechanics and of the Methodist church, of Bound Brook.

The bride and her mother, Mrs. Lissetta Schneiper, have been residents of this borough for the past four years, residing with Mr. and Mrs. William G. Huenke. Up to this month Mrs. Dorn was in the employ of the New York Telephone Company as an operator. She is a member of the German Reformed church of Plainfield and also of the Young People's Society of the church.

The couple received many valuable and useful presents. Mr. Dorn received a present of a handsome clock from the employes of the Public Service Company. Mrs. Dorn received a set of stirling silver spoons from the Plainfield telephone girls; a solid silver cream ladle from the Bound Brook telephone girls, and a fumed oak rocking chair from the Y. P. S. C. E. of the German Reformed church. Among other presents were a chest of silver, articles of cut glass and general household furnishings.

COASTING PARTY COMES TO GRIEF AT DUNELLEN

While coasting down the road leading from Washington Rock yesterday morning a party of four composed of former Mayor Harry Swackhamer, Wesley Hughes, Philip Huenke and Theodore Tinsman came to grief when their bob, owing to the speed it was making, was unable to take the sharp turn near the foot of the mountain and it shot across the thoroughfare toward a ditch six feet deep. Wesley Hughes, who was steering, was thrown head first in the ditch and the others landed on top of him.

Hughes' head struck a rock, inflicting a deep gash. Strange to relate, he was not rendered unconscious by the blow and he was able to get up. He complained of his stomach and he appeared altogether to be badly injured. He was taken to his home. Dr. Platt was summoned and after he had made a thorough examination of young Hughes said he thought he would be out inside of a week as there is no present indiciation of a fracture or of any internal injury. The other members of the party were able to proceed to their homes unassisted.

Not a Bite of Breakfast Until You Drink Water

Says a glass of hot water and phosphate prevents illness and keeps us fit.

Just as coal, when it burns, leaves material, which, if not completely behind a certain amount of incombusible material in the form of ashes, so the food and drink taken day after day leaves in the alimentary canal a certain amount of indigestible material, which, if not completely eliminated from the system each day, becomes food for the millions of bacteria which infest the bowels. From this mass of left-over waste, toxins and ptomaine-like poisons are formed and sucked into the blood.

Men and women who can't get feeling right must begin to take inside baths. Before eating breakfast each morning drink a glass of real hot water, with a teaspoonful of limestone phosphate in it to wash out of the thirty feet of bowels the previous day's accumulation of poisons and toxins and to keep the entire alimentary canal clean, pure and fresh.

Those who are subject to sick headache, colds, biliousness, constipation others who wake up with bad taste foul breath, backache, rheumatic stiffness, or have a sour, gassy stomach after meals, are urged to get a quarter pound of limestone phosphate from the drug store and begin practicing internal sanitation. This will cost very little, but is sufficient to make anyone an enthusiast on the subject.

Remember, inside bathing is more important than outside bathing, because the skin pores do not absorb impurities into the blood, causing poor health, while the bowl pores do. Just as soap and hot water cleanses sweetens and freshens the skin, so hot water and limestone phosphate act on the stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels.

Councilman A. I. Nichols is a leading factor in the forming of the organization

LONG ILLNESS FATAL TO FRANK SWEENEY

Popular Patrolman Succumbs After Months of Patient Suffering.

Following an illness which began in December, 1914, Frank Sweeney, one of the most popular patrolmen on the Plainfield police force, and greatly liked by his fellow officers and hundreds of local friends, died shortly beofre midnight last night, at his home, 503 East Seventh street. His ailment began with valvular heart trouble, but developed complications which at times confined him to his bed, but at others permitted him to get about for periods of a few weeks. During a portion of his illness he was under treatment in St. Luke's Hospital, New York, but the desired relief was not obtained. His case had practically been hopeless since the first of the present year, although every effort medical skill could devise was used to restore him to health. He bore his affliction with remarkable fortitude and patience, an dat no time did he make complaint.

Mr. Sweeney was born in Ireland thirtynine years ago, and came to America in 1900. He was an expert horseman and while employed by a large New York firm was met by former Mayor Charles J. Fisk. The latter induced the young expert to enter his employment, Mr. Fisk at the time having a large stable of thoroughbred animals. He came to Plainfield in 1902, and after serving five years with the former mayor, was appointed to the police force on February 25, 1907. He served faithfully with practically only three days' absence up to the time his illness began. He was what is known as "fair and square" in all his dealings, and his death has been received with deep regret by every member of the police department from the chief down to the newest patrolman. The man was always congenial and, with the wit that is characteristic of his native land, made friends with all with whom he came in contact.

Mr. Sweeney is survived by his wife and two children, Francis, aged seven, and Sarah, aged six. He was a member of Court Plainfield, No. 1144, I. O. F.; Plainfield Council, No. 310, Loyal Order of Moose, and the local Patrolmen's Benevolent Association. He was a communicant of St. Mary's churchfi and a requiem mass for the repose of his soul will be held there Friday morning. Burial is to be in Calvary cemetery, Brooklyn.

BIRTHDAY PARTY FOR I. L. M'VOY

Isaiah L. McVoy, of East Front street, a member of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., was given a pleasant surprise at the post rooms in Reform Hall, last night, in honor of his birthday. The affair was arranged by the Women's Relief Corps, and the members of the post assisted. The gathering was a large one and the informal program was thoroughly enjoyed, especially the consternation brought upon Comrade McVoy when he realized what "trap" he had gotten into by hurrying to atend what he had been told was to be an important meeting of the Grand Army men.

During the evening, Comrade McVoy was escorted to the platform by Mrs. Ida T. England, and afterward presented with a fine stickpin by her, on behalf of the corps. Comrade Edward E. Townley gave the guest of honor a box of cigars as a token from the post. These were afterward distributed by the recipient. When supper was served, a large birthday cake, a gift from the corps, in behalf of Mrs. McVoy, was cut by the president, Mrs. Townley, every one present deceiving a piece.

During the evening a number of piano selections were rendered by Miss Clara Barton Smith and solos were sung by the Misses Smith. Speeches were made by Commander William C. Smith, Mr. McVoy, Edward E. Townley, Chief T. O. Doane and other well known Grand Army men.

RESENTS USE OF ABUSIVE LANGUAGE AT BORO GAME

Gifford Jones and Donald Sminck appeared before Recorder Fred Hand in the borough court this morning, charged with disorderly conduct. The recorder, after giving them a good lecture, allowed them to go. The young men attended the basketball game between the Plainfield and North Plainfield high schools in Saengerbund Hall yesterday afternoon, where the trouble started

Jones was seated behind Sminck, rooting for the borough team and placed his megaphone close to Sminck's ear. The latter requested him to discontinue when Jones is said to have replied with abusive language. After the game the young men met and Sminck asked Jones to apologize for his conduct. He refused, whereupon Sminck knocked him down. Several bystanders jumped in and prevented further trouble.

AMATEURS IN CHARMING PLAY

"Smithers," Mrs. John J. Brewer.

"The Red Lamp," a farce in two acts by Hilliard Booth, proved equally as pleasing, the presentation abounding with surprises, and humorous incidents. A hungry tramp, "Bill Worth," impersonated by Hugh S. Jarvis, breaks into a house for food, and recognizes a lamp concerning which there is a superstition that it brings good luck when lighted. The son of the family, "Harold Deering" (J. Nelson Ramsey), befriends the tramp, who leaves on the approach of the head of the house—a strict maiden lady, "Matilda Deering" (Mrs. Alson M. Abbott,—the boy's aunt. The boy agrees to light the lamp after his aunt has gone as signal for the tramp to return. The daughter of the family "Alice Deering" (Miss Monica Sharretts) has already agreed to use the same signal to let her lover know that her aunt—who disapproves of the match—has left the house. The aunt herself lights the lamp as a signal to a neighbor to have tea ready. Ensuing complications are fast and furious; the unexpected occurring. When at last all ends happily, the result is attributed to the red lamp. Others appearing in the cast were "Archie Clark" (Harry L. McGee), "Alice Deering's" lover, and "Annie O'Shane" (Mrs. F. E. DuBois)' "Bill Worth's" lost sweetheart. Every member of the cast was accorded unstinted praise and responded to curtain calls a number of times. Mrs. Abbott, who has appeared in many plays of the Comedy Club, scored as usual, while Miss Monica Sharretts, "her niece," won everybody's heart by her delightfully breezy excuses from being obliged to visit with her aunt, pleading an excuse of a sick headache and by the ruse staying at home to meet her fiance. The plot is woven with the unexpected throughout.

Much of the credit for the excellent portrayals was due to the splendid drilling the cast received under the able direction of Norman Lee Swartout, of New York city.

Following the productions, the hall was cleared for dancing which was enjoyed until a late hour.

TO PROBE MILFORD WRECK

the engine on the local train caused the death of several. Of those injured eight are expected to die.

The wreckage spread over all four parallel tracks of the New Haven, and traffic was completely blocked for seven hours. All three of the men who would be able to fully explain the wreck were killed. They were the flagman of the stalled express train, who had started back to stop the oncoming local, and the engineer and fireman of the local train.

Block Signal Disregarded?

Some hours after the accident the block signals were found set to stop any train that might be approaching behind the express, but if they were so set, as they should have been when the local ran toward the express, the engineer of the local must have failed to obey them.

Officials of the New Haven road, C. C. Elwell of the Connecticut public utilities commission, and J. S. Hawley, inspector of the interstate commerce commission, held an inquiry in the New Haven office building, and one of the points they investigated was whether the signals had been set against the local. They also sought to learn just how many cars in the passenger trains were of wood and how many of steel.

The dispute is over the last car of the express, in which many persons were killed and injured. Officials of the railroad said that it was of steel, but many of those who visited the scene of the accident said it was wooden.

Flagman Is Killed.

The express train wrecked was No. 79, known as the Connecticut River special, and ran from points on the Boston and Maine, entering the New Haven tracks at Springfield, Mass. The train was made up of an engine, a combination car, three coaches and three Pullman cars. It left New Haven on schedule time and had run as far as Indian River when the airbrake hose broke between the locomotive and the head car.

The train was stopped and brakemen began to repair the hose. When the train stopped G. F. Tourtelette, the flagman, started running back up the track to signal the local train 5, from Boston, which left New Haven ten minutes behind the express. It was crowded with pleasure seekers going to Bridgeport and New York for Washington's birthday.

Slightly more than 600 feet behind the express train was a slight curve in the track, and as Tourtelette was about to enter this curve, running from the west, the local train shot around it from the east. According to the position in which his body was found and its condition, the authorities agreed that he was struck by the locomotive of the local train and instantly killed.

The flagman dead, the local train rushed on, driven by W. R. Curtis, its engineer, and Edward McGuiness, fireman. By the time the train had rounded the curve so that Curtis could see the express train it was too late for him to avoid the collision.

Boiler Blown Fifty Feet.

The speed of the local at the time has been estimated at forty miles an hour. Its momentum must have been great, for when the engine crashed into a Pullman car of the express both bodies rose from the tracks and then bulged outward against the freight train passing at the moment.

The freight was wrecked, but before it was stopped the cars of the passenger train swere dragged, overturned and telescoped until most of them were crushed into a mighty mass of splintered wood and twisted iron. The force of the collision caused the boiler of the locomotive on the local train to explode, and scalding water and steam were scattered in every direction. The boiler was torn from the base of the engine and hurled fifty feet into the air. Its great bulk sailed over the cars of the freight train, across the two tracks on the other side of it and landed fully 100 feet from the wreck.

WRECKS ON NEW HAVEN.

Milford Disaster First Under the Elliott Regime.

The wreck near Milford, Conn., was the first fatal accident of any proportions that has occurred on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad since Howard Elliott actually took up the reins of the presidency of the road after Charles S. Mellen's resignation became effective. The New Haven's last big wreck—the ramming of the Bar Harbor express by the White Mountain express between North Haven and Wallingford, Conn., on Sept. 2, 1913, when twenty-one were killed and more than forty were injured, took place an hour or so before Mr. Elliott assumed his new duties.

Including the Wallingford wreck, there had been fourteen serious smashups, derailments and other accidents on the New Haven in a little more than two years, in which seventy persons were killed and 281 were injured.

Less than two months after Mr. Elliott took charge the Gilt Edged express, bound for Boston, was thrown from the track by a broken rail one mile west of Westerly, R. I., and fifteen persons were hurt.

The Milford wreck was the sixteenth on the New Haven railroad since the wreck at Fairfield, Conn., on June 8, 1911, when four persons were killed. A freight train disregarded signals.

On July 12, 1911, the Federal express jumped a crossover at Bridgeport, Conn., going at high speed, and twelve were killed and 100 injured. Five cars went down a twenty foot embankment into the street.

On Aug. 28, 1911, the rails spread under a passenger train at Middletown, Conn., and sixty were injured.

Runaway freight cars struck a passenger train at Berlin Junction, Conn., on Oct. 15, 1911, and two were killed and five injured.

A passenger train ran into an open switch at high speed at Clinton, Mass., on June 11, 1912. Eight were hurt.

A passenger train collision, attributed to defective signals, caused the deaths of three and injuries to four at Stonington Junction, Conn., on July 15, 1912.

On Aug. 8, 1912, a passenger train jumped the track at Dorchester, Mass., killing five and injuring sixteen.

A passenger train was derailed on a defective track at South Boston, Mass., on Aug. 9, 1912, and seven were killed and forty hurt.

The Springfield express jumped a crossover at Westport, Conn., at high speed on Oct. 2, 1912, and nine were killed and fifty injured. The parlor cars caught fire, and several persons were burned to death.

The Merchants' Limited was wrecked by a split rail at Green's Farms, Conn., on Nov. 16, 1912. Thirty-three persons were hurt, steel cars preventing a repetition of the Westport disaster.

A rear end freight collision at Putnam, Conn., on Nov. 17, 1912, resulted in the death of one and injuries to two.

A passenger train rear end collision in a fog at Waterbury, Conn., on Washington's birthday, 1913, caused injuries to twenty-one.

Then came the New Haven's greatest wreck of all, which Mr. Elliott found on his hands the first day of his presidency, Sept. 2, 1913. It was the rear end collision between North Haven and Wallingford, and twenty-one were killed and forty were hurt. The White Mountain express, filled with returning vacationists, ripped its way through the two last cars of the Bar Harbor express. The collision happened an instant after the Bar Harbor express had stopped at a signal set against it. The engineer of the second train said that a fog prevented him from seeing the signal.

MARJORIE WRITES OF WASHINGTON

Editor, Plainfield Daily Press:

I am going to write this letter so you will get it on Washington's Birthday, for on this day all boys and girls will think about George Washington and remember that this is the country he loved, fought for and governed, and whose honor he put before everything else. I'll bet he never even asked what his salary would be when they asked him to be President. He just thought, 'Here's a chance to serve my country," and went at it.

Marjorie Sterrett.

I was reading about him a few days ago, and this is what I read: That he said, "In time of peace prepare for war." So you see he believed in preparedness, too.

Bt what I want to do is to thank you for putting my letter in the paper. That dime was like the wishing ring I read about, for dimes are flying from every direction. At first after I sent the letter I was a little scared, but now I am glad because I get so many glad letters from boys and girls all over the country and from grownups, too. They all like the idea, it makes the country seem more like our own country when we can do something our own very selves for it.

So many people ask me how I happened to think of the plan. I didn't have any really truly plan when I sent the money. Moving pictures helped, I guess, but what stirred my gumption most were the dozens of funds for Europe, and I thought, "I bet Europe wouldn't do that for us. So I guess we'll have to look out for ourselves and 'take our own part,' as Mr. Roosevelt says."

So I set the dime to The Tribune, and after I did it I was scared. I didn't tell mamma. I asked her how to spell preparedness, and then when papa came home I told him, and he said never mind, as he guessed they wouldn't care anyhow. Then when I got up in the morning and saw it on the first page of the paper, I don't know whether I was most scared or glad.

Then a reporter came out to see me. That time I knew I was just plain scared. But I'm not scared now and I'm awful glad I did it.

Last Monday I was invited to visit the Navy Yard to see the U. S. S. Washington, which has just came back from Hayti. I was taken all over everywhere except the coal bin and the crow's nest. I should like to have gone up in the crow's nest. Isn't that a funny name? I had a real adventure on board that ship. My papa's military cap that I was wearing blew overboard and the sailors rescued it with long poles. It was all squdgy, it was so soaked, but the officers had it put in over the ship's oven to dry it out.

The officers gave me some Hayti money and some pieces of coral and other trinkets, which I am going to keep to remember the U. S. S. Washington by. I felt oh, I can't tell you how I felt. It was wonderful! I wish every boy and girl could make a visit to a battleship. It makes your back feel creepy and tears come to your eyes and you feel as though you MUST do something for your country or bust.

I guess the flag made me feel like that. I love our flag and my papa told me that it isn't just a rag set upon a pole to look pretty—but it stands for something—it is the emblem of all true Americans who love home and liberty, and men, real men, should be glad to fight or die rather than see the flag dishonored.

Wasn't that a dandy letter Col. Roosevelt sent to me? I know he loves his grandchildren and would hate to see any of them killed in war. He wants the country prepared so that they won't have to suffer what the children in Europe are suffering. I hope he will come to the launching of the U. S. S. America and bring his grandchildren and the bulldog.

I sat up till 11 o'clock last night answering letters from the boys and girls who sent their dimes, but I'm afraid I'll never be able to answer them all. So the only thing I can do is to ask you to send each of them a button and thank them for me and invite them all to come to the launching. For we are going to have that ship.

We will show the world that the spirit of Washington still lives in the children of the United States, and a ship so armored with good wishes as the America will be cannot help being an able Defender.

Yours truly,
MARJORIE STERRETT.

WITH GRAND DUKE NICHOLAS IN ERZERUM, CZAR GETS CONTROL OF RICH COAL AND IRON MINES; VON DER GOLTZ LOSES PRESTIGE

London, Feb. 23.—(Special).—The fall of Erzerum not only makes the Russians masters of Armenia, with possession of the important coal mines of the Tortum district, and the iron and copper mines of the Erzerum section, but it opens the main roads into northern Asiatic Turkey. It probably will go far to isolate and threaten the important city of Trebizond.

Sea communication from Trebizond to Constantinople has long been cut off by the Russian command of the Black Sea. The only good road by land was by way of the old Persian caravan route to Erzerum and thence west again by the road to Erzinjian, Angora and Constantinople. The capture of Erzerum means that this route also is cut.

Three main roads, beside the Trebizond road, lead west from Erzerum—that to Erzinjian, thence to Angora and Constantinople; that to Kharput and thence to Aleppo, over the Taurus Mountains, and that to Musch and thence to Mosul. All three are now laid open to the Russian advance, provided, as the capture of Erzerum indicates, the Turkish army has been at the least demoralized.

Turk Resources in Russian Hands.

Control of Armenia itself, aside from the fact that it means the rescue of the remnants of its Christian population from the Turks, signifies the capture also from the Turks of the mineral and agricultural resources of the entire region, which are considerable. It is 700 miles from Erzerum to Constantinople, however, and the roads to Aleppo and Mosul lead through the wilds of the Taurus Mountains, and will not be easily cleared of even small hostile forces.

Little is known as to the condition in which the capture of Erzerum leaves the Turkish army in that region. It is probably in headlong flight to the westward. Field Marshal von der Goltz, the German commander in chief of the Turkish armies, is said to have lost greatly in prestige since the Erzerum defeat.

The Grand Duke Nicholas still has troops threatening the roads to Mosul and Bagdad through Persia, from Urumia and from Hamadan, further south, the latter forces having advanced nearly to Kermanshah. These forces, however, have been comparatively inactive for some weeks past.

Another uncertain detail of the history of the Asiatic campaign relates to the Turkish numbers both in the Caucasus and facing the British in Mesopotamia. There have been rumors of troops withdrawn from Europe to be sent east, passing through Constantinople, but whether these troops were bound for Kut-el-Amara or the Caucasus, is not known.

In Russian Hands Before.

Erzerum has been in Russian hands before. It was captured by General Paskevitch in the war of 1829, and given back to Turkey by the treaty of peace. It was after that time, however, that the forts which ultimately caused it to be regarded as impregnable, were erected. In the war of 1877, after the Turkish armies in the Caucasus had been defeated, Erzerum's forts held up the Russian advance for nearly four months, and were still untaken when the armistice was signed which led to the peace of San Stefano.

The armistice, however, was signed in midwinter, and by its terms the Russians were permitted to enter and winter in the town, surrendering it again in the spring of 1878.

Erzerum before the war was a city of about 43,000 people, of whom about 10,000 were Armenians. Its principal industry was leather work and the manufacture of Turkish saddles. The forts defending the town are built on a long high ridge, called the Deveboyun or Camel's Neck, a few miles east of the town, their flanks being guarded by the 10,000-foot mountain ranges on each side of the valley.

COUNTY COMMITTEES OUTLINE PROGRAM TO COVER STATE

Lucius T. Russell, of Elizabeth, president of the State Board of Taxes and Assessment and head of the State Association, presided.

The dates for the county committee meetings called for three a week on alternate nights until all the counties are covered. Following these meetings the organization of clubs will be taken up and other arrangements made for a vigorous campaign.

PLAINFIELD, NEW JERSEY, FEBRUARY 23, 1916.

A SERIOUS CHARGE, IF TRUE.

One of the lowest of the partisan political moves of the present Legislature is charged by the Newark News in the reception of the Pierce grade crossing bill that has been passed by the Senate and seems to have a good chance of passage in the House. The News, in its customary frank manner, charges that Republicans who voted for the measure did so to put the Democrats in the hole, and would deliberately throw the State into expensive litigation to gain a slight political advantage. There is still opportunity for the measure to be fully considered because it must be voted on in the House of Assembly and every member of that body should carefully probe the Republican support in order to determine whether or not it is sincerely and honestly given. The News says:

"Partisan politics alone was responsible for the passage of the Pierson grade crossings bill by the Senate, and the Republicans can force it through the Assembly by dictate of the party caucus if they so desire. If they do so, they will bring about a well-deserved veto from Governor Fielder.

"The Pierce bill was placed upon the statute books in 1912, but was expunged by order of the Supreme Court, because it had not been legally passed, and the next year the Fielder law took its place. That act is now in process of being tested in the courts, and the situation should not be further complicated by legislative interference. For that reason alone Governor Fielder ought to veto the Pierce bill in case it reaches him.

"Senator Pierce is honestly of the opinion that his proposal is better than the Fielder act, but it is more than a question whether his party colleagues agree with him. They are simply playing a game of politics to put the Democrats in a hole, if possible. It is all very well to say that the Pierce bill is a copy of the Connecticut statute that has been upheld by the United States Supreme Court and therefore cannot be contested by the railroads. But if the bill should become a law, there would be a contest just the same.

"The conditions as to grade crossings in New Jersey are entirely different from those existing in the Nutmeg State when the court of last resort declared the law constitutional. In fact, conditions there have made the law unworkable and have made its amendment necessary. The opportunity for appeal to the courts would be fully as wide open under such a law as in the case of the Fielder act, and lawyers realize this fact. The Connecticut decision was rendered nearly a quarter of a century ago, and the Supreme Court at Washington would be sure to take into consideration changed conditions and the particular results that would be accomplished by the operation of the Pierce plan.

"The one claim of Mr. Pierce and those supporting his bill is that there is delay under the Fielder act in bringing about the wiping out of death traps, and that this work could be begun immediately after the Pierce bill has been enacted into law. Yet under the circumstances there is as much possibility of delay owing to legal complications as has been the case under the Fielder law. Furthermore, it has been estimated that the Pierce plan, which calls for the annual abolition of one grade crossing for every forty miles of road operated in the State, would force the Public Utilities Commission to pass upon an average of one crossing elimination every five days. That this would be an impossible task without immensely increasing the employes and the expenses of the commission is evident.

"The Fielder act, though its operation has been checked by litigation, is practical. The Pierce plan is impractical, and it might take fully as long to test its effectiveness as in the case of the existing statute."

PUTTING PILGRIM IN BAD.

Speaker Pilgrim, of the House of the Assembly, will be "in bad" at home if he fails to pass the Newark "ripper" bill, he is telling members of the Lower House of the Legislature, in a desperate effort to secure enough votes for the passage of these infamous measures. There is little likelihood of any member of the House voting for the bills on this account. Through his associations with the Dal-Davy machine, Mr. Speaker Pilgrim is already "in bad" with most decent voters of the State and it appears that there are enough independent members of the legislative body over which he presides to put him "in bad" even at home. This is a sample of the politics that is being played in Trenton. Instead of urging the passage of the "ripper" bills on their merits, the speaker of the House sacrifices his dignity by button-holing members even of the opposition and begging them to vote for a pet measure that his political skin may be saved back home. He is afraid to let the "ripper" bills go to a vote. He knows that there are enough members of the House pledged against them to defeat the measures, and he seeks to break this independent alliance against the legislative "gang" by a personal appeal for political charity. Mr. Pilgrim cannot argue for his bills except that it would be embarrassing for him if they fail of passage and that alone is sufficient evidence of their lack of merit. A lot of other representatives are going to get "in bad" at home if they do vote for the "ripper" bills and they know it, so it looks as though Mr. Speaker Pilgrim is to be an unwelcome person when he goes back to Newark.

England has called her youth. Under the latest proclamation boys of eighteen are to be mustered in and soon they will be uniformed and armed and drilled to make food for German cannon "somewhere in France." The poverty of Europe after the war will not be a commercial one, although that will be great enough. It will be without men. Her commerce after peace must be carried on by crippled men; men without arms, without legs and men who are handicapped in every conceivable way. That Americans should fear competition from such a people sounds idiotic, but Europe will recover as quickly as this country did after the Civil War and already nature is showing her remarkable adaptibility by giving the warring countries more male babies.

Watchful waiting has resulted in the death of one hundred and twelve Americans in Mexico during the past three years and opponents of the Wilson administration are howling over this slaughter of our citizens. They have not stopped to think that 112 is a very small number of dead for a day's battle, even in a war as one-sided as between the United States and Mexico.

A Senate bill would abandon the Phillipinos to the tender mercies of self control. It is said that this country is bothered by its responsibility and that the natives have not learned the lesson of civilization fast enough. Which recalls the remark of the small boy on teaching tricks to the dog. "You've got to know more than the dog."

A Confederate veteran sent President Wilson a wooden sword. He probably meant no reflection on the present policy toward preparedness, however, and his gift should be accepted with good will.

On the Spur of the Moment

by Roy K. Moulton

Another Song.

I did not raise my boy to be a coward,
To bear with blood unstirred whate'er befalls,
To skulk, or shirk, or flinch in times untoward,
To stop his ears when need or honor calls.

I love him not? Ah, me; too well I love him
To have him live at ease, full fed and whole,
A recreant to the righteous God above him,
Traitor to his birthplace and his soul.

Stung.

The sneak thief took a desperate chance and yanked the handsome handbag from the lady's hand, as she entered the crowded street car. He had been watching that beautiful and expensive handbag for some time. As the woman screamed he jumped from the car and was quickly pursued by an ever-growing crowd, including three or four policemen. Faster and faster he ran, dodging around corners and doubling on his course until he finally evaded his pursuers. He sank down behind an ash barrel in an alley entirely exhausted. When he recovered his breath he began a careful invoice of the beautiful handbag. This is what he found:

One street car ticket, one powder puff, one sample of lace, one club program, one bottle smelling salts, one ad clipped from newspaper, one bunch of hairpins, one package of court plaster, one stick of chewing gum, one handkerchief, one door key, one safety pin, one letter from mail order house, one clipping concerning woman suffrage, one two-cent stamp, six calling cards, one memorandum book, one deck of playing cards, one lace collar, one belt, one large button, seventeen small buttons, one sample of sewing silk, one recipe for orange marmalade, one birthday book, one address book, Lillian Russell's beauty hints, two church social tickets, one slipper in need of mending, one package of tooth powder, six after-dinner mints, one silk stocking, one nail file, one package of flower seeds and one pocket comb.

Fred Keister Tells This One.

The preacher was a young man and nervous, but interesting. He was making an eloquent plea for the home life, and was descanting eloquently on the evils of the club, telling his congregation that married men in particular should spend their evenings at home with their wives and children. "Think, my hearers," said he, "of a poor neglected wife, all alone in the great, dreary house, rocking the cradle of her sleeping babe with one foot and wiping away the tears with the other."

From the Coopersville Observer.

Seth Razlow rushed into the Pumpkin Hill Postoffice the other day with blood in his eye, and everybody thought that he was going to wipe up the postmaster for some reason or other, but it was learned that he got a good lickin' from the Cumber Valley horse doctor and was only hunting a secluded spot to hide in.

Our constable, Mike Soakem, has posted up sign boards to notify the people of Pumpkin Hill and vicinity that the Pumpkin Hill jail will be closed all next week, as Mike will have to go to Turnip Ridge to cut up some cordwood. People who are planning a business or pleasure trip to the jail will kindly take notice of this.

THOSE FICKLE STYLES

- Proctor's Theatre -

The dramatic photoplay attraction at Proctor's today will attract film fans to that cozy playhouse from miles around, for it is no other than "The Serpent," in which Theda Bara, the greatest of all vampires, and without doubt the most popular of screen stars, will make her appearance. This is positively Miss Bara's greatest picture, and as such will draw tremendous crowds to Proctor's. "The Serpent" was directed by the master mind of Raoul A. Walsh, the same genius who directed "Carmen," in which Miss Bara made such a splendid triumph. This production will appear at Proctor's for two days, today and tomorrow, and patrons are requested to attend in the early afternoon or evening in order to secure choice seats. It is unnecessary to go into details regarding the story, for the statement that it is Miss Bara's greatest picture is sufficient for every film fan. On Friday, a treat is in store for admirers of one of the most popular young screen stars in filmdom, for on that day Pearl White, the heroine of many serial productions, will appear in that old stand-by of the American stage, "Hazel Kirke," a play that has appeared for years throughout this country. On Friday also, as an added attraction, the latest episode of "The Red Circle" will be shown, with Ruth Roland and Frank Mayo assuming the burden of thrilling and startling adventures. In addition, there will also be presented each day a pleasing program of comedy creations, including the world-famous Keystone comedy productions. The Keystone comedy the first half of this week introduces Harry Gribbon and Alice Davenport in "Perils in the Park." There is also introduced in addition to the photoplay program a delightful vaudeville entertainment consisting of acts of the most refined type. The management will present on Wednesday, March 1, and every Wednesday thereafter, the latest Pathe serial production entitled, "The Iron Claw," starring such noted screen artists as Miss Pearl White, one of the most popular heroines in filmdom; Creighton Hale, the popular "Jameson" of the "Exploits of Elaine" series, and Sheldon Lewis, the famous "Clutching Hand." There will also be presented in the near future as an added attraction the new Essanay serial, "The Strange Case of Mary Page." Be a home trade booster, visit Proctor's, and you will become a regular patron.

POLITICAL NOTES.

The boom for Francis V. Dobbins, of Rahway, as candidate for delegate to the Democratic National Convention to oppose former Congressman William E. Tuttle, evidently died a-borning. It was a fortnight or so ago that the report was first circulated that Dobbins would oppose Tuttle. Dobbins made a tacit admission of his candidacy when he promised to give out a statement concerning it, but up to the present time the statement has not been forthcoming.

There is little doubt but that H. Otto Wittpenn is strong in Elizabeth as a candidate for the Democratic Gubernatorial nomination, but he was not given a particularly flattering reception at the Hennessy dinner Thursday night. It was significant that Wittpenn, after his speech had been given, changed his seat so that he was next to Democratic State Committeeman Collins, where he remained the rest of the evening.

Edgar A. Knapp, president of the Elizabeth branch of the National Security League, and one of the original Bull Moosers, will probably be named as the delegate from the Fifth Congressional district to the National Progressive Convention to be held in Chicago on June 7. The Progressive convention for the selection of delegates will be held in Trenton on March 11, the party having failed to poll sufficient votes at the last election to be entitled to a primary of its own this year.

It seems more than likely that Colonel William B. Martin will enter the county clerkship race despite the continually growing opposition which has developed to his candidacy on the ground that his election would mean a retreat from an important trust accepted at the hands of the people. Colonel Martin has not yet made, however, any definite statement that he would make the run. There is a question whether or not Martin would be forced to give up his seat in the Excise Board if elected county clerk. At the present time there are officials who hold city and county positions, notably, Martin P. O'Connor, assistant prosecutor and school commissioner, and Neil McLeod, councilman and cashier in the county clerk's office. The law seems to be that two such positions can be held by one man only if they are not incompatible. The question is whether or not the office of county clerk is incompatible with the office of excise commissioner.

Edgard A. Knapp, for the Elizabeth branch of the National Security League, has forwarded to the three Assemblymen from Union county, William N. Runyon, Charles L. Morgan and Arthur N. Pierson, a letter urging the support of a bill introduced as Assembly bill No. 280, which provides for military training, nursing and domestic hygiene in the public schools.

Captain Robert J. Kirkland, former sheriff, who has been mentioned as a possible candidate for the nomination for county clerk, has made it known that he is not a candidate. He is engaged in the real estate and insurance business and will continue to devote all his time to that business. The captain is getting further away from politics every day and a fast-growing business gives him little opportunity for office-hunting.

The fight for the Republican nomination for Congress in the primary next September promises to be one of the hottest ever waged in Passaic county. At least six prominent citizens are to throw their hats into the ring, it is reported. Up to the present time, however, only two men have come out in the open and announced their intention of running. One is the present Congressman, Dow H. Drukker, and the other, John M. Ward, of Paterson. Robert D. Kent, of Passaic, president of the Merchants Bank, says that while he is not a candidate at this time he will run if the people at large in the county desire it. Mr. Kent is the treasurer of the New Jersey State Chamber of Commerce and a member of its board of trustees. He is deeply interested in the affairs of his city and county, and is a clean-cut, alert, intelligent man of affairs.

Daddy's Bedtime Story—

The Little Squeegee Introduced His Friends to Dick.

The Wazzle Recited His Poem.

"WHEN a little boy Dick went to Jeebooland, on the moon, with the Squeegee, and a mighty bass voice was heard just after they got there," daddy told his children, "the Squeegee listened, quiet as a mouse, for a minute and then began to caper about in the most excited manner.

"'What's that rumbling noise?' Dick asked him. 'It sounds just like thunder.'

"'It's the Wazzle reciting poetry to himself,' explained the Squeegee. 'He'll be here soon. I'll introduce you. He's a very fine poet, but he's not a bit stuck up. You'll find him a charming fellow to know.'

"'How do you do, frog?' asked a squeaky voice just behind Dick.

"'I'm not a frog!' shouted Dick. And, turning around, he saw the strangest looking creature you can possibly imagine. It had a wide, long head, something like a horse's; a body like a lizard's, with soft, restless paws growing out of it, like a frog's, and a tail as long as a monkey's. Upon this tail the Wazzle was sitting, with one paw hospitably held out to shake hands with the little stranger, Dick."

"Was Dick afraid?" asked Evelyn.

"Not a bit," cried daddy.

"'He's likely to have a fit or something,' the Squeegee whispered in Dick's ear. 'Then' aloud he said: 'Dick, this is my friend, the Wazzle. Wazzle, Dick.'

"'How do you do, me dear?' said the Wazzle very sweetly in spite of his looks. And he held out his big soft paw for Dick to shake again. When Dick took it his hand felt just the way it did one time when he picked a hole in one of his mamma's feather pillows and stuck his hand in.

"'I once was out a walking and saw a pussy cat,
I said, "Hello, dear pussy!" and gave her a nice pat.
But instead of being grateful and purring pleasantly
She took a pin out of her foot and stuck it into me.'"

The children laughed and laughed at this.

"The Wazzle recited his poem without so much as a smile, but Dick laughed till his sides ached, and the Squeegee grinned.

"Just then came a mighty crashing through the underbrush, and the Squeegee cried out: 'Here comes the Grink!' And if you are good children some night I will tell you about the Grink," daddy promised. "He is quite the most horrifying animal on the moon."

So the children slipped off to bed without teasing.

Marrying for Money

BY MRS. EVA LEONARD

Ortrude Townsend Tries to Make Her Indifference Look Respectable.

"Don't let father's illness keep you at home." Marian always said "father" when speaking to Ortrude, though she always called him Daddy. "I can do everything necessary, with Tupper to help me, and it would be a pity for you to lose your ride."

"Well, I really know nothing about nursing—"

"So we see," interrupted Marian. Ortrude flushed, and the girl continued: "As it is in great measure money matters that have worried him sick, the sight of your new silk kimona and real lace cap might not be very quieting."

"Daddy's not here to be hurt at my speech, so I may as well get it out of my system," thought the girl.

"I certainly would not want to be in the same room with so impudent a girl as you are." Ortrude's tone was low and even, but full of bitterness.

"It would make it rather conjested, I think myself. You——"

"Here comes Mrs. Morton. I'll go to the door." Marian hurried away.

Ortrude strangled her wrath at the girl and came forward with a smile to greet her neighbor.

"I was so sorry to learn from Olive that your husband was sick. I thought I would run over and see if there was anything I could do. Mother Morton is visiting me now, so I have someone to leave Hal with, if I could be of any assistance."

"Oh, there is nothing, thank you. There are more here now than can be used. Marian here was just urging me to go for a ride, as she wants the privilege of caring for her father." Ortrude was glad of a chance of drawing a cloak of a respectable excuse over leaving her husband when he was sick.

"Excuse me. I will go and see if Daddy wants anything." Marian was addressing Ortrude.

"I believe the child is jealous of any attention I pay my husband," said Ortrude after the girl had gone. Nell said nothing. "It keeps my conscience from bothering me when I do go away and leave him," continued the woman.

"Have you a troublesome conscience?" asked Nell, a little smile on her lips.

"It is rather elastic, but still I have one," returned Ortrude, regarding her keenly.

"Well, I must be going. I do hope Mr. Townsend is not going to be very sick. It is trying weather to have to lie in bed." Nell rose to go.

"The doctor assures us that a rest will put him on his feet again, and if Marian will give him a chance to sleep I am sure he will soon be out. Good morning."

"My! how those two love each other," thought Nell as she went down the walk.

"Is there anything I can do for you, J. C.?" asked Ortrude, entering the sick room on her way to the machine. "Anything I could get you to eat?"

"No, thank you; I think of nothing," answered Jacob.

"Now she's gone and we shall not be disturbed, I will read to you, unless you want to sleep." Marian drew her low chair up to the bed, and taking her father's hand in hers, smiled into his face.

"It will be very pleasant to hear you read. What shall it be?" Jacob patted the head lying near his hand.

"We never finished the book we were reading last May. Let's begin where we left off and pretend there has been no break." Marian did not see the pained expression that passed over her father's face. When she looked up for an answer he was smiling assent.

HANEL, ACCUSED SLAYER, JAILED

Denies He Murdered Mrs. Julia Heilner.

BUT ADMITS ROBBERY PLOT

Declares Woman Was Killed by a Confederate — Betrayed by Friend, He Says — Former Butler Suspected of Murder in Flatbush in April, 1915.

Baltimore, Feb. 23.—Joseph E. Hanel, accused of robbing and murdering Mrs. Julia Heilner in her home at Flatbush, Brooklyn, on April 23, 1915, is under arrest.

The arrest was brought about by Fritz Schmidt, who knew Hanel in New York.

Hanel, the police say, confessed the robbery, but denied the murder, which he charged to his confederate. Hanel smoked almost incessantly and swayed back and forth when telling of the robbery and murder.

"My name is Joseph E. Hanel, and I am known also as Joseph Harwick and Joseph B. Pettus," his story ran, as the police repeated it. "Until April 23, 1915, I was employed as a butler in the home of Mrs. Julia Heilner in Brooklyn. Before accepting that position I had been living in a lodging house in New York, known as the Seamen's mission.

Took Butler's Place.

"There I met ——", the police would not make public the name of Hanel's accomplice "who told me he had obtained a position as a butler in the home of Mrs. Heilner, but was not going to accept it. 'Here are my clothes; you take the job,' he told me. I did so, and afterward we planned the robbery of the house.

"We met several times during the month of my service there, and always discussed the plans for the robbery. Finally it was decided that on the next day the maid was off I was to call my pal and he was to come out to see me. We were then to rob the place.

"On April 23, 1915, the maid took a day off. When she had gone I phoned my pal, and he hurried to the house. I opened the door and let him in. Then I told him to hide in the pantry while I went upstairs on the pretense of making beds, but really to rob the house.

"While I was upstairs making the beds he called to me, 'Joe, it's all right,' this being the signal that everything was O. K. I placed all the jewelry in a pasteboard box and came downstairs.

"We separated on the pavement in front of the house and met again at the corner saloon. There my pal told me Mrs. Heilner had come downstairs and he'd killed her. When he told me this we decided to leave town at once. He did not tell me the details of the murder, but the next day I read them in the papers. We went to New York and from there to Philadelphia.

"The following day we pawned the jewelry in that city. I can't remember the name I used at the pawnshop. I admit that I planned the robbery and really did it, but I had absolutely nothing to do with the murder of the woman. The first I knew of it was when my pal told me. The murder of Mrs. Heilner had never entered into the plans and had never come up for discussion during the arrangements for the robbery."

Looking at the subject of prohibition as a cold business proposition, W. J. Pierpont, the mayor of Savannah, Georgia, in speaking on "The Economic Features of the Race Problem in the Southern States," at the annual convention of the mayors of the southeastern states, said:

"I will admit that there is an honest difference of opinion as to the liquor traffic being a legitimate business; it is made a source of revenue for the city and this reconciles many who otherwise would be opposed to the saloon. A large contingent of our citizens see nothing but debauchery and evil in the trade. I shall consider it as it affects the efficiency of our laborers—as a cold business proposition, and from a purely commercial standpoint. I am an employer of such labor and my opinions are based on close observation and experience.

"There are exceptions, but as a rule it is hard for the colored laborer with a week's earnings in his pockets to resist the 'open door' of the saloon. A good part of his money goes for temporary pleasure. The immediate effect is bad and, having squandered his money for drink, he cannot obtain proper food and his efficiency as a workman is depreciated. He is fortified for the commission of crime and is liable to get into the toils of the law.

"The United States Government

"The United States government found it necessary to enact the most drastic laws to prevent the sale or the giving of alcoholic drinks to the Indians. This once robust people had become diseased and degraded by the drink habit, and was fast becoming exterminated when the government interfered to save the wreck. Similar laws are now being enacted to protect the natives of the Philippine Islands. Alcoholic drinks are no less dangerous for the negro of the South. The records show that more than seventy-five per cent of the expense of courts and police departments is chargeable to this cause."

It is no indictment of prohibition but rather an added reason for the enactment of such laws that a number of persons in the new prohibition states have died from heavy drinking since the first of the year. There were seven such deaths in the state of Washington. These seven were derelicts from the use of liquor, and four of them, failing to secure their usual stimulant, resorted to the use of clear alcohol and died from the use of the poisonous fluid. The other three deaths in Washington, and probably many in other states, can be explained by the fact that at the end of the year the temptation for drinkers to stock up for the dry spell ahead was very great and led to unusually heavy drinking while the supply lasted. Not for an instant can prohibition be blamed for these sad occurrences. Let us rather use our influence to enact laws to protect this and future generations from alcohol, the poison which has power to so undermine the will as to allow such tragic outcome.

The Southern Pacific is squarely face to face with the prohibition question in California. The territory through which it operates is so largely dry that in the run from Sacramento to Portland or Seattle the train is in wet territory for only four or five hours, and from Davis to Seattle it is dry all the way. In the southern part of the state the situation is practically the same. Thus in going the whole 3,000 miles of the railroad it is reported that a train is only in wet territory for seven or eight hours. In a meeting of the directors of the road in New York recently the question was discussed, and it was practically decided that should the prohibition measures carry at the fall election, the sale of drinks on all trains shall be discontinued at the end of the year.

Resolutions recommending that ministers, when placing advertisements of religious services, use only those newspapers which refuse liquor advertisements, were recently adopted at the weekly meeting of the Presbyterian ministers of Philadelphia. These resolutions will also be presented to other ministerial bodies of the city for adoption by them.

Two hundred and fifty churches of Wayne county, Michigan, will display flaring temperance posters in black and red as a part of the campaign to make the county dry. The posters in front of the metropolitan churches of Detroit will be illuminated until 10:30 at night. These posters will be supplemented later in the year, as the election approaches, by local bulletins showing the number of arrests and convictions for drunkenness and crime in the city and county under a wet administration.

The year nineteen hundred sixteen has witnessed a falling off of 1,511 in the number of saloons in Missouri, says a paper of that state. It still has 7,299 saloons, located chiefly in St. Louis, Kansas City, St. Joseph, Joplin, Carthage, Moberly, Hannibal, Sedalia, Springfield, Jefferson City, St. Charles, Cape Girardeau and a few other license towns.

New Jersey temperance men, 6,000 strong, under the leadership of Billy Sunday, visited the state house in Trenton on February 2, in the interval between the morning and afternoon evangelistic meetings at the tabernacle, and took part in the greatest temperance demonstration which has ever occurred in New Jersey's capital city. Special trains on the Pennsylvania brought dry delegations from Atlantic City, Camden, Newark, Jersey City, Long Branch and intermediate points, while special cars brought local optionists from the other parts of the state.

TIES IN EVERY GUN CLUB EVENT

Season's Largest Field at Log Cabin Traps Makes Many Shoot-offs Needed.

FEATURE IS EXCITING

Two Shoot-Offs Necessary in Holiday Cup Competition, Samuel Huntington Winning—Fisk, Crary and Honeyman Also Lift Trophies.

Ties resulted in every event on the holiday program of the Log Cabin Gun Club yesterday, being caused by the size of the field, which was the largest of the season. Seven shooters scored 25 in the Holiday Cup final, and in the first elimination round three again totaled 25. One qualifying round was shot off on each holiday during the season.

A triple tie resulted for the R. F. R. Huntsman Cup, Fisk winning the shoot-off by one point over Anderson. Crafy and Tingley locked for the Take Home Cup, the Cranford man winning the trophy. Honeyman and Weems shot off for the S. U. Patterson Cup, in the Quail shoot.

Neither Team Shows in Best Form—Winners Average 900, and Losers 835.2—Vail Rolls 208 and 213, and Kiely 214.

Bowlers of the Elks' Club won all three games from the Park Club pinners, on the Elks' Club alleys last evening, giving the Watchung avenue club the annual home-and-home series, four games to two. The winners averaged 900, and the losers 835.2.

The Antlers furnished their opponents plenty of opportunity to win the first two games, the home team being forty to fifty pins below form in these two tilts, with totals of 880 and 885. With the series a tie going in the last game, the Elks soared to 935. The losers' scores were 943, 803 and 861.

The Parks led nearly all the way in the first game. They were 29 pins ahead in the third and 47 going into the fifth. Holes in the eighth, ninth and tenth stopped them, the Elks having a clean frame in the tenth, Vail finishing with four wallops for a score of 208. Kiely was steady all the way, and rolled 191, splits bothering Causbrook and Barlow.

The Elks were never headed in the second fight. Causbrook's work was the best in this game. Waldorf ended with a triple. Both sides set a fast pace in the final, the Elks being only four pins ahead in the sixth. Vail wound up with four strikes and a score of 213, Kiely having five strikes and a tally of 214.

BASEBALL NOTES

Manager John McGraw has secured Joe Rodriguez, a Cuban, for the purpose of playing first base for the Giants. McGraw and Rodriguez are now on their way to Marlin from Cuba.

The Chicago Cubs are dickering for the services of Gene Packard, labeled a safe and sane southpaw, who was with the Kanfeds last season. Harry F. Sinclair holds Packard's contract.

Toronto may land Jack Murray, formerly of the Giants. The red-haired outfielder has been offered a job by Joe Birmingham.

Charlie Ebbets intends to present his famous $71,000 claim against the Newark Indians to the National Commission, when that body meets Monday in New York.

Jim O'Rourke, president of the old Eastern Association, has decided to withdraw his appeal from the decision of the National Board of Arbitration, permitting the merger of five Eastern Association teams and five New England League clubs.

It is planned to make a small assessment upon the owners of the clubs in the defunct Federal League when the final meeting of the Gilmore organization is held Saturday in New York.

Bill Donovan and his squad of Yankees started training for the 1916 season in Macon, Ga., yesterday. Bill expects to have thirty-five or forty diamond performers on hand in another week.

Stanley Baumgartner, the young southpaw from the shore of Lake Michigan, has signed a contract with the Phillies. The Chicago lad is now eligible to leave with the Phillies, March 3, for the camp at St Petersburg, Fla.

Eppa Rixley, a member of the hurling staff of the Phillies, is teaching at Episcopal High School, Alexandria, Va., and has refused to sign with the National League champions. Rixey wants to coach the baseball team of the school, instead of going to the Florida camp.

SPORT NOTES

Out in Pittsburg, they have the most enthusiastic Stove League in the country. The baseball "nuts" have gone so far as to name an annual holiday in honor of their old hero, Honus. That anniversary, which will be observed while the Stove League lasts, falls on Wagner's birthday, February 24. And you can believe there is something doing tomorrow in Pittsburg.

John Henry was the handle tacked onto the great shortstop, but as Honus he will be known to baseball fans. And it looks as if he will hold his title as the most valuable ball-player that ever lived. The lanky, bow-legged Dutchman has completed twenty-five years in the game, and he is as frisky as ever before and as anxious as a rookie to get to those training grounds.

The exact age of Honus Wagner is 42 years. That's not old in the ordinary professions, in fact, quite a youthful age. But in baseball it is beyond the retiring age, for the game calls for the speed and intense vigor of youth. The public will have speed, and no laggards. Now Honus has defied old Father Time. His muscles are as flexible as a schoolboy's. That eagle eye works in the same old way at field and at bat. And so he is a fixture in baseball.

The settlement of the row over Home Run Baker brings back this season one of the shining lights of baseball. Baker was missed last season, not so much by Connie Mack and the Athletics, as by the fans who love a free clouter. Baker has an unusual record. He never starred in the field, and brilliant plays were not expected from his corner of the diamond. But for five successive years he drove in more runs than any other player in the American League.

Alfred De Oro is still the busiest of billiard champions, despite his years. The Cuban will tackle anything at any time. Today he defends his three-cushion title against Chas. Ellis, the Philadelphia challenger, at the Quaker City. Ellis won the championship of the Interstate League last year, and is leading in the tournament this year.

The Great Western trotting circuit has set its dates. The horses will show their first speed on July 17 at North Randall, O., and the final week begins October 30 at Phoenix, Ariz. Detroit and North Randall have put up purses of $32,000 each, and the purses will figure over a quarter-of-a-million dollars.

The split in the amateur baseball organization, which occurred at the Louisville meeting, has resulted in the formation of a strong new body, known as the National Amateur Baseball Federation. A set of by-laws is being drafted and the new organization of amateur clubs will be perfect-

P. H. S. KEEPS TITLE, THRILLING RUBBER BEING WON BY TWO POINTS

Opportunity to Tie Score After Time Expires Missed by Townley—Great Guarding Marks Contest—Winners Use Kyle and McDowell in Forwards—Whole Affair Parallel of 1913 History.

Plainfield High School retained the interscholastic championship of the city yesterday afternoon in Saengerbund Hall, winning the rubber game of the series with North Plainfield High School, whom they defeated, 24 to 22, in a nerve-racking contest.

The five hundred and fifty spectators were gripped by the intense excitement which prevailed, the contest not being decided until after the whistle blew, the borough team having an opportunity to tie the score.

Wonderful guarding was the keynote to the success of the city team. The P. H. S. guards, Captain Whelan and Herb Peacock, played the game of their lives, covering the borough forwards in a manner which gave them very little opportunity to shoot.

Coach Patch had a new combination of forwards McDowell and Kyle, but he could not have produced another pair that would have furthered the interests of the Red and Blue to any more advantage. Playing like veterans, this duo worked in perfect harmony, each being responsible for three field goals, a fine collection considering the manner in which both contingents guarded.

A peculiar coincidence arises from the fact that three years ago the same procedure took place. After winning the second game in Saengerbund Hall, N. P. H. S. tied the series and also won the toss, selecting their home court. Plainfield High School won the series by a two-point margin. George Townley was then captain of the borough forces, while his brother, Warren, is leader of the present team. The same happenings of three years ago were identified to those of the present series, the borough boys winning the toss and losing on their own court by two points.

Good teamwork was impossible yesterday, due to the crowd surging under the basket. Neither side was able to run off a signal play from center, both pivot men jumping practically the same, while close guarding also prevented the execution of these plays. In the first period, after trailing by two or three points, the boroughites made a rally which carried them to the fore, the score ending 13-12 in their favor, the same as in the last game. Three field goals were tallied by each side, Kyle dropping two and McDowell one for P. H. S., while Kirch, at guard, shot two pretty goals from the center of the floor, while Townley accounted for the other two points. McDowell contributed six fouls to the score, while his opponent added one more.

The last section commenced with a rush, Kyle putting his team ahead by another field goal. A number of fouls were called, and most of them converted into points by the battling teams. With eight minutes to play the P. H. S. five started a rally, a lead of six points being accumulated, due to two field goals and a like number of fouls. This advantage looked stupendous, but slowly the homesters began to cut it down, point by point, until slightly more than a minute remained. The North Plainfielders were fighting desperately, the ten players being amassed under the borough goal, while the ball was being thrown basketward repeatedly, but could not be made to lodge through the rim for a goal, which would have tied the score. As time was called a foul for charging was called on P. H. S., two attempts from the foul line being given to N. P. H. S. Townley missed the first, thus ending one of the most thrilling games played by the two schools.

Although North Plainfield went down to defeat, it was a glorious defeat, with no disgrace attached to it. The Plainfield High School players merit all the praise forthcoming, and will receive medals for the fruits of their labor.

Half-Price Closing Days in The February Furniture Sale

According to custom, during the last days of the month we offer at exactly half price—

—single pieces left from "broken" sets,

—single sets without stock back of them,

—pieces that cannot be duplicated or will not be re-ordered for regular stock,

—pieces that show any sign of handling,

All At Half the Normal Price

With fair notice we opened the February Sale with four preliminary "days of courtesy," offering advance selection from the fully assorted complete February stocks.

With fair notice we now close the February Sale with five "half-price days;" offering extraordinarily low prices on same lots of the specially bought February furniture and odd pieces not to be carried in our regular stocks.

There are hundreds of these half price pieces.

Most of them are arranged in front of the elevators on the fifth, sixth and seventh galleries where they may be quickly found.

All kinds of furniture are included. For all rooms.

Fair Warning!

The February Sale itself closes with February—a short month although Leap Year gives us an extra day this year.

With February will go not only all the half-price furniture but also the February prices on all our furniture, regular stocks included—these prices being 10 to 50 per cent below normal. Prices to stay gone until our August Sale and probably not return even then because furniture costs are rising fast and must sooner or later show even here.

STATE SUFFRAGISTS TO HOLD CONFERENCE

Mrs. Stanley McCormick Will Outline National Association's Policy.

The New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association will hold an important conference on Congressional work, for members of its branches throughout the State, from 2 to 4 o'clock on Friday afternoon, in the parlors of the Young Women's Christian Association, Newark. The principal speaker will be Mrs. Stanley McCormick, of New York, second vice-president of the National Suffrage Association, who will outline the National Association's policy in pushing the passage of the Sutherland-Mondell amendment to the Federal Constitution by the present session of Congress, and suggest the most effective ways in which the New Jersey suffragists may assist with this work.

At its recent state convention in Elizabeth, the New Jersey Woman Suffrage Association voted to co-operate only with the National Suffrage Association's Congressional Committee in work for the Federal amendment. Mr. Frank M. Roessing, ex-president of the Pennsylvania Suffrage Association, is chairman of this committee, and among its vice-chairmen are Miss Mary Garret Hay, of New York, and Mrs. Antoinette Funk, of Chicago. All these women are well-known in New Jersey as leaders of force and of great political sagacity.

Commenting upon the work of Mrs. Roessing's committee the other day, Congressman Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming, the sponsor of the so-called Susan B. Anthony amendment for equal suffrage, said, "This Committee has adopted a far-seeing, constructive and praiseworthy policy. It has grasped a vital point in the suffrage movement that has been to some extent overlooked—that is, that the adoption by Congress of a constitutional amendment for woman suffrage does not confer the vote upon women. It merely opens the way for state action. Until three-fourths of the states provide by state legislative action for the approval of a federal constitutional amendment, it lies dormant. It can readily be seen that the development and encouragement of suffrage sentiment in the states, such as the plans of the National Association contemplate and effect, is of tremendous importance."

New Jersey is expected to be present. This meeting will be open to all members of the Association and its branches.

HALF CENTURY OF PROGRESS

much discussion, and the sight of girls in real need, they are aroused to action, and in spite of all difficulties which confronted them they sign a paper committing them to follow on in the great work. As the scene finishes, the "Girl of 1866" rises and says, "It gives me great joy to ponder over this and over the ever-growing company of young women of varying walks in life, to whom through the years, the Young Women's Christian Association may be a friend."

During scene 2, the procession of the years were shown, groups of girls coming up from the audience and crossing the stage. Each group fashioned in costume appropriate to the year it represented. In scene 3, the "Girl of 1916" turned to the "Girl of 1866" and said in part, "You have let me see pictures of the past, and have made me appreciate as I never did before how much we owe to it. Our association cannot be just what it was in your time, but we try to hold fast to the same high ideal as yours. Let me show you in the House of Friendliness some of the girls who are in the association today." Then followed pictures of the life of the association as it is today, an association which embraces not only American but practically every other country in the world.

The young women who took part in the various presentations were the following: Misses Marguerite Ritchie, Hazel Selby, Marguerite Ewart, Mildred Brown, Kathleen Finckle, Marian Reed, Doris McCarrick, Marian Doughty, Estelle Homann, Ellen Doughty, May Heidt, Miss Sedlacek, Ruth Wean, Clara Bush, Mary Mair, Ruth Martin, Mildred Caleen, Dorothy Auten, Ethel Blazier, Cornelia Christofferson, Emily Coriell, Marian Englehart, Anne Smith, Clara Hollard, Virginia Sminck, Nettie Steiner, Mabel Townley, Emily Pleydell, Beatrice Gardner, Aline Chandler, Myrtie Feddermann, Alma Fisher, Henrietta Englehart, Marion Every, May Doughty, Mary Heideloff, Florence Hicks, Alice Hicks, Evelyn Tennyson, Eleanor Sminck, Miss Dallas, Miss Chipman, Dora Soetzen, Mrs Palmer, Gertrude Mair, Ella Coddington, Corrine Tennyson, Flora Krausse, Georgia Ricker, D. CALVIN DEMAREST, FORMER BILLIARD CHAMPION, DEAD

Chicago, Feb. 23.—News that Calvin S. Demarest, old-time billiard champion, is dead, was made public today. The one-time great artist died Monday night in the hospital for the insane at Elgin, Ill. He was a victim of paresis. Demarest was national amateur champion in 1907 and 1908, and in May, 1908, won the international tournament in New York.

As the Willard-Moran bout draws near, it looks more and more like a millionaire's mill. The prices, ranging up to a hundred a seat, might be reasonable for a twenty-round match or a finish match. But with two husky mittmen, both slow and cautious, it would seem ten rounds is awfully short time for them to show anything of value for the big wad.

EVEN SEVEN-FOOTER CAN'T STOP LOCALS

Athenians Spank Patersons, 39-19—Seconds Win by the Same Score.

The Athenians stuck another feather in their cap last night, when they outpointed the Royal A. S., of Paterson, 37 to 19, on the Plainfield High School court. A crowd of 150 was present. The Athenian second team walloped the Plainfield Juniors, 37 to 19.

Sessons, who played center for the visitors, was seven feet tall. He jumped the ball in the basket on two occasions, but at times Bill Daniels, the locals' pivot, outjumped the lanky Paterson man.

The only weak part of the Athenian's exhibition was their foul shooting, their team work being high class.

RUTGERS, THOUGH BEATEN, REMAINS P. H. S. FAVORITE

Rutgers tasted defeat Monday afternoon for the second time in the P. H. S. College League, Columbia turning the trick by a 14 to 10 score, and as a result the race is narrowing down as it is drawing to a close. With but one more game to play in the league, Rutgers can lose that one and still remain tied for first place; but as Cornell and Yale, who are tied for second place, will both have to win their two games apiece, it looks like a cinch for Rutgers, especially as one of the tilts will be between the two teams.

WHITLOCK SLATED FOR WAR PORTFOLIO

May Succeed Garrison, Is London Report.

London, Feb. 23.—It is reported here that Brand Whitlock, American minister to Belgium, is under consideration for a post in President Wilson's cabinet and that the president after consultation with his advisers at home and abroad may even offer the succession to Lindley M. Garrison as secretary of war to the minister.

Such a selection as the latter, it is believed here, would cause a sensation from the point of view of international politics. Mr. Whitlock's name in certain ways has come to be identified with the spirit of opposition to Prussian militarism despite the fact that the "correctness" of his diplomatic conduct has been beyond criticism.

The Belgian government the government of King Albert on several occasions has shown marked appreciation of Minister Whitlock's decision to remain in Brussels, although a majority of the diplomatic corps followed the Belgian ministry to Havre. His work during the German occupation was invaluable from the viewpoint of the entente powers.

Do You Want a "Guest-Tenant?"

When you rent a room of your home to someone, you secure a "guest-tenant." Your "roomer" is a guest of your house, on a business basis—but still a guest, somewhat in touch with your home, and this makes it highly important that the person should be of the right sort.

"JIT" OWNER IS KILLED BY CAR

Falls Off Runboard and Is Crushed to Death.

ACCIDENT IS NOT NOTICED

Driver Said to Have Been on Wrong Side of Street and Is Arrested—Attempted to Pass Trolley Car by Going to Left—Dragged Nearly Half Block.

Newark, Feb 23.—One week ago John Gruick, a baker, invested his life savings in a jitney. While acting as conductor of the vehicle he was either knocked off or jolted off the running board, rolling under the rear wheels of a trolley car, meeting death almost instantly.

There were fifteen passengers in the jitney, but the police were not able to learn whether Gruick was swept from the step by contact with the side of the car or was jolted off as the driver swung the machine to the left. The passengers do not know that the man rolled directly under the wheels, was wedged beneath the rear truck and dragged half a block, his body being freed only after the car was jacked up by a wrecking crew.

Gruick was thirty-two years old and is survived by his wife and a seven-year-old daughter.

William Straitman, the bus driver, who is twenty-three years old and lives at 56 Charlton street, was arrested by Sergeant Kult and Patrolman McConnell. It is believed he will be charged with a violation of the traffic ordinance.

The crew of the trolley car did not know that a man was under the wheels, and it was only the screams of the jitney passengers and of pedestrians that halted the vehicle. So far as has been learned by the police, Gruick was on the running board of the bus, on the side nearest the curb, when Straitman attempted to pass the slow moving trolley car.

It was some time before the wrecking crew arrived, and in the meantime a number of women passengers of the jitney became hysterical. Frederick Littlefield, motorman of the car, and John Bevans, conductor, were not detained. The trolley company will produce them if they are wanted.

This is the second recent jitney and trolley car accident which has been caused by a jitney attempting to pass a car on the wrong side. A few days ago a jitney carrying fifteen passengers swung into the side of a trolley car at Clinton and Hillside avenues, resulting in the injury of four jitney passengers. The driver, Charles Ogden, will be arraigned on a charge of violating the ordinance, the examination being postponed pending the outcome of the victims' injuries.

THE PRESS' SPECIAL OFFER TO PLAINFIELD

THIS is one of our big achievements, of which we are justly proud. Every reader of this paper—yes, every family in the city and in its environments—can this year enjoy either of these two nationally famous magazines, or both of them, with this paper, for but little more than the price of the paper alone. These two great magazines with approximately 1,500,000 subscribers, are known and loved the whole country over. At 15 cents a copy, $1.80 a year—$3.60 for the two, purchased by the month—they are unquestioned leaders in their respective fields.

How We Did It

We went to the publishers of these magazines and told them about this city. How its population has increased! How its wealth has increased! How its trade has increased! How its bank clearings have increased! We showed them how desirable it was for them, and for their advertisers, that they should have a large circulation here! Then we showed them how this paper was the one paper in this city to make this offer, and how we knew that the citizens of this city would welcome this opportunity enthusiastically.

Woman's Home Companion

Splendid Serial Novels Woman's Home Companion is famous for the excellence of its fiction, particularly its full-length serial novels. There will be at least four novels this year, by Margaret Deland, Fannie Heaslip Lea, and others of equal power. Hundreds of thousands will later pay $1.50 each for them, when they are published in book form, but readers of Woman's Home Companion will have had them first.

Fifty Splendid Short Stories By distinguished authors whose work you are always eager to read, will fill the pages of the Companion. Mary E. Wilkins Freeman, William J. Burns (the great detective), Zona Gale, Mary Heaton Vorse, Juliet Wilbor Tompkins, Grace S. Richmond—these are only a few of the popular favorites whose stories will appear during the year.

The Finer Things of Life Inspiration, ideals, culture, the things that lift us above the commonplace and the monotony of living—these have an important place in the program for 1916. The Rev. Dr. Charles E. Jefferson has prepared a series of intimate sermons for the Companion family on the duties and privileges of family life and the real meaning of family ties.

Laura Spencer Porter will help those who love pictures and want to know the best. Anne Bryan McCall, in The Tower Room, will continue her popular department for girls.

The New Fashions Fashion's new ideas, the chic touches that distinguish the smartly dressed woman of Fifth Avenue will always be found first in the Companion. Grace Margaret Gould, the Companion Fashion Editor, keeps her readers in constant touch with the great creators of fashion in Paris and New York.

For the Little People The Cherubs are coming! The cunningest, funniest little people you ever saw—drawn and versified by Olive Rush. Also stories, puzzles and prizes, plays for school and nursery, plans for kites, aeroplanes and boats, doll dressmaking lessons—all kinds of things to interest and amuse the little Companion readers.

Helpful Home Departments The Companion is famous for its practical departments. Every month it offers new ideas for cooking, for serving, for entertaining, for fancy work. Hundreds of ideas every month! Practical, really helpful ideas. Companion readers find these departments most valuable.

The Effect of the War on America The industries have been created; old industries have been given new life; new cities have sprung up full sized in a month; men have become millionaires over night—these are some of the effects of the war on America. These articles tell a wonderful story of problems met, difficulties overcome, and successful achievement. They give a splendid, true picture of the war industries, the war fortunes, and the men that made them.

Being Better Business Men An intensely interesting series of practical, fact-bottom articles about the Retail Business, Real Estate, Advertising, Selling, and other important lines of business. Other articles for young men will take up the problems of young men—going into business in his own town; going into business with his father; going to the large city. It will be a very interesting and really valuable series.

Stories—Short and Long There is always a generous measure of stories in The American Magazine. Stories of city life; of country life; home stories; dog stories; love stories and adventure stories—a real feast of fiction. Important, too, no suggestive or unclean story has ever found its way into The American Magazine. Its stories are wholesome and cleverly told, that the whole family can, and does, enjoy.

The Big Saving

If you bought either of these magazines by the month you would pay fifteen cents for it. If you bought both of them you would pay thirty cents. One magazine purchased this way for the year would cost you $1.80. Both magazines $3.60. Our plan will give you the magazines each month by mail at your home, promptly on publication date for but a few cents more than this paper alone would cost. It is a big, big saving in convenience and in money.

HERE IS THE OFFER.

BLOWUP ON SHIP INJURES 11 MEN

Gas Tank Explodes on Steamer Stormount.

New York, Feb. 23.—Eleven workmen were burned, five of them severely, by what is believed to have been the explosion of an acetylene gas tank in the forward hold of the British steamship Stormount in drydock. The police reported the cause of the explosion as unknown, but discounted the possibility of a bomb plot.

The Stormount, a tramp steamer employed in the great lakes trade, is owned by the Montreal Transportation company. Three weeks ago she went into James Sherwan & Son's drydock for repairs, and a week ago men employed by the Morse Iron works began burning out her starboard bow plates with acetylene torches.

At the time of the accident there were twenty men in the forward hold and two torches were in use. Thirty other men in charge of Foreman Daniel Frazer worked elsewhere on the ship. As all were about to quit work there was a muffled explosion forward, and the workmen there came scrambling to the pier across a foot wide plank, crying in pain from burns.

Frazer said he believed that one of the acetylene tanks leaked gas, which was ignited by one of the torches. At any rate, there was no real explosion, as the gas flared until it was all burned. There was no fire, although engines were called, and no damage to the ship.

WHY A CORPORATE EXECUTOR

When an individual acts as executor age may impair the faculties, ill health may impair the judgment, financial reverses may impair the sense of honor.

The trust company as executor becomes more efficient with time, it cannot be incapacitated by illness, its affairs are in the hands of trained officials whose acts are subject to State supervision. This Company's fees for acting as executor are the same as those allowed an individual.
